SPECTACLES SHOULD BE CHANGED

Frequently people will get spectacles which suit them, and go on wearing them for years without having their sight tested to discover whether any change has taken place.

Have Eyes Tested at Intervals

This is wrong. All who wear glasses should have their eyes tested at intervals, even if the necessity of such is not apparent to them. As a general rule spectacles for old sight require changing about every 3 years, but it is desirable that the sight should be carefully tested every two years.

Whenever you feel uneasy in your spectacles, don't hesitate to call and see us. We are always glad to help you.

THE COMEDIENNE THEY TALK SO MUCH ABOUT

Blanche Ring Will be Here on Friday—A Broadway Star in a Broadway Success

Blanche Ring will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Friday night, November 4th, when she will be seen in Peterboro for the first time in her new musical play "The Yankee Girl." In this vehicle Miss Ring has recently terminated a lengthy and properous run at the New York Herald Square Theatre, and with it she has met with immense success in all the cities she has since visited.

"The Yankee Girl" is said to be the best medium Miss Ring has ever had for the exploitation of her many delightful talents for fun-making, and her role is said to fit her to a nicety. The book, an amusing and interesting one, is by George V. Hobart, and the musical score, a tuneful and pleasing one, is by Silvio Hein.

Miss Ring's supporting company is headed by Harry Gilfoil, whose mimicry and imitations are always productive of generous applause and laughter. Others in the cast include William P. Carleton, Halliday and Curley, Marguerite Wright, Alfred DeBall, Juliette Lange, Juan Villasana, Paul Porter, Henry Bergman, Cyril Ring, Margaret Malcolm, E. J. Caldwell and Fannie Kidston. The chorus is the large and beautiful one which appeared with Miss Ring during her long run with "The Yankee Girl" at the Herald Square Theatre.

Peerless Peninsular

has a Sliding Damper that regulates the temperature of the oven to any degree

You know the old-fashioned flop-over damper. It has only two positions—shut tight, which throws all the heat around the oven—and wide open, which throws all the heat up the chimney.

With such a damper, the usual course to secure a moderate oven is to open the oven door. Many a pan of bread and cake has been spoiled because the oven was cooled off this way.

The "Peninsular" Sliding Damper gives you absolute control of the heat. You can set it for direct draft, or for quick or slow baking—wide open, a little shut, one-fourth shut, half open, or the tiniest draft possible.

Simply slide the damper along the groove, and the "Peerless Peninsular" oven responds, giving you the desired temperature for any kind of baking you wish.

A Thermometer is furnished in the oven door to give you scientific accuracy if you wish.

There are many other features of the "Peerless Peninsular" that appeal to every woman who takes pride in her home and wants a range that will do justice to her culinary skill.

"Adanac Peninsular" is plain in design with swing door for those who prefer it.

"Harmony Peninsular" is similar in essentials but more elaborately decorated.

"Constant Peninsular" is different from the others mainly in plainer design and finish.

THE SWEETEST THING IN THE WORLD

Comments on the S. S. Lesson by Evangeline
Oct. 30th—Matt. 26; 1-16

"When Jesus had finished all these words," or His work as Prophet in giving a prophetic program of the future He now enters upon His work as our High Priest in presenting to God the great offering, shadowed forth for nearly two thousand years in the Levitical offerings, preparatory to entering upon His work as King and ruling the new kingdom from heaven.

This was precipitated by two circumstances: first, a special meeting of the Privy Council chosen from the highest ecclesiastics. Judges and doctors of the law, members of the Jewish parliament, called to complete plans for the execution of One whose only crime was that from a dead, unreal, formal ritualism and substituted a free, unconventional, real, living evangelism and "who took counsel together that they might take Jesus by subtlety and kill Him."

The second was the incident of our lesson, which so aroused the indignation of Judas against our Lord that He resolved to turn traitor.

Jesus was invited out to dinner to meet some of the aristocrats of the new kingdom, not the exclusive set, but the inclusive set of Bethany.

At the head of the table sat Simon the leper, who was not ashamed of his doctor, but was proud of the honor of entertaining him. Though cured in body and soul of that most loathsome of diseases, and a new man in Christ, his old reputation clings to him, for he is still known as "Simon the leper."

Among the guests was probably Lazarus, another sinner saved by grace. Martha may have found time to leave her pickling and preserving long enough to join the happy party. Mary, of course, was there; for who could separate Mary from her Lord who had won such a glorious victory for her? Others were there, no doubt, who knew his power to save and rejoiced in it.

"Then came unto Him a woman." What sort of a woman? The twentieth century smart set type in a hobble skirt or a dress from Paquin of velentine in the new Wilhelmina blue, with draped bristles? Or was she an enthusiastic suffragette, with a deep yearning in her soul for

MARTYRDOM, BUT NOT IN THE NUR[illegible]

Or did she belo[illegible] the "smarter set who knew an [illegible]elid from a pycnogonide, an un[illegible]iculate from an urecolate, but who didn't know soda from cream of tartar?

Or did she belong to the smartest set of all—the sainted mother set, which is a rare species in our day?

I think she must have belonged to the latter class, for though not a mother, Mary, the sister of Lazarus, was a true mother-hearted woman, one of those unappropriated blessings who, missing the crowning glory of womanhood, found the consummation of her deepest longings in the ideal Bridegroom.

All the beauty of Christian womanhood shines out in Mary with radiant loveliness. Love was the very kernel of her being. Hers was intense, absolutely unselfish and always sweetly fresh—a love that would lavish anything, however costly, upon Him—a love that delighted to make the largest sacrifices for Him—a love that did not need to be commanded, but which with unerring instinct anticipated His very wish—a love which took pains to find out what would give Him greatest and did it—a love that suffered keenly as the prospect of missing loomed up before her— a love which could sit in silence in His presence and adore and be satisfied—a love which could sing

I came to Jesus as I was,
Weary and worn and sad;
I found in Him a resting place,
And He has made me glad.

Mary wasn't satisfied to go in the rut already made, but determined to strike out for herself some new way of honoring her Beloved.

When the stream is low it flows in the channel already made, but the spring freshets overflow and run far and wide, so it was with Mary's passionate love.

"And having an alabaster cruise of exceeding precious ointment she poured it upon His head and He sat at meat." It was only an oily liquid perfume like which requires 400,000 roses to produce a single ounce, and which sells as high as $100 an ounce, or $1,200 for as much as Mary's pound of spikenard.

Nothing was too good for Him. Such love was the sweetest thing in the world to Him, for His heart must have been heavy and sad at the prospect of what He was so soon to pass through.

She felt intuitively the shadow that was resting upon His life, the pain that was gnawing at His heart strings. She, above all others, had listened to Him and understood what none of the rest had, that He was soon to die for her, and

SHE SIMPLY ADORED HIM.

To her He was above all—before all—infinitely better than all—the first—the last—the best.

"But when the disciples saw it they had indignation, saying, to what purpose is this waste?" "There are always disciples who think that money spent on Jesus is wasted," says Torrey, "who never give their own money to the poor and who criticize others for not giving theirs."

"But Jesus, perceiving it," stood up for her. "Ye have the poor always," He said, "but Me ye have not always."

It must have been worth all the ointment cost to Mary to hear from the lips of Jesus "She hath wrought a good work upon Me. . . Wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which this woman hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her."

The fragrance of her love has filled the world, just as the fragrance of her ointment filled the house, and her example has been such an inspiration to others that her investment has returned 100 per cent. dividends laid up in heaven for her.

Are we doing what we can to show our appreciation of Him? It was His pierced hand extended to women that lifted her from the degredation of heathenism and crowned her queen of the home. It is to Him we owe emancipation from a tyranny equal only to that felt in the zenanas of India or the harems of Turkey.

What if our devotion should lead us into strange extravagances, will it not accomplish more for Him than the wise, cool, calculating spirit of the average disciple?

Let us spend more time at His feet in getting our hearts surcharged with love and we too will count no offering too great to lavish upon Him.

It was the gentle rebuke of Jesus in this incident which, rankling in the heart of Judas, led him to betray his Lord for five dollars and ten cents.

EGYPT TO MODERN EYES

low, and there we know we are looking at the very scene St. Peter looked at anyway. The locality will be the same and this is the part of the town where the Israelites ate. Of course it is not the same house, but it may be built on the same site, for tradition in the east is a very tenacious thing in 9 cases out of 10, is to be relied on.

Then we drove through the orange groves. Such orange groves! Acres and acres of glossy dark green orange trees on which the golden fruit hangs in a way that would be perfectly irresistible to an English school boy! I noticed two things about these oranges—their size and shape. The first is enormous; bigger than a baby's head; and they are oblong in shape, like a lemon. This is a peculiarity of the Jaffa orange, and the reason is that they graft the orange slips on to the lemon trees. It is quite a sight to go into one of the gardens and watch them packing the oranges for exportation in lead boxes and it is a still more curious sight to see the long string of solemn-sour-faced camels laden with these boxes. You must get out of their way unless you want an unpleasant collision between your head and a corner of one of those boxes, for they never budge an inch as they solemnly march through the narrow oriental streets. In the midst of the vast orange grove we came to the House of Tabitha, Acts ix. 36-43, whom St. Peter was instrumental in raising from the dead. A beautiful Russian church adorned with pictures of scenes from St. Peter's life and martyrdom now occupies the site of her house. Down in the pleasant spacious garden they have lately excavated tombs which are certainly ancient and of Jewish construction. Of course Tabitha's tomb is shown among these. If her house stood here she may have been afterward buried here.

The Great Sphinx, at Time of its Excavation

After lunch at the neat little hotel, kept by Mr. Hardeffs, a neat little old gentleman in a black velvet coat, we took the little train which in four hours' time brought us to Jerusalem—that whole journey was a delight to us. There was a constant exclamation of "Oh! Do look!" at this—at that. We trained through the Valley of Sorek, where Samson the Strong, wooed Delilah, the deceitful, passing through wide fields of rich, rolling arable country, where at present only the thistle is flourishing, but where we can well imagine the golden wheat fields waving where Samson let loose the 300 foxes. Then the scenery became wilder and more mountainous, until at last where we wound round the rocky descent of Mount Seib, it is just grand. Indeed in many parts the scenery equals that of Scotland. The girls were amazed and had no idea that the hill country of Judea had such splendid scenery.

Kind Mr. Hughes was waiting for us at the Jerusalem station with his own carriages and dragomen and in the sunset light we drove up past the high fortress of David and round beside Jaffa gate to Hughes' English Hotel, where Mrs. Hughes gave us a welcome and a delicious cup of tea in their pretty private sitting-room, and where for the next two or three months, God willing, we are going to sojourn while we see Jerusalem, the City of the Great King.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

(To The Editor of The Review)

Sir,—May I have space in your paper to call the attention of the men of the city to the distinguished visitor who is to speak at All Saints' on Sunday afternoon at 4.10, an hour which does not conflict with their attendance at their own churches. I ask the privilege because so distinguished a scholar rarely visits Peterborough, and yet is so little known here. Dr. Griffith Thomas was a leader in the Church of England, one of the present group of great scholars of Oxford University, Principal of Wycliffe Hall there, editor of the 'Churchman,' and contributor to other papers, author of 'The Catholic Faith,' 'Christianity is Christ,' 'Methods of Bible Study,' 'The Apostle Peter,' etc. He speaks with authority for the old, and conservative standards of Christianity, and I not merely invite the men of Peterborough to come and hear him, so far as their duties and their own churches permit, but ask their co-operation to give him a worthy audience.

Yours truly.
H. R. TRUMPOUR.

Mothers having once used Baby's Own Tablets for their little ones would not be without them. These Tablets are a never-failing remedy for the little ills such as constipation, colic, worms, colds, etc., that afflict so many little ones. And then, too, they can be given with absolute safety to the youngest child for they are sold under the guarantee of a Government analyst to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. Concerning them Mrs. Chas. Whatley, Peterboro, Ont., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little girl and have found them to be of great value. Others to whom I have recommended the Tablets say they would not be without them." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEAUTIFYING THE RAILWAY

The inauguration of the flower scheme by the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., sixteen years ago, has resulted in there now being over 1,500 gardens on the whole system. Railway stations, round-houses, divisional offices, section houses, watchmen's gates, interlocking plants, are adorned with flowers, which the men take care of in their spare time. These employees are naturally amateurs, but their taste and example has spread to the communities across the continent with astonishingly beneficent results. Enthusiasm and success this year have been greater than ever, showing the good use there has been made of the thousands of packages of seeds, plants, and shrubs which were distributed early in the spring. A number of prizes were awarded all over the system for the best gardens, and the winners' names will be announced shortly.

Now the company is sending out over half a million bulbs for fall planting and early bloom in the spring of 1911. The company purchases all new varieties of flowers procurable, and the markets of the world are sought for seeds and bulbs. Travellers over the C.P.R. are delighted with the green lawns, brightened by flowers which greet their eyes, and it is a common occurrence for some flower lover from Europe or the United States to drift into the company's offices with a carefully pressed flower plucked in some station garden, to ask the name and how to cultivate it.

MANY GEESE AND CHICKENS BUT VERY FEW TURKEYS

I like my turkey, but oh (you chickens and geese. The poor turkey took second place this morning at the crowded market hall. Ducks, geese and chickens were there in such numbers as to completely put the turkey to the wall. Why was it? As explained in a short article in the Review on Thursday, there is a dearth of birds this year, and although a fair representation appeared to-day, the supply was very inadequate for the demand.

There is no doubt that that the attendance to-day surpassed anything this year. Every available corner and table was occupied. The tables were heaped high with all kinds of fowl, baskets upon baskets reposed temptingly side by side. Very few people who had the price left without purchasing a bird of some kind. Considering the scarcity, the price asked for turkeys was very reasonable. The majority of them were of fair size, and sold chiefly by weight.

It looks as if better and eggs were trying to assume an equal footing in price, only two cents difference this morning.

In conversation with Mr. Staples, of Cavan, near Millbrook, he made the statement that it would not be long before they would be about the same price. He also said that although potatoes are not plentiful, still good potatoes can be purchased for 80 cents a bag, No. 1, Carmer variety. The prices paid for following produce this morning were—

Potatoes—80c and 85c a bag.
Apples—85c a bag.
Butter—27c and 28c a pound.
Eggs—30c a dozen.
Piglets—$7 a pair.
Geese—$1.25 and $1.30.
Chickens—75c to 95c pair.
Hay—$15.
Turkeys—$2.00 and $2.50.

All the smaller vegetables sold at the usual prices.

TAG DAY FOR THE CHILDREN'S AID

Ladies Attend Meeting at City Council Chambers ---An Appeal for a Worthy Cause.

A large number of ladies attended the meeting at the City Council chamber yesterday afternoon in the interests of "Tag Day," which is to be held for the benefit of the Children's Aid Society.

No definite date has been decided on, but the event will be held in the near future.

The various churches of the city were well represented at yesterday's meeting, and a discussion took place regarding the work. Another meeting will be held shortly, when all details will be arranged, or advanced to such an extent that the workers can go ahead.

Automobiles and vehicles will be supplied with streamers, and rosettes for the horses.

The city will be divided into a large number of sections, with a sufficient number of ladies for each section. In this way the entire city will be "tagged."

Any information desired will be cheerfully given by Mr. E. L. Goodwill, who be found at his office on Water street, one door south of the public library, or by Mr. P. Campbell, at the Bank of Toronto.

The Children's Aid Society need no introduction to the citizens of Peterborough. The arms of this society stretch out everywhere, irrespective of no one, and while citizens know of much of the good work accomplished, there are the "lines between" which are not read.

Of late the call on the finances have been heavy, and to meet present conditions more money is needed. Faithful and untiring officers are in charge of the work of the society, and on "Tag Day" the public can show their appreciation of past accomplishments and co-operate in a manner that will permit of the society meeting the increasing demands made upon it.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

The pupils, teachers and officers of our city Sunday Schools are urged to note the arrangements for the great Sunday School Rally on Monday Morning, Thanksgiving Day.

The schools in the South end accompanied by senior classes and teachers will leave their buildings at 9.30 sharp.

They will be joined en route by the other schools, and will proceed via George Street, to the George Street Methodist Church. The schools from Ashburnham and St. John's will come by Hunter Street.

The programme includes music by an orchestra and by the united school. Two ten-minute addresses will be given and suitable devotions engaged in. The service will conclude at a quarter to eleven o'clock.

This is the first time that a gathering including every Sunday School in Peterborough has taken place, and the building will doubtless be taxed to its utmost capacity. Parents and friends will be admitted as long as there is any room for them.

Programmes and Hymn sheets have been prepared and will be distributed at the door. An offering will be made to defray necessary expenses.

A KILLING IN PARK ST. BAPTIST CHURCH

A most enjoyable event took place last night at the Park street Baptist church. It was the annual meeting of the Mission Band.

During the year the members of the band have been busy fattening missionary pigs, and last night the killing took place. There was no blood shed, the butchers for the occasion preferring to be up-to-date, and adopted "the blood-less surgery method" by mashing the bigs with a hammer. The butchers were Mr. H. Reid and Rev. W. C. Riddiford. When all the contents contained in the pig were counted, over fifteen dollars was realized. This, with the collection, and other pigs yet to be killed, will be sufficient to support a native worker in India. During the evening Miss Ethel Hill sang sweetly, "Calvary," and Miss Ellis gave a splendid address.

The chair was occupied by the pastor. The president, Miss Bessie Gillespie, and secretary, Miss Ethel Eagleson, are to be congratulated upon the success achieved.

SPOKE ON CHURCH AND STATE

The lecture held by the people of Central Smith, last night at Zion Church, 7th line, was very successful.

Mr. J. H. Burham spoke on church and state for nearly two hours. He said it was not a question of religion. It was a question of whether the civic authorities would be ruled by the church of Rome as the Pope claimed or by the wish of the people, as expressed at the poles should govern. The whole matter was now before the people and it would no doubt be settled before very long.

BENNETT SCORED HEAVILY AT 57TH BAND CONCERT

The third popular concert by the 57th Regiment Band, under the direction of Mr. Gliddon given last evening in the Armouries, was probably attended by the largest crowd yet present at any of these concerts. Harry M. Bennett, of Toronto, the brilliant humorist was present and was at his best, and repeatedly had to respond to enthusiastic encores. His imitations of Lauder, in Scotch songs were excellent and his character impersonations were inimitably droll. His greatest hit was probably the comedy sketch, "I'm Going to be Married," and he kept his audience continually convulsed. Should Mr. Bennett return to Peterboro he will have no trouble in drawing large audiences.

The numerous selections by the band were played with fine effect. The overture "Barber of Seville," by Rossini, and the overture from "The Bohemian Girl" received hearty applause, especially the latter.

"Remicks Hits No. 7" were as popular as ever and lose nothing of their attractiveness or musical charm by constant playing.

Altogether last night's band concert was the best of the season, and the applause was spontaneous and gratifying.

HOW PETERBORO' STANDS WITH OTHER CITIES

Statistics regarding the cities of Ontario compiled and given in the report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries places Peterborough in a very creditable position in municipal, school and debenture tax per head of population;

Peterborough assessment is given as $8,591,118, exemption $1,588,724; municipal taxes $106,102, school taxes $76,805, debentures 31st Dec., 1909, $1,219,003, sinking fund 31st Dec. 1909, $218,442.

Adding the municipal and school tax per head together the figures are $10.77, and these place Peterborough fourth from the lowest, which is Guelph, with $6.17.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 34 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

PRAIRIE CONFLAGRATIONS WORK HAVOC IN SASKATCHEWAN

Stretch of Country Seven Miles Wide is Burned Over Near Indian Head—Manitoba Farmer Named Turner Loses Crops and Buildings.

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Several districts in Saskatchewan suffered severely from prairie fires on Saturday, when a heavy windstorm passed over the whole province. At Indian Head a strip of country seven miles wide was burned over, and 9,000 bushels of wheat were destroyed. W. H. Ford and James Jackson lost their granaries, with the season's crop, and S. O. Holden and several others lost considerable quantities of oats. In the Yorkton district the fires raged in all directions. Levi Beck lost his granaries and 4,000 bushels of wheat, and A. Waterfield lost all his stables, two valuable horses, granary, and 6,000 bushels of grain. The losses will total $10,000.

The fires are still raging in Orkney, White and Wallace districts. At Theodore the wind was very high, and grass fires threatened several farms. F. Reese lost four valuable horses, which he had to abandon while trying to plow a fireguard around his haystack. Two horses burned to death with the stack, while two others were so severely burned by grass that they had to be destroyed.

At Fort Qu'Appelle fire started from the Indian reservation and burned swiftly through Springbrook to near the town. Several farmers lost granaries and stacks, one man losing 4,000 bushels of wheat. The fire is supposed to have been started from the thrashing outfit working on the reservation, and operated by one of the Indian Department employes. It is expected that the farmers who suffered loss will take action against the department. At Kamsack, Sask., fire swept the Fort Pelly district. R. S. Dundas lost forty tons of hay and 2,000 bushels of grain.

On Saturday last during the heavy wind a fire swept through Turtle Mountain, south of Desford, Man., traveling furiously through the bush and scrub, destroying much standing timber and fencing, also houses and outbuildings. The damage is estimated at $8,000 outside of the standing timber. W. Turner lost his house, stables, ninety tons of hay, fifty cords of wood, and all his grain. His wife and family barely escaped with their lives, running to a plowed field, where they remained until the fire passed. Turner saved nothing but a fur coat, with which he covered his children to save them from the intense heat. Jesse Robins lost his house, barns, three head of cattle and the whole season's crop of grain, hay and vegetables. Mr. Robins was severely burned about the hands and face. Mr. Robins, sen., lost his barns and hay, also all his implements, but managed to save his house.

RALPH JOHNSTONE IN A "BABY" WRIGHT REACHES 9,714 FEET

He Beats the Record of Henry Wynemalen by 528 Feet in Meeting at New York—Grahame-White's Propeller Snaps and He is Buried Under Machine, But Escapes Injury.

New York, Nov. 1.—A "baby" Wright roadster, with Ralph Johnstone at the wheel, glided gracefully to earth in the twilight at the close of the international aviation meet at Belmont Park last evening, with the baragraph registering a new world's record for altitude. The little machine of only 35 horse-power was up 9,714 feet, exceeding by 528 feet the height attained in France on Oct. 1 by Henry Wynmalen of Holland.

But Johnstone's sky-climbing feat was not the only notable incident of the closing day of the meet. Claude Grahame-White, the athletic Briton, who carries away the Gordon-Bennett trophy, which takes the next international tournament to England, sharpened the sporting appetite with a challenge to John B. Moissant, the Chicagoian, to race again from the park around the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor and return. Moissant, who won $10,000 for his fast flight around the statue Sunday, ignored the challenge.

Then Grahame-White, denied another chance to Miss Liberty, thrilled the spectators, when at the close of a speed race with J. A. D. McCurdy of the Curtiss team, his propeller snapped, his monoplane dug into the green award in front of the grand stand, turned turtle and buried him underneath it. He was uninjured, however, and won the race.

Moissant's winning of the $2,000 distance prize offered by the Aero Club of America was the other big event of the day. He traveled approximately 87 1-2 miles in two hours. In landing after winning the event he smashed his propeller and broke a running wheel, but escaped unscathed.

"It was a pretty purple haze up there," said Johnstone after he had finished his world record flight, "and, say, but it was cold. I had a couple of sweaters on, besides my rubber suit and face mask, but even then at times I felt freezing.

"Several times I completely lost sight of the earth, but when I shot clear of the haze, I could see away down below buildings and residences, which looked like toy blocks. I have been flying only since June, but it sure was the most satisfactory trip I have ever made."

As the crowds about the judges' stand cheered and cheered the announcement of Johnstone's wonderful feat, J. Armstrong Drexel then swooped down to earth. He had been competing in the clouds with the Wright pupil, but had attained "only 8,370 feet." Johnstone had easily won the grand altitude event, with its $5,000 prize.

The two-hour distance race for a purse of $3,500, donated by members of the Aero Club of America, the purse was split, so that there were three prizes. It was a queer race. When the finish flag went up, two hours after the start, Moissant was declared the winner. He had been around the course 56 times, a distance of about 87 1-2 miles. As he came to earth, victorious, the accident to his machine occurred. Latham was second in this race, with 35 laps to his credit, and Simon third, with 27 laps. Moissant took away $2,000; Latham $1,000 and Simon $500.

The speed race between Grahame-White in a monoplane, and McCurdy in a biplane, was a demonstration of the superiority of the monoplane as a racer. They both did ten laps of the course—a distance of about 15.53 miles. Grahame-White's unofficial time was 14.34.12; McCurdy's was 25.43.04. The Briton won $3,000, and McCurdy got $1,000.

Grahame-White Loses $10,000.

Belmont Park, N.Y., Nov. 1.—John B. Moissant, the American aviator, was officially declared yesterday as winner of the flight to the Statute of Liberty in New York harbor and return yesterday for the $10,000 offered by Thomas F. Ryan. In one of the most thrilling races in the history of aviation, Moissant beat his rival, Count Jacques de Lesseps, the Frenchman, and Claude Grahame-White, the British winner of the Gordon-Bennett trophy on Saturday, easily distancing his French competitor, but defeating the victor in the Gordon-Bennett event by only 43 seconds.

This margin, however narrow, was sufficient, although it was thought until the early hours of yesterday that Moissant had not clinched his victory, as it was understood the race was still open for competition yesterday. The Aero Club of America, however, sustained Moissant's protest against further competition for the prize, ruling that the meet was originally scheduled closed with Sunday's events, yesterday being an extra or added day. Thus Moissant won in the elapsed time of 34.38.84; Grahame-White second in 35.21.30; De Lesseps third in 41.56.25.

Claude Grahame-White says he will issue an official challenge to Moissant and put up a purse of $10,000 for another flight around the Statute of Liberty or over any other course that the winner of Sunday's contest may choose. Grahame-White claimed that this meet is not officially closed, but said he was tired of making protests. He said he was confident of beating Moissant.

THE Y.M.C.A. CONVENTION CONCLUDED YESTERDAY

Great Gathering in Toronto Ends With Addresses in Afternoon and Evening Meeting is Dispensed—Dr. Taylor on Juvenile Crime.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The 37th triennial convention of the Y.M.C.A., which came to an auspicious close yesterday afternoon, after four days of consecration and discussion over world problems of evangelization. What the association has accomplished during the last decade is but a precursor of what it will do, and while recognising that the opportunity of the present lies in Canada, the association will respond to the call from far-away fields and extend its ramifications to those kingdoms and continents whose fringe has only been touched by the Christianizing influence of western civilization.

The immediate effect of the Sunday afternoon meeting was considerably overshadowed by the optimistic outlook contained in the closing speech of the convention by John R. Mott, New York, the giant leader of the Young Men's Christian Association. Whatever disappointment was felt at the loss of Mr. Mott's address, scheduled for the evening session, was compensated in the spiritual fervor of the few words he uttered during the closing minutes of the convention.

As Mr. Mott said, it was a memorable afternoon, full of the spirit of God, every moment inspired with the touch of the divine, firing the hearts of men to reach outward and dominate that those who come after that they might realize in a measure the responsibilities into which they were born. There was little time for singing and exultation, but the close, hard-headed thinking of those closing hours would tell in the future reports of the home and foreign sections of the international committee.

An evening session had been arranged, but the wisdom of the international committee decreed that, as out of town engagements called many of the delegates away from Toronto, it would be better to curtail the program, and conclude with the afternoon proceedings.

The afternoon session began with a general discussion on the theme, "Safeguarding the Boys of a Continent." Dr. Graham Taylor, Chicago, was the first speaker, and he dwelt upon the matter of juvenile delinquency. He prefaced his remarks by stating that his judgments were based upon the results of actual experience in boys' work. He referred to three investigations which had been instituted, one of which was perhaps more fundamental than any other. The records of the children's court in Cook County, Illinois, had been enquired into for twenty years back, and the history, surrounding conditions and cause of the crimes with, and the subsequent experience which the delinquents had been charged were thoroughly gone into. These reports covered 20,000 cases. The social vice, Dr. Taylor declared, was responsible for a large number of crimes.

The first thing to do in dealing with juvenile delinquents, he said, was to know the condition "which occasion or promote the delinquency in boys." It was necessary, however, to distinguish between conditions and antecedents.

Antecedents played a great part in determining a boy's character, but every-day conditions of home life were a loadstone around the will that determine the course of the ship of life.

DISTURBANCES ARE QUELLED

But One Man Will Die as Result of Strike Riots in New York.

New York, Nov. 1.—The striking expressmen gained adherents yesterday, when between 1,500 and 1,800 workers of Monahan's Express, the Boston Despatch and the Manhattan Delivery Co. joined them. The platform men of the American Express Co. at the Grand Central Station, and the company's way-bill clerks went out in sympathy. It had previously been reported that the Boston Despatch and the Manhattan Delivery Co. were involved, but the walk-out did not occur until yesterday. More than 10,000 men are now on strake, demanding increased pay and shorter hours.

It was announced at strike headquarters last evening that a conference with Mayor Gaynor had been arranged for to-day, when the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will formally protest to the mayor against the employment of the municipal police as guards on the wagons of the express companies. It was said also that a meeting of the executive heads of the local unions had been arranged for to-day, to discuss the advisability of calling a general strike of "everything on wheels in the city," affiliated with the unions, except railroads.

There were many small disturbances in various parts of the city yesterday, when strikers attacked wagons manned by strike-breakers. Stones and other missiles were thrown, and several drivers and their helpers were badly hurt. William Hoyt, a helper on an American Express wagon, had his skull crushed by a brick-bat, and probably will die. All the disturbances were quickly quelled by the police, who dealt in no gentle manner with the strikers. Many arrests were made and heavy fines imposed. Policemen sat with the drivers of the 315 wagons of all companies which made deliveries in the city, and an escort of from one to three mounted patrolmen followed each wagon.

TROUBLE IN PHILIPPINES

Washington, Nov. 1.—Eight Christians, one of them an American, and two Chinese, have been killed and much property belonging to foreigners has been destroyed by the rebellious Manobos tribesmen in the Philippines, according to a report from Brigadier-General Pershin to the War Department yesterday.

Labor troubles are believed by War Department officials to be responsible for the uprising among the Manobos. The latter are of the lowest type of Filipinos, it is said. They are indolent and resent any effort to compel them to work. It is presumed here that the outbreak has resulted from too vigorous measures to meet this condition taken by foreigners owning plantations.

NATIONAL APPLE SHOW OPENED

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—In the presence of a distinguished company Lieut.-Governor Patterson yesterday opened the first Canadian apple show. During the opening ceremonies the big Vancouver horse show building, enlarged to nearly twice its size, was crowded to capacity. Twenty carloads of apples are on exhibition, comprising 3,424 separate entries, 12 of these being carload exhibits. The management will be called upon to pay practically the entire $25,000 offered as prize money, as nearly every class is filled.

Not only is every province in Canada represented, but several of the states are showing, as are also Australia and Tasmania. Oregon and Washington are represented in the carload class.

KILLS HERSELF AND CHILDREN

New York, Nov. 1.—After making a last plea to her husband to return, Mrs. Anne Davis of Brooklyn, committed suicide, and took with her to the grave her two children, Ellis, 5 years old, and Elsie, 3. All were found asphyxiated by gas.

For the last two years Mrs. Davis had supported the family by sewing.

Auto Ran Away Backwards.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—W. C. Massey, a rancher, and his seven-year-old daughter, were killed near San Fernando, when the engine of the auto they occupied with three others, stopped dead near the top of a hill and the machine rushed backward and overturned. The others jumped and were uninured.

DEFAULTERS ARRESTED

Acupulco, Mexico, Nov. 1—From the descriptions given by a detective agency it is believed that two of the men who were arrested on their arrival here on the schooner Kate Saturday are Wilson B. Evans, absconding teller of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Los Angeles, and H. H. Hamburg, an alleged accomplice. It is said that $11,000 has been recovered.

The Kate came into port to take on a supply of gasoline and three passengers, giving the names of Harry Ham, G. Carlson and Dan Archer, who were taken into custody as suspects, on the theory that they might have been implicated in the dynamiting of The Los Angeles Times' building. The sum of $10,000 was found on the boat.

The captain, Swan Engdethe, and Adolphson, the engineer, were placed under guard. The captain said that he had been engaged to take the schooner from San Francisco to the Galapagos Islands, off the coast of Peru. He was to be paid $730.

MADE A START ON RECIPROCITY

Washington, Nov. 1.—The possibilities for reciprocity with Canada have progressed to the point where the tariff board is about to take up some of the schedules of the present law which would be affected.

The chemical schedule, upon which a start was made several weeks ago will be allowed to wait, tentatively at least, and it is said to be not unlikely that a revision of the lumber schedule, which would be one of the principle factors in a reciprocity arrangement, will take its place.

Experts who have been working on the pulpwood and paper schedule, in which the Canadian arrangements also would be concerned, are making progress beyond the expectations of the board. Several of the largest paper companies have volunteered to furnish important information, which it was at one time doubtful if the board could obtain.

A PERSISTENT DESPERADO

Niagara Falls, Nov. 1.—Francisco Ardino, Italian, aged 47 years, was arrested on Sunday in a fracas in little Italy. Chief Kimmino, who was appealed to for aid, sent Officer Jones to the scene. The bluecoat found Ardino, armed to the teeth, holding at bay a score of his fellow-countrymen. He was arrested with difficulty. When searched, Ardino had in his possession a 38-calibre revolver and an ugly dirk.

In the police court yesterday morning he was found guilty on both charges of carrying a gun and a knife, and a fine of $50 was imposed.

Ardino played the same role about six weeks ago, when he was sentenced to thirty days in Welland jail.

SMOKE REPEATED SET NEW RECORD

Indian Runner Travels Alone to the Examiner Trophy, In Senior Event--Keene Boy Won Junior Race Again--Big Crowd Watch Annual Program

All roads look alike to Albert Smoke and the decisive manner in which he annexed the premier Examiner race yesterday morning places him way up in the "some runner" class.

His time was 55 minutes 15 2-5 seconds and this is 53 1-5 seconds faster than his performance last year and 3-5 of a second ahead of the record of 55 min. 16 secs., put up by Ernie Wilson when he won the honors in 1907.

Willie Edwards, of Keene, came in ahead in the junior race with lots to spare. His time was 29 minutes, just 30 seconds behind his last year's time of 28 minutes 30 seconds.

Both winners finished in good trim. Smoke showed his stability, when he sprinted, as though competing in a 50 yard event, from the Brock street crossing to the tape in front of the Examiner office. Thorpe, who took second place, too, showed that he was anything but all in, by his final burst to the goal.

The going, on account of the muddy condition of the route, was pretty tough for the large field of starters, and particularly the youngsters in the five mile race are to be congratulated on the showing they made.

Besides the trophy, he gets a gold watch; Thorpe receives a diamond and sapphire pin, Robinson a gold signet ring, for third place, and Coons a gold locket for fourth.

In the junior, the gold watch goes to Edwards, and Leahy, who came second, takes the pearl tie pin, Holnbeck of Cobourg, for third place, captures the amethyst cuff links and scarf pin, and the fourth prize goes to Armstrong.

The following is the standing in the SENIOR RACE.

1—Albert Smoke.
2—Chas. Thorpe.
3—Geo. Robinson.
4—Ernest Coons, Young's Point.
5—J. E. McLean, Camborne, Ont.
6—Jas. McMartin.
7—Chas. Brimble.

JUNIOR RACE.

The first dozen to find the tape were:

1—W. Edwards, Keene.
2—Frank Leahy.
3—G. Holnbeck, Cobourg.
4—Cecil Armstrong.
5—J. B. Mann, Bridgenorth.
6—Nagle Phelan.
7—Cecil Brown.
8—Arthur Lipsett.
9—Frank Daley.

The Union Bank of Canada, with headquarters in Quebec, has purchased a large brick building on Granville street, which is being remodeled or banking offices. The Merchants Bank of Canada is also opening a branch here.

Villagers Fought Flames.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 1.—After fighting flames from midnight until long after dawn, the tired residents of Boswell, a mining town in Somerset County, looked out, Saturday, upon a scene of desolation. Property to the value of $75,000 had been destroyed. The hotel, business houses and seven dwelling were burned.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Sir William Agnew, formerly head of the firm which publishes Punch, is dead.

Captain Henry W. Shepherd, one of the oldest navigators of the lakes, died at Montreal.

Fire on Sunday morning destroyed the Cottrell warehouse here, entailing a loss of $100,000.

The new Methodist Church at Morganston was dedicated. Rev. Prof. McLaughlin preached the dedicatory sermon.

The four-year-old son of William McGillivray Township died from drinking carbolic acid, which he found in the cellar.

"Peruna Pete," wanted at Fort William for murder, managed to cash a check at Superior Junction, get a shave and get away on a freight train bound west.

Men are out buying the right-of-way for the Canadian Northern Railway between Ottawa and Smith's Falls. They have finished buying to the Montague line, within a few miles of Smith's Falls.

Mlle. Kukinstso, who assassinated the commander of the Russian garrison at Harbin, Manchuria, made a sensational escape from prison at Harbin on Oct. 11. She was smuggled out of the jail in a barrel.

Mrs. Carrie Ricker of West Philadelphia, wife of Albert Ricker, and who is worth at least $1,000,000, has had her husband arrested for non-support. Mrs. Ricker declares her husband has made her spend her own money ever since their marriage.

INCENDIARY WORDS WERE MISQUOTED

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Albert B. Kreitler, third vice-president of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union of North America, yesterday made the following statement in reference to a despatch sent recently from Denver:

"Through the Associated Press I wish to correct a statement which has been given a wide circulation. Press despatches have quoted me as saying, in a talk with the Trades and Labor Assembly at Denver, that 'the newspaper building would blow up before a settlement would be made with the pressmen's union,' leading the public to believe I had been advocating the perpetration of such a dastardly deed.

"A local publisher made the statement to me that he 'would see the building blow up before he would settle with the pressmen's union.' In my talk, I simply quoted the publisher to show his attitude toward the pressmen's union. The incendiary words quoted are these of the publisher, but have been attributed to me."

A CALL TO MAKE GOOD

Regina, Nov. 1.—In an interview yesterday, Chief of Police Zeats stated that he would give $1,000 to any missionary society, if Mrs. Gordon Wright of London, Ont., could make good her statement, made at a recent meeting in St. Thomas, Ont., to the effect that Regina had a red light district, into which a clergyman's daughter had recently been inveigled. Chief Zeats characterised Mrs. Wright's statement as an unwarranted slander upon Regina, without the slightest foundation in fact.

THRILLING RESCUE IN HURRICANE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—The crew of the Norwegian bark Mastorea, 17 in all, were brought here yesterday on the fruiter Juan, from Jamaica. The seamen were rescued during the West Indian hurricane a week ago Sunday by the British bark River Platte, and taken to the island. Their vessel, which was bound from Gulf Port, Miss., to Buenos Ayres, was abandoned in a sinking condition.

The members of the crew of the Mastorea went through a most thrilling experience. Their vessel rapidly filling with water, the wreckage decks a mass of wreckage, the lifeboats disabled and a hurricane wind still hurling mountainous seas over the derelict, the men had all but abandoned hope when the River Platte was sighted. When the latter vessel came near enough the crew of the Mastorea embarked in their damaged lifeboat, which sank to the gunwales and was only kept afloat by the air tanks.

Although the boat put away from the Mastorea at noon it was 5 p.m. before the last man was safely aboard the River Platte.

CONNAUGHT AT CAPE TOWN

Cape Town, Nov. 1.—The Duke of Connaught, who will formally open the first Parliament of the Union of South Africa on behalf of King George, arried here yesterday, accompanied by the Duchess and the Princess Victoria Patricia. The party received a splendid welcome.

Pending the state opening on Nov. 4 the Parliament was convened yesterday by Lord Gladstone, Governor-General of the Union of South Africa, for the purpose of selecting a Speaker and otherwise organizing.

RED CROSS FOUNDER DEAD

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 1.—Henri Dunant, founder of the International Red Cross Society, died Sunday night at Heiden, a health resort.

Henri Dunant was of Swiss birth and lived in Geneva. He was a philanthropist. At the battle of Solferino, Italy, June 24, 1859, he witnessed the needless suffering and loss of life resulting from days of neglect to care for the wounded. Realizing that such conditions need not exist, he conceived the idea of pledging the nations of the earth to regard and protect as neutral all sick and aged combatants and all persons giving them succor.

Premier Out on Bail.

Lisbon, Nov. 1.—A crowd jeered former Premier Franco as he left the court yesterday, having been admitted to bail in the sum of $200,000. Foreign Minister Machado protested against the admission to bail of the former Premier, but exhorted his enemies to be calm.

Franco is charged, among other things, with having issued during his tenure of office 70 illegal decrees, and with having liquidated the debts of King Carlos, amounting to $50,000, with crown funds on the pretext of augmenting the civil list.

Loss at Fort William.

Fort William, Nov. 1.—Grass fires on the outskirts of the city yesterday afternoon gave the firemen a hard run for several hours. One store building was partly destroyed on the Grand Trunk Pacific property. Several million feet of hardwood flooring narrowly escaped the flames. Towards evening the wind died down.

FOSTER WILL BE HEARD FROM

The Winnipeg Tribune, edited by Mr. R. L. Richardson, and usually and properly classed as Independent Liberal, expresses the following editorial opinion respecting Hon. George E. Foster:—

"It would appear that the Conservatives may have a somewhat unhappy time among themselves at the next session of the Dominion Parliament. There are, undoubtedly, some Conservative leaders whom the party could well afford to lose, and Mr. Borden would not weaken his leadership were he to indicate that his party would be better without them. The men referred to have neither the honesty nor ability of Hon. George E. Foster. The attempts to drop Mr. Foster as a Conservative leader do not appear to have met with much success in that hot-bed of Conservatism, the city of Toronto.—Toronto News.

A FIGHT TO A FINISH

There is every appearance of a fight to a finish between the Laurier and Bourassa forces in the county of Drummond and Athabasca, a federal vacancy caused by the elevation of Mr. Louis Lavergne, the former member, to the senate. The tide has been setting in strongly against Laurierism in the Province of Quebec for some time past, and the half hearted naval policy of the Government has never been tested in what was formerly regarded as the Laurier stronghold. Now the test is to be made, the battle lines are drawn up in open array and the great spectacular bye-election is on.

It is worth while noting the deliberate preparations made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to snatch a popular verdict in support of his naval policy from the people of a Quebec constituency. The vacancy in the Senate was caused by the death of Sir George Drummond, one of the acknowledged leaders of Canada's commercial life. Sir George Drummond died early last spring, but no effort was made to appoint another senator to fill the vacancy during the greater part of last session. Mr. Lavergne was admittedly the man for the place. His long and active services in the interests of Laurierism could not be longer denied their just reward. But the Premier hesitated to make the appointment, fearing the opening of a Quebec constituency.

After the tour of the west, for some reason Sir Wilfrid decided to come down to the city of Montreal and give a two hours' address on the navy. He came on October 10, but there was little of the old-time Laurier enthusiasm either about the reception or the meeting. The Premier droned away for a couple of hours, going fully into the naval question from the Colonial Conference of 1902 to the bill of last session. By the time he finished the Monument National was half empty. A day or two after came the reason for this two hours' diatribe. Mr. Lavergne's appointment to succeed Sir George Drummond was announced and a bye-election thus necessitated in Drummond and Athabasca. Hence the fervent personal appeal of the Premier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has thrown himself in the thick of the fight. He personally conducted the convention which chose the Liberal candidate, he made a long speech at the convention proceedings, and he has made it known that a vote cast for the Nationalist candidate will be a vote cast against himself personally. The Bourassa men have been covering the province pretty carefully of late, and the naval policy of the Government has been held up to ridicule on many hustings. That the revulsion of feeling against Laurier has surprised the leaders of the Liberal party and galvanized them into action is demonstrated by the events now taking place daily in the old county of Drummond and Athabasca.

It would be amusing if the Laurier candidate is defeated at the polls. Too long has the leader of the Liberal party played Quebec against the rest of Canada. He holds office to-day by the almost united support of that party in Parliament, although at the last election it was shown that the siren song of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not wholly drawn the people away by the Conservatives rolling up 150,000 votes. Quebec has been good to Laurier in the past, but there are signs that the old mesmerism is waning. The appeals made by the Premier in 1896 and 1900 to Quebec swept him into power and kept him there. These were appeals, many of them utterly unworthy, and some based on the patriotism of the French-Canadian and his love of his race, religion and language. Now the province is seething with a new spirit of imperialism and against it Laurier is fighting tooth and nail. The old-time Quebec Liberalism is tottering like a house of cards. The young, the rising generation, will have none of it. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has his back to the wall, and defeat at the present juncture would mean a political revolution which would send Laurier and Laurierism exiled from power.

Small wonder it is that all eyes are turned to Drummond and Athabasca. It is a battle of giants and on the result hinges many a political fortune.

A RECORD

The Mail and Empire aptly points out that in the Bourassa campaign Sir Wilfrid Laurier is getting a dose of his own medicine.

Mr. Bourassa in a recent speech opposing a Canadian navy said:

"Mothers, you count on your son to make you happy in your old age; you expect him to protect you, but you are mistaken. The law passed by the Laurier Government in 1910 robs you of your children. In 20 years, perhaps, your children may be mortally wounded on a warship because you have been too Rouge to vote against Laurier."

This kind of talk is taking a leaf out of the Laurier campaign against Sir Charles Tupper in 1896. During that contest L'Electeur, a paper in close touch with Laurier, said,

"One of Old Tupper's whims is Imperial Federation, which signifies an alliance between England and her colonies, especially Canada.

"One of the conditions of this alliance would be that in time of war Canada would be called upon to pay its share in money and men.

"In turn England will create these droll baronets, knights of this and commanders of that.

"But the people will remain food for the cannon.

"Why all these armaments if we are not to have war? Why fight for England?

"The electors should remember that the great big chiefs who are ready to throw us into war for the benefit of others will not be the ones to support the burden of it.

"It is the electors who will have to use these carbines and these cannons.

"The Tuppers, the Angers, the Taillons will be in their Ministerial offices when they will send us to fight for England.

"With joy in their hearts and a glass of champagne in their hands they will send our children to Africa or to Asia, whence they will never return.

"If you vote for the Bleu candidates you approve of these preparations for war.

"Vote for Laurier and his candidates if you wish to see your country enjoy tranquility, and not expose yourselves to have to leave one of these fine mornings for distant shores, leaving behind your wives, your children, and all that is dear to you."

This is the kind of talk which was used in Quebec to help Laurier, and now that Bourassa employs similar language the Premier and his organs set up a howl. Laurier has made his bed in this matter; now let him lie on it.

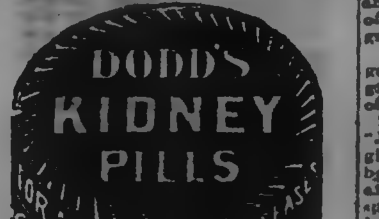
SALVATION ARMY NOTES

The Songsters' Brigade, about 30 in number, presented a fine appearance last night in their new uniforms of red and black with a design engraved on them.

The juniors of the Sunday school gave a concert last night, and a programme of drills, songs, etc., was run off. It was a Thanksgiving concert.

The beautiful selection entitled "Jerusalem, My Happy Home," was given with good effect Sunday night by the Songsters' Brigade, and they are to repeat it on Sunday next by special request. Great credit is due Leader Moyes for bringing the brigade to such a degree of efficiency.

A hunter from New York, named D. Gibson, was shot and killed in the woods north of Vancouver by a man named C. Young, who took him for a deer.



Your Old Enemy Rheumatism

CURE YOURSELF RIGHT NOW WITH "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

There is just one thing that causes Rheumatism—Uric Acid in the blood. Uric Acid is formed when either the bowels, kidneys or skin fail to rid the system of waste matter. This waste, or Urea, remains in the body and is changed into uric acid. It is this uric acid that poisons the blood, inflames the nerves, and causes Rheumatism, Sciatica and Lumbago.

Liniments and ordinary rheumatic remedies won't cure Rheumatism, as none of such preparations go to the very root of the trouble—the blood, and the vital organs. "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest cure for rheumatism in the world. And we will tell you why.

"Fruit-a-tives", by its action on the bowels, kidneys and skin, prevents the formation of an excess of uric acid. "Fruit-a-tives" causes the bowels, kidneys and skin to throw off the waste of the body, and thus keeps the blood absolutely pure.

If you have suffered with Rheumatism, and dread a return with the coming of cold weather, start in at once to take "Fruit-a-tives" and thus defeat your old enemy. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE POSTMASTER SICK FOR YEARS

But He Found Permanent Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. John Nolan had Backache, Nervousness, and Rheumatism, but cured them so they didn't come back Point La Nim, Restigouche Co., N. B., Oct. 31. (Special)—That as a renewer of youth Dodd's Kidney Pills has no equal is the experience of John Nolan, the veteran postmaster of this place. Sixty years of age but still strong and healthy, Mr. Nolan declares he owes his health to the great Canadian Kidney Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For ten years I was a sufferer with backache, nervousness, and rheumatism," says the Postmaster. "I was so bad at times that I was confined to my bed. I felt heavy and sleepy after meals, had flashes of light before my eyes and had difficulty in collecting my thoughts. After using several medicines without benefit I began to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, taking in all fifteen boxes. That was four years ago, and though I stopped taking the pills two years ago, I have had no return of my trouble."

Backache, Nervousness and Rheumatism are all caused by diseased Kidneys. To cure them to stay cured you must cure the Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Many Belleville people signed a petition for the commutation of the death sentence of Robert Parker, found guilty of murder near Tweed.

A Gentleman From Mississippi

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THOMAS A. WISE

"Oh, that's all right. Maybe he can suggest something," said Peabody, going to the telephone. "We've too much at stake to make a mistake, and Jake may see a point that we've overlooked. Luckily I saw him downstairs in the grill room as we came through to the elevator."

"Steinert is all right himself," continued Stevens, "but his methods"—

"Can't be too particular now about his methods—or ours, Stevens, when a bull like Langdon breaks loose in the political china shop. Fortune and reputation are both fragile."

A ring of a bell announced the arrival of Jake Steinert, whose reputation as a lobbyist of advanced ability had spread wide in the twenty years he had spent in Washington. Of medium height, sallow complexion, dark hair and dark eyes, his broad shoulders filled the doorway as he entered. An illy kept mustache almost hid a thin lipped, forceful mouth, almost as forceful as some of the language he used. His eyes darted first to Peabody and then to Stevens, waiting for either of them to open the conversation.

The highest class lobbyists, those who "swing" the "biggest deals," concern themselves only with men who can "handle" or who control lawmakers. They get regular reports and outline the campaign. Like crafty spiders they hide in the center of a great web, a web of bribery, threat, cajolery and intrigue, intent on every victim that is lured into the glistening meshes.

Only the small fry mingle freely with the legislators in the open, in the hotels and cafes and in the capitol corridors.

Jake Steinert did not belong in either of these classes; he ranked somewhere between the biggest and the smallest. He coupled colossal boldness with the most expert knowledge of all the intricate workings of the congressional mechanism. Given money to spend among members to secure the defeat of a bill, he would frequently put most of the money in his own pocket and for a comparatively small sum defeat it by influencing the employees through whose hands it must pass.

"Sit down, Jake. Something to drink?" asked Peabody, reaching for a decanter.

"No," grunted the lobbyist; "don't drink durin' business hours; only durin' the day."

"Well, Jake," said the Pennsylvanian, "you probably know something of what's going on in the naval affairs committee."

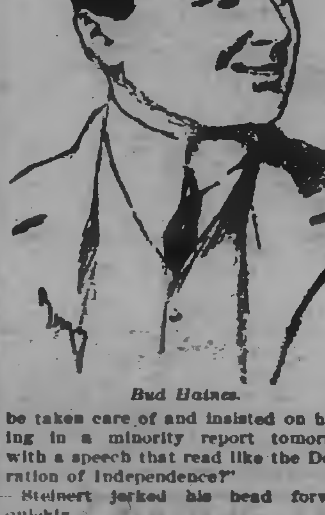
"You mean the biggest job of the session?"

"Yes."

"Sure thing, senator. It's the work of an artist."

"The boss of the senate" smiled grimly.

"Now, suppose a committeeman named Langdon absolutely refused to be taken care of and insisted on handing in a minority report tomorrow, with a speech that read like the Declaration of Independence?"



Bud Haines.

Steinert jerked his head forward quickly.

"You mean what would I do if I was—er—if I was runnin' the job?"

"Yes."

Steinert leaned toward Peabody.

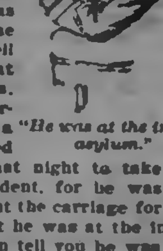
"Where do I come in on this?" he asked suspiciously.

"Come, come, man," was the irritable retort. "I never let a few dollars stand between myself and my friends."

"All right, senator."

The lobbyist thrust himself down in his chair, puffed slowly at a cigar and gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling.

"Few years ago," he began after a minute or two, "there was a feller who was goin' to squeal about a bond issue. He had his speech all ready to warn the country that he thought a crowd of the pluto-cracy was goin' to get the bonds to resell to the public at advanced rates. Well, sir, I arranged to have a carriage, a closed carriage, call that night to take him to see the president, for he was told the president sent the carriage for him. When he got out he was at the insane asylum, an' I can tell you he was bundled into a padded cell in jig time, where he stayed for three days. 'He thinks he's a member of congress,' I told the two huskies that handled him an' gave 'em each a twenty case note. The doctor that signed the necessary papers got considerable more."



"He was at the insane asylum."

Stevens' gasp of amazement caused the narrator genuine enjoyment.

"I know of a certain senator who was drunk an' laid away in a Turkish

CRIPPEN FIGHTS FOR HIS LIFE

Special to the Review.

London, Nov. 1.—Announcement was made to-day of the plans for the appeal of Dr. H. H. Crippen, under death sentence for the murder of his wife, Elmore Crippen. They revealed that the fight will be the most bitter waged for a generation in British criminal courts to save the life of a condemned man. The question at issue involves a triple contention, for Crippen is not alone fighting against his conviction and sentence upon points of law and fact, but he is battling to be present when the arguments are presented on Thursday.

Crippen's appeal will be heard by Justice Darling, Pickford and Coleridge, of the Criminal Court of Appeals. Barrister Arthur Newton, chief council for Crippen, has directed an appeal against the decision of Justice Bigley, forbidding Crippen to be present when the arguments are presented.

PRESENT SITE IN FAVOR

Results of Balloting by Charlotte Street Church Congregation

The results of the ballot of the members of the Charlotte street Methodist church, on the three offers made by Hon. Senator Cox, in regard to the building of a new edifice were made known at the evening service on Sunday.

For the present site, 178 ballots were marked, for the Aaron Cox site 5, and for the A. L. Davis site 62.

A meeting will be held in the near future to discuss a further decision as to what will be done.

ONE MARRIAGE AND ONE BIRTH FOR EACH DAY

During the past month of October, there were thirty-one marriages recorded at the city clerk's office, and thirty-one births, both being an increase over the same month of last year.

The number of deaths were twenty-six, which is also an increase.

The figures for October of both years are as follows:

Births	25	31
Marriages	15	31
Deaths	20	26

PRINCIPAL PAPER WAS READ BY CHIEF HOWARD

In its report of the Fire Chief's Convention in Toronto to-day's World says:

The principal paper read at the evening session was that delivered by Chief W. A. Howard, of Peterborough, secretary of the association, on "The advantages of a clean town from a fire standpoint, and the best means of accomplishing the same." Chief Howard stated that the origin of the majority of fires during the past year could be traced directly to the accumulation of combustible rubbish and the waste paper, etc. He advised the chiefs to take up in earnest a systematic campaign against this evil. All had faced similar propositions, but the debatable question was whether or not bylaws compelling better conditions would be feasible.

REFERRED TO JAMES STEVENSON

On Sunday morning at St. John's church, Canon Davidson referred to the passing away of the late Mr. James Stevenson, as a matter of regret, which concerned the whole community. "Recent citizens of Peterborough," he said, "are unaware of the large part which Mr. Stevenson had taken in affairs of the city, and building up of the town. Throughout his long life he had been an example of devotion to the public service."

In his latter days this was shown by his care and personal interest in the flowerbeds of Central Park. His example is worthy of imitation by the citizens of Peterborough. It was his thoughtful spirit which actuated his life all the time that made him such a valuable member of the community.

Mr. Davidson also referred to the fact that the electric standards of the pulpit, were the gifts of Mr. Stevenson twenty years ago.

The flag of St. John's church is flying to-day, it being All Saint's Day.

GET AT THE HEART OF THINGS

The fire box is the life of your range, the oven its heart—an organ quite as important in a good stove as in a human being.

Rather a far-fetched comparison, you think?

Not at all—listen!

If the fire box in your range is too large for the oven, it means an extravagant waste of fuel—and the fuel is expensive.

On the other hand, if the fire box is too small, inefficiency is the result.

Now, the fire box in each size of the

SPECTACLES SHOULD BE CHANGED

Frequently people will get spectacles which suit them, and go on wearing them for years without having their sight tested to discover whether any change has taken place. This is wrong. All who wear glasses should have their eyes tested at intervals, even if the necessity of such is not apparent to them. As a general rule spectacles for old sight require changing about every 3 years, but it is desirable that the sight should be carefully tested every two years.

PENROSE—WAGAR.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, at the residence of Mr. John Penrose, 548 Sherbrook street, when his daughter, Maud Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. Luther Allan Wagar of Napanee, Ont. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. Rev. H. J. Keith officiated. The bride was very attractively attired in a handsome dress of cream serge and was assisted by Miss Kathleen Wagar, sister of the groom. Mr. Roy Parnell, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

A dainty wedding luncheon was served at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Wager left on the 4.38 C.P.R. for Toronto and other points the bride travelling in a very becoming suit of navy blue.

On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

BAPTIE-FORSTER

A pretty house wedding took place at Rosemound, residence of Mr. Joseph Forster, ex-warden, 554 Bolivar Street, Saturday afternoon, at two o'clock, when his only daughter, Miss Edith was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. Harold Baptie, of Springville, by Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of Charlotte Street Church. The bride was given away by her father, and Miss Baptie, sister of the groom played the wedding march. The ceremony was performed beneath a vine arch and in front of a bank of ferns and roses, many other beautiful decorations in the room, also contributed to the brightness of the occasion. The young couple were unattended.

CAN SMOKE PIPE OF PEACE IN WILD AND WOOLY WEST

On Thursday of this week Mr. Melville Wilson, of the Bell Telephone Company staff, leaves for Winnipeg. Since he has been with the company Mr. Wilson has been a popular and diligent employee, and on Saturday evening he was the central figure in a little function in his honor, at which were present all of the employees of the local office. He was the recipient of a beautiful plush case containing a set of pipes, accompanied by an address. The affair was, as is needless to say, an entire surprise to "Mel" and it was with difficulty that he could collect himself sufficiently to express his thanks.

Mr. Harry Soanes read the address and Mr. Thomas Sproat made the presentation.

The address was as follows—

Dear Mel,—Having learned with regret that you have decided to sever your connections with us, your fellow-workmen, to seek your home, and perhaps your affinity, in the far west, we feel as if we could not let this opportunity pass without extending to you our congratulations on your advancement in telephone work, hoping your future associations in old Fort Garry will be as pleasant as the bond of friendship which has existed between us. We ask you to accept these pipes, and trust in the wee small hours when the circles ascend your dreams will not only encircle the fair young lady, but may a few be a pleasant reminder of the old Peterborough staff.

Signed on behalf of the "boys,"

F. W. DOAN,
HARRY SOANES,
J. S. KNAPMAN,
THOS SPROAT,
A. A. SMITH.

Melville will have the best wishes of his numerous friends in the city for his success in the west. He has accepted a good position with the Manitoba Telephone Company.

UNION OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The united Sunday schools of the city met in a body in George street church on Thanksgiving Day morning at 1.30. Each Sunday school adhered as closely as possible, to the course they were directed to follow, in the papers. The church was well filled.

A short service was conducted in the church, and two brief, helpful addresses to the children were delivered by Rev. G. W. Henderson and Rev. Mr. Keith.

Mr. R. J. Devey and the George street orchestra provided the music and were assisted by a boys' choir. On the platform were also Dr. Langfeldt, Rev. Mr. Fee, Canon Davidson and Rev. J. R. Webb, who acted as chairman.

BLACKLISTER GOT HIS LIQUOR IN A STABLE

Said He Found the Wet Goods There Frequently—Fined $12.60.

The name of Thomas Tully was added to the list of prohibited ones on Thursday October 20, and on the following Thursday, he indulged in the forbidden liquid.

Inspector Stewart had two charges Tully this morning, and for Thursday's offence, a fine of $10.00 with $2.60 costs was imposed.

The other charge for Friday will hang over the head of Thomas, as a beacon light for the future.

Asked where he procured his liquor by the Inspector, the accused, who by the way is a hostler, answered that he found liquor in the stable. This he said was a frequent occurence.

"Did you ever leave any money in some corner"? queried the magistrate.

"No" was the answer.

"Where did you get the bottle you had in your pocket Saturday"? asked Inspector Stewart.

Thomas couldn't remember.

He stuck to his story that he found the liquor in the stable, and wouldn't budge an inch.

On the Saturday mentioned, he was very much under the influence and was at the request of the Inspector, arrested.

BLANCH RING

In "The Yankee Girl," Coming to the Grand next Friday.

"The Yankee Girl," with Blanche Ring as its merry and bright particular star, and with the selfsame supporting company and production in which Miss Ring has recently completed a long run at the New York Herald Square Theatre, is to be the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Friday night, November 4th. This will be Miss Ring's first appearance in Peterborough. Her play is the work of George V. Hobart and Silvio Hein, the former contributing an amusing and interesting book, and the latter a pleasing musical score. The supporting company is headed by Harry Gilfoil, so long a feature of the Hoyt farces, and more recently a popular headliner in vaudeville. Miss Ring has a group of new songs, all of which prove worthy successors to those old Ring classics "The Belle of Avenue A," "Bedelia," "The Good Old Summer Time," "My Irish Molly O," or "Yip-I-Addy." The new songs include "Nora Malone," "Love Among the Roses," "The Top of the Morning," "Louisiana Elizabeth" and the always popular, "Rings on My Fingers," the song of which Miss Ring was the original exponent. There is a large and beautiful chorus of more than usual dancing and singing ability. Seat sale opens to-morrow (Wednesday) morning at nine o'clock.

SMITH AND WILLIS WON THE SILVER CUPS

Took First in the Two and Three Mile Races at Deseronto—A New Track Record Made

In the programme of athletic sports at Deseronto yesterday Harold Smith and W. Willis, of the local Y.M.C.A., won silver cups, the former taking first honors in the two-mile race and the latter breasting the tape a winner in the five-mile event.

Deseronto carried out its postponed Labor Day attractions. In the three-mile run Willis had an easy victory, he not having to extend himself at any time. Alexander, of the Belleville Y.M.C.A., came second and Wallace third. The time was 28.40.

Smith was chased in the shorter distance by McCreary, whom he defeated at Port Hope last Friday, but the Belleville boy found the pace too hard in the last quarter mile, when Smith showed his superiority. Willis was an entry in this event also, and took third place. The time of 10.15 made by the winner, sets up a new record for the track.

VISITING RUGBYISTS WERE TOO MUCH FOR LOCALS

Toronto Team Had Great Back Division—Spectators Witnessed Interesting Exhibition Which Was Marked by Open Play—Score 19-6

The holiday attraction at Riverside Park was as per advance notices, well worth attending, and the only thing that went wrong was that the local Collegiates were for the second time this season, called upon to take a defeat.

The score was 19—6, with the visiting rugby team taking the larger figure and the honors. The Collegiates on the whole made a better showing as far as the play went, with the Toronto team than was made against the T.C.S. of Port Hope, and in the form displayed yesterday, Jarvis street Collegiate fourteen would defeat the Trinity College boys.

The visitors started to score in the early stages of the first quarter by kicking, and not until the third quarter did the locals get into the points column. Minorgan kicked to the deadline and the team took a brace, which put the Toronto bunch on the run. They had the biggest time of their life stopping the assaults of their opponents. The contest was interesting for the large number of spectators. It abounded with all kinds of open play. Long runs; combination work, and stellar kicking were dished up with a frequency that was highly creditable to both teams. The back division of the Toronto team was particularly strong. Their willingness to work together was always noticeable and the plays pulled off had the locals working like African slaves.

The home crew too, were strong in the rear division, but fell down many times, when a better system of play would have beaten the enemy.

The line worked smoothly enough and held their own and a little more.

The teams were:—

Toronto—Full, Ritchie; halves, Dopp, Davidson, Small; quarter, Mills; scrimmage, Weeks, Allan, Gregory; wings, Rice, Klinger-Smith, Braithwaith, Stone, Adlar, Murray.

Peterborough—Full, Hickey; halves, Gibson, Minorgan, Hogan; quarter, Matthews; scrimmage, Hill, Harstone, Leahy; wings, Conroy, Fee, McCabe, Gilbert, Richardson, Throop and Laing.

Referee, Munro; umpire, Fergesson.

Toronto looked likely as the team lined up, and after forcing the locals for a few minutes, took the first score by a kick to the deadline. The visitors retained the advantage of the play throughout the initial quarter, and when the teams changed goals the score stood:

Toronto, 4; Peterborough, 0.

In the second period the Collegiates were kept on the defence, save for flashes of smart work, principally by runs. The Toronto backs kicked with a system, and thus had very little trouble in protecting their territory. Three more one point scores were registered against the homesters, and these were followed up with a try, which was converted, and the half time score stood:

Toronto, 13; Peterborough, 0.

Following a muff by Hickey, Toronto took another try in the third quarter, and the convert made the figures stand:

Toronto, 19; Peterborough, 0.

It was after the locals had taken a brace in this quarter that Minorgan sent the ball to the dead line for the first point. A fast piece of combination work near the line prevented Toronto from scoring again, and the ball went up to centre field. Laing brought down a dangerous run and Conroy pulled off a similar stunt. Gibson, Minorgan and Hogan worked a three man combination, and with Matthews' long run the pigskin went to the Toronto 25 yard line. Matthews was laid out for a few minutes. Gilbert got away to the liking of the spectators when he intercepted a long pass and slid over the line. Toronto, 19; Peterborough, 6.

The attempt at the convert failed.

In the fourth quarter Dopp pulled off the run of the day. He dodged half a dozen of the locals, but was finally mowed down by Laing. The teams worked with honors about even, and no more scoring was done.

ZBYSCO TO COME BACK

New York, October 29.—Zbysco, the great Polish wrestler, is due to arrive in New York next Monday. He comes for the sole purpose of securing another match with Frank Gotch, the world's champion.

The men met last spring in Chicago and Gotch won after a sensational battle. Zbysco returned home much disappointed at the result of the match and immediately set about to put himself in condition to turn the tables on Gotch.

SPORTING COMMENT

The Peterborough Collegiate rugby team took its second defeat of the season yesterday. In the first game with Port Hope the attendance was fairly large but yesterday the crowd was larger. Amongst the spectators were business men public school teachers and men who hold high offices in the city. It was the kind of a crowd that can applaud the plays made by both sides. The Collegiate athletes have gained a splendid footing with the public. While it is to be regretted that this is not the case with other bodies, still there is hope that the downfall of the "sport" who hollers out that this is a dead town, will be brought about in the near future. The Collegiates are to be commended for the outstanding example they are showing by their clean and game playing.

Yesterday some milk and water spectators of the road races raised their voices in disapproval of allowing such young lads to figure in the junior event. But they are as usual away. Five miles is not too long a distance. These kids had been training for months back, some all season, and the encouragement received from the majority of the spectators more than repayed them, even though they did not land a prize. They showed grit, and a boy at any of their ages who has none, or shows no sign of developing such a trait, isn't much good.

The Ottawa Citizen of Saturday had a fine cut of Hal Kennedy, who, with his brother, Murray, are well known here. Both are making a name for themselves in the rugby game.

The Frontenacs, of Kingston, want the age limit in the junior O.H.A. placed at 20 again. This question will be considered at the annual meeting of the association on November 15th. Many clubs will no doubt favor the 20 year rule.

The lovers of hockey will see some good games in Lindsay this winter. In conversation with a Warder man Secretary Young of the Y.M.C.A. stated that the material is in town for a first division team, all waiting for a chance to get going. In a week or so the matters will be taken up in a business way and organisation will follow.

The following boys will be there with some fast hockey when the season opens: Dennison, Hickinbottom, Begg, McMahon, Henley, Cote, Mercer and a host of others.—Warder.

Chief Thompson and his officers handled a difficult job in a commendary manner yesterday during the finishes of the Examiner junior and senior races. It was a case of everybody keep back, and this order was carried out successfully.

Jimmy George won the Herald race at Hamilton yesterday in 1.50.52, two minutes behind record time. It was his second consecutive victory.

The charge is made at Hamilton that Jack Williams, the star half-back of Ottawa champions, is a professional. Recently Ottawa made a similar charge against Smale, of the Tigers.

$13,500 RETURNED

(Warder)

As far as the town council of Lindsay is concerned the matter of defalcations and irregularities in the office of the town clerk and treasurer were practically settled this morning when the town agreed to accept the sum of $11,000 from Mr. Knowlson's solicitor, and the sum of $2,500 from the Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company.

Mayor Begg explained that Mr. Knowlson had furnished his solicitor Mr. Hopkins, with a statement also and that there was only a difference of $20 or so in the two reports. A meeting was held in Toronto yesterday in the office of the Guarantee Company at which R. J. McLaughlin, K. C., solicitor for the town, Mayor Begg, First Deputy-Reeve McLean, and Mr. G. H. Hopkins, K. C., were present, and all had put up a fight to obtain as much money as possible from the company. Mayor Begg further stated that the guarantee bond was not not binding on the part of the company because of the fact that it was made out from year to year and that for the past 20 years has been renewd because of the fact that no irregularities had been mentioned. "I am satisfied," said the Mayor, "That we have got all the money we can possibly get either from Mr. Knowlson or the Guarantee Company and think that we did well in getting the $2,500 from the latter. I feel that we are doing the right thing for the town of Lindsay in accepting this $13,500 and I think the ratepayers will see it that way. If we went to trial with Mr. Knowlson we would not get that much and it would be very expensive business as well. I am satisfied we have got all the money we can get."

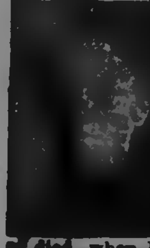
AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



MARLTON, N.J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. GEORGE JORDY, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

THE LEAGUE OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP

Under the auspices of the above, a fair number of men attended the Princess Theatre Sunday afternoon, when the Rev. C. Carpenter gave an address on "The Workshop."

He said that there was a tendency to look upon labor as a curse imposed by Almighty God. He argued this was a mistake, that although labor might be said to have been imposed as a penalty, man was not cursed, for God is a God of love. No curse was inflicted, except upon Satan, in the form of a serpent. He pointed out that object of work was beneficent, and that an idle life was wearisome, monotony, and that Adam, with nothing to do, would have been in a desperate condition.

Work was given to make a man's thoughts pure and his life full; and happy is the man with a continuous congenial employment.

The Saviour is rarely thought of as a workman, yet there is little doubt that from childhood to thirty years of age he worked as a carpenter, as the laws of the Jews made it imperative that every child should be taught a trade. Christ took the tools and labored, thereby showing that life was not made for idleness, but for honest toil.

Work makes for man's betterment, and helps to take him out of temptation. It is a dignified thing, and done well, is acceptable in the sight of God.

The great apostle Paul was a sailmaker, and partly supported himself by his trade, whilst spreading the gospel. He went on to speak of the contests between capital and labor of the present day, of the strikes and discontent, and gave it as his opinion that the great cause was that employers forgot that they were responsible beings, and treated men as machines or dumb driven cattle.

That workmen did not realise that they were part of a great co-operation, and by both forgetting their mutual responsibilities.

The employer should be thoughtful and helpful. That the employees should be considerate in acknowledging the employer's risks, and each remembering that the other is a man and a worker.

He urged his hearers to put the best of themselves into their work, and to keep every piece of work free from flaw and their conscience free.

A flaw or a bit of careless work may mean death and disaster to many.

Work for the love of the work, and not for the dollars; be provident and make your loved ones secure in case of your removal from their midst; avoid evil company and vice; banish discontent, and your work will be rewarded if not here, in the eternal world, where all is equity.

PERSONAL EXPERIENCE IS NEEDED IN CHRISTIANITY SAYS REV. DR. THOMAS; THE LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

Brimful of encouragement and overflowing with the doctrine of love, was the address delivered on Sunday afternoon in the beautiful new All Saints Church, where Rev. Dr. Griffiths Thomas, late of Oxford University, England, spoke to an audience of men only.

LAYMENS MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

Previous to Dr. Thomas' address, Mr. H. M. Gilchrist, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., made a stirring appeal for assistance in the Laymens' Missionary movement, a movement which is exerting a tremendous influence even in this, its earliest stages for the uplifting and evangelization of the world.

CHRIST'S MISSION ON EARTH

"Jesus Christ had a mission when he started out said Mr. Gilchrist. "It was a mission of love and service. Jesus and his vision were both rejected of men. He was put to death and arose again, and during the days previous to his ascension, so instilled in his disciples the love of service for him, that it is to them efforts that we to day are enjoying the blessed fruits of the Gospel. Despite the efforts made to evangelize the world, still two-thirds of the human race are in darkness.

OBJECTS OF THE MISSIONARY MOVEMENT.

"it is to meet their needs that the Laymens' Missionary Movement was formed. It's object is three-fold namely agitation, investigation and organization. It strives to interest the whole church. Business men and professional men are to-day studying missions and mission work as never before.

The recent Laymens' Missionary convention which met in Toronto is surely evidence that God is working in the hearts of men for the above purpose. Every year, thousands of strangers enter our gates, coming from heathen lands, and if we do not make haste to evangelize them, this country will soon be a heathen country. Then by studying missions, a man gets a broader vision of men, he sees that this world is better than he thought it was."

ALL HAVE A PART

"Men are enlisting in this work because they know God's programme must be carried out.

God maps out a part for you and me to do. Are you going to do your part is the question?

May every man find out his part in this great programme and set about doing it with a loving heart."

DR. GRIFFITHS THOMAS' ADDRESS

Dr. Griffiths Thomas then addressed the men on

VALUE OF PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

He spoke on the value of personal experience of Jesus Christ.

The greatest proof of Christianity is that of personal experience. It is true in every walk of life. The best soldier or sailor is not the man who sits at home and writes articles for newspapers on how the battle should be conducted, but he is the man, who is at the front, who is having personal experience with the enemy.

REASONS FOR BEING A CHRISTIAN

From time to time we are called upon to give our reasons for being a Christian. There is no better reason that can be given than that of personal experience. In these days of rush and hurry, we need simplicity It is better than argument, although we have a perfect right to use argument. What is the use of a religion that doesn't require a man to use his brains? Some people have been known to say that the more you think the less a Christian you become. God gave us an intellect to think out everything that we can. Sometimes there are deep problems in life that cannot be settled by argument and intellect, but only through personal experience. It is the same in connection with religion.

There are men to-day who agree and wont accept Christianity until they have settled some old difficulties in life.

DO NOT CRITICIZE

Personal experience is the greatest test of Christianity. Many people test Christianity by criticizing the actions of other Christians. When you see a man who pretends to be a Christian and is not, it is a sure test that Christianity must be worthy No person should denounce Christianity because one or two members of the church have gone astray.

When a man has a personal experience of Jesus Christ, no matter what his experience of Christianity is, he knows Christ is worthy of following.

YOUR SINS ARE BLOTTED OUT.

Besides this it is the most satisfying, the simplest and the safest and only way. It is satisfying because it assures us that the past is hidden. Many a man looks back on the sins and indiscretions of his past, and wonders how they can be blotted out. How are they to be blotted out? Only by personal experience. What about my daily life in the office or workshop? How can I fight the devil? Only by personal experience. By the power of God within me, I can resist evil and gain more power. With power He can meet the difficulties and inconsistencies of this life.

"Come and taste of the joys for yourself," said the speaker in concluding.

Several of the local clergy were present at the meeting.

SPLENDID MUSIC

The music for the service was furnished by an all male chorus of about seventy-five or a hundred voices, and Mr. B. J. Devey, presided at the organ. Mr. Chandler led the singing.

That Cold Room

on the side of the house where winter blasts strike hardest always has a lower temperature than the rest of the house. There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a which can be kept at full or low heat for a short or long time.

Four quarts of oil will give a glowing heat for nine hours, without smoke or smell.

HALLOWE'EN IMPS TURNED EVERYTHING INSIDE OUT

Big Night Last Night—Some of Their Stunts

Hallowe'en turns a town topsy turvey even as springtime finds the house cleaning when disorder reigns supreme.

Last night the youthful elves of All Hallows behaved in such a way that there is a great deal for which the householders are not at all thankful for even in this special season of all round gratitude.

Nobody was considered last night and it would have taken about two hundred policemen to look after the foxy youths. While all over town gates were carried away, verandahs stripped of chairs, bay window awnings hoisted to the top of flag poles and kindred deviltment of that order indulged in the north end of the city, seems to have been the most favored happy hunting grounds.

About half a block of fence on George street between London and Dublin streets was torn down. The ropes of Mr. Geo. Powell's awning were cut and the awning destroyed. The steps at the door of Cox's grocery at George and Dublin street, were removed and thrown across the street railway track and an accident, which might have been serious, was averted only by the motor man dropping the fender in time. As it was, dignified passengers were forced to bound from their seats like a circus clown as he hits the nets, when the car bumped into the steps. On Aylmer street north the strip of board walk running south from Manning avenue, a distance of abouut thirtyy yards, was all torn up.

It was certainly a big night for the "cut-ups."

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 24 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

IS NEW PARTY FORMING? GOSSIP FROM THE CAPITAL

Province of Quebec, Where Harder Fight on the Part of the Protestant Churches Against Rome Is Taking Place, Is Home of Latest Political Gossip — Eucharistic Conference Hastened the Step.

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—It leaked out yesterday that there is a proposal on foot to establish a new political party in Canada, which will represent the Protestant people of the Dominion.

The mainspring of the idea is stated to be in the Province of Quebec, and that it is gaining strength, because of the determined attitude towards Roman Catholicism assumed by the Protestant clergy of the province, since the recent eucharistic congress in Montreal taught them without a shadow of a doubt that the last stand of the Church of Rome would be in Canada, and that it would be a fight to a finish.

Reports reaching here are to the effect that the weekly appeals of the Protestant clergy to their adherents to be up and doing are having a strong influence. The present Government, on the one hand, and the Nationalists on the other, have shown them that they can expect no quarter. The recent influx of Roman Catholic clergy from France has made the situation more acute, and the statistics of the census are awaited with anxiety.

It is stated that during the next session of Parliament the new party will be organized, and that it will include men of prominence on both sides of the House. Hon. Clifford Sifton's name is mentioned as one of those likely to be at the head of the new party. It is well known that he has not been on the best terms with the Government for some years, and it will be remembered that he resigned his portfolio because of the autonomy bill. However, there are political developments pending which may upset this scheme. The Drummond-Arthabasca election may or may not clear the air a little.

Woke Them Up.

Ottawa, Nov. 2.—Since the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal there has been greater vitality shown by the Protestant Churches of Ottawa. The Presbyterians, hitherto somewhat cold regarding the question of church union, have warmed to the subject, and a special meeting of the presbytery has been called for Dec. 6 to discuss it.

REVOLTING CRUELTY

London, Ont., Nov. 2.—A week ago James Bates was arrested charged with neglecting to support his wife and child. The wife told one of the most revolting cases of cruelty and neglect ever heard. She said the husband did not feed her or her babe. When the child cried of hunger, he shoved his finger down its throat to prevent its yells being heard. Through neglect the child took sick and died. Magistrate Love sentenced the husband to six months in jail, and, when passing sentence, he made the threat that if the child died he would be indicted for manslaughter. The magistrate was not aware of the fact that the child was then dead.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS TWENTY AIRSHIPS

Washington, Nov. 2.—Twenty aeroplanes at least are needed for the United States Government service, says Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, in his annual report made public last night.

"They should be present in camps of instruction for regular troops and organised militia. Twenty aeroplanes would provide but two for each camp of instruction. To operate this number would require at least twenty specially trained officers as pilots. In addition, each machine must carry at least one observer, which, experience has shown, will require much training and actual practice before the usefulness of the heavier-than-air machine is attained."

Gen. Allen deprecates the fact that, although the United States was the first nation to recognize the aeroplane officially for military purposes, the Government has not kept pace with the world in the development of military aeronautics. The aero equipment of the United States army consist of one small practice dirigible balloon, one Wright aeroplane, and three small captive balloons, says the general.

LAWYER STRUCK THE MAYOR

Walkerton, Nov. 2.—During the hearing yesterday of a perjury case arising out of a liquor selling prosecution, Mayor Mickle made a remark to the effect that there was probably "something in it," for J. B. Mackenzie, a Toronto lawyer appearing in the case. Mr. Mackenzie, who is elderly, promptly smote Mickle in the face, but further hostilities were prevented.

Peary Back In Navy.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Capt. Robert E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, returns to active duty in the U. S. navy Nov. 8 as engineer expert for the Department of Justice, in cases before the court of claims involving construction work for the naval bureau of yards and docks.

CRIPPEN'S APPEAL IS POSTPONED

London, Nov. 2.—Upon application of his counsel yesterday, the hearing yesterday by the Criminal Court of Appeals of the appeal of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, under sentence of death for the murder of his actress wife, Belle Elmore, was postponed to November 5.

A. A. Tobin, K.C., who defended Dr. Crippen, has returned his brief, so it will be necessary to instruct another leader to argue on behalf of the applicant.

Judge Darling said: "It is very unusual to return a brief and let civil business stand in the way of appearing for a man convicted after a murder trial. Appeals of persons convicted on a capital charge should not be postponed. Such postponements lead to evils in other countries, and are sometimes procured designedly."

Justice Ridley refused Dr. Crippen leave to be present at the hearing of his appeal, and Newton, on behalf of Crippen, has appealed against the refusal. The appeal will be heard on Saturday at three o'clock.

ANOTHER ARREST HAS BEEN MADE

Montreal, Nov. 2.—One more arrest has been made in the Westmount tragedy case. This time it is a girl who has been taken into custody. She was a servant at the Belliveau Hotel, and it is believed will be able to swear that she saw Cecile Michaud lying on a sofa in the Belliveau Hotel on the night she disappeared.

It has been ascertained that two girls were missing at the time that Cecile Michaud disappeared, and both were evidently seen in Bonaventure Station district about Sept. 1. Detectives are now trying to find out the exact address of this second girl. It is believed to be somewhere on Lavan avenue, and it is also believed that the second girl knows something about the fate of the first.

It is even thought possible that it was the second girl who was killed and that Cecile Michaud is being hidden somewhere.

Yesterday morning the Westmount City Council offered a reward of $250 for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who caused the death of Cecile Michaud.

BUILD ROADWAY ACROSS CONTINENT

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—A beginning has been made to establish Manitoba's section of the proposed western highway, but, beyond informal discussions of the project, little action has been taken.

The idea is to construct a first-class roadway from the great lakes to the Pacific coast, and it is understood here that the scheme is already under way in Alberta and British Columbia. Automobile enthusiasts are of course deeply interested, and it is proposed to call a conference of various public bodies to push the scheme along.

Burglary In Belleville.

Belleville, Nov. 2.—A daring burglary occurred in this city at about midnight Monday when Jonas Bargman, jeweler and general storekeeper, was robbed of about $550 worth of jewelry. The goods were in a bag and were thrown into a gangway by the party who was carrying them. He was captured by the police, and gave his name as Thomas Geazier, Toronto.

AN INCREASE OF ONE THOUSAND

Washington, Nov. 2.—Killed 3,803, injured 82,374; this is the casualty record for the railroads in the United States during the year ended June 30 last, according to the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday. It is an increase of 1,013 in the number killed and 18,454 in the number injured over the previous year's figures.

There were 5,861 collisions, killing 433 persons and injuring 7,765 and damaging railroad property $4 629,279. In the year there were 5,910 derailments, 340 persons were killed and 4,814 injured. During the last three months of the year the total killed or injured was 20,650.

Worked in Lunch Hour; Caused Strike

St. John, N.B., Nov. 2.—The Hassam Paving Co. of Worcester, Mass., which has an extensive contract here for permanent street paving, has a miniature strike on its hands.

Included in the number of men who are engaged in laying brick for catch basins in the street are two members of a Lowell union. These men, being particularly expert in that line, were engaged at $6 per day. One day this week they worked during their lunch hour in order to finish a particular piece of work. The local union fined them $25 a piece, and, because the company would not enforce the payment of the fine, the strike was declared.

FACING EVIL FORCES; ROOSEVELT IN THE FIGHT

Ex-President Was Fully Aware of the Trend of Affairs When He Went Into New York Fight, and Developments Are Not a Surprise to Him—He Decided on Present Campaign Last April—His Political Future!

New York, Nov. 2.—If the election next week in New York goes against Roosevelt and his candidate for governor is defeated, he has his answer ready, and it is going to be along this line:

There was arrayed against me every "crooked" corporation, every "malefactor of great wealth," every plunderer of the people, every corrupt financial interest that wants to continue corruptly to make money. In addition there was foul treachery among the thieves and grafters of my own party, whom I had thrown out of control and who went over to the enemy. I stood for the people and against the plunderers in that fight, and I am proud of it. I have at least succeeded in purifying the Republican party in the great State of New York.

This is the information that comes from a close friend of the colonel's who has been in touch with him since his return to this country from Africa. The man is authority for the statement that Col. Roosevelt went into the fight with his eyes open and fully aware of conditions, and that, therefore, the developments have not surprised him.

That defeat here will put him out of politics, or even diminish his hold upon the people of the country, the colonel is said to regard as particularly absurd. He believes that if beaten, under the circumstances and the way in which he proposes to explain them it will strengthen him tremendously with the masses, especially in the west, where the ferocity of his attacks upon the corporations and the "interests," and his appeal to the mob, strike the old keynote that formed the basis of his popularity in that section of the country.

Mr. Roosevelt, his friends say, reached the determination to make this fight in New York while on the first western trip the last part of April. It was on the train in Kansas that he made up his mind to accept the defiance of William Barnes, jr., and put on his war paint. At that time he is stated to have expressed absolute certainty of winning the fight for control of the Saratoga convention, the election of himself as temporary chairman and the nomination of the ticket. Of his power to defeat the Barnes-Sherman-Woodruff combination he had no doubt.

At the same time he is said to have voiced the view that he did not expect to win the ticket and to have forecast in private conversation the conditions that exist now, anticipating the "laying down" of the "old guard" leaders, the hostility of the financial interests and the opposition of a large part of the New York press.

Mr. Hearst is telling the readers of his newspapers that the reason so many New York newspapers that have usually supported the Republican candidate are just now arrayed against Mr. Stimson is because Col. Roosevelt, who is Stimson's sponsor, has from time to time referred to the owners or editors of these newspapers as "liars," "unprincipled scoundrels," and the like. Also because, he asserts, Mr. Roosevelt has been back of suits for libel against one or two of them, which have cost the defendants large sums of money to settle.

GASOLINE MAKES POOR PICKLE

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 2.—When Mrs. Louis Voelkel sent her son to a grocery store yesterday to get vinegar to make pickles, he brought back gasoline instead. Mrs. Voelkel poured the gasoline over the pickles on a hot stove, flames filled the kitchen, and the house caught fire. She seized the pickle pot, ran out of doors with it and threw the contents into the next yard, setting the house next door afire.

Firemen turned streams on the two houses, the pickle pot and Mrs. Voelkel, who is uninjured.

Winnipeg Building Boom.

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Building permits here for ten months reflect activity in construction work which has been the feature of the whole season. The total is $13,6[illegible]2,950, representing 3,653 buildings, as compared with $8,901,800, representing 2,742 buildings for the same period last year. The permits for October represented 310 buildings, valued at $530,150, as compared with 255 buildings, valued at $531,850, in the same month last year.

Did Building Collapse?

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—Fire gutted the building of Alex. MacDonald, wholesale groceries, on Market street. The loss is put at a quarter of a million with insurance of $200,000.

The firm denies that a collapse of the building started the fire, but rather that the fire caused the collapse. It is stated, however, that Building Inspector Rogers inspected the warehouse about a week ago, and that he made a special report as a result.

THE "PALE" EXTENDED

St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—Emperor Nicholas yesterday approved a resolution adopted by the Cabinet opening up new sections for the residence of Jews. Imperial consent is now given to unrestricted residence of Jews in twelve districts in the Provinces of Vatebesk, Volhynia, Mohilev, Poltava and Kherson, and the town of Yekaterinodar, the capital of Kuban.

Shot at Wife and Son.

Pelletier, 62 Church street, wardrobe keeper in the Senate, fired two shots from a 32-calibre revolver at his son, Edgar, and his wife, yesterday afternoon, luckily missing both of them. The police were immediately notified, and found the old man calmly eating his dinner, as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened. He was at once taken into custody.

In default of $10,000 bail, he was remanded to the Tombs for examination to-morrow.

UPRISING IN MADRID; REVOLT IN PROGRESS

Despite Premier Canalejas' Opinion That Attitude of Spanish Government Towards Whole Matter of Republicanism Will Prevent a Rising, Distinct Rumors of Upheaval Are Heard Throughout.

London, Nov. 2.—A despatch from Paris to The Daily Telegraph says a rumor is current that a revolution has broken out in Madrid.

No confirmation of this rumor has reached London.

While the suddenness with which the revolution in Portugal became an accomplished fact, would attach more credence to the above despatch than it might otherwise receive, still there does not seem to be any substantial reasons for expecting an upheaval in Spain just now.

Less than a fortnight ago, Senor Jose Canalejas, Premier of Spain, interviewed by a special correspondent of The London Chronicle, who was fresh from Lisbon and the scenes of the revolt, said:

"I will answer with my head that events in Lisbon are not repeated in Madrid, or in any other part of Spain." He emphasized his words by tapping his heel on the ground.

"The late Portuguese Government must have been living in a fool's paradise. Everyone outside Portugal appears to have known what was about to happen. We, in Spain, were not surprised at the upheaval, but we did not look for it so soon."

"No, I do not think that the republican success in Portugal will have any repercussion in Spain. We tolerate republicans. They have a perfect right to freedom of speech and liberty of action so long as these are legal and constitutional.

"You ask me if the republicans have succeeded in undermining the loyalty of the army, as they did in Portugal. My answer is, emphatically no. The day they attempt it they will pay the penalty prescribed by the existing law of the land."

Discussing his reform program, Senor Canalejas declared that the present Government would do its best to carry it through the Cortes. The Government, he declared, had put its shoulder to the wheel of reform, and would not be deterred in its task either by the thunders of the church on the one hand or by the fury of revolutionary socialists on the other hand.

ANOTHER MURDER MYSTERY

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Nov. 2.—The badly-decomposed body of a Chinaman washed up on the shores of Lake Ontario at the farm of Peter Landry, six miles east of Olcott Beach, uncovered a murder mystery which is just now taxing the wits of every detective in this section of New York state.

That the man was first murdered and his body then thrown into the water is a certainty, proven by the postmortem examination. The throat was terribly swollen and the tongue protruded from the mouth. When an effort was made to force it back between the teeth, blood oozed forth. This lead the coroner to believe that the man had been strangled. The left eye had been gouged out, and there was a bad discoloration on that side of the face. The eye-ball hung by a small cord and lay on the face when the body was found. There were also bruises on the right arm and thigh, which the physicians and coroner declared were ante-mortem marks of violence.

OSHAWA'S NEW Y.M.C.A. DEDICATED

Oshawa, Nov. 2.—Oshawa's new Y.M.C.A. was dedicated last night at a meeting held in the Simcoe street Methodist Church, which was attended by about 1,200 people. Rev. R. McLachlin, president of the association, occupied the chair.

The chief speaker was Ven. Archdeacon Cody of Toronto, who, in an inspiring address dwelt on the history of the Y.M.C.A. movement, and the world-wide vision and world work of the institution, taking as his theme the words from the dedication of the biography of Sir George Williams, founder of the Y.M.C.A., "A whole Christ for my salvation; a whole Bible for my inspiration; a whole world for my parish."

The word Christian, said the archdeacon, implied something more than merely human, than merely national, it had a world-wide outlook. He also spoke of the great opportunities which lay before Canada, lying as it does in the central point between two great continents, Asia and Europe, opportunities of conciliation and mediation between the nations on the great race questions.

ALLEGED MURDERER ESCAPES

Winnipeg, Nov. 2.—An Italian named G. Vestie is wanted by the provincial police in connection with the murder at the city power plant at Point Du Bois Monday. One of the laborers was killed by knife wounds during a quarrel, and Vestie is alleged to have wielded the weapon. He escaped in the direction of Molson and the chances for his being captured are not bright. The name of his victim has not been revealed.

COOK SENDS MESSAGE TO WELLMAN

London, Nov. 2.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the discredited explorer, has sent a congratuatory message to Walter Wellman to a London newspaper. It is as follows:

"Acting upon your kind offer to transmit from me a message to Mr. Wellman, kindly send him my heartiest congratulations for his wonderful initial success. If he crosses the Atlantic he will have gained an object of greater use to mankind than the conquest of the pole.

(Signed) "F. A. Cook."

SOMEBODY TOLD LIE

Berlin, Nov. 2.—The report is current here that the Foreign Office has sent an ultimatum to Great Britain demanding the immediate withdrawal of British troops which were landed Monday in Persia.

London, Nov. 2.—The British Foreign Office has received no ultimatum from Germany on the Persian situation and it was officially stated there yesterday that none was received, for if British marines had been landed at Lingah, they were there to protect foreigners and for no other purpose.

A New Record.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—The Canadian Northern Steamship Co. yesterday announced that the Royal Edward, reported at Point Amour at 5.30 Monday night, has made a record-breaking run. She left Bristol at 6 p.m. last Thursday and will tie up at the Quebec dock early to-day, barring accidents. The Royal Edward thus beats her own previous record by four hours, while it shatters the records of all competitors by at least eight hours.

Tried to Assassinate Empress.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 2.—Major C. C. De Rudio, who in the early sixties attempted to assassinate Empress Eugenie by hurling a bomb under her carriage, is dying at his home in this city. He is 78 years old.

Major De Rudio was sentenced to be guillotined for his attempt to assassinate the empress. Queen Victoria interceded in his behalf, at the request of his English wife, and the punishment was reduced to exile. He came to the United States, and participated in the civil war.

Insurance Merger.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Negotiations for the absorption of the Royal Victoria Life Insurance Co. by the Sun Life Insurance Co. are far advanced, and it is expected that the absorption of the Royal Victoria by the larger concern will be finally effected this week.

A QUERY

Are we 55c. on a $1.25 behind Toronto? It looks that way. Gas is 70c. a thousand in Toronto. In Peterborough it is $1.25. Are the methods in Toronto that far superior to Peterborough?

MR. PUGSLEY'S BACKDOWN

The political event of the last few days has been the collapse of Mr. Pugsley's defence against the well-known contractor, Gershon S. Mayes, of St. John. It will be recollected that in 1908 Mayes accused Mr. Pugsley of insisting upon his paying a rake-off of nearly $36,000 to George McAvity, Mr. Pugsley's henchman in St. John. Mr. Pugsley retorted by holding up payments on Mayes' contracts. Mayes sued, and when the case came to trial in the Exchequer Court, Mr. Pugsley, after making a brave show, backed down.

At the opening of the case, Mayes claimed sundry sums, which included one amount of $5,090, balance on four contracts. The defence denied any liability at all; specifically denied this liability of $5,090; and claimed that Mayes was actually indebted to the Crown.

At the opening of the case the defence began to weaken on this sum of $5,090, and offered to concede it if Meyes would not press for anything further.

Mayes refused this and his counsel prepared to put Mr. Pugsley, Mr. McAvity and others in the box.

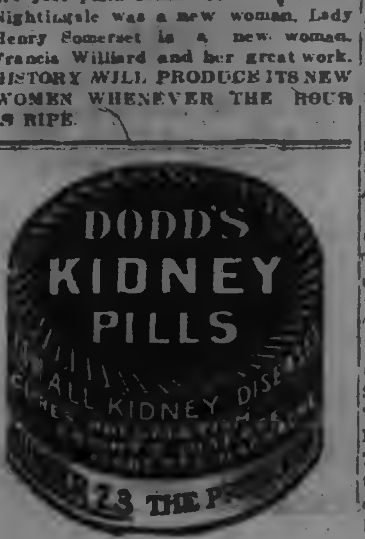
Then the Crown, that is, Mr. Pugsley, surrendered. It agreed to pay—

1. The amount of $5,090.
2. A further amount which would bring the total verdict to about $9,750.
3. The costs.

All this sooner than have the facts regarding the dealings amongst Mr. Pugsley, Mr. Mayes and Mr. McAvity exposed in open court.

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF

The Halifax Herald says there is no NEW WOMAN, but that history is merely repeating itself. We agree with the Herald. Vashti refused to strip and dance before a bunch of royal drunks and gave up her place to the throne. Esther did the weep act. Vashti is forgotten and the supplanter Esther seems to be best remembered. Who was Joan of Arc but a new woman with wisdom and a plan, who were Madame de Stael, Katherine the Great of Russia, and Isabella of Spain? THEY WERE NEW women. We have a new woman occasionally, but only once in a while. There are plenty of NEW FOOLS who think that dress is the mark of the mind. They hobble themselves and wear strange devices. No, they are not new women, they are just plain damn fools. Florence Nightingale was a new woman, Lady Henry Somerset is a new woman. Francis Williard and her great work. HISTORY WILL PRODUCE ITS NEW WOMEN WHENEVER THE HOUR IS RIPE.



DEAD AND NEAR DEAD

The flies are dying hard. The Board of Health is dead. "I dug a big trench," said a merchant to the editor of the Review in answer to a query as to how he spent his holiday. "What for?" "To bury my garbage in" was the reply. We have a great Board of Health here in Peterborough. Our Council has acted on the garbage question. They have SHELVED IT.

THE CHARMING MANNER

That prince of Glad Handers and after dinner speakers, Elbert Hubbard, has written a very fine little article on CHARM OF MANNERS. Hubbard knows what he is talking about; he has this charm himself. There is after all nothing like charm of manner, is there? It includes everything. The greater, of course, takes in the lesser. Old Malcolm McDonald, who was once the associate of John McCullough, as Iago in Othello, became a rag and bottle gatherer in the streets of Toronto, but he never lost this gentle way. Drink had him, drink made him a rag picker, but drink never obliterated his instincts of a gentleman. His charm was inborn. Had one been able to have reclaimed him, redressed him, washed him, his charm would have been irresistible. Those who are born with that subtle something, that charm of manner as Hubbard calls it, are few, but WE CAN ALL CULTIVATE it. The man with the charming manner, or the woman who fascinates does not do it because he has a silk hat and patent leathers, or because she is attired in the latest. It is part clothes, it is in the eye, in the action of the soul. The soul is fluid. The soul may be used to change the body, as a man would use a chisel and mallet to change the marble. The person with the charm of manner does not return ill conduct for ill conduct nor oath for oath, nor meanness for meanness. He does not take advantage. He does not lie awake at night seeking how to do his competitor. He is courteous to everyone. She is polite to her maid. Superior people are largely jokes to everyone but themselves. The man and woman with the charming manner are the most easily approachable in spite of the fact that they rise rapidly in life's scale. CULTIVTAE THE CHARMING MANNER AD YOU WILL BE SURPRISED HOW DIFFERENT THINGS WILL GO AND HOW GOOD THE OLD WORLD IS AFTER ALL.

THE GAD

Chief of Police Smith, of Cornwall, soundly strapped a twelve-year-old truant at the request of his mother, who found it impossible to keep the lad in school. The boy had been locked up for several hours a few days ago without effect. The punishment was administered with a heavy leather strap to the extent of ten strokes, and the promise of an increase of five for each subsequent offence. The boy went back to school without further argument.—The Times Journal, Fort William.

We stated a month or so ago that there was a great deal of the Grace of God in a good gad. Boys are not the only ones who can be benefitted by it either. Some children can be reasoned with others need a good hiding. Little Willie in Cornwall may turn out a smart young man all because he got a good tanning. There are many kids boys and girls, who run the streets of Peterborough at nights who would be glad in later years if dad laid them over his knee and gave them instruction via the spot that they use for sitting down.

NEXT YEAR HOLIDAYS

The year 1911 will be peculiar because it will open on a Sunday and close on a Sunday. It will also have its chief holidays either before or after a Sunday. New Year's Day will, of course, be celebrated on a Monday. Dominion Day will fall on Saturday, giving the benefit on the Sunday as an additional holiday, and as Christmas will be celebrated on a Monday, there also the worker will also get an extra day's holiday. So that with Thanksgiving Day falling on a Monday it looks like a good year for the railways with their week-end excursions and a bad year for the barbers, who have to work half a day when a holiday comes on a Monday.—Brandon Sun

It may be bad for the barber, but 1911 will be great for resolutions, New Years comes on Sunday. The man who never went to church for years can resolve to commence again and put his resolution into instant practice. It won't be long till New Years and the man who smokes will resolve to never smoke again; the man who drank will go on oath to never take another drink the dancer will say "I'll never dance again," the card player and gambler will say, "Boys, I've played my last game." She will make silent resolution to curb her tongue and temper.

Tempus fugit.

Resolutions seem made to break and a few days after they are made the Sunday will be stormy. SNAP GOES THE RESOLUTION. He lies in bed. He smells a good cigar. SNAP GOES THE RESOLUTION. He sneaks into the cigar store and buys a smoke. He meets an old pal. SNAP GOES THE RESOLUTION. He has a drink. She forgets. She becomes irritated. The gas goes out and she has not got a quarter handy. She burns a cake. SNAP GOES THE RESOLUTION. The youngster gets a slap on the ear and her husband gets a calling down. It won't be long till New Years when we make and break our resolutions.

COL. DENISON

Col. George T. Denison will address the Canadian Club on the 10th inst. on "Canada and Her Future." There is only one Col. Denison in Canada. The colonel has a wide acquaintance. Once a year or so he hob-nobs with dukes and princes over the waters, and daily holds receptions with acquaintances from over the Don. He does the work of about five ordinary magistrates doesn't pose as Solomon, but delivers the goods regardless of latest decisions, etc.

GET IT IN THE HERE AND NOW

The Peterborough Review says: "We do not know how many people there are in Peterborough who never go to church, but we know of a whole lot of people who do go, but who do not seem to be any better for it. They kneel to pray and rise to prey. Prey upon the man on Monday. Can they turn a corner and get away with it. Can they drive a hard bargain, they'll do it and do it quick. But that's not the fault of the church or the clergyman, that's not Christ's fault. It's the man's fault. The church can get along far better without the individual than the individual can get along without the church."

Cobourg has a large majority of non-church goers, who believe they know more than can be taught them in the churches. They may be partly right, but the church is a great leader in civilization, and a direct assistant in commercial advancement. Let us get the best we can out of life. It may be little or much but let us scatter the seeds of kindness, and make the world as good as possible, whether the seed fall by the wayside or from the church.—Cobourg Sentinel.

LET US GET THE BEST WE CAN OUT OF LIFE.

In that is everything. There are more good things than evil in life, and we can all walk on the sunny side of of the street. If we want to sit down and nurse our troubles we will bring out a brood. The hen sits on the nest and raises chicks. Many of us pay more attention to our troubles than anything else in the world—we think that we are the only one who had such a trying time—nonsense. Hundreds of thousands of men and women have passed through trials just as deep as yours, and to-day they are laughing, walking, talking, enjoying life. Your trouble is not peculiar. Hard up? It's universal. The false friend? Every life has known it. The lust? Who has not some lust camping on the trail? Disappointed ambition? Who hasn't been disappointed? Unrequited love? False love? That's common. The sick one at home? Sickness plays no favorites. The dead, the vacant chair? Every home has that. Cheer up; do like the fellow on the Cobourg paper says. GET THE BEST OUT OF LIFE AS WE GO ALONG. Get it here. You will, perhaps, have a long sleep when they bury you.

THE CHASE

That there still is a trace of the savage in the race is a good thing. It inspires activity. It creates resourcefulness. It develops courage and self-reliance. Without animal propensities, the human species would deteriorate, decimate and finally extirpate.

And so the annual fall outing, with gun and dog—this fall the dog must be left behind—is to be commenced. The wonder is that more men do not take one. It is good for the whole being, mental, moral and physical. Nothing can be conceived of so healthful and supremely soul-satisfying as chasing the antlered dweller of the maze, the furred denizen of the swamp or the soft-winged game of gorse or rice-beds. The hardship? It is wholesome. The danger? It is less imminent than that which lurks about the home. May every honest hunter return with a full bag, a renewed grip on life and an appetite like a goat!—Galt Reporter.

We can keep busy chasing enough money to pay our bills without chasing deer in the wilds. Then, too, there is the pleasure and excitement of dodging the man you owe money to. The deer never knew half as much excitement as that.

A couple of people have been killed this year in the woods already. The number will be added to now that the deer season is on. One man was killed because the fellow thought he was a red squirrel. The last man is buried because his hat was black. He died because the shooter thought he was a black squirrel. The day will come when hunting will be as dangerous as war, and the men who goes will deserve a medal no less than the fellow who storms the trenches. The pleasure, however, the fascination is not in the hunt, its in the chase. That's true all through life. When we capture our wife we do not lose interest, but we do not lose so much time. When we achieve our ideal we create another ideal. We shoot a duck. That's good. Where is that other duck? We kill a hare. We toss it into our bag and start the dogs again.

A Gentleman From Mississippi

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THOMAS A. WISE

both when the roll was called on a certain bill. He was a friend of Peabody's," laughed the lobbyist to the Mississippian.

"But in his case," said Stevens, "we must be very careful. Possibly some of your methods in handling the men you go after"—

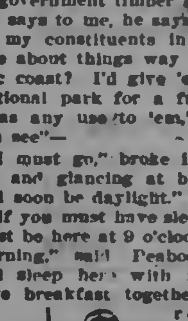
"Say," interposed Steinert, "you know I don't do all pursuin', all the goin' after, any more than others in my business. Why, senator, some of these congressmen worry the life out of us folks that sprinkle the sugar. They accuse us of not lettin' 'em in on things when they haven't been fed in some time. They come down the trail like greyhounds coursin' a coyote."

The speaker paused and glanced across at Peabody, who, however, was too busily engaged in writing in a memorandum book to notice him.

"Why, Senator Stevens," went on the lobbyist, "only today a down east member held me up to tell me that he was strong for that proposition to give the A. K. and L. railroad grants of government timber land in Oregon. He says to me, he says: 'What 'n h—l do my constituents in New England care about things way out on the Pacific coast? I'd give 'em Yellowstone National park for a freight sidin' if 'twas any use to 'em,' he says. So you see"—

"I must go," broke in Stevens, rising and glancing at his watch. "It will soon be daylight."

"If you must have sleep, go, but you must be here at 9 o'clock sharp in the morning," said Peabody. "Steinert will sleep here with me. We'll all have breakfast together here in my rooms and a final consultation."



"Suppose Langdon does not weaken?"

"You won't plan anything really desperate, Peabody, will you? I think I'd rather"—

"Nonsense, Stevens, of course not. Our game will be to try to weaken Langdon, to prove to him in the morning that he alone will suffer, because our names do not appear in the land deals. The options were signed and the deeds signed by our agents. Don't you see? Whereas his daughter and son and future son-in-law actually took land in their own names."

"How clumsy!"

"Yes. Such amateurism lowers the dignity of the United States senate," Peabody answered dryly.

"But suppose Langdon does not weaken?" asked Stevens anxiously as he picked up his hat and coat.

"Then we will go into action with our guns loaded," was the reply.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE HONEYBIRD.

IN the African jungle dwells a pretty little bird that lives on honey. The saccharine dainty is there found in the hollows of trees and under the bark, where what is known as the carpenter bee bores and deposits his extract from the buds and blossoms of the tropical forest.

The bird is called the "honeybird" because it is a sure guide to the deposits of the delicacy. The bird dislikes the laborious task of pecking its way through the bark to reach the honey, and so, wise in the ways of men, it procures help. It locates a nest of honey, then flies about until it sees some natives or hunters, to whom it shows itself. They know the honeybird and know that it will lead them to the treasure store. Following the bird, which flits just in advance, they reach the cache of dripping sweetness and readily lay it open with hatchets or knives. Taking what they want, there is always enough left clinging to the tree and easily accessible to satisfy the appetite of the clever little bird.

"Honeybird" Stevens.

Senator Stevens of Mississippi bears a marked resemblance to the honeybird—so much so that he has well won the bird's appellation for himself. Abnormally keen at locating possibilities for extracting "honey" from the governmental affairs in Washington, he invariably led Peabody, representing the hunter with the ax, to the repository. He would then rely on the Pennsylvanian's superior force to break down the barriers. Stevens would flutter about and gather up the leavings.

Equally as mercenary as "the boss of the senate," he lacked Peabody's iron nerve, determination, resourcefulness and daring. He needed many hours of sleep. Peabody could work twenty hours at a stretch. He had to have his meals regularly or else suffer from indigestion. Peabody sometimes did a day's work on two boiled eggs and a cup of coffee.

The senior senator from Mississippi had been the first to point out to Peabody the possibilities for profit in the gulf naval base project, but the morning following the conference with Steinert when he rejoined them for breakfast at the Louis Napoleon he was far from comfortable. He did not mind fighting brain against brain, even though unprincipled methods were resorted to, but indications were that more violent agencies would be called into play owing to the complications that had arisen.

Stevens ate heartily to strengthen his courage. Steinert ate hugely to strengthen his body. Peabody ate scarcely anything at all—to strengthen his brain.

Waving away the hotel waiter who had brought the breakfast to his apartment, Senator Peabody outlined the probable campaign of the day.

"If our best efforts to weaken and scare off Langdon fail today," he said, "it will naturally develop that we must render it impossible in some way for him to appear in the senate at all, or we must delay his arrival until after the report of the committee on naval affairs has been made. In either event he would not have another opportunity to speak on that subject.

"Of course later, at 12:30, we will know his plan of action. Then we can act to the very point, but we must be prepared for any situation that can arise."

"Cannot the president of the senate be persuaded not to recognize Langdon on the floor? Then we could adjourn and shut him off," asked Stevens.

"No," responded Peabody; "he has already promised Langdon to recognize him, and the president of the senate cannot be persuaded to break his word. I am painfully aware of this fact."

But Stevens was not yet dissuaded from the hope of defeating the junior senator from Mississippi by wit alone.

"Can we not have a speaker get the floor before Langdon and have him talk for hours—tire out the old kicker—and await a time when he leaves the senate chamber to eat or talk to some visitor we could have call on him, then shove the bill through summarily?" he suggested.

"I've gone over all that," answered Peabody quickly. "It would only be delaying the evil hour. You wouldn't be able to move that old codger away from the senate chamber with a team of oxen—once he gets to his seat. His secretary, Haines—another oversight of yours, Stevens"—the latter winced—"will warn him. Langdon would stick pins through his eyelids to keep from falling asleep."

"I've been thinkin'," put in Steinert slowly, "that a little fine-ease like this might keep him away: When Langdon's in his committee room before goin' to the senate send him a telegram signed by some of his frien's' name that one of his daughters is dyin' from injuries in a automobile collision a few miles out a-town. That ud"—

"Unless you got the right kind of woman."

"Ridiculous," snorted Peabody. "He'd know where they were. They're always"—

"Huh, then put in more fine-esse."

"How, what?"

"Hev some'un take 'em out a-autoin'"—

"No, no, man!" snapped Peabody. "They'd stick in town to hear their father's wonderful speech."

"Well," went on the lobbyist, "I'll hev Langd'n watched by a careful picked man, a nigger thet won't talk. He'll pick a row with the colonel on some street, say, w'en he's comin' from his home after lunch. The coon kin bump into Langd'n an' call him names. Then w'en ole fireworks sails into 'im, yellin' about what 'ed do in Mississippi, the coon pulls a gun on the colonel an' fires a couple o' shots random. Cops come up, an' our pertickeler copper 'll lug Langd'n away as a witness, refusin' to believe 'es a senator. I kin arrange to hev him kept in the cooler a couple o' hours without gettin' any word out, or I'll hev 'im entered up as drunk an' disorderly. He'll look drunk, he'll be so mad."

"But the negro—how could you get a man to undergo arrest on such a serious charge, attempted murder!" exclaimed Stevens.

"There, there," said Steinert patronizingly; "coons has more genteel home life in jail than they does out. An' don't forget the District of Columbia is governed by folks that ain't residents of it, only durin' the session. Th' politicians don't leave their frien's in the cooler very long. Say, Senator Stevens, are you kiddin' me? Is it any different down in your"—

The Mississippian choked and sputtered over a gulp of unusually hot coffee, and Peabody again decided Steinert to be on the wrong tack.

"That proceeding would attract too much attention from the newspapers," he added.

"Well, I thought you wanted to win," grunted Steinert. "I've been offerin' you good stuff, too—new stuff. None of yer druggin' with chloroform or ticklin' with blackjacks. Why, I've gone from fine-ease to common sense. But, come to think of it, how about some woman? I c'n get one to introduce to"—

"This is the wrong kind of a man," interrupted Peabody.

"Unless you got the right kind of a woman," went on Steinert.

Senator Stevens choked some more.

"The boss of the senate" sank down in his chair, crossed one knee over the other and drummed his fingers lightly on the table. He gazed thoughtfully at Stevens.

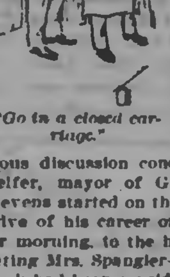
"Yes," he observed slowly, "unless you've got the right sort of a woman."

Rising, he led the Mississippian to one side.

The lobbyist heard the southerner give a short exclamation of astonishment as Peabody whispered to him.

"It's all right, it's all right," he then heard the Pennsylvanian say irritably. "She'll understand. She can be trusted. She expects you."

Stevens gave a violent start at the last assurance, but his colleague hurriedly helped him into his coat.



"Go in a closed carriage."

"Go in a closed carriage," was Peabody's final warning. "Be sure to tell her to get hold of his two daughters on some pretext at once. She knows them well. Maybe we can influence the old man through his girls, don't you see?"

And while Senator Peabody and Jake Steinert recurred to a previous discussion concerning one J. D. Telfer, mayor of Gulf City, Senator Stevens started on the most memorable drive of his career on this bright winter morning, to the house of the fascinating Mrs. Spangler—who for the past week had been considering his proposal of marriage.

The Michaud Case.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Achille Derome, the chauffeur who drove the Michaud girl, now under arrest, will appear to-day and will plead to the charge of killing the unfortunate young woman. The evidence against him is not by any means conclusive, although the general opinion appears to be drifting around in favor of the two men, Perrault and Chevrier, against whom no evidence has yet been secured, except that they were with the girl at the Bellveau Hotel, yet it is quite probable that they left her early in the evening.

Veteran Railroader Dead.

Dover, Del., Nov. 1.—Manlove Hayes, secretary and treasurer of the Delaware Railroad for about 50 years, and one of the best known men in Delaware, died at his home here yesterday, of general debility.

Three Killed in Auto Wreck.

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—Three men were killed and two badly injured when an automobile in which they were riding plunged into a ditch and turned over, near this city Sunday night.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Y. M. C. A. SCOUTS ON INCREASE

A most important meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Scouts was held last Friday when Mr. Hodges was introduced to the boys by Mr. Tait, boys' Secretary. Mr. Hodges has been thirteen years a Scout and is unquestionably one of the ablest men for a position of Scout Master in Canada today. He has had a very wide experience in this line, his last scoutnig experience taking place in South Africa under Baden Powell. Shortly after being introduced, Mr. Hodges got right down to work, and made a most favorable impression. The boys gathered around, anxious to try him out and as a result, most of the seventeen boys present can now tie the required number of knots needed to pass the tenderfoot exam. The membership will undoubtedly be on the increase now for some little time, and it will not be long now till the Y. M. C. A. Boy Scouts will be sufficiently advanced to compete with their brother Scouts, who under the leadership of Mr. Neil, are making rapid strides and fast becoming first class Scouts.

The following officers have been elected:—

Mr. Tait, Mr. Hodges, Scout Masters.

Rev. W. C. Riddiford, Chaplain.

Mr. J. Hughes, special instructor for Semaphore Work Ect.

The offices to be filled by the boys such as patrol leader, etc., will be left till the boys most capable can be selected.

A number of the boys will appear next Friday in uniform.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT ITEMS

A most enjoyabl eevening was spent in the Boys' Department, Saturday, when close unto sixty boys attended a Hallowe'en party, which was of the old time variety, including many Hallowe'en stunts, and a lovely programme from start to finish. The social committee selected to run same are to be congratulated on the splendid programme produced and upon the apple pie order in which things were conducted. The programme commenced sharp at 7.15 when Mr. Hodges, our popular Scout Master, favored us with many up-to-date selections from his gramophone which were very much appreciated. Then as per schedule, at 8 p.m. sharp, a series of games especially suitable for such a large number were engaged in, with an occasional Hallowe'en stunt sandwiched in at intervals. These games took exceptionally well and were continued till 9 p.m., when the surprise of the evening was introduced. The reading room, where the boys usually look for their literary digest, was now arranged in all its splendor with many enticing fruits, etc., which if indulged in too freely would mean indigestion. Suffice to say the boys made a clean up here, and while this was being accomplished, our friend Mr. Hodges was again called upon. This time favoring us with a Ghost story which was right in order as the lights were low and our friend the Ghost, was on the job. Mr. Tait Boys' Secretary, followed with a couple of the hair raising variety at the conclusion of which a few remarks were made. Then at 9.30 sharp, the most successful evening's fun, was brought to a close by the singing of God Save Our King.

ELECTROLIERS AT ST. JOHN'S IN MEMORY OF DEPARTED

The celebration of the Holy Communion on the morning of All Saints' Day in St. John's church was largely attended and of a very devotional character. The officiating clergymen were Canon Davidson and Rev. Charles Carpenter.

Mention was made of former clergy and parishioners and special prayers were offered in remembrance of them.

At the conclusion of this service a special service was held to dedicate two most handsome electroliers in the sanctuary in memory of departed members of the congregation.

Mr. R. J. Devey and a portion of the choir were present.

The inscription on one of the electroliers is as follows:—"In loving memory of William Erasmus Sherwood, Jan 7th, 1892, and Charlotte Erskine Sherwood, March 27th, 1910"

The second electrolier's inscription reads, "In loving memory of one of Christ's little ones "Blessed are the pure in heart".

In an address appropriate to the occasion Canon Davidson recalled pleasant memories of those commemorated

Mr William E. Sherwood had been a most regular and faithful member of the congregation in days gone by and had given strong support to the church when greatly needed. His widow, Mrs Sherwood, had continued to be one of the most loyal and devoted members of St. John's up till the time of her death last year her interest being manifested even when absent from Peterborough. She had been a factor in the life of the congregation and her family shared her devotion

The other electrolier erected was anonymously given, and recalled the life of a beautiful child, which the speaker hoped would be a thing of special interest to children.

During the solemn words of dedication which followed the lights flashed forth from the electroliers.

The two standards together would speak eloquently of the beautiful life of innocence, and the richer, more mature and developed glory of old age, being two different exemplifications of the saintly and heavenly life, of which the electroliers would be reminders with their shining lights

PROMOTION OF PRINCIPALS ON PUBLIC SCHOOL STAFF

Mr. Richardson to Have Charge at Queen Alexandra and Mr. Kelly at King Edward---New Principal for East City School---Tribute to the Late Jas. Stevenson--Other Business.

Promotion of principals

There were present at the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night Messrs. D. W. Dumble, B. F. Ackerman, T. H. Adams, John Crane, Robt. Fair, W. H. Hill, Col. Miller and Dr. Burnham. Mr. Dumble acted as chairman in the absence of Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., Promotions and an appointment in the Public schools were noted in the report of the Committee on Appointments and which will be found below.

THE PRICE OF BOOKS.

Dr. Burnham asked if the Public School fees were to be lowered as a result of the reduction in the price of the books.

Inspector Mowat pointed out that this step was not feasible until the first of the 1911 term or at midsummer. Between $600 and $700 extra had been expended on new books. If new rates were to be commenced at the first of the year, there would be a deficit to be carried over.

"Are the new books an improvement?" asked Mr. Dumble. The inspector answered that they were and that this was true particularly with the arithmetic

Following the remark of Mr. Crane to the effect that he understood there had always been a surplus for each year in the past, Dr. Burnham moved that the secretary furnish a statement of this account year for year. Col. Miller seconded the motion and it carried.

KEEP OUT THE COLD.

Mr Fair asked that the Property Committee be given power to have strips placed on eighteen windows of the Collegiate It was granted.

COMMITTEE OF APPOINTMENTS

To the chairman and members of the Board of Education.

Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend as follows;—In view of the vacancy on the Public school staff caused by the resignation of Mr W J. Dunlop, your committee recommend that Mr W. L. C Richardson be promoted to the principalship of the Queen Alexandra school to succeed Mr Dunlop, that Mr Kelly be promoted to the principalship of the King Edward school to succeed Mr Richardson, and that Mr M. H. Park, of Moosejaw, be appointed to succeed Mr Kelly at the East City school, duties of the two former to start 1st December, 1910, and the latter 1st January, 1911, and salaries to be according to schedule

Mr Park is the holder of a first-class certificate and has had experience in Public school work He is at present principal of a school similar to the one to which he has been appointed He comes highly recommended, and your committee is satisfied that he will fill the position to the entire satisfaction of the Board

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT SAYS BODY WAS BURIED WITHOUT INQUIRY

Body of Man Found at Maberly Not Identified

From Our Own Correspondent.

Havelock, Nov. 2.—The body of the dead man found at Maberly last week has not been identified.

He was found by some section men, lying in a pool of water, close to the track. There were no marks on the body to show that he had been assaulted, and his hands were not tied, as at first reported.

Had he fallen off a train it is not likely that he would have escaped without injuries or bruises, and such have not been found on the body.

It is thought that the unfortunate man was a tramp, and it is reported that the body was buried without any inquiry being made by a coroner.

Life Insurance

Many a father is going to mortgage the house in town or the farm in the country this Fall that the son may go to college. Possibly that "rainy day" fund is going to be drawn upon for this purpose. I have enough faith in Canadian youth to believe in such investments. The son intends to pay back to his father every cent just as soon as he gets into business for himself. With but an exception now and then, he will—IF HE LIVES. It is the latter point I want to emphasize. Life is not a certainty. A glance at any college catalogue will show the asterisk in the list of students and the word "deceased" at the bottom of the page. Frequently there is added to the loss or the son the LOSS OF THE COST OF HIS EDUCATION. The latter may mean the loss of the home. One of the legitimate uses of life insurance, it seems to me, is to take care of just such cases. The cost of life insurance for the son is very slight, because he is young and a good risk. It adds but little to the financial burden. In return it gives full protection to the parent, and in later years—after college debts are paid—it safeguards the home which the son sets up for himself. No son who can get insurance has the right to mortgage his father's or his mother's future happiness when there is such a good way to avoid it. One word more, young man. Be sure that your insurance is in a well established, responsible company.

Someone has said, "The true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the SUN LIFE OF CANADA needs no comment, and the profits paid—let the actual results tell their own forceful story.

MORE TROUBLE FOR ONCE GREAT PITCHER

Rube Waddell Tells Why He Fell Off the Street Sprinkler

Will Rube Waddell ever stay out of the limelight. Now his wife, his latest one, mind you, has left him in Newark, N. J., and says that never again will she live with him. Rube says he won't seek a divorce, nor will he defend any suit brought against him by her.

Waddell says his wife is incompatible, whatever that means. He explains it by saying that she liked to run up large bills at the department stores. She says she didn't. There you are; take your choice. Anyway, Mrs. Waddell has quit the once great pitcher of the champion Athletics.

Waddell married his latest wife in St. Louis and while she was still a bride, amused a houseful of friends by swinging her into the air by one foot, making her so dizzy she could not stand. Just a playful little hubby was Waddell, that's all. Rube was fined heavily and made to take a pledge for his exhibition of marvelous strength.

Then Mrs. Waddell appeared as a pajama girl in a show in St. Louis and this greatly offended the gentle tastes of her husband. She said that her needs forced her to sign a contract to appear in consideration of one dollar for every pound of her avoirdupois. Those who saw her say she must have got rich on the contract, too.

Waddell says that he was humiliated by her stage appearance and that he worried so much he took to drink and was canned by the Browns to the Newark club of the Eastern league. Then came his final troubles and the threat of divorce proceedings from his wife.

For years Waddell has been the clown of organised baseball, always to be depended upon for some wild exhibition of eccentricity. The idea of his being humiliated by anything Mrs. Waddell could have done quite equals any of his previous stunts.

HOCKEY MEETING

Local Club's Annual Session To-morrow Night at Oriental Parlors

And now it is hockey—the king of winter sports. The Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club will meet to-morrow (Thursday) night in the Oriental Parlors at eight o'clock.

The occasion is the annual meeting and a large attendance should be on hand.

BATTLER HELD SAFE

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—Auton Lagrove woke up this morning to find himself famous. The cause was because at Dreamland last night he held the world famous Battling Nelson to a draw after fifteen rounds of tumultous fighting. The affair was a whirl of fists from the beginning to end. The pace told on both fighters. Some of the rounds resembled an altercation between a couple of drunken men.

There were differences of opinion as to the merits of the decision, but all things considered, it was a fair verdict.

SPORTING COMMENT

A despatch from Guelph says that Peterborough, Port Hope and Belleville willl form an eastern division for a new professional hockey league. Should such a league materialize, the clubs will have to put up a better brand of hockey than was the case last season with the professional teams up west.

A repetition of punk hockey, free fights and increased prices won't go any more. Then, again, it is a question whether Peterborough would dabble in the professional game. If the past experiences of other cities and towns are seriously considered, the feeling would no doubt be in favor of the amateur assortment.

CHANDOS

A most enjoyable time was spent at a "Farewell Party" at Mr. James Roberts' on Tuesday evening.

About thirty guests were present, a number from Clydesdale, Anstruther and Clanucarde took advantage of this opportunity to avail themselves once more of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts' hospitality and to say "good-bye'."

The evening was spent very pleasantly in music, dancing, singing and various games. As the hour of midnight drew near the guests adjourned to the dining room where a very dainty repast was spread on spotless linen.

After doing ample justice to the tempting fowl served by Mr. Donald Tucker, and the other innumerable dainties, the friends again repaired to the drawing room, where their amusements were resumed. The friends seemed loath to depart, until the hour was growing so late it was necessary for them to bid their very dear friends good-bye. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will be gone from our midst but never forgotten. Our memories needs must drift back to the pleasant hours spent in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Boggs spent a few days in Bancroft.

HAVE NOW OPENED TORONTO OFFICE

Messrs. McConnel & Ferguson Established Business in Toronto

Manufacturers and others who are studying the question of publicity will be interested in the announcement that Messrs. McConnell & Ferguson, the well-known advertising agents of London, Ont., are opening an office in Toronto. They have secured suitable quarters in the new Lumsden building, and it is understood will be ready for business in a few days. The manager of the office will be Mr. Jas. Fisher, a well-known Toronto advertising man. Mr. Fisher has a wide acquaintance in the city and Province, and is splendidly equipped for the work he is undertaking. For the past four years he has been advertising manager of the Hugh C. Maclean publications, while previously he was connected with the Toronto office of another advertising agency. He has also had valuable experience in the editorial and advertising departments of a leading Provincial daily paper.

The progress of the McConnell & Ferguson Agency has been marked. About eight years ago it was established in the city of London, the members of the firm being both young and aggressive Canadians. A few of the concerns for whom they are now handling national campaigns are: The McClary Manufacturing Co., London; Penman's Limited, Paris; Western Canada Flour Mills Co. Limited (Purity Flour), Winnipeg and Toronto; T. H. Easterbrook, (Red Rose Tea,) St. John, N. B., and Toronto; Frost & Wood Limited, Smith Falls; Metal Shingle & Siding Co., Limited, Preston; Stephen's Paints Winnipeg; Waterous Engine Works Co., Brantford; United Soap Co., Montreal; Brantford Roofing Co., Brantford, etc.

RAILWAY LANDSCAPE GARDENING

In recent years many of the American Railways have given a great amount of attention to the beautifying of the grounds surrounding their stations, freight sheds, etc. The Grand Trunk Railway System have not been behind in this good work as is observed by an editorial in the October number of the "Railway Master Mechanic" published in Chicago.

They say, "If anyone doubts that landscape gardening has no place in railway repair shop operation, let him visit the "gold plated" shops of the Grand Trunk at Battle Creek, Mich. While threading his way through the beds of geraniums, poppies, pansies and orchids which bedeck the grounds, the doubter if he is a pessimist, will perhaps offer the opinion that probably gardening and not locomotive repairing is the specialty of the shops. Indeed, if the comparisons are carried far enough, one is inclined to wonder if there may not be some connection between this devotion to the aesthetic and results as evidenced in quality and quantity of the output of repair shop work."

A POPULAR CONFERENCE

Every autumn there gather at Queen's University the Alumni of the Theological Faculty, who are scattered widely over the continent. The conference lasts one week, and during that time papers are read on the subjects of theological import by the members of the Alumni Association, and by Professors of the University. The aim of these lectures is to keep the graduates abreast of modern theological discussion, and the tendencies of modern science. Each night a popular lecture is delivered by some scholar prominent in the public life or professional activities of Canada. This year President Falconer, of Toronto University, opened the evening meetings with an address on the life and works of Pascal. Dr. Andrew Macphail, of Montreal, lectured on the "New Theology." Dr. Bonar, Master of the Mint, Ottawa, spoke on Carlyle, and the conference was closed by an address by Dr. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education, on the relation of the Canadian Universities to our national life.

A lectureship established through the generosity of Sir Sandford Fleming, and named after him, the Chancellor's Lectureship, is held each year by some Professor of Queen's. The course consists of a series of four lectures. This year Dr. Knight delivered four addresses on matters relating to sanitation and hygiene. Prof. Skelton lectured on the attitude of the Church to Social Questions.

The Alumni Association of Queen's is the oldest of its kind in Canada. This plan was so successful at Queen's that in Toronto and Montreal organizations of the same nature have been established and are doing good work along the same lines.

SIMPLE WAY TO PURIFY WATER

A level teaspoonful of chloride of lime should be rubbed into a teacup of water. This solution should be diluted with three cupfuls of water and a teaspoonful of the whole quantity should be added to each two gallon pail of drinking water. This will give 4 or 5 parts of free chlorine to a million parts of water and will in ten minutes destroy all typhoid and colon bacilli or other dysentery-producing organism in the water. Moreover, all traces of the chlorine will rapidly disappear.

This method of purification has been tested with Toronto Bay water inoculated with millions of bacteria. Every germ has been destroyed and it has been unnecessary to boil the water.

This method should be very valuable for miners, prospectors, campers and those living in summer resorts where the condition of the waters might not be above suspicion.

SEWERS WILL BE BUILT ON INVERLEA AND SMITH STS.

A meeting of the Court of Revision was held last night in accordance with notices published and transmitted to consider the special assessment for sewers proposed to be constructed as recommended by the Board of Health, on Inverlea street from Water street east to manhole opposite the laneway and from Smith street from 160 feet west of George to Benson street.

J. F. Crowley was heard and objected that he did not need the sewer on Inverlea street and was assessed for other sewers. The appeal was dismissed and the assessment confirmed.

A letter was read from J. C. Brown saying he did not want the sewer on Smith street and did not think he should be assessed for it. The appeal was dismissed and the assessment confirmed.

The assessment for the proposed sewers were passed.

Several communications regarding taxes for 1910 were disposed of.

A MISSIONARY ADDRESS ON THE WOMEN OF INDIA

At Murray St. Baptist church last evening an interesting address was delivered by Dr. Smith, a medical missionary, home on furlough from China. The occasion was the annual ladies' Thanksgiving service, and was marked by a large attendance.

The subject of Dr. Smith's address was "Women of India." He graphically described their condition; how they have been oppressed and kept down, and the success which missionary efforts are affecting towards their uplift. Dr. Smith's special work is along the medical line, and he does what he can to educate them in clean habits of life, and to alleviate suffering of any form. A new hospital has recently been erected, accommodating a large number of patients. He is assisted in his ministrations to sufferers by a staff of trained colored nurses, who are as skilful and adept in assisting in serious cases as any white nurse.

The great need of the natives of India is proper medical attention. They have no doctors, except the native doctors, whose treatment is oftentimes cruel and a mere farce.

During the evening Dr. and Mrs. Smith sang several hymns in the language of the Telegu people of India, which proved very interesting, though unintelligible to the audience.

The question is often asked about the women of India, as to whether they are intelligent. They are, in fact they are as intelligent as any women in this country, said the doctor.

The proceeds of the liberal collection, which was received last night, will be devoted to medical work among the women of India.

Mrs. Milher, soloist of the choir, sang a solo in good voice.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Hunter, president of the society.

ENGINE TURNED TURTLE THE TOWERMAN DISAPPEARED THREE HUNDRED PASSENGERS WERE ON BOARD THE TRAIN BUT NO ONE WAS HURT

Special to the Review.

New York, Nov. 2.—The Buffalo express of the Lackawana Railway, which left Hoboken at 2.25 o'clock this morning with 300 passengers on board, was wrecked by a misplaced switch at South Orange, N.J., to-day. The big "Humback" engine turned turtle, and three cars were demolished, and the rest were derailed. A remarkable feature of the accident is that only one person was seriously injured, while others were bruised. William H. Poplett, or Oreton, N.J., the towerman, at South Orange, disappeared after the wreck.

CHEESE BOARD IN FAVOR OF COOL CURING FACILITIES CLOSING MEETING HELD ANNUAL EARLY IN MARCH

The question of cool curing is a live one among those interested in the cheese industry.

Mr. Ellis, representing "Farm and Dairy," introduced it at the closing meeting of the Cheese Board this morning. He referred to the fact that the Government proposed giving bonuses to the factories which would install cool curing rooms and stated that "Farm and Dairy" was carrying on a campaign towards the development of the cool curing movement to the fullest degree.

Eight years ago, Mr. Ellis said, the Government established central cool curing plants with excellent results.

At present there are only 60 cool curing plants in the Province and $110,000 is the aggregate loss in cheese shrinkage as the result of the cheese not being properly cooled.

The cheese, if properly cooled, would advance in price in international trade and a decided benefit would accrue in this respect.

The Government's idea was to give every factory that installed a cool curing room a grant of $100 and "Farm and Dairy" would like to have a favorable resolution from the Peterborough Cheese Board to forward to the authorities at Ottawa.

A motion was passed to the effect that the Board express its approval of the movement for more cool curing rooms in connection with the establishment of each of which the Government was to grant a $100 bonus.

On motion of Messrs. Coughlan and Humphries it was decided that one pound a box be allowed for shrinkage on cheese made the last half of October the cheese to be shipped in on or before the 10th of November.

When the buying began Mr. Fitzgerald got the first selection at 11 3-16. He took Warminster, Central Smith, Warsaw, Fleetwood, East Emily and Keene.

Eleven and one-eighth cents for the balance of the board was the price named by Mr. Gilespie. Nobody went higher and he took everything in sight except Lakefield, which refused to sell at that figure. Mr. Gillespie secured Selwyn, Villiers, Westwood, Oakdale, Daisy D., Pine Grove, King Edward, Maple Leaf, Myrtle, Ormonde, Young's Point, Fraserville, Indian River, North Dummer, Trewern, Bensfort, Cavanville, Stoney Lake, Norwood, Killarney and Shearer.

President Switzer thanked the salesmen and buyers for their co-operation during the season and thought it was a matter of congratulation that the board had been so satisfactorily and harmoniously conducted.

Votes of thanks to the Bank of Montreal for the use of the Board room and to the press were carried.

The annual meeting of the Board will be held on the first Saturday in March.

The representative of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Convention was not nominated but the opinion was expressed that it would be advisable to have a farmer appointed.

The cheese was boarded as follows;

Warminster	85
Shearer	90

A METHOD THAT EFFECTIVELY CURES SPEECH IMPEDIMENT

That the various forms of defective articulation, stammering, hesitancy of speech and lack of vocal fluency can be overcome by correct and common-sense natural treatment is being demonstrated beyond doubt by Dr E. L. Rivenburgh, who is at the Oriental for a limited visit. The doctor is a special in the treatment of speech impediments, and is meeting with unqualified success in his treatment of the numerous persons who have come to him for relief.

His method is simple, and from its very simplicity comes its effectiveness. He believes that the human voice is the great medium for the conveyance of thought and feeling, and that the large percentage of the cases which come under his care are due to lack of control of the vocal organs. It is largely a matter of will power and self determination, says the doctor, whether the patient will overcome the defect.

Dr Rivenburg has been practicing and curing stammering for thirty or more years, has seven thousand cures all over Canada, and United States, and his success has been steady and satisfactory. He will be at the Oriental for this week and next.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 24 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

PROMISE NOT KEPT

Time is up and 150 G.T.R. Men Are Still Out of Employment.

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Although, according to the terms of settlement of the G.T.R. strike, all the men should have been returned back to their former positions, there are still, approximately, 150 conductors, trainmen and yardmen still out on the system. There is bitter feeling amongst them, and Vice-Presidents Murdock and Berry, representing the Brotherhood of Trainmen and Conductors, are now in Montreal trying to fix it up. Originally 3,800 men went on strike on July 19. Mr. Murdock was communicated with last night and declared there was no doubt that the matter would be ultimately settled to the men's satisfaction, but he strongly resented the "vindictive and retaliatory policy of the company" in delaying to live up to the understanding. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, has been appealed to, and it is from this quarter that Mr. Murdock hopes to obtain speedy redress. The Labor Minister signed a telegram to Messrs. Murdock and Berry on Aug. 17, when the settlement was made, assuring that all the men were to be reinstated. This was in reply to a demurring message from the two vice-presidents named, who wanted a strict interpretation of the words "as soon as possible," contained in the company's agreement to take back the employes.

The greatest obstruction in the way of re-engaging the men has come from London, it is reported. The men still out are practically all west of Toronto, viz., Stratford, St. Thomas, London, Palmerston and Windsor, and also at Allandale. There are also a few not reinstated on the Central Vermont Railway.

"I am wiring every point on the line to-night," said Mr. Murdock, "to ascertain the exact conditions, and when I receive the replies, I will take the matter again to the Minister of Labor. Mackenzie King has given us the most positive assurance that the men would be taken back, and I am sure everything will be all right."

A Montreal despatch of Thursday last said Mr. King had conferred with Manager Hays and that the Grand Trunk would make an effort to re-employ all the men still out of work.

THREE YEARS FOR PERJURY

Toronto, Nov. 3.—Convicted of perjury, in having sworn that Fricko Sikeloff had shot him, whereas his own previous statements, the medical evidence and the testimony of other witnesses went to show that he had shot himself, Christo Yane, a Macedonian, was yesterday sentenced to three years in penitentiary. "The offence is a serious one, and one that must not be tolerated in this country. He swore falsely against his roommate, and caused that man, who was innocent, to spent several months in jail," said Judge Winchester.

The interpreter didn't divulge the sentence until Yane had left the court, whereupon he wept violently.

A CHANGE IN COLONIAL OFFICE

London, Nov. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The London Daily Mail says that the work of the Colonial Office will shortly be divided, a new Secretary of State being appointed to deal with the business of the self governing dominions.

The Mail's announcement is probably the intelligent anticipation of events, as some change in the Colonial Office had been hinted at by Lord Crewe, but in any case it will not take place until after the Imperial Conference, and it may not involve the appointment of a new Minister.

Old Practitioner Dead.

St. Thomas, Nov. 3.—Dr. Leonard Luton, one of the oldest practitioners in this city, and an ex-alderman, died at his home here Tuesday night, aged 75 years, after a few days' illness. He was a native of Yarmouth, and was formerly superintendent of schools in East Elgin. He has been for years a member of the council of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons.

WALTHAMSTOW ELECTS LIBERAL

London, Nov. 3.—In the Walthamstow bye-election Sir J. Simon, Liberal, was elected, polling 16,673 votes against 13,907 cast for J. S. Johnson, the Unionist candidate.

Walthamstow went Liberal at the general election of 1886 by 175. It was then Unionist till the bye-election of 1897, when it went Liberal by 279. At the Khaki election of 1900 it went Unionist by 2,465. In 1906 J. A. Simon, Liberal, was elected by 3,857.

Mr. Simon held the seat in 1910 by 2,206 and on his appointment as Solicitor-General Mr. Simon, now Sir John Simon, had to return to his constituents, and has been re-elected by a majority increased to 2,766.

Walthamstow, or Southwest Essex, is an industrial constituency, being mainly peopled by unskilled workers who earn their wages in London, but live in Walthamstow. Many of the prominent Unionists wished Sir John Simon to be returned unopposed, but, alowing for this cause of Unionists' weakness, the election indicates that the Asquith Government is holding its own.

NEW GROUP IN CHARGE

Montreal, Nov. 3.—The directors who have managed the affairs of the Montreal Street Railway Co. for many years past are down and out, following one of the most brilliant and daring raids ever made by one group of capitalists on another.

It was supposed that Senator Forget, Sir Montague Allan, Robert Meighen, and several other millionaires were impregnable in the street railway control, and so they were before such bright men as E. A. Robert, D. Lorne McGibbon, J. W. McConnell and others, started in to buy control about a year ago. Yesterday the old directors did not even make a fight, neither did they ask for a vote. One ballot was cast and the change was made the new directors being: F. H. Wilson, J. W. McConnell, George G. Foster, K.C., D. Lorne McGibbon, W. C. Finley, J. M. Wilson and E. A Robert. The new president is E. A. Robert, while J. W. McConnell is the vice-president, with D. McDonald re-elected general manager.

It is said that it took nine millions of money to swing the deal.

SIGNERS WERE NOT VOTERS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 3.—Chippawa Council at its meeting Tuesday night rejected a petition asking that the local option bylaw be submitted to voters Jan. 1. The meeting was a lively one. The petition had 79 signers, but the names of 15 temperance advocates were found to be not on the voters' list, as required by statute.

Burglar a Would-Be Murderer.

Port Arthur, Nov. 3.—A man who gave the name of James Murphy, has been sentenced to 23 months in the Central Prison for burglary of the Marks' Clave store. If his threats are to be believed, he was looking for a gun to shoot a man who put him off the train for the west.

FRENCH CABINET RESIGNS

Paris, Nov. 3.—The French Cabinet resigned yesterday. Although in fact that there was a divergence of views among the Ministers concerning legislative measures designed to prevent crises similar to that brought about by the recent railway strike, was well known, the resignation created a sensation, as it had been expected that Premier Briand would remain and remodel the Ministry in harmony with his views.

The exact nature of Briand's program has not been announced, but it is understood that both M. Millerand, Minister of Public Works, Posts and Telegraphs, and M. Viviani, Minister of Labor, dissented, particularly Millerand, who insisted upon the principle of arbitration.

Yesterday afternoon President Fallieres asked Briand to form a new Ministry and the latter accepted the task. The new Cabinet will be largely the old Ministry re-organized, the portfolio being distributed with special reference to a solution of labor problems, including the development of means by which employes of public service corporations may obtain redress for grievances without resort to a strike, paralyzing traffic and industry generally, and to devise a method of combatting the revolutionary element of the proletariat.

BOUQUETS FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Nov. 3.—The Democratic state campaign here reached flood tide last night at a meeting in Carnegie Hall, where John A. Dix, the nominee for governor, made his first public address in the city. The meeting also served as the occasion for Mayor Gaynor's long-expected formal announcement of his support of the ticket.

Mr. Dix devoted the greater part of a 3,000-word speech to a denunciation of Theodore Roosevelt, whom he referred to as an apostle of tumult and the protagonist of misrepresentation, agitator and egoist, creator of unrest, instigator of panic and destructive agent of business depression.

SYSTEM NEEDS EXTENDING

New York, Nov. 3.—The opinion of the Toronto sub-committee on medical inspection, who are studying the system here is that Toronto is on the right track, but that the system needs extending, so that it will cover all the schools. They have been investigating the schools in the "Bowery," under the guidance of Dr. Leopold Marcus, one of the supervising inspectors. The pupils are examined very rapidly, nearly one per minute passing through the doctor's hands.

Labor and Socialist Gains.

London, Nov. 3.—The results of Tuesday's municipal polls in England and Wales show a distinct revival of the Labor and Socialist parties. After defeats in the last two years in Manchester the Labor party gained five seats on the balance.

West Ham, the most interesting contest in greater London, was carried by Progressives and Socialists by a majority of six, there being two Labor gains and one Progressive.

DRUMMOND-ARTHABASCA RESULT IS IN DOUBT

At End of the Campaign Both Sides Claim Victory, But Riding is a Hard One to Estimate—Ten Thousand Votes in Riding.

Victoriaville, Que., Nov. 3.—With several meeting yesterday, the Drummond-Arthabasca bye-election campaign has ended in appropriate manner. The quiet, easy-going habitants have given little sign how they intend to vote. The Liberals exhibit public confidence, but admit personal anxiety. The supporters of Mr. Gilbert, anti-marine oppositionist, loudly proclaim their hope, but privately admit that the result is dubious. Those not directly interested in one side or other, look for a Liberal victory by a reduced majority.

There has practically been but one subject of discussion during the fifteen days' campaign, the navy program. Mr. Gilbert has emphasized that he was nominated not as Conservative nor Nationalist, but as an "anti-naval oppositionist." Mr. Perrault, Government candidate, has frankly supported the whole naval policy, admitting it is a bitter pill, but that if it is refused the Conservatives would give the country a still more unpalatable dose of imperialistic medicine.

The County of Drummond-Arthabasca is a singularly hard one to estimate. It is twenty miles long by forty-five wide, and comprises thirty-five parishes. The majority of the population is French, but perhaps ten per cent. are English-speaking. The latter are expected to vote pretty solidly for the Liberal imperial policy. The result is in doubt. The Liberal organizers look for a majority of 500 in Drummond, and hope to break even in Arthabasca. The Nationalists look for a good majority in Arthabasca and hope to break even in Drummond. There are 10,000 possible votes in the riding, and at the last election 6,674 were cast, Mr. Louis Lavergne, winning by 834.

Tuesday, in a speech, Mr. Blondin, M.P. for Champlain, gave very strong sentiments. "We owe nothing to Great Britain," he said. "England did not take Canada for love, or to plant the cross of religion, as the French did, but in order to plant their trading posts and make money. The only liberties we have are those we won by force, and to-day England tries to dominate its colonies as imperial Rome once did."

There was scant applause for these remarks, and in reply Mr. Beland, M.P. for Beauce, turned to Mr. Blondin and said it was the first time in his career he had ever seen a member of Parliament under a British flag denounce the Mother Country.

Apparently Mr. Gilbert, Nationalist candidate, is not so strongly opposed to the navy as to its imperial aspect. If it were to be a strictly Canadian navy he said on Tuesday at St. Germain, he would not have accepted the candidature, but what he objected to was clause 23, which made the Canadian fleet part of the imperial navy in time of war. But Mr. Beland replied that a vote for Gilbert would be equal to one for Borden and a more advanced imperial policy.

WAS THIS MAN A BRUTE? DID HIS CHILD CRY, AND DID HE WHIP IT?---THE JUDGE WILL DECIDE

Special to the Review.

Hagersville, Nov. 3.—The Italian Sam Panassa, accused of causing the death of his sick child by severely whipping it for crying in the night and disturbing his rest, was committed for trial by P. R. Howard, J.P., and was taken back to the jail to await the assizes. Panassas' wife has been summoned to appear Saturday next before the same magistrate, on a charge of having criminally neglected the child.

"FOR BETTER OR WORSE" IN THIS CASE IT WAS FOR WORSE SO HE LEFT HIS WIFE

Special to the Review.

Belleville, Nov. 3.—Frederick Underhill, a middle-aged man, was arrested here this morning on advice from Cobourg charging him with wife desertion. The accused had been working in this city for some time. He was taken back to Cobourg to-day.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Prof. W. H. Brewer of Yale is dead.

The Gloucester mackerel season has been a dismal failure.

Melton Prior, the famous English war correspondent and artist, is dead.

M. Rachkoffsky, former head of the Russian secret police, died suddenly at Vitebsk.

Smallpox is prevalent in Saginaw, Mich. There have been 14 deaths within a month.

H. W. Cram, manager of the Bank of Ottawa at Lanark, was wounded in the forehead by a stray bullet.

The C. P. R. will build four new steamers for a service between Nova Scotia ports and Boston and New York.

Charles Thompson, once a prosperous business man of Pembroke, walked out of a lumber camp north of Fort William and cannot be found.

Rev. Fathers Faire and Peirst, two prominent Anglican priests, are coming to Toronto in the early part of next Februray to assist in the mission work there.

A blaze that started in the altar drapery caused a panic among the congregation of the Church of St. Viateur at Outremont. There was a stampede, but no one was hurt.

John Nagle is serving a month in jail for drunkenness. Yesterday he was brought to the Toronto Police Court and charged with buying bottled beer and selling it on the street. He was fined $100 and costs or three months.

SIR PERCY LAKE LEAVES FOR HOME

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—Major-General Sir Percy Lake left for Quebec yesterday afternoon, en route for England, his term as military adviser of the Government having expired. He will be accompanied as far as Quebec by his brother, R. S. Lake, M.P. for Qu'Appelle, Sask.

All of the chief officers of the Militia Department and his successor, General Mackenzie, were at the station to bid him good-bye, and among the civilians present were: R. L. Borden, M.P.; Lord Lascelles, Lady Sybil Grey, and Lady Evelyn Grey. A number of Lady Lake's lady friends in the city presented her a few days ago with a diamond bracelet, as a little resemblance of her sojourn in the capital.

Sir Percy Lake has not been made acquainted yet with the purposes of the War Office regarding his future movements.

IN SEARCH OF RECIPROCITY

President Taft's Tariff Ambassadors Leave To-day for Ottawa.

Washington, Nov. 3.—For the purpose of resuming negotiations looking to the establishment of closer relations between the United States and Canada, which was begun last spring, Henry M. Hoyt, counsellor, and C. M. Pepper, commercial adviser of the State Department, will leave for Ottawa to-day. The preliminary conference with the Canadian officials will be held Nov. 5. Secretary of State Knox expects to visit Ottawa shortly after the negotiations are re-opened.

President Taft is especially anxious that a reciprocity treaty be the outcome of the negotiations. Both Mr. Hoyt and Mr. Pepper have been in conference with the President almost constantly during the past few weeks, and they go to Ottawa bearing his instructions and his confidence that a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—A reciprocity conference between representatives of the United States and Canadian Governments, will be held here on Saturday, but the news contained in a despatch from Washington, to the effect that a deal will be closed up before the end of the present month is without foundation.

There seems to be a fairly general disposition throughout the Dominion against reciprocity, of which the Government is thoroughly aware, and so it may be safely conjectured that no complete reciprocity arrangement will be reached for some time to come at least.

The call for a change in the tariff is from the grain growers of the west, who desire a reduction in the duties on agricultural implements.

PELLATT'S GIFT TO THE KNIGHTS

London, Nov. 3.—Sir Henry M. Pellatt of Toronto has donated $2,500 yearly to enable the Society of Knights Bachelor to acquire a site for the London headquarters of the society.

Sir Henry Pellatt, in responding to the toast of his health, assured the gathering at the dinner that there was a deep and abiding loyalty among the people of Canada. The people were looking for opportunities for close union, believing that Canada and Britain should co-operate in every way in peace and war. He was glad to say that the Little Englander was diminishing rapidly. The British Empire was no longer a dream, but the acknowledged platform of all statesmen.

CUBAN BLEW UP MAINE?

Kansas City, Nov. 3.—Lecturing at St. George's Church, Col. Jasper E. Brady, one of the four officers sent by the United States Government to investigate the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, on Feb. 14, 1898, declared Tuesday night that the mine which destroyed the battleship was placed by the Cubans, in order to bring war with Spain and the deliverance of Cuba.

Continuing he said: "Now I will tell you for the first time the name of the man who blew up the Maine. He is, or was, Jose Zavaldo. He was electrician at Morro Castle. It was he who threw the switch which set off the powerful mine that destroyed the ship and sent 207 lives into eternity in a flash. Zavaldo was afterward shot by order of Gen. Blanco. We even got a piece of the cable that led from the mine to the wire-room in Morro Castle. That piece of cable is now in the Navy Department at Washington."

C.N.R MUST NOT INTERFERE

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—In connection with the approval of the route map of the Canadian Northern Railway from a point a short distance west of Edmonton to Yellow Head Pass, yesterday, Hon. George P Graham, Minister of Railways, laid down the important stipulation that the Canadian Northern must not in any way interfere with the townsites of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company.

When plans were produced, Mr. Kelliher, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, stated that, from a point seventy-five miles west of Edmonton to Yellow Head Pass, the Canadian Northern very closely parallels the Grand Trunk Pacific, so closely, as a matetr of fact, that there was a danger that a line might be built through various townsites which had been laid out by the G.T.P. Co., which municipalities are interested.

LANDED IN JAIL

George H. Barnette of Toronto, Held For "Raffle" Adventures.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3.—George H. Barnette, alias Kemp, aged 23 years, 20 Christie street, and Miss Florence Tomlinson, aged 18 years, daughter of Albert T. Tomlinson, 526 Delaware avenue, both of Toronto, Canada, were arrested here last night by Headquarters' Detective Herman Pohler and locked up at the central station.

Barnette is charged with being "Raffles" in real life. When arrested he wore evening clothes, carried two pretty domino masks, had a loaded revolver and $200 worth of jewelry in his possession. He was arrested when about to enter a pawn shop. He has confessed to Chief of Detectives McGovern of committing a score of burglaries in New York, Philadelphia and other cities.

Miss Tomlinson, whose father is a car inspector of the G.T.R., was made the victim of a mock marriage, when she was taken from home by Barnette. The couple went to Niagara, where a fake ceremony was performed on Aug. 26. At headquarters last night she denounced her supposed husband, and says she shall leave him.

About two months ago, while living in Newark, N.J., Miss Tomlinson shot herself accidentally through the left breast with the revolver taken from Barnette.

Police chiefs throughout the north have been notified of the capture of Barnette. He has confessed to a number of robberies.

Miss Tomlinson says that Barnette forced her to read "Raffles" to him, with stories of famous detectives. Miss Tomlinson will be held by the authorities, pending word from her parents.

ELECTION DAY!

Special to the Review.

Drummondville, Que., Nov. 3.—This is election day in Drummond and Arthabaska. The weather is fair. The roads are in good condition in town, but very bad in the country. The vote will be large and the contest appears to be very close. Both parties are confident, but opponents of the navy claim a big surprise in store for the government.

It is not known whether Sir Wilfrid Laurier will vote in this county or not.

AN AWFUL FIRE; OVER $150,000 GONE IN FLAMES

Special to the Review.

Gananoque, Ont., Nov. 3.—Fire broke out at 6 o'clock this morning in the drying kiln of the Ontario Wheel Company's works, causing loss estimated at $150,000 to $175,000. The insurance is $125,000.

The main building, which adjoined the kiln, soon caught fire, and thereupon the local brigade called on Kingston for assistance. The Kingston brigade arrived about 8.30, and did much in checking the flames.

All that remains of the Wheel Company's fine buildings are two warehouses and the boiler room.

One hundred men are thrown out of work by the fire.

NO WORK FOR THE HUSBAND

Kingston, Nov. 3.—Married but six months, Cora Bennett, when arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of vagrancy, said she had been led to a life of shame because her husband could not find work. Her husband, Frank Bennett, was also locked up on a vagrancy charge. They came here from Syracuse two weeks ago. Mrs. Bennett spent most of her time on the streets and in the city parks. "My husband could not get work, we had bills to pay, and I did it as a last resort," she said. As they are American citizens, they will likely be deported.

Will Operate All Winter.

Port Arthur, Nov. 3.—For the first time since their establishment, in 1907, the Atikikan Iron Co.'s blast furnace will operate all through the coming winter. The success attending the manufacture of commercial iron from the highly-sulphurized ores of the Atikikan furnace has now been demonstrated beyond a doubt, and, as far as can be seen now, there is no reason why the blast furnaces should ever again be closed.

TOO FRIGHTENED TO MOVE OR CRY

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—Lying in bed beside her sleeping husband on Tuesday night, Mrs. Antonio Valentine heard a crash of glass, and a moment later saw two men climb through the window of the room from the porch roof. Too frightened to move or cry out, Mrs. Valentine watched one of the intruders steal up to the bed, place a pistol at her husband's breast and fire a shot that brought instant death to the sleeping man. By the time the woman recovered her voice the murderers had escaped.

Too Cosmopolitan.

Brantford, Nov. 3.—After a month's effort to get the city council to vote enough money to provide accommodation for a new patrol wagon, already built, the request of the police commissioners was negatived by a tie vote, taken three times Tuesday night, half of whom did not approve of the idea of a patrol. The local chief of police is being accused of being too cosmopolitan.

O.A.C. STUDENTS WERE ROWDY

Guelph, Nov. 3.—Following up the Hallowe'en doings, the Ontario Agricultural College students attended the performance of "The Alaskan" at the opera house here Tuesday night, 300 strong, and forced the curtain down. They had formed a torchlight procession down to the city, headed by the college band, and lined up in a body in the gods.

Confetti-throwing and pea-shooting started the show, and in the last act the boys threw down little bags of flour indiscriminately at the actors and the audience. In the finale the shower was so great that the curtain had to be rung down to protect the company.

The opera house will be closed to them in future, Manager Green says.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Winnipeg, Nov. 3—William A. Hope, halfbreed, was found guilty in the Assizes yesterday of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Frederick Smith at Black Bear Island, Lake Winnipeg. The wife of the dead man was the principal witness against him.

Deaf Mute Tried to Suicide.

Brantford, Nov. 3.—Harry Braven, a deaf and dumb mute, arrested for being drunk, tried to commit suicide in the police cells here yesterday morning, by hanging himself with his clothes. He was noticed by another prisoner and was cut down in time.

AUTO AND BUGGY AS EXHIBITS

New York, Nov. 3.—The doors of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court were taken down yesterday afternoon and a big 60-horse power automobile, the front badly battered and bent, was pushed inside. A wrecked buggy was next carried through the door, and when these two unusual exhibits had been placed in front of the judge's bench the trial of Edward T. Rosenheimer, for the murder of Miss Grace Hough, was resumed. It is charged that Rosenheimer, a wealthy needle manufacturer, ran down Miss Hough with the machine as she was driving along Pelham Parkway, on the evening of Aug. 18, in the buggy.

GENIUS AND INSANITY

Dr. Percival R. Reaves, the alienist of Denver, discussed at an alienist banquet genius and insanity.

"Genius and insanity are sometimes hard to tell apart," he said. "Take Dostovieskу, the great Russian novelist. He was surely a little insane. There was a touch of insanity, too, in Swift, in Rossetti, and in Poe.

"As a matter of fact," concluded Dr. Reaves, smiling, "we might say that the chief difference between genius and insanity is that the lunatic is always sure of bed and board."—The Philadelphia Bulletin.

Dr. Reaves might have said that it is not the genius who keeps the world agoing. It is the average man. Who is the motorman? Who is the conductor? Who is the engineer, the fireman, the brakeman, the bartender, the hotel clerk, the policeman, the livery stable keeper? He is the average man. We can't afford to keep the genius. He is too erratic, too undependable. He cannot lay a brick or a stone wall; he cannot set a stick of type. He is a non-producer.

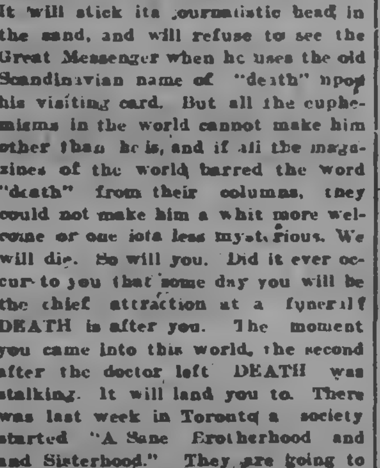
DEATH

The Ladies' Home Journal announces that it will hereafter avoid the use of what it thinks an objectionable word. It will stick its journalistic head in the sand, and will refuse to see the Great Messenger when he uses the old Scandinavian name of "death" upon his visiting card. But all the euphemisms in the world cannot make him other than he is, and if all the magazines of the world barred the word "death" from their columns, they could not make him a whit more welcome or one iota less mysterious. We will die. So will you. Did it ever occur to you that some day you will be the chief attraction at a funeral? DEATH is after you. The moment you came into this world, the second after the doctor left DEATH was stalking. It will land you to. There was last week in Toronto a society started "A Sane Brotherhood and and Sisterhood." They are going to fight DEATH. They are serious, but DEATH is stalking. DEATH and the tombstone are on the trail. We don't care whether we are cremated with great ceremony or dissected in a college. We only care for this lively present TWENTY-FOUR hour a day now. DEATH and taxes are after us. We can move. But death moves faster.

WHY NOT?

One hundred and fifty-one men and women "gave thanks" on Monday by getting so drunk that the police took them in charge. More than one in eight were females, a fact which confirms the general observation that drinking among women seems to be on the increase in Toronto. The only encouraging feature of the record is that 88 of those arrested were afterwards released without being made to appear in court. Cleveland's example of the application of the golden rule towards drunkards is bearing fruit.—Star.

Why shouldn't a woman get drunk Why shouldn't she get tanked if her husband does? We know of a case where a man went home not only drunk, but quarrelsome. He broke a platter. It was a good home. She went to the pantry, and getting a platter threw it on the floor. He broke a window. She put her foot through the next one. He threw the tea pot on the floor. She took a cream jug and smashed it. In the morning with a tongue like a board IT percolated through his brain. He has never been drunk since.



SWEATING BLOOD

The old Liberal guard, the faithful remnant of the Province of Quebec is sweating the proverbial drops of blood over the campaign now being fought out between the insurgents led by the brilliant Bourassa, and the Liberals led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself in the county of Drummond Arthabaska. The old saying "that chickens come home to roost," was never better exemplified. Laurier is to-day reaping in Quebec the harvest he so zealously sowed in by-gone years when no appeal was too base to enable him to to grasp the first rung of the ladder of power. He is feeling to-day the effect of the same blows he and his henchmen dealt out to Sir Charles Tupper in 1896.

The coming session should see some hard fighting. With a Cabinet weakened by incompetent Ministers Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not too well prepared for the fray. Mr. Pugsley has not improved his standing as a public man by his recent somersault in the matter of the Hayes dredging claim, which he so strenuously fought, until the time came for disclosures unpleasant to himself. Then the valiant Minister of Public Works ran like a whipped cur from the limelight of cross-examination and gave in completely. Sir Frederick Borden with the report of Sir John French haunting him like a nightmare, has several bad days in store for him when the members meet again. If the report of the famous English soldier on the Canadian militia had been favorable it would have been heralded from the housetops long ere this. Mr. Paterson is getting too old for active service, and "slippered ease." is more in his way at the present time. Of the youngsters Mackenzie King has yet to prove that in appointing him over the heads of tried and true retainers Sir Wilfrid Laurier made a wise move. Charles Murphy is still in the kindergarten of public life, while George Graham has never got beyond the "jester" stage of politics. It is a motely throng surrounding the Premier.

LAURIER'S NAVY PURPOSE HAS BEEN A MYSTERY EXPLANATION IS AMUSING

What could be the purpose of Sir Wilfrid's unarmored, non-fighting ships, has been a mystery to many

A solution of explanation has been offered by the Canadian correspondent of the Boston Transcript, who frequently acts as an announcer or apologist for Sir Wilfrid

This gentleman declares that pirates abound on both seas, and that at any moment one of these outlaws may pounce upon our unprotected coast cities and demand millions of money, failing the delivery of which she may lay these centres of population in ashes

When a pirate is known to be making for one of our ports, a situation which, presumably, will be communicated to us by wireless, the Canadian navy will take measures to circumvent the intruder, and to drive her off Thus we shall be protected from piracy, and will be able to sleep in peace

Another alleged purpose for which the navy will be used with be the preservation of neutrality in the event of war between other nations—the United States and Japan, for example

If these two countries were fighting their battleships might take refuge at Prince Rupert and compromise us by a breach of the neutrality laws

In that case we would be called upon to pay a heavy indemnity to the aggrieved nation

Now, with our own ships on the Pacific, we shall be able to force both Japan and the United States to respect our waters

Thus, if a few battleships of either country head for Prince Rupert, the Rainbow, our warship on the Pacific, will follow them up and force them to leave our port, or to observe the strict letter of the law while with us

Similarly, trouble on the Atlantic coast would call the Niobe and the Bristols into action and prevent any breach of the international rule governing the action of belligerents in neutral waters

It is for this that we are to pay out sixteen millions for construction and equipment, and three millions a year for upkeep

Such is the explanation of the real purpose of Sir Wilfrid's vessels, offered by his friend and apologist

His creation of fleets of pirates on both oceans, is amusing enough; but it is not nearly so fanciful or ridiculous as the notion that Sir Wilfrid's unarmored vessels would be able to exercise any control or compulsion over the battleships of the United States or Japan

THE LAW

At the present time a Dominion parole system exists, but all too frequently parole is initiated for a prisoner because of the activity and influence of his friends, rather than because of any conviction on the part of those in whose charge a prisoner is, that his lesson has been learned, and that in future he will fulfill the duties of citizenship in a proper manner.

Mr. Hanna's idea is that the men in charge of the prisoner, who alone are able to judge of the state of mind of their charges, shall initiate all recommendations for shortening of sentences. These men would constitute the board he proposes to appoint.

The law is not vengeful. Once a prisoner has learned his lesson, once the example has been made, once justice has been vindicated, no further reasons remain for keeping a wrongdoer of a certain class in jail. Many reasons will occur to allow his liberation. Over-punishment is just as liable to ruin the future usefulness of a prisoner, as under-punishment. The new system once it is properly established, should do much towards an equalization of justice and to increasing the usefulness of former prisons to the State.—Ottawa Journal.

Ottawa should speak with authority because——

The law is not vengeful. THE LAW—who made the law? Moses and the ten commandments comprise the whole of the law and the prophets But we are evoluting. Moses did not get in the promised land. He saw it. Moses lost his temper. He fell. There is no record of men falling to-day from losing their temper. It is a dollar and costs or thirty days. The law is not vengeful, but it is now sane. We see the day when the drunkard will be treated as the man with typhoid only longer. It is the prime evil, it must be treated as prime evils are treated.

SHE'S ORNAMENTAL.

Halifax Herald.

Lady of the modish waist,
Lady of the modish shoes,
Just to keep your form encased
In such garments as you use
Must make some man mock his best,
Get out ere the day is born,
Come and go with little rest,
Crowding night and crowding morn

Some man has to dig and sweat,
Studying the ways of trade,
Fill his life with care and fret;
But when you are thus arrayed
You're a sight as you go by
To make male hearts palpitate,
I will not deny that I—
Think you're looking simply great.

Would you know the thought that knocks
At my man's heart's citidel
When I view your shining locks
Built up so extremely well,
When I see your dainty feet
In your high-heeled slippers go
Twinkling up and down the street,
Hunting bargains, to and fro?

When I hear the silken swish
Of the things the world sees not
There is just one little wish,
Just one question I have got
On my mind—I would not task
You o'er much, your grace I beg—
But 'tis this that I would ask;
Lady, can you boil an egg?

CHAPTER XXV.

CAROLINA LANGDON'S RENUNCIATION.

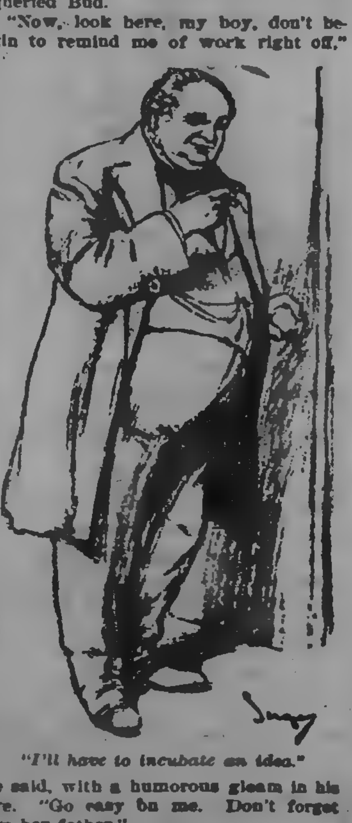
SENATOR LANGDON'S committee room at the capitol presented a busy scene at an unusually early hour the morning after the entertainment at his home. Bud Haines, reinstated as secretary, was picking up the thread of routine where he had dropped it the day before, though his frequent thought of Hope and the words that had thrilled him—"I love you, I love you fondly"—made this task unusually difficult. He impatiently wished the afternoon to hasten along, as he knew he would then see her in the senate gallery, where she would go to hear her father's speech.

This speech had to be revised in some particulars by Bud, and the work he knew would take up much of his morning. The senator's speech was "The South of the Future," which he would deliver when recognized by the president of the senate in connection with the naval base bill, that officer having agreed to recognize Langdon at 3:30; at which time the report of the naval affairs committee would be received. Just how Langdon would turn the tables on Peabody and Stevens and yet win for the Altacoola site not even the ex-newspaper man, experienced in politics, had solved. Clearly the senator would have to do some tall thinking during the morning.

The junior senator from Mississippi burst into the office with his habitual cheery greeting, his broad brimmed black felt hat in its usual position on the back of his head, like a symbol of undying defiance.

"A busy day for us, eh, senator?" queried Bud.

"Now, look here, my boy, don't begin to remind me of work right off,"



"I'll have to incubate an idea."

he said, with a humorous gleam in his eye. "Go easy on me. Don't forget I'm her father."

Bud laughed through the flush that rose in his cheeks.

"No, I won't forget that. But have you decided what to tell Peabody and Stevens as your plan of action if they come in here at 12:30?"

"If they come?" exclaimed Langdon. "They'll come. Watch 'em."

Then he hesitated worriedly.

"I'll have to incubate an idea between now and noon somehow. But don't forget this, Bud—we're worried about them, true enough, but they're worried a heap more about us."

Senator Langdon stepped into an adjoining room, where he could be alone, to "incubate."

As Haines resumed his work Carolina Langdon entered.

Avoiding the secretary's direct gaze, she asked for her father.

"He ought to be back shortly, Miss Langdon," responded Haines. "You can wait here. I must ask pardon for leaving, as I must run over to the library."

As the secretary bowed himself out of the door he almost collided with Congressman Norton. Both glared at each other and remained silent.

"Carolina," spoke Norton as he entered, "I hope—I know you won't allow your father to influence you against me—because of last night. I"—

Carolina would rather not have met Charles Norton on this morning. She had hardly slept for the night. She had fought a battle with herself. Her father had shown her plainly the mistake she had made. She saw that her influence had not been without effect on Randolph. Probably for the first time she realized that there are glory and luxury, pleasure and prestige for which too big a price can be paid.

The senator's daughter turned slowly and faced the man she had promised to marry.

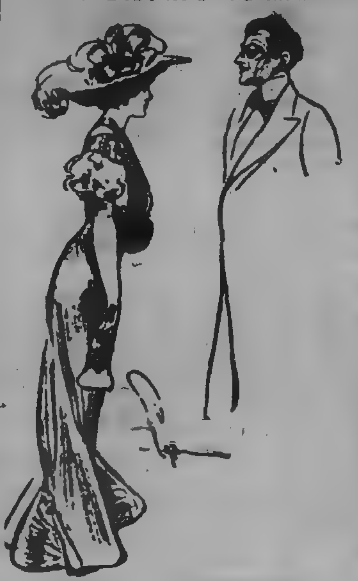
"Charlie, I have come to a decision. I came here to talk with father about it."

Norton started toward Carolina, a look of apprehension on his face. He gathered from the trend of her words and her demeanor that she had turned against him.

"You couldn't be so cruel, Carolina," he protested.

"Charlie," she went on determinedly, "I will always cherish our friendship, our happy younger days down in Mississippi, but I must give up thinking of you as my future husband. We've both made a mistake, mine probably greater than yours, but I now am convinced that I should not marry you. Your way of thinking about life is all wrong, and you are too deeply entangled with the dishonest men in Washington to draw back. I cannot love you."

"But I am doing it all for your sake, Carolina. Don't let an old fashioned father come between a man and a woman and their love," he cried.



"Charlie, I must give you up."

"Charlie, I must give you up."

The girl turned to one side, as though to give Norton a chance to leave.

He looked at her in silence a moment or two. Then a change came into his bearing. Wrinkling his face into a sneer, he stepped before the girl.

"You've been converted mighty sudden, I reckon, from land speculation to preaching—and preaching, too, against folks who tried to make a fortune for you."

Norton stopped, expecting a reply, but the girl remained silent.

"You think I'm done for, that I've lost my money, that's why you turned from me so quickly,' he laughed scornfully. "But I'll show you, you and your blundering old father. I'll win you yet, and I'll ruin your father's political reputation. I'll"—

"Are you quite sure about that?" spoke a voice sharply behind the congressman. He swung around vigorously. Bud Haines had returned in time to hear Norton's threat.

"Yes, and while I'm doing that I'll take time to show you up, too, somehow. I guess a congressman's word will count against that of a cheap secretary—that's what Miss Langdon said you were."

Carolina looked appealingly to Haines to rid her of the presence of this man, whose last words she knew Haines would not believe.

But Norton had had his say. He retreated to the door.

"Miss Langdon," he cried as he backed out and away, "you have an idea that I am dishonest, but kindly remember that, whatever you think I am, I never was a hypocrite."

Haines advanced and procured a chair for Miss Langdon.

"I'm terribly sorry to have come back at such a time," he began.

The girl cut him short with a gesture.

"I want to say to you," she said, then halted—"that I want to be friends with you. I want you to forget the happenings of yesterday—last evening—so far as I was concerned in them. I want to work together with you and father—and so does Randolph. Father and you are standing together to uphold the honor of the Langdons of Mississippi, and Randolph and I, no matter the c t of our former folly, want to share in that work."

Before Haines could reply Senator Langdon burst into the room.

"Bud, Bud," he cried, "I've got it I've got it!"

"You've got what, senator?" exclaimed the secretary.

"That idea, my boy, that idea! It's incubated all right, and Peabody and Stevens can come just as soon as they want to."

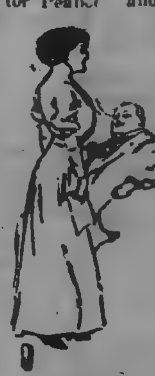
CHAPTER XXVI.

THE BATTLES OF WASHINGTON.

AT twenty minutes after 12 Senator Langdon and Secretary Haines were still undisturbed by any move on the part of Peabody and Stevens, who maintained a silence that to Haines was distinctly ominous. His experience at the capitol had taught him that when the senate machine was quiet it was time for some one to get out from under.

Miss Williams, the naval committee's stenographer, entered.

"Senator Langdon," she said, "Senator Peabody and Senator Stevens are in committee room 6, and they told me to tell you that they'd be— I can't say it. Please, sir, I"—



"To tell you that they'd be"—

"D——d," interpolated Langdon, laughing.

"Yes, sir, that's it. They'll be—that—if they come in here at 12:30. You must come to them, they say."

"Tell the gentlemen I'm sitting here with my hat on the back of my head smoking a good see-gar with nails driven through both shoes into the floor—and looking at the clock."

At 12:25 Senator Stevens entered.

"I came to warn you, Langdon," he said, "that Senator Peabody's patience is nearly exhausted. You must come to see him at once if you expect the south to get a naval base at Altacoola or anywhere else. If you do not agree to take his advice this naval bill and any other that you are interested in now or in future will be trampled underfoot in the senate. Mississippi will have no use for a senator who cannot produce results in Washington, and that will prove the bitterest lesson you have ever learned."

"I'm waiting for Peabody here, Stevens."

"Oh, ridiculous! Of course he's not coming. Why, Langdon, he's the king of the senate. He has the biggest men of the country at his call. He's"—

"He's got one minute left," observed Langdon, looking at the clock, "but he'll come. I trust Peabody more than the best clock made at a time like this when"—

The figure of the senior senator from Pennsylvania appeared in the doorway.

"Good day, Senator Langdon," he remarked icily.

"Same to you. Have a see-gar, senator," said Langdon. He turned and winked significantly at Haines.

The three senators seated themselves.

"I suppose you wouldn't consider yourself so important, Langdon, if you knew that we now find we can get another member of the naval affairs committee over to our side for Altacoola," began Peabody. "That gives us a majority of the committee without your vote."

"That wouldn't prevent me from making a minority report for Gulf City and explaining why I made that report, would it?" the Mississippian asked blandly.

Peabody and Stevens both knew that it wouldn't. Stevens exchanged glances with "the boss of the senate" and in low voice began making to Langdon a proposition to which Peabody's assent had been gained.

"Langdon, we would like to be alone," and he nodded toward Haines.

"Sorry can't oblige, senator," Langdon replied. "Bud and I together make up the senator from Mississippi."

"All right. What I want to say is this: The president is appointing a commission to investigate the condition of the unemployed. The members are to go to Europe, five or six countries, and look into conditions there, leisurely, of course, so as to formulate a piece of legislation that will solve the existing problems in this country. A most generous expense account will be allowed by the government. A member can take his family. A son, for instance, could act as financial secretary under liberal pay."

"I've heard of that commission," said Langdon.

"Well, Senator Peabody has the naming of two senators who will go on that commission, and I suggested that your character and ability would make you"—

"Good glory," exclaimed Langdon, "you mean that my character and ability would make me something or other if I kept my mouth shut in the senate this afternoon! Stevens, I've been surprised so many times since I came to the capital that it doesn't affect me any more. I'm just amused at your offer or Senator Peabody's.

"I want to tell you two senators that there's only one thing that I want in Washington—and you haven't offered it to me yet. When you do I'll do business with you."

"What's that? Speak out, man!" said Peabody quickly.

"A square deal for the people of the United States."

"Good Lord!" exclaimed "the boss of the senate." "Is this Washington or is it heaven!"

MILK VENDORS TO HAVE OPPOSITION

The milk vendors are thinking hard these days and waiting. Meanwhile the housewife is congratulating herself that the price of milk has not advanced. In previous years the annual advance of one cent, went into force during October, and here it is the first week in November and six cents per quart is the prevailing price.

But the cat is out of the bag. The milkmen are about to have opposition and they are waiting to learn what the other fellows are going to do regarding milk.

A city dairy, with headquarters at the corner of George and King streets, and which will supply sterlized milk, will be in operation in the near future. Developments will be awaited with interest.

BARNARDO HOME BOY TRIED TO HANG HIMSELF

Reabore, Nov 2.—A Barnardo home boy living with Mr. Thomas Reed attempted to take his own life last week. While Mr. and Mrs. Read were absent from home the lad had some little dispute with Mr. Reed's hired man and he left the house in a passion. When he did not return the man went in search of him and was shocked to find him in a nearby shed suspended by a rope from a beam. He had climbed on a box, fastened the rope to a beam, tied the other end about his neck, and kicked away the box.

When found he was black in the face and unable to speak. Another moment or two and life would have been extinct.

Mr. Reed notified the home at once, and Mr. A. B. Owen, of the Toronto branch of the institution, arrived in a day or so and took the lad away.

When asked for a reason for his rash act the boy said he wished to spite the hired man.

CITY'S GREAT SHOWING AGAINST OTHER CITIES

Holiday Drunks Down to the Minimum Here

The fact of there not having been a single case of drunkenness at the police court on the morning following Thanksgiving Day went by unnoticed, for the very simple reason that it is a common occurrence. Rarely it is that Magistrate Dumble has to deal with more than a brace of drunks at any time, And as the figures from other cities are given, it would appear that Peterborough occupies a high position as an orderly holiday city.

On Tuesday morning the number of "drunk" charges in the Toronto police court was one hundred and fifty-one, and of the large docket twenty were women. The figures for the previous year were only eighty-two.

At Brantford sixteen cases of drunkenness came up before Magistrate Livingston.

Other cities and towns, too, had a goodly number.

The only charge tried at the local police court Tuesday morning was one brought by License Inspector Stewart against a blacklister for offences during the preceding week.

OPENING MEETING OF ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY

Prof. DeLury of Toronto to Lecture Saturday Night

On account of the entertainment in the Collegiate on Friday evening, the meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society has been postponed until the next evening, Saturday, Nov. 5th.

Special preparation has been made for this, the opening meeting of the society for this season. Prof. Alfred T. De Lury, of the University of Toronto, who holds the position of president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, will be the speaker of the evening. His reputation as a professor in the University warrants us in forecasting a most interesting and profitable lecture.

"The Astronomy of To-day" is the topic chosen by Prof. De Lury, and a large number of lantern slides will be used to illustrate his talk.

The auditorium of the Collegiate will be used as a large crowd is expected for the special occasion.

One of the main features of the evening will be the presentation to the society of the handsome new telescope which Hon. J. R. Stratton has donated. The telescope will be on view in the auditorium, and at the conclusion of the meeting will be placed on the lawn for a short time for the benefit of those present.

In providing a lecture of such an entertaining and educative nature, a lecturer of such repute as Prof. De Lury, and undertaking such expense and trouble in operating the lantern views, the Royal Astronomical Society deserve the thanks of the public, particularly as no admission fee is asked. Prof. De Lury should be greeted with a full house on Saturday evening.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 12 IS TO BE TAG DAY

Meeting To-morrow at Four O'clock in the Council Chambers.

All those interested in "Tag Day" for the Children's Aid Society are asked to attend the meeting in the City Council Chamber to-morrow (Friday) afternoon, at four o'clock, when final arrangements will be made. "Tag Day" will be held on Saturday, Nov. 12th.

At the meeting to-morrow the officers of the society will distribute the tags and rosettes to the workers, each of whom will wear a rosette, to show that she is "tagging" for the institution.

No special price will be marked on the pasteboards. Citizens can give from five cents to five dollars or more, should they so desire. Such an appeal is an opportunity. The Children's Aid Society is doing a great work, and it is up to the citizens of Peterborough to show their appreciation.

The farmers in the surrounding vicinity, too, can, and are expected to do their part. The slogan for Saturday, Nov. 12, will be Tag Day for the Children.

KNOCKED DOWN BY BICYCLIST

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

AT REST

The mortal remains of the late Mrs. Hugh Regan were laid away at Little Lake cemetery yesterday afternoon, a large number of friends following the cortege to be present at the last sad rites. The service at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. G. W. Henderson, pastor of Charlotte street church, of which the deceased had for a short time been a member.

The service at the bereaved home, from which the spirit of a loving wife and mother had flown to its reward, was largely attended. The floral tributes, which were many and beautiful, included a broken circle from the Bible class of George street church, with which the late Mrs. Regan had been closely identified for years. The pallbearers were Messrs. A. Allison, Wm. Hartley, Geo. Baird, George Ruth, E. E. Lowes and Wm. Stockdale

Life Insurance

Many a father is going to mortgage the house in town or the farm in the country this Fall that the son may go to college. Possibly that "rainy day" fund is going to be drawn upon for this purpose. I have enough faith in Canadian youth to believe in such investments. The son intends to pay back to his father every cent just as soon as he gets into business for himself. With but an exception now and then, he will—IF HE LIVES. It is the latter point I want to emphasize. Life is not a certainty. A glance at any college catalogue will show the asterisk in the list of students and the word "deceased" at the bottom of the page. Frequently there is added to the loss or the son the LOSS OF THE COST OF HIS EDUCATION. The latter may mean the loss of the home. One of the legitimate uses of life insurance, it seems to me, is to take care of just such cases. The cost of life insurance for the son is very slight, because he is young and a good risk. It adds but little to the financial burden. In return it gives full protection to the parent, and in later years—after college debts are paid—it safeguards the home which the son sets up for himself. No son who can get insurance has the right to mortgage his father's or his mother's future happiness when there is such a good way to avoid it. One word more, young man. Be sure that your insurance is in a well established, responsible company.

Someone has said, "The true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the SUN LIFE OF CANADA needs no comment, and the profits paid—let the actual results tell their own forceful story.

WONDERFUL PLAYING OF SCHOOLMASTER RUGBYIST

Hamilton Spec. on the Work of Ben Simpson, Against Montreal

It was a wonderful exhibition and to Ben Simpson belongs all the credit. Ben has been a wonderful player for the Hamilton team. Time after time has his great left foot brought home the bacon, but never did it do its work as well and with such brilliancy all the more pleasing in view of the fact that Ben was laid on the reserve list this fall, and only contented to come out again when the need for him was imperative. That he is as good as ever was amply evident. Not only did he show rare ability to kick, but his judgment could not have been better. Every time he put his foot to the leather it was for an object. Short kicks, high kicks, long and low, twisters and bounders, were all in his repertoire, with a few outside kicks thrown in, and finally the old play that has helped the schoolmaster beat many a team, the kick into touch. Simpson has for years been regarded as Canada's premier punter. He is still all that, and more, for Saturday he exhibited such coolness and nerve racking calmness even with the opposing wings charging down on him that it was positively painful to watch him. Kicking in the very faces of his opponents, old Ben never made a miss. In the last quarter, when he had his opponents on the run, he employed his old stunt of kicking into touch, with the result that Montreal could only return when the teams were lined up and Ben's backs were in time to take the punts, whereas for the Hamilton kicks the field was always open and the Hamilton wings up under the ball, pulling the Montreal backs down in their tracks. Truly Simpson beat Montreal and the victory will ever stand out as a glowing tribute to "the daddy of 'em all," who came out of his retirement, even at the age when few others have ever tackeld the most strenuous of sports.

BACK TO THE WOODS

Just as the knights of lines and hooks, in months gone past, in quiet nooks, the hunters in the wilds hold away, to plink, perhaps what comes their way. Some, true, will bring a big buck down, despite perchance, dame fortunes frown, and others by the trail will wait, for waiting always was their fate. But as the fires light the skies and noisy creatures vent their cries, the stories will be told again, of wounded game and deeds of men. The letter bag filled up with mail, with triumphs of a new found trail will hit the road, and take its flight—the contents were all dreamed at night. But what's the odds, these hunters bold, just as the fishermen oft told, must have their yarns to rise to fame, and give their club a foremost name.

WEST END ATHLETIC CLUB TO GIVE A FORMAL DANCE

Now that the West End Athletic Club are in possession of their lately finished and comfortable apartments, they intend holding a formal opening of the rooms by giving a dance in the course of a couple of weeks. A description of the appearance of the club rooms appeared in a recent issue.

The music for the dance will be provided by the Grand Opera House orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. G. Howarth, whose reputation is assured in Peterborough.

Arrangements are now under way and a further announcement will appear later.

ONTARIO RUGBY UNION HAS SENT CHALLENGE

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Mr. John Davidon, secretary of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, this morning received a challenge from the secretary of Ontario Football Union for the championship of Canada.

The O.R.F.U. title has not as yet been decided, but sent the challenge in favor of the champions.

This year the title holders of the O.R.F.U. will meet the Intercollegiate champions first and then the winners of this series will tackle the Interprovincial title holders for the championship of Canada.

It has usually been that the O.R.F.U. champions are pitted against the Interprovincial winners first, but this year the Intercollegiate and Ontario champions will fight the first battle.

SPORTING COMMENT

The Guelph Herald says of the annual sports on Thanksgiving Day;—

When it is considered that almost a thousand dollars in prizes is given away every year at this meeting, it can be readily understood what a large amount of energy and hard work must be done, and it speaks well for the citizens of Guelph, from whom these prizes come, that they are taking the interest they are in the development of the athletic side of their young men.

The citizens of Guelph are on the right track. Other cities and towns wonder why their athletes have to put in their lot with other places. Here in Peterborough the boast is that the Electric City has turned out more athletes than any other city of its size in Canada and yet, where are they now? Scattered all over the country.

Peterborough without her city league players would be without the city leaguers. Attempts on the part of the youngsters to resurrect the lacrosse game have failed.

The citizens generally have no interest in the young men who are trying to some degree to uphold their end of the city's life. Practically the same faces are seen at a baseball or hockey match. The merchants and other business men are a long way behind the times.

The colored champion will speak against Colonel Roosevelt in connection with the Browneville affair, in regard to the negro soldiers. His topic is "Roosevelt was Not Present to Help the Colored Race at the Brownsville Affair; Now We are Not Here to Help Roosevelt."

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—In giving the information to the Hamilton scribes at Montreal last Saturday in which Jack Williams, the Ottawa half back, was held up in the light of a professional Chaucer Elliott, it is claimed here, was amiss in many places. Williams played baseball with the Kingston Pony team in 1904 and 1905, when he was a student at Queen's. The organization was carpeted at that time as a semi-professional organization, but all those connected with it were later exonerated, and when Williams came to Ottawa and played with Rough Riders in the Quebec rugby union he did not have any barrier attached to his standing. Williams played with the O.A.A.C. team against Ogdensburg on July 4 of last year. The Ottawa City Baseball League, a strictly amateur organization having given the club full permission to play and assumed all responsibility.

POLE LOST TO SWEDE

Montreal, Nov. 2.—Zbyszko, the Polish wrestling champion, who is back in America to get another chance at Frank Gotch, made his first appearance on his second tour here to-night and lost a handicap match to Deriaz, a Swiss, who has been sent over by the manager of the National Sporting Club of London. Zbyszko was to throw Deriaz three times in an hour, but failed to gain one fall. He was away off condition and could do nothing in the last fifteen minutes but hold off his opponent. The Pole had an advantage of about forty pounds in weight, but his indifferent condition made it of little use to him. Deriaz is built on Hackenschmidt lines and weighs only eight pounds less than the Russian lion

Is With Wilfrid

To the Editor of the Review:

Sir,—This is the day of the election in Arthabasca.

It is a straight fight between French Nationalists, who believe in total separation of French Canada from the Empire, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who has gone as far in that direction as one would wish, in his navy bill, which provides that Canada shall not go to war with her navy unless she sees fit. This does away with all Imperial obligation, but anything is better than Bourassa, so we wish Laurier all success.

Yours truly,
CONSERVATIVE.

HARDWARE NEWS

Hardware and Metal

Peterborough, Oct. 26—Josh Gamble, recently with the Higgins Hardware Company, has accepted a position with Dobbie & Son, Brockville.

Mr. Morton, of the Peterborough Hardware, has gone to Vancouver, to a position there.

The Best Stove Co. have a very attractive window this week. A range is fitted up in the window, which is dressed to represent a kitchen. The mistress of the house has apparently been called away, leaving the breakfast things on the table. A kettle is boiling on the stove (kept so by means of a gas jet placed inside the stove) and a tramp has taken advantage of an open door to help himself to the goodies on the table. The window has caused a good deal of favorable comment on the originality of the dresser, Ray Best.

The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company's staff are busily working overtime, getting out entirely new designs in locks and lock sets, which they will soon place on the market, they having recently greatly enlarged their plant, putting in a quantity of new machinery.

The Rapid Tool Co. has also greatly increased their staff, under Mr. Rees, their new superintendent.

Alec. Archibald, master plumber, has three or four large contracts in hand, including the heating of the Schneider block, and plumbing and heating of the new Knox church.

On the charge of being an accessory before the fact, the police arrested Mrs. Mallock, First avenue, and Mrs. Annie Morse, Keefer street, charged with supplying medicine.

MOTHERS WHO HAVE DAUGHTERS

Find Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winchester, Ind. — "Four doctors told me that they could never make me regular, and that I would eventually have dropsy. I would bloat, and suffer from bearing-down pains, cramps and chills, and I could not sleep nights. My mother wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking one and one-half bottles of the Compound, I am all right again, and I recommend it to every suffering woman." — MRS. MAY DEAL, Winchester, Ind.

Hundreds of such letters from girls and mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by its use.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Vancouver the City of the Single Tax.

"Rev. Prof. Anderson Scott, Cambridge, has been spending the summer in Canada. He is writing in the British Weekly his impressions of our Dominion. What he says about Vancouver, the city of the Single Tax may have an application to municipalities in Ontario and other parts of Canada."

If one were to ask some of the leaders of local politics what were the further causes of its (Vancouver's) prosperity, they would at once refer.

TO THE "SINGLE TAX"

and the principle of taxing unearned increment on land. Vancouver has been working with these partially for the last fifteen years, and now has adopted them without reserve. All the municipal services, and they are more numerous and better performed than in many English towns, are supported by the proceeds of a tax which is called "single" because it is a tax on land alone, not on the land and buildings. And the land is reassessed at short intervals, so that the community loses little time in drawing its share of the enhanced value, which according to the theory, is largely due to the growth and energy of the community itself. Other towns have adopted the system wholly or in part. Prince Rupert, the destined terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific, has adopted it from the beginning. But none of the others approaches Vancouver in importance; none is more satisfied with its success. The tax is at the rate which works out at about sixpence in the pound on the capital value of the land. The system is attracting attention and inquiry from economists and municipal governments all over the continent. The official reply to enquiries is that the "Vancouver experiment" which, indeed, may no longer be regarded as an experiment at all, has resulted in such a rapid upbuilding of the city that no one, not even the extensive land owner, has any desire to return to the former.

OF TWENTY-TWO MILLS

YOUTH AND BEAUTY

Women and Men are Anxious to Keep Young

Nothing so detracts from the attractiveness of woman as dull faded, lusterless hair.

There is no excuse for this condition nowadays, because notice is hereby given to the readers of the Review, that Parisian Sage, the quick acting hair restorer, is now on sale in Peterborough, at the drug store of Wm. Madill, and sold with a guarantee at 50 cents a large bottle.

Since its introduction into Canada, Parisian Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons:-

It is safe and harmless.

It removes dandruff in two weeks, by killing the dandruff germ.

It stops falling hair.

It promptly stops itching of the scalp.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, and luxuriant.

It gives life and beauty to the hair.

It is not sticky or greasy.

It is the daintiest perfumed hair tonic made.

It is the best, the most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute, he is unworthy of your confidence.

Made only in Canada by Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every bottle.

Rev. Mr. Chilley, of Stouffville, was drowned in Sturgeon Lake while out shooting ducks on Saturday.

FORTUNES ON CANVAS.

Some of the Great Sums Realized in the London Art Sales.

Over £1,300,000 has been spent on art treasures at Christie's Rooms in London, England, during the year 1910. The picture sales of the season compare favorably in interest with famous disposals in the past, such as the great Gillot sale in 1872, when a sum of £164,501 was realized; the Dudley sale of 1893, which yielded a turnover of over £99,000, and the Day, Cuthbertson, Gaskell and Quilter sales last year, which produced an aggregate of £309,520.

The principal sale of the year was that of the remaining portion of the Alexander Young collection, with its magnificent examples of the masters of the Barbizon and Modern Dutch schools. In three days £154,069 was obtained, a result which has only been exceeded on one occasion.

The wonderful records achieved by Turner in 1908 and 1909 paled before the 13,000 guineas fetched by Corots' delightful "Birds'-Nesters" in the Young sale. The remarkable prices obtained throughout this sale afford an encouraging commentary on the value of the George Saiting bequest, which was bought chiefly from this collection. The rapid rise in favor of the painters of the Corot school in recent years has brought considerable profit to those whose earlier appreciation of their works led them to collect when prices were low.

In the Day sale last year the net profit amounted to about half the total sum realized, and the dispersals of 1910 have furnished numerous instances of profitable collecting. Only £460 was paid thirty years ago for the Corot which changed hands this season at 13,000 guineas, while Constable's "Stoke-by-Neyland," which realized 8,800 guineas, was bought in 1860 for 100 guineas.

Jacques' pastoral scenes were obtainable not very long ago for about 50 guineas each, whereas a small painting of a shepherd and flock by him fetched 900 guineas in the Young sale. Millet, whose little picture of a shepherdess, measuring only 8 1-4 inches by 6 1-4 inches, brought in 1,050 guineas in the Young sale, was at one period of his life so poor that he could not afford to buy canvasses.

The second sale of importance during the year was that of the collection formed by the late Baron Schroeder, which yielded £138,058. In this the chief treasures were the rare specimens of French decorative art Sevres porcelain, gorgeous snuffboxes, and tablet cases, and other ornate objects made in the luxurious days of Louis XV. and Louis XVI.

No less than 9,000 guineas was paid for a set of three little Sevres vases which had cost little more than a quarter the sum in 1886, while a Louis XV. snuffbox, acquired for £1,000, was re-sold at £4,000.

In this sale also there was again brought under the hammer the famous sixteenth century crystal biberon which realized the record sum of 15,500 guineas after a sensational contest in 1905. As was expected, its value dropped on this occasion to £10,000.

On Another Errand.

The Gaekwar of Baroda was one of the first of the native Indian princes to take up motoring, and his state car is a really gorgeous affair

In this connection he tells an amusing story of a minor prince who brought a motor-car some years ago. It was a matter of considerable difficulty for him to get regular supplies of petrol, while his tire difficulties were more than usual. Upon one occasion the Gaekwar met this prince, gravely driving along in his motor-car, to which he had fitted a pair of shafts and in them was harnessed an old horse!

Upon another occasion the Gaekwar was visiting Windsor, and entered a chemist's shop to make some purchases. A little girl came running towards the shop and tumbled just outside the door. The Gaekwar at once went to her assistance, and, having picked her up, said:

"How did you come to fall?"

"I didn't come to fall," replied the child with great dignity, "I came for some turpentine."

The New Lord Steward.

The Earl of Chesterfield, who has been appointed Lord Steward of the Household in succession to Lord Beauchamp, is no novice at Court duties, for from 1892 to 1894 he filled the office of Treasurer of the Household to Queen Victoria. He is the tenth peer of the title and is descended from a famous family. The first Earl of Chesterfield fought for King Charles against the Roundheads. The fourth Lord Chesterfield was the author of the famous "Letters" in which he gives much good advice to his son, one particularly practical piece being: "Let your lodging be up to your means, your dress above your means, and your living below your means." Lord Chesterfield is aged fifty-six, is very good-looking, and is considered one of the best-dressed men in London. He is also a good shot and an excellent golfer.

Dramatist at Trial.

The dramatic features of the Crippen case are appealing to actors and playwrights as no other case in the history of English criminality, and features of it will undoubtedly find their way to the stage. This was evidenced the other day by the appearance in Bow Street court room of Sir John Hare and H. B. Irving, leading English actors, and of Sir Wm. Gilbert, playwright. They had seats close to the witness stand, and made frequent notes. On two previous occasions Sir W. Gilbert was honored with a seat by the side of Sir Albert De Rutzen, the presiding magistrate.

Epsom Salts.

A distinguished foreigner visiting Epsom Downs in Thackeray's company noticed many men dressed as sailors who were not, to native and experienced eyes, the real article. "Ah," said the visitor, "these are, I suppose, who you call your British tars?" "Oh, no," replied Thackeray. "Only Epsom salts."

Waterloo got its first hydro-electric power on Thanksgiving Day, when 13,200 volts were turned on.

A FRIENDLY DRAGON.

Making the Acquaintance of a Motorcar In China.

In Manchuria a motorcar is naturally a fantastic if not a dangerous invention in the eyes of the natives. When Signor Scarfoglie and his party stopped their machine at one of the villages for a supply of water for the radiator the inhabitants fled in terror and watched the strangers from half closed windows.

I advance to parley, waving a ruble over my head, he writes in "Round the World In a Motorcar," and at last one man ventures to approach. He takes two or three steps toward me, with his eyes fixed on the ruble. At last by means of a hundred complicated gestures he is made to understand that the money is not merely a reward for his arrival, but that we require some water.

He turns to the silent crowd and in a voice full of anger and fury hurls at them a stream of violent invective. The men listen with bowed heads as the tempest passes over them. Then some ten or twenty hurry off, and an instant later there is a row of pails beside the car. The chief, for he certainly is a chief, regards me with a smile full of satisfaction and points to my pocket, where the ruble has disappeared, and to his own, in which it would find a grateful resting place.

When Haaga takes from one of the pails the small quantity of water that he requires the people become more courageous and approach the car, with their little eyes wide open with astonishment. They are led by a youth who appears to enjoy much authority in the land. The crowd listens with patient attention to his vivacious discourse, which is punctuated by eloquent and convincing arm play. He evidently explains the mysterious dragon.

Gradually the young Manchurian approaches the tires and with grim resolution touches them with a finger. The crowd is struck dumb with admiration. He takes another step and fingers the lamps. Something like a shiver passes over the crowd. A third step and he touches the radiator, but unfortunately for him it was still hot, and the experimental scientist burned his hand.

The crowd flees like a herd of surprised antelopes. Soon, however, they return under the persuasions of the more courageous experimenter and themselves touch the pneumatics, which fill them with wonder, make grimaces before the lenses of the lamps, which turn their images upside down, and finally one by one conscientiously burn their fingers on the radiator.

Dance on the Ceiling.

A student of the Tyrol and Tyrolese people describes a remarkable dance in which the male dancers beat time on the ceiling with their feet.

"In Brandenburg and one or two other Tyrolese valleys which boast of a particular muscular fair sex," says the writer, "the girl at the conclusion of her swain's fantastical jumps catches hold of him by his braces and hoists him up in the air. He, of course, helps by jerking himself upward when she lifts, then, balancing with his hands on her shoulders, he treads the ceiling of the low room to the tune of the music, and she continues to dance around on the floor of the room. Such dances are rapidly falling into disuse."

Through weary months of hopes and fears,
The dreary cannon's sullen knell
Had toll'd its summons in their ears,
Or pealed in clamourings of Hell;
But, spite of danger, hunger, pain,
A spot of scarlet 'gainst the blue—
Serene above the iron rain,
The flag of Britain flew.

The foemen marked it day by day,
Alone, above the 'leaguered town,
The badge of England far away,
And trained their guns to beat it down.
In vain the shrapnel tore the air,
As, day by day, the dawning shone,
Its tattered folds restored with care,
The British flag flew on.

The cannon thundered to the breach
From many a shelter-ditch and mound;
And far as level eye could reach,
The erifle-trenches ringed them round;
And close, and closer still, they drew,
About that lovely scarlet flag,
Like swarming bees, the bullets flew,
And struck, and pierced it through and through,
And ripped it to a rag.

The flame leaped from the shell's red stroke,
The burning dwellings lit the sky;
The town went up in rolling smoke,
Which blotted out the sun on high.
The flag went blazing to its fall,
The cannons' triumph shook the air;
That instant, o'er the blackened wall,
The flag again was there.

Then hunger came to drag them low,
And fever stretched a bony hand,
To sap their strengths with burnings slow,
And shake their resolution grand.
Each day they showed more gaunt and thin,
But courage showed in every eye,
A courage resolute to win
And keep the flag on high.

"On!" cried the foemen, "to the storm!
The starving town is ours at length;
How lean and bent each soldier form,
The Britons' arms have lost their strength."
And on they rushed, with victor-shout,
And scaled the ramparts, but to die,
And, reeling back in broken rout,
Saw still——the flag on high.

o o o o o o o

Oh hearts made sick by hope delayed,
Yet brave and faithful to the last,
Four steady heart throbs, undismayed,
Through many a record of the past.
Wounds, fever, hunger, thirst and flame,
Despair and death, ye suffered all,
And kept, till laggard rescue came,
The flag above the wall.

The "International Limited"

One of the most artistic folders issued by the Grand Trunk is a brochure just out giving information regarding the "International Limited," which is heralded as Canada's fastest train, as well as its finest. The booklet is prepared in most attractive style, well printed and illustrated, while the asthetic relation of type and illustration is maintained to a notable degree. "The story of the "International Limited," is a familiar one to Canadian, as well as American, travellers, but, as shown in the latest publication of the Company, it is still not merely interesting, but attractive. A full description of this train between Montreal and Chicago is given, together with all the information regarding time and accommodation, that any passenger could require, the whole tastefully put together and artistically illustrated. A copy may be had free on application to Grand Trunk City Offices.

IN SUNNY SEVILLE

Old, romantic, sunlit Seville stands on the bright, silent waters of the Guadalquavir. As I pass along the quay the tall masts of many a quaint vessel swing to and fro with the tide. How bright the sun shines over this grand old town! The clear, magical sunlight of Spain. Not a speck can be seen in the heavens above, and as I sit in the shadow, towers and spires stand out clear and bold against the deep blue sky. Here on the water's edge is an old Moorish tower casting dark shadow right along the dock side. A short way back is an avenue of sturdy chestnut trees running east to west—green and fresh in their summer pride. Then the town gradually rises and white public buildings glitter in the sunlight. And above all towers the glorious old cathedral of Seville.

Along the dock side men were loading the vessels. There was not the least hurry or excitement. I could not help liking the slow, dignified, free-and-easy ways of the people of old Seville. They have a philosophy all of their own. It is summed up in the word Manana. It means the dim future, some faraway time when all things will be made right. Manana—a wonderful magical word. Suggest a bustle, now, right here, to-day, and all you will get of these deep-voiced Latins is a shrug of the shoulders, and the soft, dignified word Manana—to-morrow.

It is hard for us fair northerners to understand these come-what-may Spaniards, but you can easily learn to admire them, at any rate. I soon learned to like their ways.

—o—

It was Sunday afternoon and the bull-ring was crowded with men and women. Looking around the vast arena I thought of the tales in history when men fought and died on the yellow, remorseless sands, such as here in this bull-ring in sunny Spain. And I was a stranger in a wonderful romantic land of handsome women and sullen, hard men. The cries and shouts of laughter of the great multitude carried no definite meaning to me, all I could make out now and again was the word "toro." Toro is the Spanish for a bull. Not the kind I had been accustomed to in far-away Ontario. This animal of Spain was fierce, and active as a tiger, but far more active and three times its weight. I would bet my last dollar on a young Spanish bull against the noblest African lion or the fiercest tiger from the jungles of India.

Suddenly I heard the blare of the trumpets, and all the picadors and banderilleros paraded around the ring dressed in their gaudy uniforms and waving ribbons. It was a grand sight to see these daring, active men march before the great cheering multitude. Then the door of the toril was opened. The toreros had all gone to the barriers, and the bull came slowly into the empty ring. I could see its dark form right across the arena, beneath the glaring sunlight.

But wait, the ring is not empty. A man stands motionless in the centre. He is on a low pedestal and dressed all in white. The bull wandered slowly around the sand. All are silent. I felt a sickening sensation come over me and turned my head away. When I looked again the bull was charging full at the man. I jumped to my feet and shouted. It seemed as if the bull was rushing upon myself. I could feel the gore of the horns and the sickening toss.

Within a yard of the silent white figure of the man it suddenly swerved and stopped dead. The man stood perfectly still. The bull just sniffled, and with a toss of his head galloped off. One of the banderillos had attracted his attention by waving a cap at the other end of the arena. The tension was over. I cheered and cheered with the others. I waved my hands and shouted as loud as I possibly could. It was such a fair, brave thing to stand before the charging bull. It needed a nerve of iron and a big heart to face such an ordeal without flinching.

I learned afterwards that the man in white was known as the tancredo. He was unarmed and helpless. It was just a great chance game of life or death. If you had the nerve to keep perfectly still before a charging bull no harm would come to you. No bull, however furious, will ever strike or gore a thing that does not move.

But I felt sorry for the young bull from the first. He was so plucky and game, and he did not have a ghost of a chance. Quick, active men would plunge long, sharp darts into his neck and then swiftly evade his charges. It is said that bull-fighting was a cowardly affair, that the men had it all on their side. But this is not true. These toreros risked their lives every time they entered the ring. I saw a man slip and the bull caught him on his horns and tossed him into the air. The man fell heavily. I could see by the limp way he lay that he was terribly hurt.

But all the same the bull had not a ghost of a chance; his end was inevitable. He was fighting against a quick moving, sullen fate. Once he stopped dead in the centre of the arena and looked over the vast crowd. It seemed as if he was trying to make out what it all meant. Perhaps he was conscious of approaching death, perhaps he somehow knew that he was to die upon these yellow, open sands. He made one final effort. He dashed into the side, smashing the frail wood work. Then he faced the matador. The blade of the bright sword flashed sharply in the sun and then the matador struck home deep and firm to the heart. The end had come. The bullock reeled and then bravely struggled forward and fell.

I felt sorry for the bull, he was so brave and plucky and he had to face the hard invincible hand of fate.

—o—

That night I wandered through the quaint, winding streets till the moon dropped behind the tower of the old cathedral. I visited the cafes. I joined in the singing and drank the cool wonderful wines of Spain. I watched glorious women dance the Bolero—a supple half eastern dance—slow and fascinating. I passed through allies and courts, plazas and streets, on and on through the quaint old town. Here were palms and beautiful flowers, and glittering fountains playing in the moonlight. I sang for sheer joy as I walked across the narrow, ill-paved, cobbled streets. It was good to be young, to be alive in this fine old city of Seville. And wonderful soft bells were ringing. I heard them at all hours, through the day and into the cool summer night. Magical clear-sounding bells that sang of the long ago; that told of the wonders and glories of Spain.

HOBBLED WOMEN CARRIED TO DANCE

Chicago, Oct 31.—Five helpless women were carried upstairs last night into the residence of Carl Schmidt in Gary, so they would attend a hobble skirt party given by him.

George Clinton was the man who played the role of Jean to these half dozen Saphos. Clinton is built for the part. He weighs 275 pounds and stretches the tape to 6 feet 4 inches.

An acceptance to the hobble skirt party required that the guest wear a dress of that design.

Trouble began to accumulate as the guests arrived, for Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt live on the second floor of the apartment at Sixth and Jefferson streets.

It is a physical impossibility for a woman draped in a hobble skirt to climb steps, and the host was in despair until he thought of Clinton, and the human elevator immediately got on the job.

It was fun the first two trips, but after that things began to get serious for Clinton. He was puffing like a donkey engine as he deposited his third fair burden on the second floor. He was breathless and groaning as he set the fourth safely down. As he staggered up the steps making the fifth ascent, he would have sworn that he had climbed to the Masonic Temple roof before he reached the landing.

Clinton will probably be in big demand at similar parties in the future.

While women cannot climb in hobble skirts, they can dance. Nothing can keep woman from that. In order to keep down the pace of the escorts in the two-steps the men were also hobbled with blue ribbon which matched the overalls that each wore.

The feature of the menu was chicken a la hobble."

The guests of Mr and Mrs. Schmidt at Gary's first hobble skirt party were Mr and Mrs. James Kettles, Mr and Mrs. George Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sage, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Miller, Mr and Mrs. Walter Acker.

Mr Francis finding will afford an accurate comparison between the level of the water now and before the conservation of the waters was made.

THE ALASKAN CO. HAD HOT TIME AT GUELPH

The Guelph Mercury of Tuesday says:

Commencing with a fusilade of confetti, and ending with a bombardment of small bags of flour, the O. A. C. students who attended the performance of "The Alaskan" at the Griffin Theatre Royal last night certainly kept their promise to make it "a hot time in the old town to-night," and incidentally disgraced the College and placed themselves beyond the pale. "The opera house will never again be opened to College students," said Manager Green this morning.

Throughout the first act, the audience was showered with confetti, and the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Creelman was greeted with cheers, and calls of "what's the matter," etc.

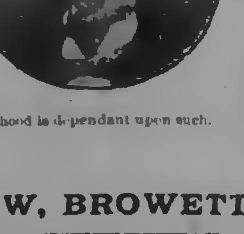
In the second act, a number of the students commenced to act disgracefully, though it must be said that the majority were innocent, repeatedly calling for order. In the kissing scenes, ribald laughter and cat calls were hurled down, ending up with a fusilade of flour. The clarionet was knocked from a member of the orchestra, the piano was filled with it, and must be replaced, the hat of Mr. Thain, the leader, was smashed and the company bombarded. The girls pleaded with the manager to close the show, as they were afraid to go on, but he believed that the students would stop. Not so, however, and it became so violent that in the middle of the finale, the curtain had to be rung down, the suits of several of the actors being ruined, and the floor carpet covered with flour.

One traveller, almost frothing with disgust, rose and left, saying that at all the college nights he had attended, such disgraceful scenes had never been seen, and his opinion will be shared by the majority of those who attended. The scenes last night will mean that no more college nights will be held in the local opera house.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION, TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.



The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 24 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

WILL PRESERVE ALGONQUIN PARK FOR THE PEOPLE

Threatened Destruction of Magnificent Forests In Ontario's Great Preserve Leads Minister of Lands and Mines to Close Out Timber Licenses In That Area by Payment of $290,000 to the Holders.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—One of the most progressive steps yet taken by the Department of Lands, Forests and Mines for the conservation of the natural resources of Ontario was announced yesterday by Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, involving the settlement of the question that has arisen over the rights of certain licensees to cut timber within the boundaries of Algonquin Park, by a payment of $290,000 out of the provincial treasury. The licenses are held by the Munn Lumber Co., Orillia, and include nearly every kind of timber found in that part of the province.

While no statement is forthcoming as to the fund from which the $290,000 will be drawn, it is not unlikely that debentures will be issued to provide the amount. The negotiations have been carried on for nearly three months, and the settlement necessitated a survey of that portion of the park involved in the licenses, which was done under the personal supervision of the Minister.

What the saving to the province is can only be estimated, but apart from the conservation of the natural beauty of Algonquin Park, and maintaining it as a forest reserve and game preserve, the value of the timber thus secured from despoilation is said to be in the neighborhood of one million dollars.

A statement was given out yesterday by Hon. Frank Cochrane, in which he said:

"It is well-known that the destruction of the beauties and uses of the Algonquin National Park was threatened by certain timber licensees, proceeding to cut and remove varieties of timber other than pine, which their licenses gave them the right to do. As soon as the devastation began an outcry arose, and the Government promptly requested the company to cease cutting, in order to arrive, if possible, at some arrangement whereby, without injustice to them or the public, the park might be preserved to the people of the province for the uses to which it was dedicated by act of the Legislature.

"The territory was set apart in 1893 to provide a public park and forest reserve, fish and game preserve, health resort and pleasure ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people of the province. A staff of rangers were placed in it, the game protected, and forest fires kept out. All this has entailed a large expenditure. Now the park is alive with game of all kinds, deer and beaver being very numerous. It has become a great pleasure resort. Thusands of people have visited it and it is undeniably one of the most beautiful natural parks in the Dominion, if not on this continent.

"From a variety of sources, excluding timber altogether, probably an annual revenue of $15,000 or $20,000 might be derived from the park, and this, in itself, will go a long way towards paying the interest on the money required to purchase the rights of the company."

A RAP AT TORONTO

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Alfred Mond, in a lengthy interview in The Morning Leader, said the people of England ought not to take their views of Canada from Toronto, the headquarters of the Conservative protectionist party.

Sir Alfred Mond found in the eastern part of Canada relatively little known of the strength of the movement in the west towards free trade, and yet he was surprised at the number of free traders even in the east.

He was still more surprised at the fact that the leading and most influential newspapers in the east were free trade papers.

The Morning Post says it is now realised that the vociferous assertion here of a sweeping free trade agitation in Canada is a record achievement of political bunkum. The typical pillar of the glorious cause of Mond.

SCHOOLBOYS ARE ON STRIKE

Windsor, Nov. 4.—Peculiar conditions arose in Park street school, this city, during the absence of Principal Downey from the city for a few days. Twelve boys went on strike, and trouble is said to have occurred because a substitute engaged to fill Mr. Downey's place during his absence was a Catholic teacher.

Mr. Downey returned and took charge of his class yesterday, and all the twelve strikers are also back but Inspector Mead says he will punish them for their action.

A Permanent Secretariat.

London, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—What is contemplated in the Colonial Office is a permanent secretariat for the dominions, whose official spokesman in the Commons would be the Premier. This expansion will not occur for some time.

THE UNION OF AFRICAN STATES

Cape Town, Nov. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At the Government House banquet Col. Jameson said that if the solution suggested for the impasse in Britain were successful, they might anticipate the first step towards union of the Empire's five states. He eulogized Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's settlement of the Asiatic difficulty in Canada.

The Australian Premier said that nothing had occurred in the world's history in recent time which would have greater effect than the union of South Africa. They now had five nations, willing to co-operate in common affairs, united by unseen bonds to see that justice was done to all peoples.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux aroused enthusiasm by an eloquent speech. He had sent a message to the people of Britain through The London Daily Mail. In South Africa, as in Canada, England was great and generous, knowing that a brave foe makes staunch friends, granted the equality and freedom of self-government of the two races. Canada had been welded into one by the goodwill and mutual forbearance. Obstacles could be as successfully overcome in South Africa, which was bound to play a brilliant part in the history of the greatest Empire the world has ever seen. [illegible]

MARRIED IN TOILS

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—Thomas Barnette, in custody here on the charge of having burglarized the residence of Howard Kellogg at Buffalo, and Miss Florence Tomlinson of Toronto, were married in the central police station here yesterday.

Barnette and the young woman, who is said to be the daughter of an official of the Grand Trunk Railroad, eloped from Toronto last August, and she believed she had been legally married to him till Wednesday night, when, after his arrest, he admitted that he had deceived her with a mock marriage and decided that a minister be sent for to properly wed them.

The girl was arrested with Barnette on the same larceny charge, and both were committed in default of $2,500 each for the action of the Buffalo authorities.

Barnette Had Record.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—Miss Tomlinson's parents declare they both discouraged the attentions of Barnette here, as they had known of his conviction at Woodstock, Ont., for burglary, for which he served a term in the Central Prison.

BRITISH CABINET CHANGES

London, Nov. 4.—The retirement of Viscount Morley from the office of Secretary of State for India was announced officially last evening.

At the same time the following appointments, approved by the King, were made known:

FIGHT PICTURES WERE SEIZED

Regina, Nov. 4.—A party of Northwest Mounted Police, under Inspector Heffernan, pounced on a local theatre in which pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries prize fight were being exhibited, and seized machines and films. The management of the establishment offered no resistance, of course, and admission charges were refunded at the box office. The raid followed instructions from the department of the Attorney-General, and means that the pictures will not be shown in Saskatchewan.

MISS LENEVE IS CRIPPEN'S HEIR

London, Nov. 4.—It was stated yesterday that the main point that Dr. Crippen's counsel would make in the appeal during the arguments on Saturday is that during the illness of one of the jurors, the jury was unobserved for two hours. While the trial was suspended in order to administer to the stricken juror, the other 11 men were unwatched.

Dr. Crippen is cheerful and confident. He is confined in the death ward of Pentonville Prison, where he has been visited several times by his former typist and sweetheart, Miss Ethel Leneve, since her acquittal of being an accessory after the fact in the killing of Mrs. Crippen. Crippen eats and sleeps well and his composure astonishes his jailors. He has made his will, leaving everything to Miss [illegible]

GOVERMENT WAS BEATEN BY NATIONALIST CANDIDATE

Gilbert, the Nationalist Candidate, Will Probably Have a Majority of 200—Even English-Speaking Voters Throw In Their Lot Against Laurier—Victors Celebrate In a Half-Political, Half-Religious Meeting.

Victoriaville, Nov. 4.—The Nationalist candidate for Drummond-Arthabasca administered a severe blow to the Government forces in this riding yesterday by defeating the Liberal candidate with a majority of about 200.

All predictions of the vote proved wrong. In neither Drummond or Arthabasca did the Government secure a majority. Drummond, that traditional home of Liberalism, made a volte face. Instead of the hoped for 500 majority for Perrault, it gave 60 for Gilbert. Arthabasca went about as expected, giving 125 for Gilbert. These figures, however, will be considerably altered when the official returns come in from the widely-scattered polling districts.

One of the great surprises of the election was the English-speaking vote. There are about 500 English-speaking electors in the riding, and it was thought that the impassioned anti-imperialist appeals of the Nationalists would have turned these solidly to the Liberal banner, but this was not the case, and apparently the majority of them voted as they were used to, against the Government.

M. GILBERT,
The Winning Candidate.

Of the two recognized English-speaking divisions, Tingwich gave a majority of 9 for Perrault, while Streml gave a plurality of 26 for Gilbert. Alverton, which is largely English, gave only 19 for Perrault.

Arthabaskaville itself, the Premier's home, furnished another surprise, and gave a majority of 25 for Perrault, the first time since 1877 that the parish has given a Liberal majority.

No real analysis of the vote can as yet be given, owing to incomplete figures. Straggling returns from various districts show a considerable variation from the telephonic figures, it being reported that Tingwich gave 55 majority for Perrault, instead of 9, as first reported.

From the start, Gilbert took the lead, Victoriaville giving him a majority of 47. Then this grew, with nearby divisions, to close upon 200. The results were received in silence, everybody looking to Drummondville to offset this Arthabasca vote. But as the returns kept coming over the wire, it became apparent that this old-time Liberal county had changed, and long before the final returns were received, the managers of the Liberal campaign stated they had met defeat, and that all that was left was to figure Gilbert's majority.

If there was no enthusiasm exhibited during the day, the pentup feelings of the Nationalists found ample expression last night, when Gilbert, the victorious candidate, with Messrs. Lavergne and Sevigny of Quebec, arrived here from Arthabaskaville.

An impromptu meeting was arranged, at which religion and politics were oddly mixed, Gilbert calling upon the audience to sing "Veni Creator" as a psalm of thanksgiving for victory, and the audience caught the idea, and sang the ancient chant with resonant vigor.

The Nationalist leaders were met at the station by a big crowd, headed by the town band, and escorted to the town hall, which resounded with uproarious cheers.

Gilbert was cheered to the echo, and in opening said it had been a victory of David over Goliath, with his friends as the real heroes. It was, he said, a providential victory, for which they should thank God. He called for "Veni Creator," after which "O, Canada" was sung with equal enthusiasm.

VERY BIG MAIL FROM BRITAIN

RETURN OF REJECTED IMMIGRANTS

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, and W. D. Scott, superintendent of immigration, were waited upon yesterday afternoon by a large deputation of American railway men, who came to Ottawa to confer with them in respect to an important matter affecting the administration of the immigration lands.

George G. Foster, K.C., Montreal, general counsel for Canada of the New York Central lines, who introduced the deputation, and several of the railway men explained that the regulation, under which an immigrant rejected at the frontier must be taken back to the place where he purchased his ticket for Canada, was a hardship on United States railways. This was so because under the interstate commerce law a railway cannot carry a passenger free.

CRUSHED IN HIS SKULL

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4.—Arthur Lenahan, laborer, in the employ of the Clifton Sand and Gravel Co. of Stamford, was probably fatally hurt when the drum pin on which he was working flew out of its socket and let the derrick arm come down on the run. The steel cap of the arm struck Lenahan squarely on the head, crushing in a circular piece of the skull three inches in diameter. The man was brought to the hospital here, where Drs. Kellan, Wilson and McGarry trepaned his skull. Lenahan has not yet regained consciousness.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Mr. Arosemena, the Minister from Panama, saw President Taft at the White House yesterday afternoon regarding a story published in New York yesterday that President Taft and the United States Government favored the annexation of Panama. Mr. Arosemena, after the interview, said he was sending the following cablegram to his Government at Panama:

"With reference to the article published in The New York World to-day, President Taft authorizes me to say that neither he nor the authorities of the United States Government has ever had, or has now, any intention of trying to annex Panama."

SCAFFOLDING GIVES WAY THREE MEN ARE KILLED

Three Workmen Are Killed by Fall of a Hundred Feet — They Were Rivetting the Last Plate at the Top When the Trestles Broke—Fourth Iron-Worker Was on a Separate Platform and Escaped.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—The mutilated remains of three men were taken from beneath the waterworks stand pipe at Weston shortly before noon hour yesterday. At the time they were still living, but so badly were they injured that they shortly passed away.

The dead men are: James McVey, 429 East Gerrard street; Robert McGregor, boarding at Weston, and Elea Mehta, a Macedonian known as Louis Smith, 18 Eastern avenue, Toronto.

The men were engaged rivetting at the top of the pipe, when the scaffolding upon which they were engaged gave way without warning. The collapse was a complete one, nothing being left which they could grasp. Below them was a sheer drop of close to a hundred feet.

Other workmen were engaged near at hand, and when they heard the grinding of the timbers as they gave way, they rushed to the bottom of the pipe, but all that was left for them to do was to haul out the mutilated bodies from the mass of splintered lumber.

The stand pipe is of steel construction, and was fast nearing completion, only a few feet being left to be added on. The scaffolding inside was built up from the bottom, and an idea of how complete the collapse was can be gained when it is known that it fell almost entirely, the men's bodies being found on top of the pile.

McVey was the foreman of the six men who have been employed putting up the stand pipe since early in the summer. With him on the scaffold was McGregor and the Macedonian.

From the top of the pipe another scaffold was hung outside the pipe and upon this another workman was engaged helping in the rivetting. The platform upon which he was standing was in no way connected with the one within the pipe, and to that fact he owes his life.

GRAHAM HAS A SCHEME UP HIS SLEEVE !

Brockville, Nov. 4.—Hon. G. P. Graham, the Minister of Railways and Canals, was in the home of his friends last night, when he spoke to the Young Liberals' Club. The Minister traversed a wide range of political subjects, dealing with the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Hudson Bay Railway, the Georgian Bay Canal scheme, the enlargement of the Canadian canal system, the deepening of the harbors, etc.

All these projects, he argued, were necessary to keep pace with the rapid development of Canada, and the large expenditures which they entailed he stoutly defended. He dealt minutely with his railway policy, and intimated that at its present rate of construction the Canadian Northern would class with the C.P.R. and the G.T.P. in becoming a transcontinental line.

Mr. Graham took credit for helping his constituency in the Canadian Northern acquiring the Brockville, Westport and Northwestern Railway, and he threw out the hint that in the not distant future the Grand Trunk would have direct communication of its own between Ottawa and Toronto through Brockville. He spoke in the strain of a man having some inside information without imparting details.

He also took a fling at the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, saying the commission never made a genuine offer of cheap power to Eastern Ontario. This section of the country, if the Minister is sincere, would be given redress and an opportunity of competing with Western Ontario by the powers that be at Ottawa, as he is at present working out a plan by which Eastern Ontario will get all the power it needs for manufacturing purposes at a small cost.

THREW HIMSELF OVER BRIDGE

New York, Nov. 4.—William F. Harris, a stationary engineer, became despondent yesterday when he could not find work in order to support his wife and two little children. He walked over to high bridge, climbed upon the parapet and threw himself headlong into the Harlem River, over 100 feet below.

Hugh Williams, a gate tender, rowed out to Harris, caught the drowning and unconscious man and dragged him into the boat. At the hospital the doctors stated that he will recover although he is suffering from concussion of the brain and a number of contusions.

TAKE CANADA HAS A MODEL

Melbourne, Nov. 4.—Thomas Tait made an important speech at a demonstration in his honor, following his resignation as director-general of the railway system.

He urged upon his hearers the necessity of advertising the resources of Victoria abroad. He was able to draw upon his long experience in Canada to quote examples of how progress had been quickened by advertising.

It is understood Mr. Tait does not propose to enter the railway world, but will attend to his private affairs in Canada.

FRAUDULENT CHEESE-WEIGHING

New York, Nov. 4.—The first of several arrests which the Government has ordered in connection with which is alleged to be wholesale frauds in the underweighing of cheese importations, was made yesterday afternoon, when former Coroner Antonio Zucca, one of the most influential Italian politicians of the city, and prominent in the Tammany Hall organization, was taken into custody by United States Marshal Henkel.

Big Fire at Gananoque.

Gananoque, Nov. 4.—The plant of the Ontario Wheel Co. was completely gutted by fire yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at about $75,000, fully covered by insurance.

WILL GO OVER HORSESHOE FALLS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4.—Prof. (Bobby) Leach says that he will go over the Horseshoe Falls here on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 13, at 3 o'clock. The venture is to be made in an enclosed boat, invented and loaned for the occasion by an octogenarian scientist, James Mitchell of Arrow River, Man. Mitchell wanted to go over in the boat himself, but was persuaded by his family that he is to old. He has arranged share-profits of the venture with Leach. The boat is now on its way here. It is twenty-five feet long, of steel, pointed and cigar shaped, without propulsive power. Its inventor has sent a duplicate boat to Liverpool, and seeks to have its adopted by the British navy for use as a lifeboat [illegible]

GREAT PEACE CELEBRATION

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—To celebrate one hundred years of peace between Canada and the United States, a monster demonstration of veterans will be held here in 1912, to which will be invited old soldiers from all America. The celebration will also commemorate the British victories during the war of 1812. Next year the local veterans' association will invite all veterans from western Canada and the northern states to a demonstration to be held here during July, and it is expected several thousand old warriors will be in attendance.

A Pioneer Dead.

Cobourg, Nov. 4.—There passed away at Presque Isle Point, near Brighton, a pioneer of Northumberland County, William Mason. Mr. Mason was born in Wales and when six years of age came with his parents to this country and settled on a farm, the site of which is now Victoria Park, Toronto. It is stated that Mr. Mason put the first load of gravel on the Kingston-Toronto road.

BITTER TOWARD GRAND TRUNK

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 4.—Things look rather hopeless here for the Grand Trunk trainmen who lost their jobs at the time of the strike. Fourteen unemployed men have had no ray of hope that they would be given back their old runs. Feeling is bitter towards the railroad, and the men and their sympathizers do not hesitate to say that the road has violated their understanding of the agreement which was instrumental in bringing the strike to a peaceful end. The men declared that they know of no acts of violence that any of their number participated in. This was the only reason given by the road for refusing any striker his old job back again.

FRIDAY, NOV. 4, 1910.

GOOD-BYE

Sir Wilfrid, you are not a bad old scout, but the bunch that you are with are rotten. You are about to pass in your checks politically. You are soon to go into the ranks of the HAS BEENS. Seeing that you are sick and dying, we must confess that you were able and obliging, and we are not alone in this eulogy. Ask the contractors who built the Grand Trunk Pacific, ask the dredge owners they will say the same things Good-bye, Sir Wilfrid, good-bye.

HUMAN DERELICTS

The suicide at Denver last week of a middle-aged man who offered an excuse for his deed that he was unfitted to cope with the material world, was afflicted in mind, body and estate and viewed with alarm the prospect of a dependent old age, is noteworthy not so much in itself as because it represents the feeling of an increasingly large number of people of the present day.

Life is a funny thing isn't it?
Where is heaven!
Where is hell?
Philosopher please tell us?
Yu can't! that a funny and you re wine.

There is now as there always has been, a class and by no means a small class of the human family who are oppressed with their inabiltiy to cope with the conditions which they find in the world.

That class is, perhaps larger to day than it has been in the past. The reason for this, no doubt, is the spread of education which, unfitting many for the tasks for which nature has endowed them, has not equipped them for the struggle through which alone material success is achieved.

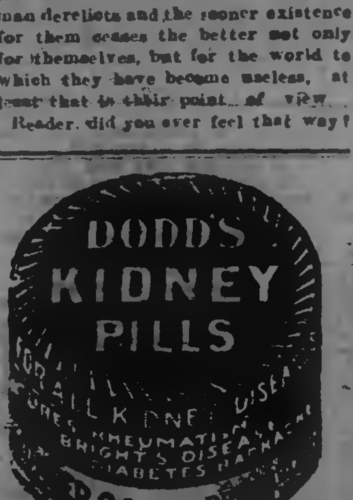
Every man starting in life with nothing but his talents and his courage, without influence or money, must, to some extent at any rate, experience this feeling no matter how buoyant his disposition may be.

Did you ever feel that way?

He cannot but regard occasionally, at least, all the forces of the world, whose assistance means success, as arrayed against him, and at times, utter discouragement must take possession of him. And if that is the view point even at times of the man of ability, and courage, and resource, can we be surprised at the utter hopelessness which must seize the mind of him who recognizes his unfitness to confront such a situation? The seriousness of the matter consists in the increasing number of the class thus afflicted, and of the disposition which they show to end their grief with alarm in the same way that the man at Denver did.

And for men of this stamp there is, as a rule, no other recourse. Society can not help them. Once they realize their unfitness they become human derelicts and the sooner existence for them ceases the better not only for themselves, but for the world to which they have become useless, at least that is their point of view.

Reader, did you ever feel that way?



CORDWOOD

Those who have cordwood they wish to have cut will be able to secure a good steady man from the Y.M.C.A. His prices are very reasonable and he services honest and faithful. 'Phone the secretary at either Bell phone or Machine No. 246 This would usually be charged at so much a line, but because this man is a faithful man and will work well dollar for dollar, we put it here. Many a man can cut cord wood but won't. This man wants to and he can.

WIND! WIND! WIND!

As the opening of the session of Parliament draws near, the feeling that the Government will flirt with the United States over the question of reciprocity becomes more pronounced. The United States politicians are not attempting on their part to hide their feelings, for instance. Mr. Eugene Foss, the Democratic candidate for the governorship of Massachusetts, spoke at Taunton the other other evening and assured the people that they wanted reciprocity with Canada, not only that they might secure free raw materials and food stuffs, but that the investment of $300,000,000 by United States manufacturers in erecting branches in Canada might be avoided. No one will deny that the reasons given by Mr. Foss are excellent ones—from the point of view of Uncle Sam. Every dollar spent by a United States firm in the erection of branch plants in Canada means the loss of employment to United States workers. There can be little doubt about that. It also supplies the main reason why Canada should not enter into a reciprocal arrangement with the United States, which would in the slightest degree diminish the existing incentive that is bringing United States capital and skilled labor into this country. At the present time Canada is only at the beginning of this influx, for the growth of the Canadian market makes the field more and more inviting. In addition a reciprocal arrangement which would interrupt this tide would be unfair to the millions of United States capital already invested in Canada on the assurance that existing conditions would be maintained

It is doubtful if Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be able to resist the temptation to play with fire. In the past he has proved to be a master of circumlocution and a professor of the gentle art of volatile opportunism. Canada has everything to lose and nothing to gain by this foreshadowed reciprocal arrangement with Uncle Sam. To go, hat in hand, to Washington, as Mr. Fielding had to do last spring, is not the most dignified attitude for a Canadian administration. Once the people of the Dominion thoroughly realize that what the Government has in mind is going to be detrimental to Canada's right and ability to make what tariffs she pleases to suit herself, then Laurier and Laurierism will have short shrift.

CIVIC ADVERTISING

There is a lesson for Guelph to learn on the question of civic advertising—or rather publicity. An Ottawa contemporary mentions the expenditure of large sums in this direction, instancing Seattle. Five years ago its citizens subscribed in one day a million dollars for the purpose of the Alaska - Yukon - Pacific Exhibition, which was merely a gigantic and glorified advertisement of the Puget Sound city. The subscriptions averaged about five dollars a piece for every man, woman and child in the municipality.

But this subscription gave excellent results. People flocked to the city, enquiries poured in, land, business, everything boomed ahead as it never had before. And the quick willed westerners learned their lesson, that publicity pays splendid returns.

And now, when the effect of that advertising is somewhat dissipated, a Seattle clergyman proposes that another million be subscribed for advertising the city. And the newspapers and public bodies enthusiastically take up the idea.

And be it noticed that this money is not money gathered by the city in the form of taxation. Each man has to go down in his pocket personally. But each man knows he will get his subscription back in some indirect fashion when the miracle of advertising begins to show results.

These facts lead our contemporary to remark: They have public spirit, these westerners. They raise a million dollars in a city not three times the size of Ottawa, quicker that Ottawa raised that $5,000 publicity subscription. And that Seattle, after experiencing the benefit of the expenditure of one million on advertising should be willing to dig down and put up another million, is about the best evidence that can be offered of the value of civic publicity.

What about Guelph and its $500 a year?—Guelph Herald.

What has Peterboro for Civic Advertising? The Council voted $2000 to the Board of Trade. The Board of Trade? Has Peterboro got a board of Trade? Certainly it has, it has $2,000 for Civic Advertising.

SOLD CANDY ON SUNDAY

Sold Candy on Sunday— editorial

Alexander Antrokokinos, a restaurant keeper on Yonge street, Toronto made a losing deal when he sold Fred Harrison, a boy, fifteen cents worth of candy. He was fined by Magistrate Kingsford in the police court $1 and costs a loss of $3.20.

The charge laid by Policeman Davis read that the accused "sold candy on Sunday without a meal." The policeman swore he saw Harrigan purchase the candy in the store that afternoon without a meal.

"Well, we will fine him just the same," said the magistrate.—The Lord's Day Advocate.

This is monstrous, selling candy on Sunday. The candy was sold without a meal. If the kid had bought a piece of cake there would have been no sin, no crime, no fracture of the law. If the MASTER MAN was on earth would HE busy HIMSELF by hauling men to court for trifling things like this? In Toronto, because a man sold fifteen cents worth of candy, he was fined. In Toronto the same day there were hundreds of poor—scores of men and women without a meal, without a decent suit of clothes, without without friends, without hope, without ambition, without love, looking for the hand to help them. However, there are scores of churches in Toronto, and this man was fined for selling candy on Sunday.

An Important Feature in Your Stove is a Well Proportioned Flue

If, because your range is not satisfactory, you are advised to pull down your chimney and build a taller one, or put a stack on the one you have—or something else that involves expense and trouble—

Don't do it until you have examined your Range flues—where nine out of ten times the cause of failure lies.

Compare the flues of any other stove with those of the

HAPPY THOUGHT

If your flues are too large, the products of combustion are carried quickly past the point where they should be efficient. Result—an enormous fire to do little work.

Whereas—if the flues are undersize—the oven refuses to work and the natural result is dissatisfaction.

In a "Happy Thought" Range this feature has been thoroughly studied and mastered—there is no trouble of this kind whatsoever.

A Gentleman From Mississippi

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THOMAS A. WISE

"It is not beaten, senator," put in Haines.

"Man alive," cried Peabody, "I've been in Washington so long that"—

"So long you've forgotten that the American people really exist," retorted Langdon, "and there are more like you in the senate, all because the voters have no chance to choose their own senators. The public in most states has to take the kind of a senator that the legislature, made up mostly of politicians, feels like making them take. You, Peabody, wouldn't be in the senate today if the voters had anything to say about it."

The Pennsylvanian shrugged his shoulders.

"And now I'll tell you honorable senators," went on Langdon, thoroughly aroused, "something to surprise you. I have discovered that you were not working for yourselves alone in the Altacoola deal, but that you intend to turn your land over to the Standard Steel company at a big profit as soon as this naval base bill is passed. Then that company will squeeze the government for the best part of the hundred millions that are to be spent."

The senator sank back in his chair and gazed at his two opponents.

Those two statesmen jumped to their feet.

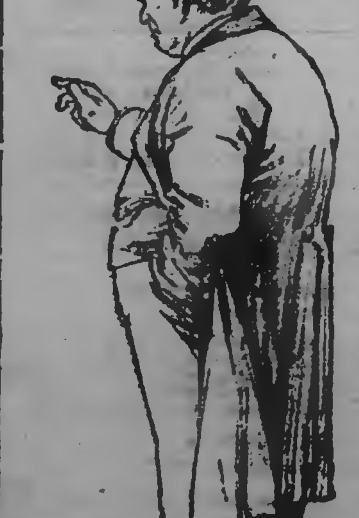
"Come, Stevens, let him do what he will. We cannot stay here to be insulted by the ravings of a madman," cried the Pennsylvanian. But he brought his associate to a standstill midway to the door. "By the way, Langdon, what is it you are going to do in the senate this afternoon?" he asked. "You said you were going to make us honest against our will. You know you can't do anything."

Bud Haines turned his face toward the speaker and grinned broadly, to the senator's intense discomfort.

"I'll do more than that," announced Langdon, rising and pounding a fist into his open hand. "I'll make you and Stevens more popular than you ever were in your lives before."

"Bah!" shouted Peabody.

"I'll do even more yet. I'm going to make you generous—patriots. And, I regret to say, I'll give you the chance to make the hits of your careers."



"I dare one of you to get up and deny a word!"

The polished hypocrites looked at him, too astonished to move.

"How? What?" they gasped.

Swept on by his own enthusiasm and the force of his own courageous honesty, the voice of the southerner rose to oratorical height.

"This afternoon," he exclaimed, "when the naval base committee makes its report I will rise in my place and declare that for once in the history of the senate men have been found who place the interests of the government they serve above any chance of pecuniary reward. These men are the members of the naval base committee.

"With this idea in view, realizing that dishonest men would try to make money out of the government, these members of the naval base committee, after they settled on Altacoola, went out quietly and secured control of all the land that will be needed for the naval base, and these men secured this at a very nominal figure. Now they are ready to turn over their land to the government at exactly what they paid for it without a cent of profit.

"Then they're going to sit up over there in that senate. They're going to realize that a new kind of politics has arrived in Washington—the kind that I and lots of others always thought there was here.

"And, gentlemen"—he advanced on his colleagues triumphantly—"when I, Senator Langdon of Mississippi, your creation in politics, have finished that speech I dare one of you to get up and deny a word!"

"The boss of the senate" and his satellite were dumfounded. Firmly believing that Langdon could find no way to pass the bill for Altacoola and yet spoil their crooked scheme, they were totally unprepared for any such denouement. To think that a simple, old fashioned planter from the cotton fields of Mississippi could originate such a plan to outwit the two ablest political tricksters in the senate!

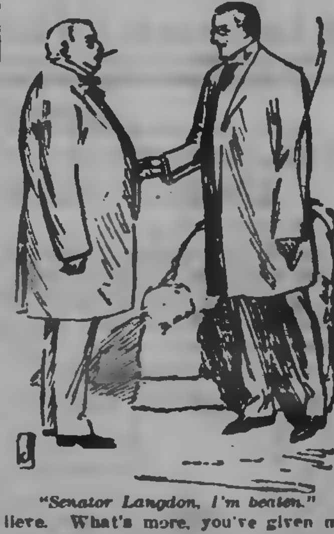
Langdon eyed his colleagues triumphantly.

Peabody, however, was thinking quickly. He was never beaten until the last vote was counted on a roll call. He knew that, no matter how apparently insurmountable an opposition was, a way to overcome it might often be found by the man who exercises strong self control and a trained brain. This corrupt victor in scores of bitter political engagements on the battlefield of Washington was now in his most dangerous mood. He would marshal all his forces. The man to defeat him now must defeat the entire senate machine and the allies it could gain in an emergency; he must overcome the power of Standard Steel; he must fight the resourceful brain of the masterful Peabody himself.

Peabody whispered to Stevens, "We must pretend to be beaten."

Then the Pennsylvanian advanced, smiling, to Langdon and held out his hand.

"Senator Langdon," he said, "I'm beaten. You've beaten the leader of the senate, something difficult to believe. What's more, you've given me the chance of a lifetime to become known as a public benefactor. As soon as you've finished your speech in the senate I will get up and make another one—to second yours. Here's my hand. Anything you may ever want out of Peabody in the future shall be yours for the asking."



"Senator Langdon, I'm beaten."

Langdon refused to grasp the proffered hand.

Senator Stevens made a show of protesting against his superior's seeming surrender.

"But," he objected, "look here"—

Peabody turned upon him instantly.

"Oh, shut up, Stevens; don't be a fool. Come on in. The water's fine."

The pair of schemers, with Norton at their heels, hurried away.

The Pennsylvanian drew Stevens into committee room 6 and, ordering the stenographer to leave, drew up chairs where both could sit, facing the door.

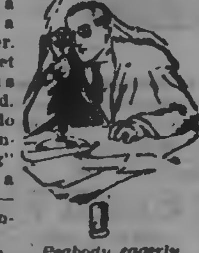
"We've thrown dust in that old gander's eyes," whispered Peabody. "It's now ten after 1. He is to be recognized to make his speech at 3:30. That gives us two hours and twenty minutes"—

"Yes, but for what?" asked Stevens excitedly. "I've been trying myself to think of something. What will you do—what can you do?"

"The boss of the senate" smiled patronizingly on the senior senator from Mississippi, as though amused and scornful of his limitations as a strategist, as a tenacious fighter. Then his jaw set hard, and his brows contracted.

"I will not do anything. I cannot do anything"—he hesitated a full ten seconds—"But Jake Steinert can."

Stevens' hands twitched nervously.



Peabody eagerly clutched the receiver.

"And," continued Peabody, "I'm expecting a phone call from him any moment. I told him this morning that he might be able to make $1,000 before night if"—

The telephone bell at the desk interrupted him.

Peabody leaned over and eagerly clutched the receiver.

The senior senator from Mississippi jerked himself to his feet. He stood at a window and looked out over the roof tops of the city.

CHAPTER XXVII.

MRS. SPANGLER GIVES A LUNCHEON.

When Senators Peabody and Stevens had gone Langdon and Bud went over the situation together and concluded that their opponents had no means of defeating Langdon's program—that, after all, Peabody might really have meant his words of surrender.

"But they might try foul play. Better stay right here in the capitol the rest of the day," suggested Bud.

Langdon scoffed at the idea.

Haines bustled away to get a few mouthfuls of lunch to fortify himself for a busy afternoon—one that was going to be far busier than he imagined.

The telephone bell rang at the senator's desk. It was Mrs. Spangler's voice that spoke.

"Senator Langdon," she said, "Carolina and Hope Georgia are here at my home for luncheon, and we all want you to join us."

"Sorry I cannot accept," answered the Mississippian, "but I am to make an important speech this afternoon"—

"Oh, yes, I know. The girls and I are coming to hear it. But you have two hours' time, and if you come we can all go over to the senate together. Now, senator, humor us a little. Don't disappoint the girls and me. We can all drive over to the capitol in my carriage."

The planter hesitated, then replied, "All right; I'll be over, but it mustn't be a very long luncheon."

"Gone to eat; back by 3 o'clock," he scratched quickly on a pad on the secretary's desk and departed.

To be continued.

DUELS BETWEEN ANIMALS.

Fight of a Tiger and a Crocodile With Native For a Spectator.

It is said that the most common form of duel between animals is that afforded by the instance of two stags, which, while fighting, interlocked their antlers so tenaciously that they could not separate them, and so starved to death.

One of the most interesting of animal duels was that told of a swan and a pike, which occurred in a body of water situated on an English estate. A laboring man, who passed this pond every morning on his way to work, observed a swan with its head under water. The next morning the bird was in exactly the same place and position. Still, that was not remarkable, however, when he saw that the swan was in precisely the same position, he called the attention of the keeper to it. The keeper found that the swan's head had been swallowed by a large pike. Both were dead.

In India a native went to bathe in a ravine. He was in the water up to his neck when a tiger on the hill above gave a leap toward its prey. But the tiger had not calculated that, since his victim was much lower than himself, a leap of the right strength for a horizontal range would carry him far beyond his mark; consequently he fell some ten feet on the other side.

Now it happened that a hungry crocodile was at the same time drawing a bee line under water toward the native. When the crocodile had almost come upon his prey, he heard a splash just in front, and made a dash bringing his enormous jaws down on the tiger's paw.

The bather nearly fainted with fright when he saw the tiger fall into the water, and for a few moments he could not understand why the creature did not devour him. Why did he persist in keeping one of his paws under water beating savagely with the other. And the water turned red!

Then all at once the assaults of the tiger became more furious and his growls developed into roars. The huge tail of a crocodile reared up out of the water. The obvious intention was to pull the tiger under water and drown him and the tiger understanding this purpose, tried to frustrate it by beating the snout of the crocodile with his other paw. But the snout was too far down, and he left much of his force on the surface of the water. His struggles became more and more feeble and at length he disappeared altogether, only a cluster of bubbles remaining to show where he had been.

His fight, however, had been a game one, not entirely in vain; for, when the bodies of the two beasts finally came to the surface, it was seen that the tiger had literally torn away the whole front of the crocodile's face and had blinded it so that its victory was a useless one.

SOME STRONG STATEMENTS BY REV. MR. ROBERT POGUE AT MILLBROOK MEETING

The public meeting in the town hall on Thursday last was well attended and the splendid addresses more than repaid both the ladies and gentlemen who were present. Mr T. B. Collins was chairman and made a few opening remarks. A piano duet by Mrs. Holliday and Miss Collins commenced the programme.

Rev. Robert Pogue, of Peterborough, was one of the speakers. He touched a happy vein at the start by saying he was glad to be among the Cavan Blazers. He asked the question, "Is Protestantism dying," and answered, "No." He illustrated the fact by referring to the great "Laymen's Missionary Movement" as a great Protestant influence. Referring to the Eucharistic Congress with all its magnificent splendor, he said it was the last "kick" of the Catholic Church. In the United States 9,000,000 of Irish Catholics had turned over to the Protestant religion, and when an Irish Catholic turns there is something doing.—Millbrook Reporter.

WHAT THE ELECTION MEANS OPINIONS OF PETERBORO CONSERVATIVES

Mr. J. H. Burnham says—

Anybody who has taken the trouble to look into Canadian affairs at first hand and as they really are must feel that Canada as a part of the empire is pretty nearly on the rocks. There is very little to choose between Sir Wilfrid's naval policy and that of the Nationalists. The latter say that they will not help Britain under any circumstances. Sir Wilfrid says that he reserves the right to do so or not as he sees fit. Surely neither of these "policies" is satisfactory to British Canadians. The revenue has soared because we have imported enormously of what we should make at home. There is no merit in that. The cost of living has increased tremendously, while the wages have not by any means increased in proportion. Reciprocity, even Sir George Ross condemns. Canada, too, is in the hands of the moneylenders. Her spirit of enterprise is mortgaged to the hilt, and, worst of all, unnecessarily so. There are other disquieting features in our present condition. Will the people stand for more of this?

Mr. C. N. Brown, president of the Young Conservative Club, thought it was a hard blow to Laurier in his own stamping ground. It was an indication of the attitude of the Arthabasca electors in Laurier's Navy Bill. The result represented the feeling of the people throughout the country toward the Laurier administration Mr. Brown thought.

I think the outlook is pretty good of the overthrow of the Laurier Government "said Mr. James Edgar." It shows a disapproval of Laurier's navy bill. It means a big split in the liberal party in Guelph, and the turn of affairs indicates weakness and dissatisfaction.

Mr. Hugh Waddell was loath to express his opinion.

"It was a fight among themselves, I don't think it concerns us very much be said."

Mr L. M. Hayes, K.C., expressed the concise, but very comprehensive opinion that the result of the election meant that the Liberal-Conservative party would go back to power at the next general election.

Said Mr. W. H. Hill—

"The result was about what one might expect. In 1885 Laurier denounced Sir John A. Macdonald all over Canada because he was instrumental in having Reil, the traitor, hanged. He also denounced Sir Charles Tupper in 1896, because of his militarism. The Government then spent a million a year on military affairs, whereas to-day it is spending something like seven millions. Laurier pictured to Quebec the white bones of Frenchmen on the plains of India. Since then he has opposed militarism on every platform on which he has spoken, and in Quebec this has had its effect, as it was certain to have. He is the political Caesar of Canada, and has found his Brutus, his Cimba and his Casca among his friends. It would be a serious thing for Canada if the preaching of the Nationalists should bring about a state of affairs such as they anticipate. Soldiers are as much a necessity to a country, to a certain extent, as policemen are to a city."

Serious For Sir Wilfrid

Mail and Empire.

In the Drummond and Arthabasca election yesterday the Nationalists were victorious. This is a case of retributive justice, for it must be remembered that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who thus suffers a personal, as well as a political defeat, was the father of the Nationalistic principle. Early in his political life Sir Wilfrid taught the doctrine of coolness towards the Empire, and of ultimate separation. He advanced these ideas in opposition to the scheme of Confederation, and he repeated them when taking part in the intrigue to annex us commercially to the United States.

Mr. A. Murty thought the result of the election represented the general sentiment of the Canadian people on the issues at stake.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practise of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 24 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

MADE MONEY FAST SPENT MONEY FAST

Careless and Big-hearted the Middleweight Champion Lived in Reckless Fashion—Said He Wouldn't Live to be 30—A Picturesque Career.

Although Stanley Ketchel, the most picturesque figure that ever graced the American prize ring, has passed away, memories of him will linger with us long.

He was a great fighter, a great fellow, as shy as a girl and as big-hearted as any man that ever lived.

Steve, somehow or other, had a hunch that he wouldn't live to be thirty years of age. He told us one night before a log fire at Woodlawn Inn that he expected to be planted long before his thirtieth birthday. He was training for Langford at the time, and this night, about three days before the day of the fight, started a log fire going in the big lot opposite the training quarters. With a big gun in his cartridge belt, and his hat on the back of his head, Steve started off telling of the desperate deeds he had planned when he was a kid in Montana.

He had sawed off shotguns, planned to rob the Northern Pacific, and even mapped out routes of escape after he had made the big haul. He laughed heartily thinking of those days, but still there was something of the desperado left in him.

He had told of his tour through Montana with a knockout artist, and of the grand part he was to play.

"This fellow and myself cut the money fifty and fifty," said Steve, taking a hitch at his trousers, "and we cleaned up big, believe me. You You see, he agreed to knock out any man who faced him in four rounds or lose $50. We charged 50 cents to get into the show, and usually he met three men a night. We always had the thing fixed so there would be a drop curtain on the stage, and I would have a little peep hole in the back, a sandbag in my hand, and whenever my partner would back his man over to the curtain I'd come down on the guy's nut with the sandbag, and they'd drag him out. We didn't miss one, and toured Montana for months."

That was all kid play for Steve. He was really rougher than he intended to be and often got himself in bad when he figured it a joke. For instance, one night while shooting craps at Woodlawn inn, Pete the Goat, a great pal of Steve's, kept knocking on the door of the room to get Steve mad, and, after being warned away five or six times, came back again.

Steve, with his hand on a big gun at his side, yelled, "Pete, if you don't get away I'll shoot right through the door and kill you." Pete laughed and rapped the door again. Steve pulled out his gun and shot through the bottom part of the door, saying at the same time, "That'll scare Pete so bad that he won't be around for a week."

They heard a yell outside, and upon investigation found that Pete had received the shot in the foot. Ketchel cried like a baby when he saw that his pal was hurt and had him sent to a hospital, where he called every day, bringing Pete a present every time he called. Pete was all right in a week, but Steve never failed to write him when he left town, and always kidded about the night he shot through his foot.

Willie Britt, who died last year, was Ketchel's manager at this time, and when the bout was called off made a match for his man upstate with a rum fighter. Willus took a trip to Frisco and left Wilson Mizner in care of his tiger. After the fight Ketchel figured that Britt's share of the fight was just $500, and in order to get right they kept that amount safe until they reached New York. Then Ketchel and Mizner went down town with the $500 and spent the whole thing for silk shirts, ties, socks, hats and clothes. When Willus arrived they brought him up to the hotel and showed him what they had bought. Willus did all that he could—he laughed with the rest of them.

Ketchel spent his money freely with the boys along the Great White Way, but he never forgot a little convent up in Michigan.

He promised the sisters there to buy a library for the little girls, and after each win he sent a crate of books to them with his compliments. The little girls in white who followed Steve's body to the grave were from the same convent.

Ketchel's father, who has spent the greater part of his life in Michigan, had never seen a big town until his boy became champion of the world. Steve brought the father from the farm to New York, rigged him up in a silk hat and a Prince Albert, and showed him the sights of the big town. He even took the old gent out west to see the Papke-Ketchel fight, and then, to top the whole thing off, bought him a nice farm up in the old state, and told him to rest easy. He was great to his father and mother, and, although the pair were separated, sent them big checks every month.

Ketchel's last good time was on this visit to Reno, and he had everything in the line of fun that there was.

He had his own ideas of fun, this queer champion of the middleweights. There was one thing that Stevey was conceited about, and that was his size and physique. He always wore the best of clothes, the most expensive shirts and ties, and, along with that, a pair of high-heeled cowboy boots. The high heels made him look a great deal higher and feel a great deal better. He wanted to look big.

It will be many a day before we find a middleweight who can fight as the only Stanley Ketchel could.

Willie Britt pegged him right when he dubbed him "Tiger." He was a tiger every way you took him.—Ted

TOMMY BURNS GETS THE GLAD, GLAD HAND

(Calgary Herald.)

Tommy Burns, the former heavyweight champion of the world, arrived in the city last night and received a remarkable welcome. There were a couple of thousand people gathered at the station to meet the famous Canadian, and he was greeted with cheers when he was seen coming from the station.

He was taken to Croon's, where a banquet was prepared and ready. Fully a hundred people sat down to the spread, and it was one of the most representative gatherings that could be held. It looked more like a professional and business men's banquet for practically every other seat was occupied by a lawyer or physician, while the remainder of the guests were business. The personnel of the party demonstrated that Burns is far above the ordinary class of ring exponent and when one meets him (socially) this impression is assured.

At the head of the table with Burns were Jas. Sewell (his old chum), Dr. Mason, Dr. McGuffin, Chief Smart. Speeches of welcome were delivered by a number of those present, and many times was the wish expressed to see Burns and Johnson matched again. Burns replied briefly.

SPORTING COMMENT

William Muldoon, the noted trainer, was telling apropos of the Jeffries-Johnson fight of training.

"In training," he said, "the strictest obedience is required. Whenever I think of the theory of training I think of Dash, who, after eighteen years of married life, is one of the best and happiest husbands in the world.

"Dash," I once said to him, "Dash old man, how do you take married life?"

"According to directions," he replied.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 4.—Although his neck was broken just twelve days ago in the game between Cincinnati University and Earlham, at League Park, Kenneth H. Brooks is back at his studies in Earlham without having his neck in a sling, and he wants to play football again, but he is prevented from doing so, for the fall at least, by strict orders from his physician. The doctor told him, however, that he could get back into the gridiron game next fall with perfect safety. When Brook swas carried off the field a week ago Saturday, after making a hard tackle, in which he was bent back, the X-Ray showed that one of the cerevical vertabrae or neckbones was out of joint, but not far enough to press upon the spine.

FOOT-BALLER'S BAD KNEE HEALED

Zam-Buk Once Again the Only Cure!

Mr. H. Allison, of 457 King Street, London, Ont., says: "While a member of the East Kent Division Football Team, and during a rough and exciting game of football, I fell on the hard gravel, sustaining a badly lacerated knee. This required prompt medical attendance, as sand and gravel filled the open wound, which was very painful and sore.

"For several weeks the doctor treated my injury, and it was thought to be well healed over; but no sooner had I begun to move about than the skin broke, and I suffered more than at first. For seven long weeks I was actually laid up. It then developed into a running sore, and I was alarmed for fear the result might be a permanently stiff knee. The doctor's treatment failed to heal the wound, so I procured a supply of Zam-Buk.

"It was almost magical in its effect on the sore. The discharging soon ceased. The soreness and pains were banished and perseverance with Zam-Buk made the badly-lacerated knee as good and firm as ever. Zam-Buk has no equal in clearing and healing open wounds, and I recommend it to all athletes and sportsmen."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, eczema, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and subtitutes. $25,000 WIN, LOSE OR DRAW FOR JOHNSON

Tommy Longboat Wants to Walk With Negro Pug.

New York, Nov. 4.—Jack Johnson and Joe Jeannette in a finish fight for the heavyweight championship of the world, the battle to be staged in Paris, on the night of the Grand Prix, when the greatest number of sport followers attracted by any event in the world is annually assembled in the French capital.

This is the proposition that Dan McKittrick, manager of Joe Jeannette, the negro, who has spent several years in France, to-day put up to Johnson, acting on an offer cabled to him by a syndicate of rich French fight promoters.

"This thing looks so good to me that I am going to make Johnson a personal offer of $25,000 for his end, win, lose or draw," said McKittrick to-day. "These fellows will draw the greatest house that ever looked at a prize fight and believe me, it will be one of the grandest ever pulled off, too.

"Joe is the only man in the game who has a show against Johnson, and the champion knows it. They have fought half a dozen times, and although Joe hasn't always won, Johnson knows he is right there as the best thing in the heavyweight game, with the possible exception of Johnson himself.

"I expect to have Johnson's offer to-morrow, and if it is yes, as I hope, the sporting world can look forward to a fight that won't have any doped tea aftermath, no matter who wins."

Hamilton, Nov. 4.—Sol Mintz, manager of Tommy Longboat, the famous Indian, is trying to arrange a match walking race at any distance from ten to twenty miles between Longboat and Jack Johnson.

Longboat has taken to the walking game, and it now forms a large part of his training. On Saturday last he walked the historic bay course against time, and shattered the record of R. B. Harris, one of the founders of the Thanksgiving Day race. Mr. Harris' record was 3.45, and the Indian completed the course in 3.20. Mintz says that Johnson boasted of phenomenal walking stunts while he was training for the Reno match.

WORTH A MILLION

I'd gain be so successful that people when I pass, will say: "He's worth a million—he puts up lots of grass!" The men who're worth a million find people bowing low, and there are smiles and greeting wherever they may go. I'd fain be worth a million and so I'll do my best to help along the luckless and comfort the distressed; some portion of my income I'll hand out to the poor, and keep the wolf from howling at some old woman's door. I'll utter no complainings, or moans or useless whines, but peck around the village a mug that fairly shines. I'll stand up strong for virtue—the good old rugged sort; I don't believe in making an angel of sport; I don't believe in virtue so horribly severe it frowns on all the follies of this old dizzy sphere. I'll boost my native village until my senses reel I'll keep my shoulders ready to put them to the wheel; I'll knock all day on knocking, and kick the kickers down, and try to be an asset to this three-cornered town And then I'll hear a murmur from 'preciative folks: "That man is worth a million although he's going broke!"

TRAINING STATESMEN

OSCAR BROWNING WRITES REMINISCENCES OF 60 YEARS.

Man of Letters, Who Was a Master at Eton and Cambridge, Tells of Great Men During Their School Days—He Aimed to Be a Tutor to Statesmen and Met Many of Them—Often Visited Lord Tennyson.

It will probably come as a surprise to many people to learn that life at Eton in the 'fifties was characterised by scenes and manners which remind one of the misery undergone by the scholars at Dotheboys Hall at the instigation of Mr. Squeers, of "Nicholas Nickleby." Flogging, ragging, and bullying were the order of the day, while the boys were insufficiently fed and generally neglected. They had no food until more than two hours after they had risen in the morning, and for dinner an entire sheep was served, of which the seniors had the legs and shoulders, and the smaller boys had to find what they could on the carcass.

Such is the depressing picture of Eton given by Mr. Oscar Browning, who had sixty years of schoolmastering at Eton and Cambridge, in his "Memories of Sixty Years" (Lane). Mr. Browning did much to improve the general conditions for the scholar at Eton. But it is a curious fact that the poet Swinburne, who was in "O. B.'s" division as a boy, refused to meet the latter afterwards, because he said he was an Eton master who had the power to flog boys. This did not happen to be true, but it serves to illustrate the sensitiveness of the great poet in regard to cruelty.

Talking of Swinburne, Mr. Browning says, "He was very weak and frail, and certainly not bullied. He took no part in games, being, indeed, little fitted for them; but in those days games did not form so important a part of our school life as they do now. Swinburne was generally late for school, and I remember Cookesley calling out to him one day, 'Here you are, little Swinburne, late again.' I have been told that Cookesley once saluted his appearance with the exclamation, 'Here comes the rising sun,' alluding to his red hair."

Curiously enough, Mr. Browning himself was never considered to have much chance of long life. He was born prematurely apparently dead. "'That child is not dead,' said the nurse; and with a hearty blow she made me squeal," he says. "And to this treatment I owe the fact that I am able to write these memoirs at the age of seventy-two."

Mr. Browning refers to a visit which he paid to Mr. Balfour's seat at Whittingehame. "Arthur was then twenty-two years of age," he says, "and I remember him telling me, as we went by train to Edinburgh, that the doctors had assured him he could not possibly live to the age of thirty, a fact of which I have now and again reminded him during his career."

It was Mr. Browning's aim to be a sort of tutor to statesmen, and he came into contact with many men who have risen to eminence in the political world. He knew Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and recalls how he was the only man present at a microscope lecture who had the pluck to lance his arm that blood might be provided for an experiment.

With Tennyson "O.B." was on terms of intimacy, visiting him often at Farringford. "Tennyson's study was at the top of the house, and I have often sat with him there, tins of tobacco lying about the floor. He always smoked a long churchwarden pipe, which, if I remember rightly, he never used more than once."

Mr. Browning pays a charming tribute to Mrs. Tennyson, who watched over her husband with such unceasing care. Here is his picture of his first meeting with her.

"At the end of a table stood a lady, the most beautiful, I thought, I had ever seen. I looked at her as the little peasant children look at the vision of the Virgin. I felt inclined to run away, as if I was not worthy to be introduced to anyone so faultlessly pure. But her countenance bore evident traces of physical suffering."

Mr. Browning was on intimate terms with his namesake, Robert Browning, and in connection with this friendship he tells an amusing story. On one or two occasions Mr. Browning has tried to get into Parliament, and once stood against his old pupil, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, for East Worcestershire. When, at the second attempt, he stood for a South London constituency, he was unconsciously opposed by another of the same name.

"I was described in my posters as Oscar Browning, M.A.," he says, "and two electors were overheard discussing what this meant. One said, 'Who is this Browning, M.A.?' The other replied, 'As far as I can make out, he is a kind of curate.' When I was driving through the street in a wagonette, two portly gentlemen, with umbrellas and bags in their hands—evidently middle-aged city clerks—turned round towards me, hissed violently, and sibilated the word 'Poet!' thinking, I suppose, that I was Robert."

Golf and mountaineering form the two favorite pastimes of Mr. Browning and in connection with these he tells a couple of amusing tales. On one occasion he had to remonstrate with the keeper of an obscure Italian inn on the length of a bill, and assured him that no one would come to his hotel if he charged like that. The innkeeper replied that after carefully considering the matter in all its bearings he had decided that no one would come in any case, and therefore he had better charge when he had the chance.

Like a good many other things at Cambridge, the golf club was founded by Mr. Browning, and on one occasion he went the round with a Scotch professional. At the end of it the needlessly frank Caledonian remarked, "Well, yer verra bad, and ye'll never be any better."

His Business Qualities.

"What sort of a man is he?"
"A good debtor and a bad creditor."

Waterloo got its first hydro-electric power on Thanksgiving Day, when 13,200 volts were turned on.

DEADMAN'S ISLAND CASE FOR THEODORE LUDGATE

Vancouver, Nov. 4—The British Columbia Court of Appeals has decided Vancouver's famous Dead Man's Island case against the city, and in favor of Theodore Ludgate, formerly of Peterborough, Ont.

The city, which won at the trial, will now carry the case to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

The Island which is twelve acres in extent, and lies in Vancouver Harbor, is, according to the city, a part of the thousand acre Stanley Park. The Federal Government gave Mr. Ludgate a long lease of the Island in February 1899. The city, contending that it possessed a title to it since 1887, which could not be revoked, put police on the island and drove Mr. Ludgate to the courts for his redress.

Failing at the trial, he has now won on appeal. In the view of the four judges of the court, the Government gave the city in 1887 no more than a license to use the property for park purposes revocable at will, and adds: "This court cannot substitute its opinion for that of the Governor-in Council."

MEDICAL JOURNAL SAYS THAT DOCTORS FEES WILL INCREASE

The following is from the Canadian Journal of Medicine and Surgery under the title "The High Cost of Living Calls for a Rise in the Doctor's Fees."

"The members of the medical profession in Canada, at least a good many them, are much in the same predicament as were fifty-seven preachers in a western state, who withdrew from the exercise of the ministry, because the salaries paid them ($500 to $700) did not suffice to support a family. In pioneer days a preacher could raise a family on that kind of a salary, but during the past fifteen years things have changed and preachers, many of whom are university graduates, feel compelled, with reluctance no doubt, to forsake the harvest of souls for less congenial but more lucrative employments.

"If members of the medical profession are unwilling to continue practising for the small amount of patronage received they are at liberty to leave the profession; but, unfortunately, there are others, of supposedly equal ability, ready to take their places. To make matters worse for physicians of any school — regular homeopathic, or electric—hygiene has cut the ground from beneath their feet. Then the public do a vast amount of self-doctoring, and only call in a physician after the domestic therapeutic armamentarium has proved unavailing.

"There is an ever-expanding horizon opening before the student of the medical sciences and medical literature, and, if the cultivation of science and literature provide a sufficient financial return, there is but little to complain of. Science herself is priceless; of herself a reward exceeding great. But, if the student of medicine is looking towards medicine as a desirable trade, he had better pass it by and seek for more lucrative employment. Owing, besides, to the high level of scholarship preliminary and professional, the great length of the curriculum, the difficult examinations, one would say that there ought to be a falling off in the number of medical students offering themselves for study, and, for the material reasons advanced here, it is desirable that this falling off should occur.

"The sons of wealthy parents may study medicine and graduate as doctors, with no intention of practising, being satisfied with the intellectual training received. Perhaps, also, in a country where academic titles give some distinction, the title of doctor may be sought after, as it raises its owner a little above the common people. If medical graduates step into the arena to fight for a living they must be prepared for hard knocks and small pay. With higher pay in all classes of labor, trade, or profession it would be strange if physicians should be held to the fees current fifteen years ago. The pill will have to be sugared to suit the popular taste, but DEMOS knows as well as a doctor that the purchasing power of a dollar is not as great as it was fifteen years ago. Medical associations should take up this question and give to the outcome of their deliberations on the tariff the sanction of their united opinions, which will exercise more weight with patients than individual opinion. People naturally think that the doctor who displays such a mental activity in diagnosing obscure diseases, ought to recognize the signs of the times and appreciate the fact that a high cost of living necessitates a rise in the doctor's fees.

"GIVE ME A DAY"

It is a noteworthy fact that Goldwin Smith took a peculiar pride in contributing quite frequently to the pages of the Canadian Magazine, and it is gratifying to see that since his death the editor of this excellent national publication has been able to secure from Mr. Arnold Haultain, the literary executor of "The Sage of the Grange" a number of further contributions. The first appears in the November issue under the title "My Early Connection With London Journalism," and, according to the announcement for December there will be another article, entitled "Memories of My Home."

The Canadian Magazine has a wide and well deserved reputation for the excellence of its poetry: and it is worthy of note that Canadian singers are taking a front place among the writers of current poetry. Note the appeal to universal symapthy and the beauty of expression in the following verses by a well-known Canadian writer, Mrs. Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, which appeared in the November number of The Canadian Magazine.

GIVE ME A DAY

Give me a day, beloved, that I may set
A jewell in my heart—I'll brave regret
If, on the morrow, you shall say "forget."
One golden day when dawn shall blush to noon
And noon incline to dark, and, oversoon,
My joy lie buried 'neath a rounded moon.
Only one day—it's worth you scarce could tell
From other days: but in my life 'twill dwell
An oasis with palm trees and a well!

—Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, in THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE for November.

DEPORTED TO HER HOME IN GLASGOW, SCOTLAND

Young Scotch Girl Taken Away by Deportation Officer

Deportation officer, Mrs. Goheen, of Ottawa, arrived here yesterday, to take charge of a young Scotch girl, who is to be deported to her home in Glasgow, Scotland.

The return trip was commenced last night. The young girl came here in the early part of September, and Mr. Howson, found a place for her with a farmer, and while she gave good satisfaction, certain developments arose, which brought about proceedings for her deportation.

Should the girl be allowed to remain here, it would mean another case for some charitable institution and also considerable expense.

RATEPAYERS KICKING ON STATE OF SIDEWALKS

A Chance for the Aldermen to "Get in Right"

With the coming of that creepy feeling, the forerunner of the local aldermanic elections, it would appear, that some of the present city fathers, have a great opportunity to get away with a master stroke, as a result of the depredations of young vandals on Hallowe'en and the night following.

In some cases whole lengths of board sidewalks were torn up, and now residents of the streets where the sidewalk is missing, are very indignant.

Of course, they imagine the members of the Council should look after this work right away and have the sidewalks re-constructed or else do the work themselves.

On Manning avenue, which runs west from the Normal school, over fifty feet of sidewalk was destroyed and on Aylmer street north, the entire walk from Manning avenue was treated in a similar manner.

A TERRIBLE STORM SWEEPING THROUGH EUROPE, RIVERS ARE SWOLLEN RAVAGING WIND, AND RAIN

Special to the Review.

Paris, Nov. 4.—A devastating storm [illegible] hundred miles in length, which has covered four countries either in part or entirely, is sweeping the southwestern part of Europe.

Already vast damage has been done to shipping and crops, and it is feared many persons have been killed, although the damage to means of communication has made the reports meagre.

Rivers throughout France are swollen, some of them out of their banks, and from six to seven feet above their normal height.

The storm, which started more than forty-eight hours ago in western Italy, swept upward with ravaging winds and rains through upper Italy, Switzerland, Southwest Germany and France.

INTERNATIONAL SECRETARY

Dr. John Brown Will Visit Local Y.M.C.A. on November 11th 12th and 13th—Bright Meeting on Sunday —Other Notes.

There will be a splendid men's meeting on Sunday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. An orchestra will accompany the singing of the hymns, and there will be some special male singing by members of the George St. Methodist church choir. Add to the above the fact that Rev. W. C. Riddiford will be the speaker, and you have a combination well worth coming to hear. This meeting is open to all the men of the city. There is no collection.

The Sunday Morning Bible Study Club will meet as usual in the parlor, and it is confidently expected that a number of the old members will be back in their places. This club is self-organized, and is lead in study by the general secretary. The lesson for Sunday morning will be the story of the man at the Pool of Bethesda, John 5. You need not be a member of the association to join this club.

The Membership Committee has been called to meet on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, when applications for membership will be passed on to the board, which will meet on Tuesday next.

The local association is to have a visit from Dr. John Brown, one of the international secretaries. He will be here on November 11th, 12th and 13th. He will meet with the officers and with the several committees, and talk over the several branches of the association work. The association is to be congratulated on having such a man to confer with. He will likely address a mass meeting for men on the 13th.

MOURNED DEAD SISTER MRS. DICAIRE TOOK HER OWN LIFE

Grief Over Loss of Member of Her Family Believed to Be Responsible For Death of Young Wife of Hammond, Ont.—Is Found by Husband Hanging by Automobile Veil, After Being Missing Twenty-Four Hours.

Hammond, Ont., Nov. 5.—The body of Cordellia Dicaire of Bourget, who was married to Theo. Dicarie one month ago, was found in the woods near the C.P.R. line here Thursday night, hanging to a small tree by her automobile veil, which she had rolled up in the form of a cord. Her rosary was hanging in her right hand. On the ground near her was a flask, half full of brandy, her hat and gloves.

The girl has been missing since Wednesday morning, when she left her home to attend early mass. After mass, she walked to this town by the C.P.R. track, arriving here at noon. She bought a bottle of brandy at the Gendron Hotel, and a bottle of javelle water, a solution for bleaching. She was seen going into the woods late in the afternoon. Nothing was known of her until Thursday night, when her husband found her by the aid of hounds.

It is stated that Mrs. Dicaire's sister died two weeks ago, after being insane two years. Mrs. Dicaire had nursed her until a month ago, when she married.

It is understood that the young girl was broken-hearted over her sister's death. She wept during the whole church service Wednesday morning. No inquest will be held. Coroner Ferguson of Rockland was called, but he said it was a clear case of suicide.

No trace of the bottle of javelle water could be found. Dr. Bourque, who examined the body, first stated that there were no evidence of her having taken poison. Mrs. Dicaire was a particularly handsome young girl. Her husband is 24 years old and a good living man. She was a daughter of Levier Ethier of Clarence, Ont.

KICKED OFF FIRE ESCAPE

New York, Nov. 5.—One woman was killed, several persons were injured and there were numerous narrow escapes in fires in various sections of the city yesterday.

Mrs. Rebecca Abner is declared to have been kicked from a third floor fire escape to her death in the court yard below while she was fleeing with her husband and children from a fire set by an incendiary in the Clinton street tenement in which they lived. The woman's assailant escaped unidentified. He is declared to have deliberately kicked the woman off the fire escape when she refused to get off the ladder which she had mounted in an effort to reach the roof with her children.

LIEUT.-COL. GALLOWAY ILL

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Since Wednesday evening last Lieut.-Col. Galloway, D.D.A.G., has been in a critical condition with what is generally known as neuralgia of the heart. It is believed that over-exertion in the tactical manoeuvres on Thanksgiving Day is the cause for the return of the trouble, which threatened the colonel's life about three years ago.

Dr. J. T. Fotheringham, the physician in charge, stated last night that his patient had spent a good day yesterday, and was resting easily, and that by absolute rest and quiet it would be altogether likely that he would recover.

HON. MR. LEMIEUX WAS ELOQUENT

London, Nov. 5.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Times, apropos of the Cape Union, says Hon. Mr. Lemieux's speech Thursday night dwelt eloquently upon the value set on the empire by French Quebec. It had given them the fullest security, as he truly said, for their religion, languages and traditions, and all they prize in life. It would do no less for the Dutch. But it must always be remembered, in Canada and South Africa as in in all other parts of the Empire, that the privileges ot Empire will vanish if the responsibilities were not largely and conscientiously faced.

MORE TROUBLE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. have voted their executive committee and the national officers power to call a strike of motormen and conductors "whenever they deem it expedient." The same men were vested with like authority a short time before the strike of last February.

The arrest here Thuraday night of C. C. Pratt, organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, and the leader of the street car men in their recent strike, who has been making speeches for the Keystone party candidates, has caused an acute situation in labor circles.

Pratt after his release declared that he had been the victim of a "frame-up" and that the detectives were anxious to secure any papers which he might have upon him showing the plans of the men regarding another strike.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN STATES

New York, Nov. 5.—There was a meeting of the Republican New York County leaders yesterday afternoon at county headquarters, and, after it adjourned, County Chairman Griscom announced his estimate of what the vote here would be at the coming state election.

Mr. Griscom believes that the plurality of John A. Dix, the Democratic candidate for governor, in New York County, will not be more than 40,000. Although Mr. Griscom's political jurisdiction does not embrace all of the greater city, he said that, roughly speaking, he thought Dix's plurality in the five boroughs would not be over 70,000, giving him the most liberal figures.

In 1908 New York County gave Chanler, Democratic candidate for governor, a plurality of 49,234, and the Democrats carried the greater city by 60,904. Republican leaders declare that the vote up-state will be enough to elect Stimson, as it did Hughes in 1908.

Mr. Griscom added that, considering the marked decrease in registration and the consequent falling off in the total vote, the Republicans would be satisfied if they kept the Democratic plurality in New York City to the figures of two years ago.

Chairman Prentice of the Republican State Committee and Chairman Huppuch of the Democratic State Committee are working on more detailed estimates of the vote for the whole state, which they expect to make public to-day. In previous statements, given before receiving reports from all the leaders, Mr. Prentice estimated the Republican plurality at from 90,000 to 110,000, and Huppuch talked of a Democratic plurality of about 150,000.

MEXICAN BURNED AT THE STAKE

Rock Springs, Texas, Nov. 5.—Antonio Rodriguez of Las Vacas, Mexico, 20 years old, was burned at the stake Thursday night by a mob, following his confession that he shot and killed Mrs. Lem Henderson, wife of a ranchman, Thursday because she "spoke mean" to him.

Several thousand persons stormed the trail jail, overpowered the guard and escorted Rodriguez to a prepared pyre. Without a show of emotion, Rodriguez was bound to the stake.

Archbishop Victim of False Report.

St. Boniface, Man., Nov. 5.—Archbishop Langevin has returned from a visit to Rhode Island. He denied emphatically that he was arrested or concerned in any way in a case of automobile speeding at Springfield, Mass. a few days ago, as reported in despatches to western papers.

Open Season For Whitefish.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—An order-in-council has been passed abolishing the close season for whitefish in the waters bordering on the Counties of Norfolk and Elgin for the present year.

Government Grants $70,000.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The Government yesterday decided to grant $70,000 to the sufferers from the disastrous fire at Campbellton, N.B.

NOT WANTED IN CANADA

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 5.—Efforts of the United States immigration officers to deport into Canada undesirable citizens were yesterday frustrated at this port by the vigilance of the local staff inspectors.

Orazio Clabraso, aged 47, an Italian, was formerly employed as a laborer in this city. On Aug. 22, in company with three of his countrymen, a man and two married women, of this place, he took flight to the States. Next day the party was located at Rochester. Clabraso was arrested on a warrant charging him with importing into the States alien women for the purpose of prostitution.

The American authorities decided to send Orazio across the line, and to Inspector H. J. Martin was assigned the job. He vainly tried to get rid of his charges on Thursday night and yesterday, when he gave up in disgust and left for Rochester with Clabraso. The inspectors would not take the man here because he was under a criminal charge in the United States.

POPE'S HEALTH CAUSES ANXIETY

Rome, Nov. 5.—The condition of Pope Pius, whose heart is said to be very weak, is giving his physician, Dr. Marciafava, considerable anxiety.

It developed yesterday that the physician urged the Pope to give up the daily audiences for two weeks. Pius refused, though he has lessened the number of persons he receives daily. Worry over the Portuguese situation is held responsible for his present condition.

His general health is satisfactory, but the state of his heart is understood to be such that, at time of unusual stress, the physician thinks he should exercise the utmost caution.

ASYLUM DESTROYED; SIX HUNDRED PATIENTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Heroic Work of Guards and Staff is Responsible For the Fact That no Lives Are Lost in Fire Which Completely Demolishes Big Institution.

Brandon, Man., Nov. 5.—The Asylum for the Insane, which housed over six hundred patients, was completely destroyed by fire, which was discovered at 5.20 yesterday afternoon. So far as could be learned at a late hour last night not a life was lost, the heroic work of the guards and other members of the staff having resulted in the saving of every one of the unfortunate inmates. Screaming and shouting the hundreds of insane were safely herded out of the doomed building just in time to keep them from becoming a prey to the flames, but the real task of the guards and others ensued when the maddened unfortunates found themselves in the open and started a stampede in every direction. Most of them were soon quieted down, and stood shivering in the piercing cold wind until rounded up and driven into the sheds and stables awaiting their removal to better quarters.

Hundreds of citizens, who soon arrived on the scene in every available automobile and vehicle in Brandon, assisted in the unpleasant task of chasing the patients and bringing them back. Last night the great majority of the unfortunates were safely housed in the Winter Fair building and the Armories, but a number are still missing, and guards and police are scouring the prairie in every direction. The night was intensely cold, and it will fare ill with any who are not found.

Just how the fire started is still a matter of conjecture, but there are apparently well-authenticated rumors showing that one of the patients secured a supply of matches and set fire to the main building, the blaze gaining considerable headway before being discovered. The alarm was sent into the Brandon fire department at 5.20, and the whole brigade turned out to the asylum, which is on a hill a mile and a half away from the centre of the city.

When the fire was first noticed a terrible panic ensued among the patients, and the guards had their hands full trying to control the unfortunates. Nothing was done at first to combat the fire, as all realized the terrible necessity of getting the patients out of harm's way.

The scenes in all parts of the building could not have been duplicated outside a mad house, and the remarkable escape of all in the building is ascribed to the splendid work of the guards and the staff, and the heroic work of several of the patients, who seemed to realize the danger and remained cool. Other too dense to realize their danger acted as calmly as to allay the growing panic. A number of patients were injured in their hurried flight from the burning buildings, but, so far as can be learned, none seriously.

ALAS! 'TWAS A BITTER, BITTER DAY FOR THE SIR WILFRID

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Several of the Liberal organizers coming in from the back countries tell harrowing tales of the way in which popular feeling has been aroused to the highest pitch against the navy in these parts. For a Liberal worker to enter a house and endeavor to talk navy, was a sign for an uproar, punctuated by a copious outpouring of tears on the part of the women folk.

Mederic Martin, M.P. for St. Mary's, tells of one case which he witnessed at St. Albert. Here a woman, at whose house the Liberal workers had called, grew hysterical when the navy was broached. "Pas de marine, pas de marine," she screamed, lashing herself into a terrible fury, and afterwards lapsing into a state of unconsciousness. A doctor and a priest had to be summoned.

Latest returns from Drummond indicate the final majority for Mr. Gilbert will be between 180 and 200. The outlying polls have not materially changed the standing of the candidate.

Private advices received here are to the effect that Henri Bourassa has decided to oppose Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec East at the next general election.

This news is of the most significant character, for it will be remembered that after Bourassa left the Federal House and went into provincial politics, he entered the lists against Sir Lomer Gouin, the Quebec Premier, in the St. James' Division of Montreal, and actually defeated him in an enormously strong Government constituency. Since then Mr. Bourassa has grown much stronger.

The Ottawa Free Press, the Government organ, discusses the situation in Quebec in the following editorial: "There is no use blinking our eyes to the fact that the Government's hold on Quebec is weakening, but unlike the cause in Drummond, there is time to repair the damage before it is too late. A systematic campaign of education must be started now. Instead of running about the world, participating in the welding of the Empire, members of the Cabinet will have to stay at home and set to work welding Canada, nor must these campaigns be confined to Quebec. The war must be carried into Ontario and the other provinces, of which the Government may receive another painful awakening. That is the lesson of Drummond, and it is not a Laurier lesson nearly so much as it is the Liberal party lesson."

A sad sequel to the defeat of Mr. Perrault occurred Thursday night, when the daughter of Mayor Tourigny died suddenly of heart failure. Tourigny is the leading Liberal of the district, and has been the heart and soul of the campaign, his offices being used as the Liberal centre. His daughter, Mrs. Massicotte, a young woman of 28, had also taken a keen interest in the election, and was as much disappointed as her father at the result. She stayed at her father's office until it was plain that Mr. Perrault was defeated, and then went home. A few minutes after reaching her residence she suddenly collapsed.

Mr. Borden's View.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Discussing the bye-election R. L. Borden, Conservative leader, said yesterday:

"The result is not surprising. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, leader of the Opposition in 1896, has defeated Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of 1910. The Nationalists in Drummond and Arthabasca (which by the way is the home of Sir Wilfrid Laurier) used exactly the same arguments, proclaimed the same policy and exercised the same strategy that Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself used in 1896, and for many years before in the Province of Quebec. The master has been beaten by his own disciples and by his own teaching. The pupils learned their lesson too well, and refused to forget it. There is a homely English proverb that "Chickens always come home to roost." This has never been better exemplified in a political sense than by the result just announced from Drummond and Arthabasca."

LUTHER BUKER OUT ON BAIL

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 5.—Luther Buker, charged with firing three bullets into the head of Mrs. Maude Washington (colored), Oct. 19, was let out on bail yesterday. He will be tried on Nov. 11.

The case of Thompson v. the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Railroad was decided yesterday by Judge Clute, plaintiff getting $1,000. Though witnesses swore that Thompson was under the influence of liquor and lay in the seat with the reins over the dashboard when his wagon was bumped by a car.

Bad Fire at Gilbert Plains.

Gilbert Plains, Man., Nov. 5.—A fire broke out in a restaurant here shortly before noon and fanned by a strong wind swept through the main street, causing damage estimated at $12,000, with very little insurance. The buildings destroyed included the post-office block, and Mrs. Lowe's millinery store, as well as the restaurant, general store and smaller buildings. The fire brigades of Dauphin and Grandview rendered assistance.

Can't Hunt the Buffalo.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—Messages received yesterday say that the United States Government has refused to allow sportsmen to hunt for buffalo on Michael Pablo's reserve in Montana. The buffalo belong to the Dominion Government, but cannot be corralled, and it was proposed to have a party of western sportsmen go there to shoot them. It appears that shooting buffalo is contrary to the laws of Montana.

CHAIR FACTORY BURNED DOWN

Hanover, Oct. 5.—A disastrous fire occurred Thursday night, when the Diebel Chair Factory was totally destroyed. The firm were working 12 hours a day, making their closing hour 9 p.m. When the foreman left the factory everything seemed to be all right, but in less than half an hour smoke was seen in the lower part of the building, and although the firemen were quickly on the scene, and poured on it for four hours, it is a total loss. The loss is heavy, but fairly well covered by insurance.

Left Estate to Neighbors.

London, Ont., Nov. 5.—By the will of the late Luke Rispin of South London, who died Wednesday afternoon, a number of families in the neighborhood receive considerable amounts. The estate is worth about $20,000. One-quarter, it is stated, goes to a nephew, of whom nothing has been heard for some years. The remainder is left to a few neighbors, Charles McMillan, George Arthurs, Miss Effie Colquhoun and others.

Trying Flight to Paris.

London, Nov. 5.—Willows, the young Welshman, who recently made a flight of 160 miles at night in a small dirigible airship built by himself and established a British record, ascended in his dirigible at Wormwood Scrubbs at 3.25 yesterday afternoon and headed for Paris.

Willows was seen near the Kentish coast at 6 o'clock last evening, but since then no news has been received of him.

IMPERIAL EDICT GRANTS CHINESE HOUSE IN 1913

Police Go From House to House Informing People of Order of Authorities and Representative Government Is an Assured Fact—Ambassadors Are Ordered to Cut Their Queues.

Pekin, Nov. 5.—An official decree was issued yesterday, announcing that an Imperial Parliament, the first in the history of China, would be convoked in 1913.

The police went from house to house informing the occupants of the edict. Presently the dragon banner and paper lanterns appeared above every door. Beyond this there was no public manifestation over the momentous news.

The importance of the throne's concession is appreciated when it is recalled that the provincial assemblies, the first step toward modern and popular government in China, are still in their infancy, and that the senate, the first general body approaching anything like popular representation, met for the first time on Oct. 3 last.

As constituted the senate did not promise much in the way of popular legislation, as one-half of its two hundred members were appointed by the throne. Nevertheless, it early took a stand in favor of an imperial Parliament at an early date, and met with surprising success.

There was consternation in official circles yesterday when an imperial edict was announced commanding all representatives of China in foreign countries to sever their queues.

The edict is believed to be only the forerunner of another commanding all Chinese to follow suit, entailing such a wholesale hair-cut as the world has never before witnessed.

The origin of the queue is not definitely known, but it is supposed that it was forced on the southerners, or Chinese, by the northerners, or Manchus, as a mark of conquest.

ROSENHEIMER ACQUITTED

New York, Nov. 5.—The charge of murder in the first degree against Edward T. Rosenheimer, a wealthy manufacturer, for killing Miss Grace Hough, by running down the buggy in which she was driving August 18, with his automobile, was reduced to second degree manslaughter by Justice O'Gorman at the trial yesterday.

The jury, after a half hour's consideration, returned a verdict of acquittal. The evidence went to show that the accused and two friends while speeding late at night, struck a buggy in which Miss Hough and two companions were driving. She was instantly killed, and another girl crippled. The autoists hurried right ahead.

One of the original jurors in the case is under arrest charged with accepting a bribe of $500 for his services.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Street and radial railway employes at Hamilton have been granted an increase of pay.

Edward O. White, statistical secretary of Baptist Sunday schools, died at his home, Deer Park crescent, Toronto.

Hon. George E. Foster has abandoned his appeal against the jury's verdict in his suit against Dr. J. A. Macdonald.

R. J. Musgrave, a prominetn farmer near Fort William, was assaulted by two unknown men, and is in a serious condition.

The following subjects are the agenda for the Imperial Conference: All red route, penny postage within the Empire, proposed Australian-British state-owned cable, naturalization laws.

The International Congress of the School of Hygiene at Paris has intimated to Sir James Grant of Ottawa that he has been appointed a member of the Permanent Committee of this distinguished body.

Fred Boardmen, superintendent of the Montreal Herald job printing department, has been appointed superintendent of the Dominion Printing Bureau, made vacant by the superannuation of E. McMahon.

A gas explosion occurred at the mines of the Volande Coal & Coke Co. shortly after midnight Thursday night, and five men were killed. The mines are located in Tuscaloosa County, 30 miles south of Birmingham, Ala.

THRILLING ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 5.—Nine men had a thrilling escape from drowning early yesterday at Black Rock Harbor, when the dredge Capital City, on which they were sleeping sank suddenly, carrying them down with it in ten feet of water.

In the early morning the nine men were awkaened suddenly by the water pouring in on them. Some got out through windows while others escaped by the doors. Five of them swam to a scow. The other four got hold of the dredge and were taken on the scow by others.

A heavy gale was blowing at the time and the men for four hours had a hard battle. They were without clothing.

FATAL TRAIN COLLISION

St. Thomas, Nov. 5.—George Smith, of St. Thomas, the oldest engineer on the Wabash, was killed at Corinth last night, when his engine crashed into the caboose of a train which was making a siding ahead of him. His fireman and the crew of the other train barely saved their lives. Smith was one of the few left of the Grand Trunk engineers who entered the service of the Wabash when the air line was opened in St. Thomas 40 years ago.

Earl Oakes is in Amasa Wood Hospital here with both legs off as a result of a collision with a light engine while traveling on a "jigger" with Mrs. Oakes. He is night operator at the new Sarum station of the Wabash.

WHERE OFFICE SEEKS THE MAN

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 5.—"Any party that did not have any more sense than to nominate me for the position of justice, ought to see elected a man like Joseph Zehner, even though he is a Democrat."

That is the kind of a stump speech Isaiah Duddleston, Republican candidate for justice of the peace in Delaware Township, this county, has been making. He has been working hard for the election of his opponent, Joseph Zehner, and Mr. Zehner has been working just as hard trying to elect him. The office pays little and would interfere with the business interests of the candidates.

GAMEY SEES ROOSEVELT

Mr. R. R. Gamey, M. P. P., has just returned from Buffalo, where on Tuesday he heard ex-President Roosevelt talk on New York political affairs.

The Telegram this morning asked Mr. Gamey for his impressions of "Terrible Teddy." Being a fighting man and hard hitter himself, Mr. Gamey, perhaps, is particularly well qualified to pass an opinion on Uncle Sam's "apostle of the big stick," who, report says, never sidesteps when grim-visaged war heaves in sight.

A STRONG MAN

"What impressed me most in Roosevelt," said Mr. Gamey, "was his strength, the earnestness, simplicity and directness of his style.

"He talked to the people in plain, simple statements. As an instance he read from a Democratic pamphlet which said that Roosevelt's policies were disturbing the tranquility of the country. Said Roosevelt to the audience: 'Show me an honest business we Republicans have interfered with.' He went on to say that Stimson, the Republican candidate was one of those appointed to investigate the Sugar Trust frauds, and that gigantic corporation had been made to pay four millions in fines.

"'That is the way we have disturbed the peace and tranquility of the business interests,' said Roosevelt. He continued: If you want business disturbed in that way, vote for Mr. Stimson, the Republican candidate if you want rich corporations to do as they like, you can vote for Dix, the Democrat.

A REAL YANKEE

"The impression Roosevelt gave me," said Mr. Gamey, "was this: He has the characteristic Yankee boastfulness, wants full credit for what he does, but through all his speech there shone the absolute straightforwardness and honesty of the man."

RESEMBLES WHITNEY

"Do you know of any public man in Canada, Mr. Gamey," said The Telegram, "whom you could, in a general way, compare with ex-President Roosevelt?"

Mr. Gamey thought in silence for a moment or two.

"Sir James P. Whitney," he said "is more like ex-President Roosevelt than any public man I ever heard speak in Canada."—Telegram.

COMMISSION CAN'T BE TAXED

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 5.—The Hydro-Electric Commission won their appeal against the City of Niagara Falls and Township of Stamford at the Court of Revision and Appeals held here yesterday.

W. W. Pope, secretary of the commission, contended that crown property or property held in trust for the crown, is exempted from taxation under the commission of the act of 1904, on the grounds that the hydro-electric is supplying power, not distributing it.

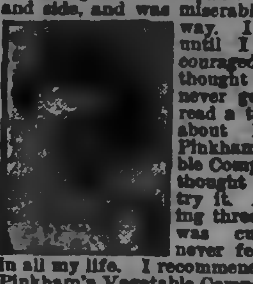
YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Rockland, Maine.—"I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged, and thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and thought I would try it. After taking three bottles I was cured, and never felt so well in all my life. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all my friends."—Mrs. WILL YOUNG, 6 Columbia Avenue, Rockland, Me.

Backache is a symptom of female weakness or derangement. If you have backache, don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cure the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge.

A SPEECH IN QUEBEC

Mr. Cyrias Roy, Liberal member for Montgamagny in the Federal House, addressed a meeting in Berthier not many days ago, and made some extraordinary statements about the Canadian Navy. He asserted that the fleet would be entirely under the control of the Canadian Parliament, that it would never be used in any war, and would always be kept within Canadian waters. He offered to wager that Commander Roper was not employed by the Government at all, but spoke as a mere spectator passing through the country. Mr. Roy asserted with some vehemence that Canada owed nothing to England, and that the Conservative policy of a direct contribution meant giving to England when she did not deserve it.

That is how the Laurier members speak in Quebec.

A QUESTION

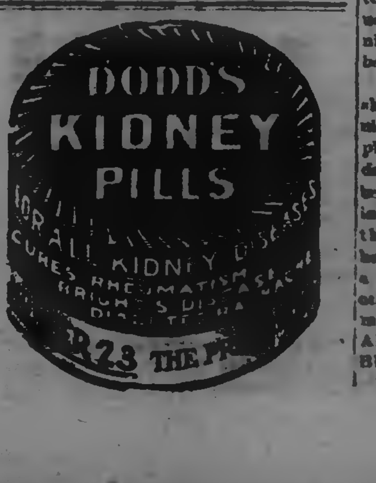
What are YOU doing to help the next generation become better citizens? What PERSONAL service are YOU rendering your fellow citizens of to-morrow? Don't say it's none of your business, IT IS, unless you want conditions to become worse. There are some respectable and reputable citizens right here in Peterborough who don't care a tinker's tin pot for the degradation and misery that gets gradually worse as the winter comes on. Are YOU in that class? Henry Vivian is right—the homes of many of our poor children are a ghastly disgrace to our citizenship.

A BUM BOOK

There lies on the editor's desk a book of two hundred and fifty pages entitled "Catacombs of Worldly Success," sent for review by an institution styled, "The Metropolitan Church Association of Waukesha, Wisconsin." The book purports to give a history of life in a small industrial town in New England and claims to be a story of fact.

It is the most inane, perverted bunch of words that has been put into a book since the days of "The Poisoned Gumdrop or the Candy Woman's Revenge." The author of "Catacombs," it is evident, has been chosen of God, to occupy a moral plane of Pecksniffian altitude, and is probably a morose old maid or a man originally intended by the Creator to be an old maid, and altered when the alteration was too late.

As for the book, one weeps for the waste of good white paper that might have been used for respectable handbills. The viewpoint is wholly perverted and it would be pernicious were it not so stupid. Stupid! Why it has not a gleam of interest from the first page to the last, nor is there a drop of red blood evident between the covers!



Sin can warp the human mind, but there is a species of religious insanity most horrible of all.

The one good thing about "Catacombs of Worldly Success," is that no one will read it.

THE ROAD TO HEALTH

Keep on exercising is the doctrine preached by Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the November Outing. In this number he discusses the "Real Danger of Athletics," emphasizing very strongly the wonderful vigor and vitality of the English nation in their attitude toward sports and games in the open air, not merely in childhood and in youth, but through all ages, down to the very end of life. The boy who has become a cricketer, or a football player, or an oarsman, or a cross-country runner in his school or college, goes right on with his practice and his matches when he starts into business and professional life and plays just as hard and almost as regularly in the long summer evenings and on his religiously observed Saturday half holidays and Sundays at forty as he did at fourteen.

"There are almost as many cricket, hockey, rowing, fencing, and other athletic clubs in England, the majority of whose members are over thirty-five, as there are of those under that age. The youngster, taking up his life work, joins one or more of these clubs in his new town or neighborhood, just as much as a matter of course as he joins his church or his Y.M.C.A., or Literary Club, or Lodge. If he has been successful in 'making' his school team or crew, he sets out to win a place upon his county team."

Did you ever exercise? You don't need to lift weights or chin yourself. But did you ever exercise? Have you a fad and do you work it real hard? That is exercise. Rockefeller has a fad. Golf. It saved his life. We are not Rockefellers, you are not a Rockefeller; But you can have a fad, it can possess you. A lawyer in Toronto was given up. "Six months." That's what the doctor said. He turned his attention to flowers. Sweet peas. He went strong on sweet peas. He is living and strong to-day. His fad, sweet peas, saved him.

THE TIME TO BE HAPPY IS NOW

That the cry of "can't make a living" is a great mistake is the idea of the "Country Contributor" to the Ladies Home Journal. She says, "Can't make a living without work" would be nearer the truth, or, perhaps "Can't make a fortune." If we loved each other in the right way, if we understood life at its best meaning, we should stand shoulder to shoulder with our loved ones and work humbly and gratefully at whatever came to hand, with little thought of riches, seeming the joy of the sunshine and the rain, the sound of beloved voices, the firelight on beloved faces. How terrible it is that we let "things" come between us and this!

Let us try to learn and to teach our children that happiness is not a thing we are to have some time when the mortgage is paid off, or the education finished, or the parlor furnished. If you can't lay hold upon it now, today, you never will, but will just go on chasing the phantom to the end of the chapter. Let us know and realize that we are all, in a sense, doing what we wish to do under the circumstances. We can all think of things we would like to do if things were different; whenever we reach the point where things have got to be different we change them. Meanwhile let us do what we are doing happily, without the grumbling and grousing so common to the human race.

HOW LITTLE WE KNOW

Ex-President Roosevelt, talked upon conservation. He said that one reason why the industrial leaders have gone ahead is that they are willing and eager to profit by expert and technical knowledge that can come only as a result of the highest education.

"The big business man, the big railway man, does not ask college-training experts to tell him how to run his business; but he does ask numbers of them to give him expert advice and aid on some one point indispensable to his business. He finds this man usually in some graduate of a technical school or college in which he has been trained for his life work.

"In just the same way the farmer should benefit by the advice of technical men who have been trained in phases of the very work the farmer does. Our educational system should be turned in the direction of educating men towards, and not away from the farm and shop. During the last half century we have begun to develop a system of agricultural education at once practical and scientific, and we must go on developing it. BUT AFTER DEVELOPING IT, IT MUST BE USED."

There is a saving idea—utilize the advice and information of experts, to this end the first requisite is to realize, bluntly, that we do not know much. There is the rub! It is so hard to convince us that there is anything worth while beyond the limits of our dome of thought. A farmer who has grown only clover, grass and small grains is incredulous when told that alfalfa and corn are more productive and more profitable crops.

The dairyman who has always picked cows by guess can hardly be persuaded that milk scales and Babcock test are much better. So we might box the compass. Slaves to know half-knowledge and half-guesswork, we do not realize how small and imperfect our information really is. Of hundred percent knowledge, confident, specific, wide-ranging, there is very little even among our agricultural leaders. So the editor only says to his readers what he often says to himself when he prays, "Teach us how little we know and incline our hearts to wisdom."

THE ELECTION

There is no disguising the fact that yesterday's vote is a serious matter for the Liberal policy and a serious matter for the country.

It is a serious one for the Liberal party, because it shows that the campaign of falsehood and race prejudice started some months ago by Mr. Bourassa, and aided by the former Quebec Conservative leader, Mr. Monk, has been effective and far reaching.

It is serious for the country, because from such seeds as those sown by Bourassa and his following does civil war spring.

Drummond, which has been consistently Liberal since it defeated Wilfrid Laurier in 1877, has administered to the Laurier Government a bitter pill. The medicine may be unpalatable, but it is medicine nevertheless. The lesson is a hard one, but satisfaction can be obtained from it if the lesson be learned thoroughly.

The government has hitherto been inclined to belittle the activities of Bourassa and was loth to give him prestige or his campaign weight by taking any particular notice of him.

It was probably with confidence that the government finally accepted Bourassa's challenge and opened a constituency which would provide a test of the relative strengths of Laurier and Bourassa.

The test has been made, and Laurier has lost. The strength of the enemy has been underestimated, and defeat has followed. No longer can Bourassa and his tactics be ignored.

Thereafter he must be reckoned a strong force to be grappled with. Dr. Beland told Mr. Williams two days ago that the government was suffering because of the lack of time in which to go through the big country explaining the facts about the Naval bill and exposing the scandalous and lying statements made to influence the ignorant section of the electorate.—Ottawa Free Press.

AMENDED

The Toronto Star thinks that the senate should be abolished. Cannot it be amended? Something should be done to make it useful and impart at before it is abandoned. —Kingston Whig.

Yes, we believe that the senate should be amended—a shovel, but no mourners.

OUR CREED

The following quotation is taken from a Roman Catholic paper, and is worth reading. It expresses the truth about the papacy in a nutshell; "The world at large is generally convinced that the papacy is a wreck. In the northern countries of Europe its very name has been held in abomination for more than three centuries, and the Latin races are now moving in the same direction of revolt. The nation that formerly gloried in its title of the Eldest Daughter of the church has thrust out the Pope with contempt, and refuses to recognize his existence. The churches are dismantled, the religious orders are expelled, and bishops and priests are haled before the courts as criminals for loyalty to the representatives of Christ. Spain "the Catholic," has announced its purpose of assuming the same attitude of hate. Little Portugal also is in revolt, and in the Pope's own dominions a usurper rules, while an atheist Jew is the mayor of the Eternal City, and is actively engaged in obliterating every memory of Christ from the very heart of Christianity. Worse conditions are promised for the year 1912." This is rather remarkable in a Roman Catholic journal, and shows that they are not mislead as to the real meaning of recent national movements affecting Roman interests.—Christian Guardian.

We have no sympathy with the paper or the man who endeavors to stir up racial or religious strife. We can see GOD AND GOOD in everything. We do not think that Roman Catholicism is possessor of ALL the truth nor do we think that any other religion is. But we can admire what truth we find in everything.

"The primrose by the river's brim.
Was but a yellow flower to him."

A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI

BY THOMAS A. WISE

Mrs. Spangler's luncheons were equally as popular in Washington as Senator Langdon's dinners. The Mississippian and his daughters enjoyed the delicacies spread lavishly before them.

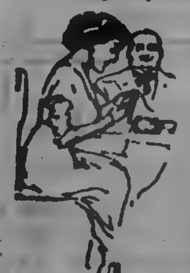
Time passed quickly. The old planter enjoyed seeing his daughters have so happy a time, and he was not insensible to the charm of his hostess' conversation, for Mrs. Spangler had studied carefully the art of ingratiating herself with her guests.

Suddenly realizing that he had probably reached the limit of the time he could spare, the senator drew out his watch.

"What a stunning fob you wear," quickly spoke Mrs. Spangler, reaching out her hand and taking the watch from her guest's hands as the case snapped open.

"Oh, that's Carolina's doings," laughed Langdon. "She said the old gold chain that my grandfather left me was"—

"Why, how lovely," murmured Mrs. Spangler, glancing at the watch. "We have plenty of time yet. Won't have to hurry. Your time is the same as mine," she added, nodding her head toward a French rennaissance clock on the black marble mantel.



Deftly turned back the hands of the senator's watch.

As the hostess did this she deftly turned back the hands of the senator's watch thirty-five minutes.

"Do you care to smoke, senator," Mrs. Spangler asked as her guests concluded their repast, "if the young ladies do not object?"

Langdon inclined his head gratefully and laughed.

"They wouldn't be southern girls, I reckon, if they didn't want to see a man have everything to make him happy—er, I beg pardon, Mrs. Spangler. I mean, comfortable. Nobody that's your guest could be unhappy."

The hostess beamed on the chivalrous southerner.

Langdon drew forth a thick black perfecto and settled back luxuriously in his chair, after another glance at Mrs. Spangler's clock. He was absorbed in a mental resume of his forthcoming speech and did not hear the next words of the woman, addressed pointedly to his daughters.

"Do you know, really, why this luncheon was given today?" she queried. Then she continued before Carolina and Hope Georgia could formulate reply.

"Because your father and I wanted to take this opportunity to announce to you—our engagement."

The speaker smiled her sweetest smile.

The two girls gazed at each other in uncontrollable amazement, then at Mrs. Spangler, then at their father, who had turned partly away from the table and was gazing abstractedly at the ceiling.

Hope Georgia was the first to regain her voice.

"Oh, Mrs. Spangler," she ejaculated, "you are very kind to marry father, but"—

"What's that?" exclaimed the senator, roused from his thoughts by his youngest daughter's words and thrusting himself forward.

Mrs. Spangler laid her hand on his arm.

"Oh, senator, I have just told the dear girls that you had asked me to marry you—that we were soon to be married," she said archly, looking him straight in the eye. She clasped her hands and murmured, "I am so happy!"

The hero of Crawfordsville tried to speak, but he could not. He stared at his hostess, who smiled the smile of the budding debutante. His own open mouthed astonishment was reflected in the faces of Carolina and Hope Georgia as they observed their father's expression. He forgot he was in Washington. He did not know he was a senator. The fact that he had ever even thought of making a speech was furthest from his mind.

What did it all mean? Had Mrs. Spangler gone suddenly insane? His daughters—what did they think? These thoughts surged through his flustered brain. Then it flashed over him—she was joking in some new fashionable way. He turned toward the fair widow to laugh, but her face was losing its smile. A pained expression, a suggestion of intense suffering, appeared in her face.

"Great heavens! I'm late, I'm late!"

"Why do you so hesitate, Senator Langdon?" she finally asked in low voice, just loud enough for the two girls to overhear.

The junior senator from Mississippi looked at his hostess. She had entertained him and had done much for his daughters in Washington. She was alone in the world—a widow. He felt that he could not shame her before Carolina and Hope Georgia. His southern chivalry would not permit that. Then, too, she was a most charming person, and the thought, "Why not—why not take her at her word?" crept into his mind.

"Yes, father, why do you hesitate?" asked Carolina.

Senator Langdon mustered his voice into service at last.

"I've been thinking," he said slowly, "that"—

"That your daughters did not know," interrupted Mrs. Spangler, "of our"—

"The telephone—upstairs—is ringing, madam," said a maid who had entered to Mrs. Spangler.

The adventuress could not leave the senator and his daughters alone, though she knew it must be Peabody calling her. At any moment he might remember his speech and leave. Already late, he would still be later, though, because he would have no carriage—hers would purposely be delayed.

"Tell the person speaking that you are empowered to bring me any message—that I cannot leave the dining hall," she said to the maid.

To gain time and to hold the senator's attention Mrs. Spangler asked slowly:

"Well, senator, what was it that you were going to say when I interrupted you a few moments ago?"

Langdon had been racking his brain for some inspiration that would enable him to save the feelings of his hostess and yet indicate his position clearly. He would not commit himself in any way. He would jump up and pronounce her an impostor first.

After a moment of silence his clouded face cleared.

"Mrs. Spangler," he began, "your announcement today I have considered to be"—

THE RACKING PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

Can Only Be Cured Through the Blood--Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Which Act Directly On the Blood

Rheumatism will rack you just as soon as there is acid in the blood to cause rheumatism. That's the whole trouble—acid in the blood. Cold, damp weather may start the pains going but it is not the cause. That is rooted in the blood and can only be cured through the blood. Years ago when medical science did not know as much about the complaint as to day, rheumatic sufferers were given something to rub on the swollen tender joints. Some people who do not know any better still adhere to the old fashioned way, but it does not cure their rheumatism—and never will.

When the acid is driven from the blood the rheumatism is gone—it's cured. The thing is to get the right medicine to drive the acid out. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more cases of rheumatism than any other disease except anaemia. They do this because they enrich the blood supply, thus toning up the system to a point where the rheumatic acid is expelled through the natural channels and the trouble disappears. They were intended to do this and they do it thoroughly. Mr. Henry O'Loughlue, Viscount, Sask., says:

"About four years ago I came here from Scotland for the purpose of taking up land. Even at so recent a date as this the country was quite different from what it is to-day. Then the nearest shack to me was ten miles distant, and the nearest town much further away. In those days homesteading was not all sunshine, and in the spring of 1907 I contracted a severe cold. I had never been sick in my life before, and paid no attention to the cold, and almost before I realized it I was down with an attack of pleurisy and as the pains of this trouble began to leave me, those of rheumatism set in, and my sufferings were something terrible. Help was sent for, but it did me no good, nor did the medicine given me have any effect, and for five months I was confined to the house. Then one day I had an unexpected visit from my brother who came from Australia, and whom I had not seen for nine years. When he saw my condition, he at once urged me to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as he knew of a number of cases in which they had made marvellous cures in Australia. The result was he went to town and purchased six boxes, and before I had used the last box I was out working with my oxen and am now as healthy as any man in the province. For this I must thank the Pills and my brother's advice, and I strongly recommend the Pills to other rheumatic sufferers."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Guild of Goodfellowship

The St. John's Guild of Good Fellowship will meet as usual in the Princess Theatre at 3 p.m. to-morrow. Being "Fellowship Day," the meeting will be of an informal nature, and a musical afternoon will be indulged in.

The director will give a short address on "Singing," and the balance of the afternoon will be taken up with sacred songs and solos. Lovers of music and singing will find plenty to delight them, and no doubt a large number will be present. There is nothing more pleasing than a large body of voices, and a good "sing song" is always helpful as well as attractive.

All men of 18 years or over are cordially invited to attend.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir.—It is a pitiful commentary on Canadian government that an important measure like "a Canadian navy" should be referred to an obscure French-Canadian constituency for judgment. Why was the rest of Canada ignored? This Czar-like conduct of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the most outstanding feature of the present discontent. What excuse can be urged by those who wail and blubber that it is "anything to beat Laurier for this defiance of the first principles of popular government.

Among the latest subscriptions to the Chimes Fund is seven dollars from the staff of the Bell Telephone Company. This donation was entirely unsolicited and is much appreciated.

Some kind out-of-town subscriptions have been received, one from Walter Cluxton, now of Chicago, and one from Elmer Brown, of Des Plaines, Ill.

Twenty-five dollars has been receiv- from an old resident of the city. Many subscriptions have been paid in, and the number of outstanding ones is now comparatively small. The whole list now stands at $5,125, of which $4,100 has been paid in.

Furthermore it would seem as if $5,600 would be needed to complete the enterprise in a satisfactory manner. Correspondence is still going on with different firms. A further concession has been received from an English firm on the understanding if the order be placed at once as the price of bell metal is increasing.

A committee will meet shortly to consider which of the offers would be satisfactory to everybody.

A CHOIR THAT WON TORONTO

Globe Speaks in Cordial Terms of Glasgow Select Choir—A Welcome Return

(Toronto Globe)

Scarcely any musical organization that has visited Toronto in recent years has been so favorably spoken of as the Glasgow Select Choir. Since the choir sang here on September 29th their name has been in every one's mouth. The question has been: "Will they come back?" And now the answer comes in the shape of an announcement that they will give two farewell concerts in Toronto, one on Monday, the 7th of November. In order that all who desire may have an opportunity to hear this superb choir, the highest price of tickets will be one dollar, and the seats will be so arranged that no one need stay away on account of the price of admission. For the reason given there should not be a vacant seat at either concert. A change of programme for each night has been arranged, as it is believed that every one will want to hear both concerts. To hear the Glasgow Choir sing is a positive delight, and the chance to hear such singing comes at long intervals.

WAS REDUCED TO A SKELETON

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS AND PREPARED TO DIE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" SAVED HER LIFE

The days of the miracle have not passed away. Every day—almost every hour—"Fruit-a-tives" is performing miracles of healing in some part of our country! One does not ordinarily think of miracles in connection with fruit juices—and yet it is fruit juices that are changing sick, helpless, and sometimes dying, people into happy, healthy men and women. Here is just one case in which the cure made by "Fruit-a-tives" was nothing short of a miracle.

MADAME ARTHUR TOURANGEAU.

Madame Tourangeau suffered for eleven years and was finally given up to die by her physicians. Yet "Fruit-a-tives"—the marvellous remedy made of fruit juices—completely cured her and restored her to health.

Here is her letter—read it—study it—profit by it.

RIVIÈRE À PIERRE, CO. PORTNEUF, QUE., May 9th, 1910

"I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years, constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia and Indigestion with Constipation. The last two years of my illness, I was confined to my bed nearly all the time. I was treated by several doctors and they simply did me no good. During the latter part of my illness, I was so thin that I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate. Even water would not stay on my stomach.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious. I received the Last Rites of The Church and looked forward to death in a short time. I was reduced to a skeleton.

At this time, a lady friend strongly urged me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and how thankful I am that I did so. When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again and had gained 20 pounds. I have taken 13 boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am absolutely well—no pain—no indigestion—no constipation—my heart is sound—and complexion clear.

For the sake of other sufferers, I give you permission to publish my letter and photograph."

MADAME ARTHUR TOURANGEAU.

The stomach is a bag about a foot long and six inches wide, covered by a muscular coat and lined with delicate membrane. This lining membrane should pour out for each meal about a pint of Digestive Fluid called Gastric Juice, which dissolves or digests the food.

During digestion, the muscular coat squeezes and presses the food from one end of the stomach to the other, and this churning mixes the food with the Gastric Juice. If the food is not churned properly, or if the Gastric Juice is weak—then the food is not dissolved properly and Indigestion and Chronic Dyspepsia result.

Gastric Juice comes from the blood—and the only way to have strong, active Gastric Juice is to keep the blood pure by keeping the bowels and kidneys regular, and the skin active.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach and Chronic Dyspepsia because the fruit juices act on liver, bowels, kidneys and skin, purifying the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" relieves any irritation in the stomach—strengthens the muscular coat—and ensures the Gastric Juice being full strength and abundant. If you have any Stomach Weakness or Trouble of Digestion, by all means take "Fruit-a-tives". 50c a box—6 for $2.50—trial size, 25c. Sent on receipt of price, if your dealer does not handle them, by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

CRIPPEN WILL HANG

(Special to the Review)

London, Nov. 5.—The Court of Criminal Appeal, consisting of Justice Darling, Channel and Pickford after hearing the arguments of Dr. Crippen's attorneys and the Crown representatives this afternoon, decided there was no ground for a new trial.

Dr. Crippen consequently must die on Tuesday for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore.

Crippen heard his fate calmly.

The silence in the court room was intense. "I'm not dead yet," said Crippen as he walked out of the room with two officers in charge of him.

DOUBLE TRACKING ON C.P.R. THROUGH HERE

Toronto, Nov. 5.—That the C.P.R's present construction activity along its line from Smith Falls to Toronto, is a strong indication of its intention to shortly proceed with the double tracking between these points, is the general opinion of railroad authorities. For some considerable time, work has been in progress along the track west of Smith's Falls, which is the eastern point of the Ontario Division, several of the curves having been straightened out or reduced. Embankments, also, have been widened, and tracks strengthened by extra ties and fresh ballasting. In addition, it is officially announced that, by Nov. 1st, 1911, every wooden bridge between these two points will be replaced by steel and re-enforced concrete structures. Further, it is understood that yard and station facilities will be greatly increased at all points along the route.

So far the company has not made any statement regarding its plans, but, in view of this activity, it is considered probable in railroad circles, that the C.P.R. will abandon, temporarily, its avowed intention of constructing a branch line between Kingston and Toronto, via Belleville. If this is resolved on, the line from Victoria Harbor to Peterborough, now under construction, will be extended through to Kingston, and thence on to Brockville.

MONTHLY COMPETITION OF POULTRY BREEDERS

Hunters Are Quiet

What's the matter with the hunters? The majority of the parties hied away to the woods before the opening of the season last Monday, but news of their luck is as scarce—well probably as the deer.

HAD TWENTY THREE CHILDREN THEN DECIDED HER WORK WAS OVER AND DROWNED HERSELF

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—To-day at her home at Embrun, near here, Mrs. T. Lachapell, aged fifty, mother of twenty-three children, of whom ten are living, was found dead in the Castor River, near her home. Poor health probably led to mental despondency, which led to her death by drowning. No inquest will be held.

The funeral will be held on Monday. She left besides ten sons and daughters a husband, who has conducted the Lachapell hotel at Embrun for the last 28 years.

TELESCOPE TO BE USED AFTER LECTURE TO-NIGHT

An interesting evening is looked for to-night at the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute, when the local centre of the Royal Astronomical Society will hold its opening meeting.

Prof. De Lury, of Toronto University, and who is president of the Astronomical Society of Canada, will be the lecturer for the occasion and a number of slides will be used to illustrate.

Mr. H. B. Collier, president of the local centre, was at Springville last night and had a peep at Starland through the telescope presented to the society by Mr. J. R. Stratton.

The instrument will be used on the lawn this evening, at the close of Prof. De Lury's lecture on "The Astronomy of To-day," and those who attend will receive a distinct treat.

SLIGHTLY SMALLER MARKET; PRICES A LITTLE LOWER

A slight falling off in attendance was noticeable at the market to-day. There was, however, an abundance of vegetables, beef and fowl. Pork was also very plentiful. Young porkers sold at $6 a pair, a drop of one dollar since last week.

The farmers report little stirring in the country.

Potatoes still remain stationary in price, although the demand for them keeps up.

The following are some of the prices to-day—

Turkeys—$2.00 and $1.60 each.
Geese—$1.00 each.
Chickens—60c to 80c each.
Potatoes—80c per bag.
Apples—80c per bag.
Turnips—40c per bag.
Eggs—30c per dozen.
Butter—26c per pound.

Small vegetables were the usual prices.

The feature of to-day's market was a decrease of two cents in the price of butter.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION GAVE EXCELLENT CONCERT

A Good Program—Rooms Prettily Decorated—Promenades Enjoyed.

Under the auspices of the Girls' Athletic Association of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute, a highly enjoyable and largely attended Hallowe'en concert and promenade was held last evening in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall rooms, which for five days in every week hear only the voice of the instructor and the murmur of voices engaged in study, last evening echoed to gay laughter and joyful conversation, unbarred by thoughts of study.

The concert commenced at eight o'clock. The spacious corridors on both floors and also the refreshment room were attractively and prettily strung with pennants of colors of the various schools and colleges.

On entering the concert hall, each person was presented with a program gotten up in a very unique style. It was shaped somewhat like a small pumpkin which opened up. On one side of the paper of which it was composed, was the list of promenades and on the opposite side the concert program.

The concert was held, first. The first number was a piano solo by Miss B. Giroux.

A pumpkin drill by eight of the girls was a decided novelty and drew forth great applause. The girls were so attired so as to give the appearance of eight pumpkins, their heads being completely hidden and they were arrayed in long white gowns.

The names of those who participated in the pumpkin drill are, F. Scott, Isabel Morphet, T. Mitchell, L. Froom, M. McKim, L. Scott, Eva Outram and S. Sherwin. The pianist for the pumpkin drill was Miss Hazel Sanderson.

The next number was a solo by Miss B. Ellington which was well recieved.

Miss Katie Leary gave a lecture in her usual excellent style.

Three girls, in a sketch entitled, "Three Maids" were given hearty applause. Mr. Ferguson sang, and the three girls who took part were Miss O'Myers, M. Patterson, and Kathleen O'Brien.

An instrumental duet by the Misses Gumphrid and Greaves was the next number.

A pantomine was then put on by the following girls, May Wilson, Marian Pinchin, Alice Legant, Madaline Rutherford, May Nesbitt and Elsie Mowat. During the pantomine Mrs. Petir recited very effectively. This was probably the best number on the programme and concluded the concert.

The promenades then followed of which there were six. The girls of the Association provided the music and this part was greatly enjoyed.

Refreshments were served in the physical laboratory during the promenade. This room was also prettily adorned with the colors of the Collegiate, garnet and gray.

Altogether the evening was a great success. The girls looked after every detail and nothing was lacking to make the affair a success. They are to be complimented on their executive ability.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

There is no philanthropic work in this world which good people can take hold of with greater prospect of success than that which concerns children. This is a truth which is generally admitted, and yet it cannot be too often emphasized, for there is still much to be done that is now but feebly attempted. The criminals in our jails, the useless and burdensome paupers in our almshouses, the feeble-minded and the self-destroyed inmates of our asylums all point with more or less force to a neglected youth and to golden opportunities allowed to pass unimproved; while the stern fact that these classes cost the people of Ontario nearly one-third of the public revenue gives an additional reason for a wise and vigilant system of child-protection.

Few people realize that nearly all confirmed criminals and paupers are made such in early youth, and yet there is hardly any other condition so clearly confirmed by facts than this. Bad environment and bad example and training will almost inevitably produce a bad citizen with all the consequence of crime, terrorism and public expense. Mr. J. J. Kelso, provincial superintendent of dependent and neglected children for the Province of Ontario, states that nearly all juvenile offenders are the victims of conditions and circumstances over which they had no control and are the logical outcome of the early dangers and temptations to which they were subjected. It was to help such children to a better life and to protect society from the increase of crime and pauperism that the Children's Protection Act of Ontario was enacted.

This Act, as designed by the Hon. J. M. Gibson, now the Lieutenant-Governor of our province, aims at a utilization of that vast force of human love and sympathy that goes out to the homeless or unprotected child, rather than to the creation of a state system which would in time become more or less official.

The distinctive aim of a Children's Aid Society is, first of all, to seek to improve the condition of children in their own homes, by encouraging, or, if need be, warning parents of their responsibility toward their children. Then, where necessary to receive the guardianship of children found destitute, or committed by proper authority. It is worthy of note that the powers of the society are rarely abused, and the moral tone of thousands of homes has been greatly improved by its intervention. None can tell how much this means in the sum total of human happiness, but years to come will see useful lives develop that otherwise would have been wrecked before they had crossed the harbor bar of youth.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 34 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

FRED. WHITCROFT TO TURN RINK MANAGER

Edmonton, Nov. 4—Edmonton will not send a team East this winter in quest of the Stanley Cup. Edmontonians are heartily tired of these vain trips after the silverware and although there was some talk of making a third attempt, it has been abandoned.

Fred Whitcroft will not go East to play hockey, but will spend the winter managing Freddie Lowe's new Calgary rink. "Witty" recently received an offer and has been down at Calgary to close with the directors. He announced yesterday that he had decided to accept. Whitcroft's recent trip to Nelson was not for the purpose of signing up the Patrick boys. He went there to see the Nelson stadium and to get a few ideas on rink construction. Whitcroft met Lester Patrick, but no hockey offers were exchanged, although Patrick is still buzzing with the Stanley Cup bee and talks of organizing another team at Nelson. Last year he had closed with Lalonde, Millar, Phillips and Griffis when the trustees stepped in and called his trip off.

Jack Winchester, the former Toronto and Pittsburg goalkeeper, whom Ottawa was after last year, has applied for reinstatement as an amateur in order that he may be eligible for the New Provincial Amateur league. Harold Deeton has gone in for curling and "Hay" Millar is still ranching. Millar may go to Renfrew. There will be no professional hockey at Edmonton, the amateurs having full pay during the coming season.

SPORTING COMMENT

With the exception of college baseball, football is the only branch of sport that pays for itself.

The Harvard annual report shows that more than $8,000 was earned by the football squad last season, which more than made up a deficiency in other sports. Rowing cost Harvard about $15,000.

Football is what the name implies. It is no longer the crushing, grinding game of the past.

Of course there are some who miss the old march down the field, that machine of which the moving parts were men, and which worked cruelly, inexorably in a twisting, struggling bunch of humanity. But this has gone out of football, probably forever, and in its place has come a healthier sport.

A despatch from Reno says that the big fight arena in which Johnson and Jeffries met is being demolished. This must mean that Renoites see no prospects of pulling off more world's championship affairs. They are going out of the game.

The arena was built by public subscription, and the money was collected in Reno within a couple of hours when Tex Rickard made Rickard made known his offer from Goldfield. Under the terms of the subscrition the arena was to belong to the citizens who subscribed the fund, and was to be left standing after the big fight. It was then to be leased for other fights, and the stockholders were to divide the profits.

In the Hamilton Spectator of yesterday is seen a splendid likeness of Ross Craig, who is described as the heavy plunging wing of the Dundas team.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $22 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

HIS WATERLOO

Montreal, Nov. 4.—The Montreal Herald says: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier met his Waterloo, not at the hands of the Conservatives, but at the hands of the insurgents in his own political party. It was virtually a personal duel between Sir Wilfrid and Mr Bourassa. Now the Canadian Premier is down and out and Mr. Bourassa is a new French-Canadian champion—perhaps a new French-Canadian idol.

"It was not readily believed that Sir Wilfrid could actually be beaten in one thoroughly French section of Quebec, Sir Wilfrid's home county a place which he himself had chosen as the better ground for the purpose of defeating and destroying the Rouge in Bourassa, had dared challenge supremacy; but Sir Wilfrid's vanity was greater than his judgment. He over-estimated his own strength; he threw down the gauntlet to the wrong man; he egregiously failed. Quebec never had much use for a defeated champion. A young man might outlive defeat—quite another thing; an old champion cannot outlive the downfall of yesterday."

THEY ALL LIKED "YANKEE GIRL"

Blanche Ring looks well, acts well, sings well and from the way she draws the crowds, does well. Last night on the occasion of the visit of "The Yankee Girl" to the Grand, Peterborough had the privilege for the first time of seeing and hearing Lew Field's brightest star. She was given a reception that showed the unqualified appreciation of a very large audience and from her first appearance in the first act to her last appearance in the last act she had the crowd with her all the time. But the big wave of enthusiasm swept over the house when the orchestra struck up "Rings on my Fingers," for then everybody knew that Miss Ring would sing the old favorite that had Broadway humming for several moons. Yes we have Victor records here Miss Ring and every boy in the upper loft must have heard them judging by the vehemence with which they whistled the choruses. Of course "Yip" came after this and the encores threatened to delay the show for half an hour.

But Blanche didn't share all the spotlight. Harry Gilford was in the centre of the stage for a big share of its rays, and to use a new expression, "had the audience convulsed with laughter throughout." As an imitator of everything from a peanut whistle to dog fight, he was simply immense, and the roof rocked after he had ground "Cohan's "Grand Old Rag" on his vocal phonograph.

William P. Carleton scored as the American consul, and Peter Curley as P. C. Gonzaba, the minister of war, and William Halliday, as Salvatore his secretary of state, had everybody going with their uproarious nonsense.

Everybody else was good and the singing of the chorus was a noteworthy feature of the offering.

How it Proves a Boon to Them in Winter

All out-door workers will find Zam-Buk a boon. For cold sores, frost bites, chapped places etc., it is a speedy cure. Cuts and skin diseases are often made worse by the cold weather and refuse to heal. Zam-Buk will cure them.

Mr. A. J. Tyrell, of C. P. R. Camp, Black Canyon, Ashcroft, B. C., writes "While engaged in cutting rock my hands got badly bruised and cut, the cold weather keeping the cuts open. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and sent for some. Just at that time I had the misfortune to fall over the bank upon which I was working, a distance of about forty feet, receiving some very bad scrapes and bruises. I at once applied Zam-Buk and was surprised at the way it soothed the pain and healed the broken skin. It is certainly a sure cure, and I would advise all camps and out-door workers to keep a stock on hand."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, eczema, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes. See the registered name "Zam-Buk" before buying.

THE FIRST EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Comments on the S. S. Lesson by Evangeline—Nov. 6th—Matt. 36: 17-30.

The first Congress, though full of dramatic incident, is utterly lacking in the magnificent spectacular display which characterized the one held recently in Montreal.

In the account given above we see preparations for the first, and greatest Eucharistic Congress the world has ever known, because graced by "the real presence" of "The Host, Himself," really "exposed" and not by an effigy in a monstrance of Cobalt silver.

Then we see the reception of the delegates, including

ST. PETER HIMSELF AND NOT HIS LEGATE

as well as all the holy apostles.

Then the Passover banquet, which was followed by the institution of the Holy Eucharist.

Preparations for the recent congress were on a scale surpassing anything that had ever been known in Canada. For over a year a vast army of workmen had been employed in preparations of decorations, illuminations and glittering creations costing a fabulous amount of money.

What a contrast to the first great congress, when preparations began on the morning of the day it was held, and where we find Peter and John following the directions of the Lord, borrowing an upper room, in which they furnished a table, probably the same articles of food as are mentioned in the Passover Manual.

NOW IN USE

in every Jewish Synagogue. Viz., three unleavened cakes, the roasted bone of a lamb, a roasted egg, bitter herbs (horse radish) a dish haroseth (a compound of apples, almonds, raisins and cinnamon), parsley, a dish of salt water and vinegar and a cup of unfermented wine.

"And the disciples did as Jesus appointed and they made ready the Passover."

The symbolism of the Passover feast was about to have its fulfilment. For two thousand years it had commemorated a great deliverance from bondage, from God's judgment upon sin, which had been brought about by faith in a sacrificed life and had pointed to a greater deliverance from a more terrible judgment than came upon the first-born. This was to be effected by the sacrifice of the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world, and now, He was about to annul that old covenant or treaty and through His Son make a new and better one which would commemorate the greater deliverance and point forward to His final triumph over sin at His second coming.

"Now when even was come" and He had received his guests one by one and washed their feet, "He sat down with the twelve and as He did eat He said, 'Verily I say unto you that one of you shall betray Me.' And they were exceeding sorrowful and began to say unto Him, 'Lord is it I?' And He answered and said, 'He it is that dippeth his hand with Me in the dish, the same shall betray Me.'"

The action of Judas, as we shall see presently, was one of the basest of which an oriental could be guilty of, for in receiving the sop he broke the salt covenant. Unshaken in his determination, he asks boldly, "Is it I, Rabbi?"

Jesus answered "Thou hast said."

"And as they were eating Jesus took bread and blessed and brake and it and He gave to His disciples and said. 'Take eat, this is my body,' and He took the cup and gave thanks and gave to them saying, 'Drink ye all of it, for this is my blood of the covenant which is poured out for many unto remission of sins.'"

"This is my body," "this is my blood." Literally?

"YES, LITERALLY," SAYS THE ROMANIST

for to quote the Director of L'oeuvre Catholique:—

"The Eucharist contains truly and substantially the body, the soul, the divinity of Jesus Christ, whole and entire, true God and true man. It is in the mass, at the moment when the priest pronounces the words of consecration, that the substance of the bread and the substance of the wine are changed into the body and into the blood of Jesus Christ.

"Thus when the wholly Eucharist is exposed on the altar, it is Jesus Christ really present whom the people adore. It is not his image as on the crucifix, but it is Jesus Christ Himself in person who is in the Eucharist."

Can anything be

MORE CONTRARY TO REASON?

Has God given us common sense? Did not our Saviour rebuke His disciples for their lack of common sense when He said, "Perceive ye not, neither understand? Having eyes see ye not, having ears, hear ye not?"

The day that a man believes that his common sense was given to guide him he is lost to the Church of Rome. The Pope knows this and says to the people: Shut your eyes. I will keep mine open for you; shut your ears, I will keep mine open and tell you what you should know. Don't trust your intelligence; come to me and I will think for you, for I am the only infallible fountain of truth.

"This is my body," not literally and materially, but figuratively and spiritually. Thought is the soul's way of feeding. The things we think about are the things we feed upon. Filling our souls with loving, believing thoughts of Christ is "feeding upon Him in our hearts by faith and with thanksgiving."

"This is my blood of the covenant." The new covenant was to be a blood covenant. Oriental custom from time immemorial includes three covenants of friendship: the water covenant, under conditions of which two contracting parties swear loyalty to each other for three days; the bread and salt covenant, which was binding for seven days; and the blood covenant, which was eternal and which was commonly observed in Palestine in the following manner. One of the contracting would make of the other, from which he would suck blood; the other would do likewise, and a blood covenant would thus be formed, the conditions of which would be that henceforth and forever they would be all in all to each other.

The Hebrew word translated "covenant" in the Old Testament signifies "a cutting," which referred to the custom of cutting and drawing blood in ratifying covenants.

Jesus Christ is the contracting party of the first part, who, when He sees a sinner relying absolutely upon "the sacrifice of Himself once offered" for full salvation, draws him into the closest relationship with Himself.

What this means none but those who have experienced it can ever know. It means the highest form of worship and adoration of which the Spirit breathing through a human heart is capable. It means something too deep, too sacred for words much less for ostentatious display and parade. It means that He pledges Himself to be all in all to us and that we pledge ourselves to be all in all to Him as well as to those united to Him in like manner.

Such a covenant realized is the feast of thanksgiving—the Holy Eucharist.

Peerless Peninsular

Is Honest All Through—
In Little Things As Well As Big

For example, let us take the OVEN.

The oven bottom of all sizes is 20 inches deep. This is the actual depth of the oven floor, the part of the oven that is of the most value to you. We do not include an inch or two in the bottom of the oven door.

Measure the oven bottom of other ranges—especially those with swing doors—and see if the ovens come up to this specification

"Peerless Peninsular" is a big, honestly built range—full size—with all the new conveniences of the most expensive steel ranges—and with the durability of cast-iron which is superior to steel in lasting qualities.

"HARMONY", "CONSTANT" and "ADANAC" have the same quality, workmanship and construction as the "Peerless", the difference is only in the outer appearance.

Let us show you all four styles—or write for illustrated booklet. 111

RECORD REAL ESTATE SALES FOR OCTOBER

In conversation with Mr. Andrew Brown, the well-known local real estate dealer, the Review was given some very interesting information today in regard to the real estate outlook in Peterborough, and also some facts in regard to Mr. Brown's own business success.

Mr. Brown lately moved his offices from Water street on to George.

Beyond a doubt he has established a record in sales for any one month. Since the first of October he has put through $66,000 worth of business. A couple of these sales were of Vancouver property, formerly owned by local gentlemen, and which aided considerably in establishing this excellent record.

"A considerable portion of the real estate business being done now is in exchanging property," said Mr. Brown, "both by myself and other local real estate men."

He is well satisfied with his success and believes his record will stand untouched for some time at least.

AROUND AND ABOUT

In the gods at the Grand Opera House last night were seated one elderly and three young ladies. It was not the first time that "nigger heaven" contained feminine patrons of the house. However, none of the quartette took a hand in the whistling in response to the appeal of Miss King as she sang Bells on my Fingers and Yi-I-addy-I-ay.

Apparently the gallery boys did not recognize W. T. Halliday, in the secretary of state, one of the brace of fun makers in "Painting the Town," which made such a hit in its two appearances here.

Will patrons of the Grand ever learn to arrive and be in their seats before the rise of the curtain. Those who make it a point to be on hand in good time don't care a hang about the "latest creations"; they go to see the show.

Yesterday a member of the razor and scissors fraternity found himself at the Normal School looking for a patient whom he had been asked to call upon. But he had made a mistake. One of the teachers directed him to the Nicholls hospital. Some time ago several residents of the country called at the school and asked if there were any children for adoption. Like the barber, they were slightly mixed. It was the Margaret Cox Home they were looking for.

AFTER EFFECTS OF LONG ILLNESS

Speedily Vanish When You Use Dodd's Kidney Pills

Loren G. Ladd only found complete relief after using the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Ladd's Mills, Stanstead Co., Que., Nov. 4. (Special).—That the seeds of disease left in the body after an illness are sure to cause trouble is the experience of Loren G. Ladd, a well known young man in this community. Mr. Ladd has also learned that those seeds can be cleared out of the body and perfect health restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"At the age of six I had Scarlet Fever," Mr. Ladd states. "At twelve I had Typhoid Fever and at fourteen I had Measles. About a year later I began to be troubled by swellings of the face, feet and hands. The doctor told me I had Kidney trouble. He gave me medicine but the swellings continued to come at intervals of a week to a month.

"Two years ago one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills stopped the swellings. Last winter the swellings returned and again I was cured by using Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Healthy Kidneys strain the seeds of disease out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy Kidneys.

DROP INTO THE Y. M. C. A.

When you are out for a walk tomorrow afternoon, just drop in at the Y. M. C. A. at 4.15, and you will not only enjoy yourself, but you will spend a profitable hour with the other men who gather there. The place is cosy and the meeting is bright and snappy. You can count on getting home to tea at 5.15 sharp and in the meantime you have listened to a good speaker in the person of Rev. W. C. Riddiford, and you have heard some good male singing and had a good time. You will be made welcome. Try it to-morrow.

Wm. E. Gladstone once said "Talk about your problems, the greatest problem is to bring the truths of God's Word into vital touch with the people." This is the object of the Bible Study Department of the Y. M. C. A. and the Sunday Morning Bible Study Club has been formed with the express object of applying the great truths of the Bible to the lives of men. This Club is led in its study by H. M. Gilchrist and is open to all men.

The Boys' Class will meet with Mr. Frank Tait in the class room of the Boys' Department. All boys are made welcome.

The Mechanical Drawing Class will meet as usual to-night. This class is meeting with real success. There are still a few vacant seats which can be had by applying to-night at the office.

CRIPPEN'S APPEAL FROM DEATH SENTENCE DENIED

Criminal Court of Appeals Hears Lawyer Tobin's Arguments and Refuses to Grant a New Trial—Will Ask for Pardon or Commutation.

London, Nov. 7.—Dr. Hawley Crippen, convicted of the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress, yesterday played his last card and lost. He will be hanged on Nov. 8.

The Criminal Court of Appeals heard his appeal from the conviction of the lower court, and decided against him on all points. The court refused to grant a new trial, and confirmed the order of execution, which will be carried out on Tuesday next.

The hearing of Crippen's appeal drew another great crowd to the new Bailey court yesterday. Justices Darling, Channell and Pickford heard the appeal. Crippen was brought to the court house, but kept in a cell, pending a decision on an appeal against Justice Ridley's ruling that he could not attend the proceedings. This ruling was set aside, and Crippen was brought into the dock. He was very pale and evidently had lost strength since his conviction.

Changed as he was physically, Crippen maintained his composure, even in the trying moment when he heard his doom pronounced, and did not betray himself, if his air was assumed. At once when the court's decision was announced, a warden touched the prisoner on the shoulder and the latter, without a word or gesture, turned and left the dock. He was conducted at once to Pentonville Prison.

Those who have seen Crippen during his imprisonment say that his bearing has never changed from the moment of his arrest. He sleeps throughout the night soundly, and eats heartily. He spends much time in reading.

Miss Leneve has visited him in the prison three times.

The prisoner's counsel were the same as appeared for him at his trial. The principal grounds upon which they based their appeal were, first, that one of the jurors had been taken ill during the trial and was removed from the court by physicians without being in the custody of an officer; second, the identity of the corpse found in the cellar of the Crippen home had not been established; and, third, that the crown's rebutting evidence had been improperly admitted.

Solicitor Tobin said that it was not charged that any one had tampered with the juror while he was temporarily excused, but that an important principle of law was involved.

In reply the crown offered the evidence of a bailiff, that the juror was in his charge throughout his illness.

Deciding this point, the court ruled that the temporary separation of the jury did not affect the trial.

Tobin then addressed the court on the next point of appeal, which was that the evidence of Childers, a buyer for Jones Brothers, was wrongfully admitted after the case for the defence had closed. Tobin quoted several cases which bore on the question.

Crippen's attorney have announced that their next step would be to ask the Home Office either to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment, or to grant a pardon to the prisoner. It is considered most unlikely, however, that any power will now intervene to save the prisoner.

Dr. Crippen has made a will in which everything that he owns is to pass to Miss Ethel Claire LeNeve, the young woman who shared his flight for liberty.

It is believed that the estate will total about $15,000. The expenses of the defence will be paid out of a fund raised by unknown parties and which is said to have been ample for the purpose.

Miss Leneve will, after next Tuesday, become owner of stocks in medicine enterprises amounting, according to a recent estimate of an English paper, to about $14,000. The balance is made up of personal effects and articles of jewelry.

Reward for Mrs. Crippen.

New York, Nov. 7.—To back his belief that Belle Elmore, the wife of Dr. H. H. Crippen, still lives, Dr. J. M. Munyon of Philadelphia has offered a reward of $50,000 to any one who will produce her.

"I will even pay it to the woman herself," he said, "if she will come forward in time to save her husband."

Dr. Crippen's appeal for a new trial was denied, and he is sentenced to be hanged to-morrow.

"I believe," continued Dr. Munyon, who formerly employed Crippen, "that either the woman is hiding to carry out one of the most consummate revenges in the annals of jealousy, or else that she has carried an advertising game too far. I have received letters from persons who know Mrs. Crippen, telling me that they have seen her alive in this country within the last few weeks.

"I never could be persuaded that Crippen killed his wife. He was too gentle a man."

A Philadelphia attorney declares that he can produce the living Belle Crippen within four days, and is applying to the State Department to try and stop Crippen's execution.

May Be Drowned.

Kingston, Nov. 7.—Two brothers named Steele, living at Millhaven, cannot be located, and grave fears are held that they may have been drowned in the heavy gale which raged on the lake last Tuesday and Wednesday. The young men were engaged in fishing, and went out in a boat on the day in question.

Examined the Pope's Eyes.

Rome, Nov. 7.—The Pope's eyes were examined Saturday by his optician, P. K. Cahill of Dublin, and the tests indicated that the pontiff's sight had changed very little since the last examination in 1903. Mr. Cahill presented the Pope with an elaborate barograph.

WAS ALMOST SEPARATED

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Marie Wallenstein, with one baby in her arms and about to become the mother of another, went into hysterics here yesterday morning, when she was told by an immigration inspector that she could not enter Canada. The woman, who is a Pole, and who could understand only little English, had come from Newcastle, Pa., was on her way to Belleville, at which place she said her husband was employed as a laborer. The woman had no money. With her was her husband's brother, Ivan, who was also almost penniless.

When stopped by the inspector, Mrs. Wallenstein was asked to produce proof that her husband, whom she said had crossed the border into Canada only three weeks ago, was in the Dominion. This she seemed unable to do to the satisfaction of the inspector, so the mother and child were ordered taken back to Pennsylvania by the official. The forlorn little party made a sad group as they waited for the train, and the child cried lustily at noon, till the station policeman got it some dinner.

Yesterday afternoon the woman rummaged through her bandanna bundle and found several letters from her husband. She presented these to the inspector, who considered them sufficiently evidence to warrant admitting her to the country, so he stretched a point and allowed the little group to go to Belleville.

EXPLOSIONS KILLED TWELVE

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—Two explosions, occurring within a few minutes of each other yesterday morning, resulted in the death of twelve men in the Lawson mine at Black Diamond, thirty miles southeast of Seattle.

Seven men going down on a shift and five men coming up were caught between the first and sixth levels, and it is certain that all perished. Natural gas combustion is assigned as the cause. The men were foreigners.

Will Have Commision Government.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov 7.—The voters of Port Huron on Saturday adopted the new charter provided for in the home rule bill, thereby putting their stamp of approval on the commission form of government. The new form of government will go into effect Jan. 1. Port Huron is the first Michigan city of size to take this step.

CROWE GETS TEN YEARS

Toronto, Nov. 7.—A wire was received at detective headquarters Saturday evening from Inspector Duncan at Winnipeg, stating that Gerald M. Crowe, the Toronto man, who was found guilty of forgery of a check for $2,650 on the Bank of Hamilton, has been sentenced to ten years in the Penitentiary. The inspector, who intended to bring Crowe back to Toronto to answer to two similar charges here in case he was acquitted in Winnipeg, will return without his man.

The Toronto warrants were for passing forged checks on the City Dairy Co.

REFUSED THE LEADERSHIP

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—It is learned that C. A. Magrath, M.P. for Medicine Hat, has definitely refused the leadership of the Conservative opposition in Alberta. It is possible that Maitland S. McCarthy, M.P. for Calgary, may undertake the task of building up the Conservative party in that province.

Alberta is now the only province in which the Conservatives are weak. Saskatchewan is expected to go Conservative at the next election. Less than 100 votes, properly distributed, would put them in power last time.

SUES WIFE FOR NOT DRESSING

Sterling, Ill., Nov. 7.—James Conkling of Bureau County Saturday filed a petition for divorce, in which he sets forth that his wife refuses to dress like other women in the neighborhood, and that the style of attire adopted by her causes him much embarrassment.

He alleges that she has refused to buy a new dress for two years. He states that he had frequently urged her to dress more fashionably and in keeping with the season's styles, but that his wife maintained that it was too costly.

He also alleges that she has deserted him.

Steamer Burned.

Fort William, Nov. 7—The steamer Wasaga was burned in Copper Harbor, Mich., at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. All the crew were saved, and brought to Fort William by the steamer Westmount.

LEADERS AGREED

Veto Conference is Reported to Have Reached Terms—Elections Must be Avoided.

Dublin, Nov. 7.—The Evening Herald, a Nationalist organ, professed Saturday to have learned from an authoritative source that the members of the conference of the Government and the Opposition over constitutional questions have reached a compromise regarding the House of Lords, and that the Unionst leaders have agreed to support the Government until the latter has had full opportunity to frame a plan for the settlement of Irish matters.

Agreement Reached.

London, Nov. 7.—The crisis of the constitutional conference has been reached. Twenty meetings have been held, and an approach to an agreement has been made. This is conceded by the pessimists, and otherwise the conference would have broken up long ago. Will the eight negotiators arrange a modus vivendi for coronation year and avoid a general election? The optimists without doubt are more hopeful than they have been since the death of King Edward. They assert that the Walthamstow election has convinced the Unionists that a premature election in January will be ruinous to tariff reform, and must be avoided by a timely compromise.

What politicians are saying at every turn is that Premier Asquith has suggested a basis of settlement for the budget and veto questions, and that Mr. Balfour is hesitating but is inclined to accept the terms, with the understanding that the House of Lords shall be allowed to reform itself at leisure.

The financial question has never presented any serious difficulties beyond the necessity of obtaining a definition of a finance bill by competent non-partisan authority. The veto question, if settled by the conference, is likely to be taken into joint session of the two Houses, after the bill has been carried three times by the Commons, and this will be regulated by the Government of the day so as to involve a final passage.

An arrangement of this kind will satisfy the Radicals, but can be tolerated by the Unionists solely on the ground that the elections must be put off in the interest of tariff reform.

JOHN REDMOND, M.P., IS SILENT

New York, Nov. 7.—John Redmond, M.P.; T. P. O'Connor, M.P., and the rest of the delegation which came here to collect funds for the cause of home rule in Ireland, sailed Saturday on the White Star liner Celtic. Mr. Redmond departed in no very good humor, though he said he was taking back pledges for $150,000 and expected $50,000 in addition as a result of the trip. Mr. Redmond was asked how near Ireland was to home rule, and he turned his back upon his questioners. He refused to discuss any other phase of politics.

LAYING FOR THE BRIAND CABINET

Paris, Nov. 7.—The United Socialists are preparing for a violent attack on the new Briand Cabinet on Tuesday, when it will make its first appearance in the chamber. M. Jaures boasts, now that MM. Millerand and Viviani are no longer in the Ministry, that he can bowl the Cabinet over on Tuesday like ninepins.

The General Federation of Labor has called twenty-five meetings, in all the working centres of France, from Lille to Marseilles, to make a gigantic protest against the pretentions of the Ministry to deny the right of state employes on strike. The Labor Federation leaders realize that M. Briand is determined to deprive their association of all its political and revolutionary powers, and they are both working tooth and nail to excite the workmen to join them in the struggle.

M. Briand is certain to have against him on Tuesday the 183 Socialist deputies who refused him their confidence last Sunday, but it is believed by the best judges that he will find at least a substantial working majority, composed of Moderate and Conservative Republicans and Radicals. M. Briand's popularity with the country at large is greater than anything seen in France since Gambetta.

LARGEST SCHOONER IS AGROUND

London, Nov. 7.—The largest sailing vessel in the world, the steel, five-masted Preussen, is pounding on the rocks in Crab Bay, Dover, battered by waves forced along by strong southwest gale. The crew have not yet been taken off owing to the storm.

The Preussen was in collision late Saturday night with the across-channel steamer Brighton, which had 90 passengers, and which, though injured, was able to put back to New Haven.

The schooner is of 4,700 tons, and carries 8,000 tons cargo.

THREE HURLED FROM LADDER

One is Dead and Two Injured in Accident at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 7.—B. Dashney, aged 42 years, was killed and Benjamin Phillips and Richard Misener were seriously injured when a ladder on which they were working broke at the plant of the Ontario Power Co., just below the Horse-shoe Falls, shortly after nine o'clock yesterday morning. The men, who were all riggers, were ascending a long ladder to reach the frame work on which to complete their task.

They had started up the ladder in a group, and had gone up almost thirty feet, when one of the perpendicular props supporting the ladder, gave way without any warning, and the three men were dashed down. In falling Dashley struck against the frame work of the scaffold, which the men were mounting. All three were found unconscious.

Two of the power company physicians, Drs. McGarry and Wilson, were summoned, and succeeded in reviving Misener and Phillips. Dashney was hurried to the hospital, and died just as he was being carried into the building. His skull had been badly fractured at the base of the brain. Phillips' injuries consist of severe scalp wounds and general contusions and lacerations to body and limbs. He may also have received internal injuries. Misener suffered a badly bruised leg and many minor cuts.

At the power plant yesterday afternoon it was said that the men were not ordered to go up the ladder, but went of their own accord. Dashney had been, up to a short time ago, proprietor of the Queen's Park Hotel, at Niagara Falls Centre. He is survived by a wife and three small children.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Fire destroyed the old Grand Trunk freight sheds at Brantford.

The Portuguese Government has granted an amnesty to all political offenders.

Mgr. Sbarretti has been appointed Secretary of the Congregation of the Religious at Rome.

The Allahabad Pioneer understands that Gen. Lake will probably be posted to the command of a division in India.

According to The Winnipeg Free Press estimate there are still 37,000,000 bushels of wheat in the hands of western farmers to be marketed.

Despite the order of the provincial authorities to the Hull, Que., theatres to close on Sunday, all but two defied the rule yesterday. Proceedings are anticipated.

Essex County has a case of infantile paralysis in that of Wilfred Meloche, a prosperous young farmer, aged 30, living on the fourth concession, of Anderdon, near the Canard Church.

Rev. Father Geutin, new parish priest of Hull, Que., stated yesterday that there were at least ten public gaming houses within the city limits, upheld by the best social people, and also thirty houses of ill-fame.

Two seamen who have reached Teneriffe tell that the British steamer Kurdistan, which had a crew of forty and three women passengers on board foundered off Scilly on Oct. 20, and that they are the only survivors.

A jury at Somerville, N.J., Saturday returned a verdict awarding $35,000 to the heirs of Robert H. Kyle, who was killed by the Black Diamond Express recently. This is said to be the largest award ever given in court for the loss of a single life.

THEY WILL ALL GO TO OTTAWA

Montreal, Nov. 7.—It is stated here that Henri Bourassa, Armand Lavergne and Jean Provost will all three go to Ottawa at the coming Federal election. Had Mr. Lavergne been a candidate in Drummond and Arthabasca, he would have had 500 of a majority, so great is his popularity in his father's and his uncle's old constituency, but when the federal contest comes around, he will probably run for Montmagny. As for Mr. Bourassa, his eyes are said to be on St. James, against Mr. Gervais, although he would have harder work there than in a rural constituency. Mr. Prevost will, of course, run for Terrebone.

G.T.R. DEPOT AT GODERICH BURNED

Goderich, Nov. 7.—The G.T.R.'s beautiful depot was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon about five o'clock. The fire originated in the ticket office, where a small coal oil stove was being used for heating, as the furnace had not been going this fall, being out of repair. The firemen succeeded in saving all the surrounding property, freight cars, etc. This depot was an ornament to the town, costing about $35,000 to build.

FAMOUS TORONTO SPORTING INSTITUTION IS DESTROYED

Fine Club-house of Big Society Organization is a Total Wreck as a Result of an Early Morning Blaze—Loss Nearly Fifty Thousand.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—The Toronto Hunt, the most active sporting organization in Canada, and a great centre in the social life of Toronto, had its fine club-house on the Kingston road, in Scarboro, (six miles east of the City Hall) totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning about 7 o'clock, when the head waiter discovered the building in a blaze. Nothing could be done to save it, and soon only the walls, or part of them, was standing. The loss of building, contents and trophies, the latter alone valued at $10,000, will foot up to between $40,000 and $50,000, said to be largely, if not altogether insured. A spark from a fire-place is said to have started the trouble.

A meeting of the board of directors will be held at Chudleigh, Mr. Beardmore's residence, to-night, to decide upon future plans. The club was about to build an addition to the south for lounge room and ballroom accommodation, and alterations were to have been made to the present structure to admit of bowling alleys. It was the intention to institute winter sports, such as tobogganning, skating and snowshoeing.

Besides the regular furniture and equipment, the clubhouse contained a fine collection of hunting and racing trophies and prizes, cups big and little of all kinds, and a large collection of hunting and racing prints—some of them hard to duplicate. The best portrait was a life-size one of D'Alton McCarthy, another of the master, George Beardmore, in hunting outfit, and portraits of Lord Minto and Countess Minto.

The fire was discovered when Head Waiter Temple came downstairs at 6.45 a.m., and found the ladies' room filled with fire. It is thought a live coal may have dropped from the open grate in the ladies' room during the night. So rapidly did the flames spread to the east and north wings that the servants and three guests who had remained over night had barely time to escape, and without saving any of their personal effects or greatly prized club trophies.

Charles Cronyn, W. D. Ross and Frank Drake were the only guests, and they made an attempt to first save some of the trophies, then, finding the rush of flames and density of smoke too great to encounter, tried to save the $5,000 stock of champagne, wines and liquor, but had to abandon this too.

There was absolutely no possibility of checking the progress of the flames, there being no water supply for fire-fighting, and not enough men to form an effective bucket brigade. Just above the room in which the fire broke out was a big water tank, and an effort was made to cut a hole that would allow the contents to flood the lower floor, but it had to be given up. There were only three hand extinguishers in the place, and these were useless. A section of the city fire department went down, but could do nothing, the large quantity of pine in the construction, together with a strong breeze, contributing to rapid destruction. The floors, too, had been re-waxed and oiled many times, that a great density of smoke resulted. In rapid succession, the ladies' room, general lounging room, hall, dining-room and bar, ladies' dressing and cloak room, became alike furnaces. Then the flames rushed east and north, licking up the kitchen and servants' quarters, from which nothing was saved, in the east wing and the men's smoking-room, lounging-room and guests' apartments, to the north.

The trees adjoining these wings began to scorch, and the efforts of the fire-fighters were concentrated on these to prevent a spread to the woods. A strong wind was blowing from the northwest. The fences leading to the stables and garage were torn down to prevent a spread to these structures.

COMMISSION FOR VANCOUVER

Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 7.—Vancouver electors Saturday voted against the bylaw for a board of control as part of the civic government. Owing to an all-day rain, the total vote was under eleven hundred, out of a possible twenty-four thousand electors enrolled, and the bylaw was defeated by the narrow margin of six votes. As a result of the small vote the question will likely be re-submitted to the electors in the January municipal elections, when electors may be asked to choose between a board of control and a commission form of civic government.

NATIONAL APPLE SHOW CLOSES

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 7.—The first Canadian National Apple Show closed Saturday night. American judges and American exhibitors joined in declaring it the greatest apple show ever held, though the management will have a deficit of at least $10,000. They did not expect it to be a financial success, the prizes alone being $25,000. Kelowna, B.C., carried off the premier prizes, though Washington and Oregon exhibitors won several medals and cash prizes.

Will Die From Burns.

London, Ont., Nov. 7.—Screams from the home of Mrs. Margaret Tuffield of 23 Walnut street, attracted the neighbors yesterday morning, who, on entering, found her enveloped in flames. She is 89 years of age, and was partly unconscious when found. She was taken to the hospital and will die. From the waist down she is terribly burned. How the accident occurred no one knows, as the woman lived alone.

MAY RESUME NEGOTIATIONS

Rome, Nov. 7.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Osservatore Romaro comments on the Spanish Senate's approval of the law forbidding the establishment of new religious congregations in Spain, and says that as the result of an amendment, introduced at the eleventh hour, the interrupted negotiations between the holy see and Spain may possibly be resumed.

Stole Case of Shoes.

Kingston, Nov. 7.—John Gunn, well known in police circles has been arrested and committed for trial, accused of stealing a case of shoes from the Midland Shoe Co. Boots hidden in the yard led to his arrest.

Will Sue Roosevelt.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7.—Judge Simon E. Baldwin, Democratic nominee for governor, announces that he will bring suit against former President Roosevelt, on account of certain statements reported to have been made by Roosevelt in a speech in New Hampshire, relative to Judge Baldwin's attitude on labor legislation.

Kicked In Stomach by Horse.

Kingston, Nov. 7.—Donald Clarke aged 15, son of E. M. Clarke of Odessa, who was kicked in the stomach by a horse, is dead. He was driving to school with two other children when the horse ran away, kicking over the dashboard. The others escaped without injuries.

BURGLARS GET HEAVY SENTENCES

Brandon, Nov. 7.—At noon Saturday Carson, Newton and Welsh were found guilty of burglary at the Hamiota jewelry store. Welsh was sentenced to four years in penitentiary, Newton to fourteen years on the Portage and fourteen on the Hamiota charge, the sentences to run concurrently. Carson, the leader of the gang, was sentenced to fourteen years on the Portage and fifteen years on the Hamiota charge, and 25 lashes.

The sentences were pronounced by Justice Richards, who had sentenced Carson to seven years on a previous charge.

BARRELS OF ROASTED APPLES

Belleville, Nov. 7.—At an early hour Sunday morning a three-storey brick storehouse, belonging to ex-Mayor Graham of this city, was destroyed by fire. There were stored in the building about 10,000 barrels of apples, some 6,000 barrels of which were destroyed. The loss estimated on the building and contents is $25,000, and the insurance $9,200. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Fall In Gym. Cost His Life.

Moosejaw, Nov. 7.—Jack Secour, a young man of 23, employed in the city for the last few months as a carpenter, is dead in the hospital as the result of a fall in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium Friday night.

RAINBOW ON THE WEST COAST

Vancouver, Nov. 7.—His Majesty's Canadian ship Rainbow arrived at Esquimalt at 10 o'clock this morning. Admiral Kingsmill boarded the ship and a salute was fired simultaneously by the Rainbow and the shore batteries. This will be followed by a salute of thirteen guns to the admiral at 2.30 p.m.

Hon. William Templeman and G. Desbarats, Deputy-Minister for Naval Affairs, went on board and received the vessel in the name of the Government of Canada.

Deputy Minister Desbarats states that Esquimault station will be formally taken over by Canada from the Imperial authorities on Nov. 9.

The Government tugs Victoria and Hector will endeavor to open the river to-day to allow the fleet to enter.

MONDAY, NOV. 7, 1910.

THE LATE MR. BROWN

We see them everywhere. We saw them in Sunday school, when, cap in hand, they would slip in just a minute or two late. We noticed them at school. They were constantly being detained often for or getting demerit marks for lateness. We have seen them in later life They are stalled at the gate after the whistle blew—not late very much, just lost by a minute. We have watched them at the railway station rush breathless to find the train has just gone. At the pier we have seen them with but a few feet of water between the wharf and the boat that has just pulled in the gangway. At church, at the public meeting in the theatre their names are many. They are as common as the flowers in May. They are an annoyance and a nuisance. There is one title that they deserve in this life. The late Mr. Brown, the late Mrs. Green. There is one performance that they will never delay by being tardy, and one alone. THAT PERFORMANCE IS THEIR OWN FUNERAL.

THE LITTLE MEMBER

Rev. Mr. Pogue handed the ladies a left jab yesterday morning. He told them that too often they breathed the name of people in vain at their receiving days or listened to the story of the one who erred. If the average woman would mind her own business she would have enough to do without looking after anyone outside the family. If the average man kept his trap closed there wouldn't be half so much trouble. The tongue is set on fire from hell. It separates man and wife, sweetheart and lover, friend from friend. The still tongue makes a wise head, and so Solomon says that even a fool if he holds his tongue is counted wise. We have often talked too much. Did you ever?

THE CHILD

The papers are agitating on behalf of the child.

The child!

We are no longer children. We are no longer in our short skirts or trousers. Our trousers are long, our skirts are near the ground.

We know the mistakes we have have made.

Our childhood is past.

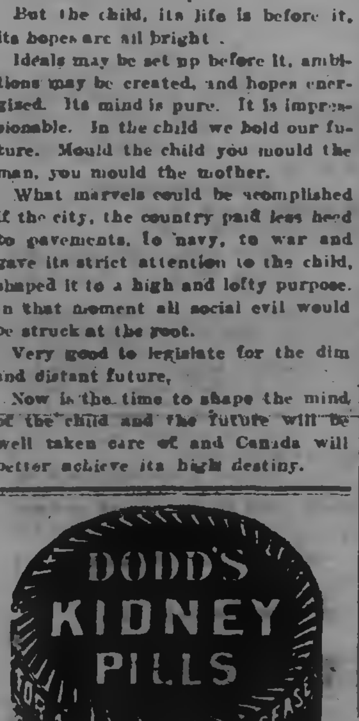
But the child, its life is before it, its hopes are all bright.

Ideals may be set up before it, ambitions may be created, and hopes energised. Its mind is pure. It is impressionable. In the child we hold our future. Mould the child you mould the man, you mould the mother.

What marvels could be accomplished if the city, the country paid less heed to pavements, to navy, to war and gave its strict attention to the child, shaped it to a high and lofty purpose. In that moment all social evil would be struck at the root.

Very good to legislate for the dim and distant future,

Now is the time to shape the mind of the child and the future will be well taken care of and Canada will better achieve its high destiny.



THE CRIPPEN CASE

What if Belle Elmore should turn up before the hanging?

What if Belle Elmore should be found after the hanging?

That wouldn't help Crippen much.

Hanging on purely circumstantial evidence is dangerous work.

Crippen may not be guilty. Crippen may be guilty and not confess.

Not long ago in England a man was hung. A year after the man who should have been hung was discovered.

However, that didn't help the innocent dead any.

A case is on record also within the memory of residents of this city who are still young, where a man charged with manslaughter served 12 years in England. Then the guilty man was found. The innocent man is drawing a big pension now.

J. T. Anderson, manager of the Travellers' Life Insurance Co., Peterborough, knew of the two cases above.

What if Crippen was innocent?

Chicago is not peculiar in this.

THE DEADLY FIREARM

Ottawa man accidentally kills best in Kempville shooting accident.

Ottawa boy probably fatally shoots his companion.

Ottawa man shoots his wife and son.

Ottawa boys shoot a neighbor's cow.

Kingston duck-hunter kills friend.

These are the substance of some of the headlines in Ottawa papers of yesterday.

Is Ottawa a place where it is necessary for men to carry revolvers about with them, to pull on the first occasion?

Or, are Ottawa men so stupid that they will shoot at the first mark, without waiting to ascertain what human target may be in the immediate line of fire.—Ottawa Journal.

Man shot for a red squirrel.

Man with black hat shot for black squirrel

Man killed while dragging gun over a fence Stomach blown out.

Man killed because his gun fell down from resting on tree Hole through head

These are a few tragedies that have made blanks in many a family and put black dresses over grieving hearts and crepe on the arm of buoyant youth

Nine deaths this season, that's not bad for so early.

New graves and a breadwinner less

New graves and a husband or a sweetheart less

Can't a law be passed demanding a course in common sense before a fellow is allowed to carry a gun into the bush?

Can you tell me of any one whose life has been saved by a gun in recent years? In the wild and woolley we used to know where a man was saved because he got his hand to his hip first, but here where prayer meetings are crowding out saloons and hymn books "pocket pistols," there is no excuse for the carrying of a shooting iron A left hook beats a club or a gun and a pair of fast legs is a great thing to help a man when the bunch are too strong for him

'He who fights and runs away,
Lives to fight another day,
But he who is in battle slain,
Shall never rise to fight again"

Down south where nearly every white man carries a gun and nearly every coon a razor, there are often killing. In Laurenceville, Georgia, last week a man with a gun killed his wife and son and wounded another child. Then he killed himself. There were two mistakes in connection with this.

He should never have been allowed to have carried a gun.

Carrying a gun he should have shot himself first.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END

The other day there was quoted in these columns some Liberal campaign arguments, which the Conservatives had to meet in the election of 1896, in which they were overthrown. The armament of the Militia by a Tory Government was then represented as part of a plot of "Old Tupper" and Chamberlain to make the French-Canadians conscript soldiers of the British Empire. They were told their bones would whiten the plains of Africa and India, while the ministers of the day, made knights of this, and commanders of that, would sit in their offices with wine glasses in their hands, enjoying themselves. This was the beginning of the "solid Quebec" which has been behind Sir Wilfrid for fourteen years, and which the twaddle writers on the Liberal press have been telling the Conservative party it could not overcome. The naval program figured largely in the discussion of the warm campaign. Mr. Bourassa, who took a heavy share of the work, declared his position to be that the country should not be committed to the maintenance of a navy bill till the people had been consulted. Some on his side went further than this. Probably they were helped by the fact that some who spoke for the Government's policy did so in a hesitating way, as if they did not like it. There was nothing in the Government's general record to create enthusiasm for it. High taxation and wasteful expenditure, aggravated in cases by graft, do not gain public respect for those who are responsible, however much a few beneficiaries may rejoice in them. They are what chiefly mark the Laurier administration. The result of the election will be good. It will make both ministers and their followers understand that henceforth the cry that they are for Laurier will not be accepted as reply to proper criticism of ministerial conduct; and for this reason the rending asunder with Laurier's own powder of Laurier's solid Quebec will be a good thing.—Montreal Gazette.

DIVORCE

The new Portuguese divorce law, as described in despatches from Lisbon, will provide for a dissolution of the marriage tie by the mutual consent of the parties concerned. The recent revolution was rather more than political. It is upsetting the old ideas as to things social as well as governmental.—Montreal Gazette.

We are inclined to think that Portugal is on the right track There should be, however, a clause whereby the parties should have to present another petition for divorce mutually six months after the first Many divorces are the results of pride and hasty tempers. If after six months' solid consideration, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. believe that they are ruining and damning each other, body, soul and spirit. Why let them be divorced?

WORSE THAN THE NATIONALISTS

Mr. Perrault, the defeated Government candidate in Drummond and Arthabaska, appealed to the electors on the separation platform He said in one of his speeches: "Our fleet is not, and never will be, imperialistic; it is a step towards the independence of Canada." The Montreal Witness, now a zealous Government organ, reports the political meeting at Victoriaville last Sunday night, at which representatives of both parties spoke. It says: "Mr Leland, M.P., and Mr. Gauthier, ex-M.P.P., two of the best orators of the Ministerial party, were the choice It was a splendid duel, in which every good reason for or against the navy was presented in the most able manner The Liberal speakers advocated the Navy Bill as the most glorious measure ever passed by the Canadian Parliament. They declared that it was a step towards the independence of Canada, for only a nation could have its navy." Mr. Leland delivered several other speeches in the constituency. His principal point in each oration took the form of an attack upon Mr. Borden and the Conservatives. He asserted that if Mr. Borden and the Conservatives had had their way we should have been committed to a contribution to the navy of Britain. Edouard Paiznon, described by Le Canada as a prominent farmer of St. Albert, in the County of Arthabaska, was one of the Liberal campaigners. He was represented as a "convert" from the Conservative ranks. The argument he presented to the electors took the form of an appeal against the Orangistes." "I do not see the necessity," he said, "of turning out the Laurier Government to please gentlemen who are working for the advantage of a party that is against our race, the party of Mr. Borden, who is controlled by the Orangistes." These are specimens of the Liberal eloquence that was expended during the hot campaign. They show that the Laurier Liberals are no better than the Nationalists by whom they have been beaten. While the Nationalists employ strong language, the Liberals raise the race cry, introduce religion, promise separation from the Empire and blame Mr. Borden for being a friend of Britain. It is impossible to condemn the Nationalists and to support the Laurier Liberals. The English-speaking people of Drummond and Arthabaska were on the spot, and knew what was being said The offensive character of the Liberal oratory, the tone of the Liberal speakers, who came with separation from the Empire as the justification for the naval scheme, compelled these electors, in choosing the lesser of the two evils, to declare for the Nationalist. Let it not be supposed that the Laurier Liberals have been defeated because they represent a pro-British policy. The reverse with which they have met is attributable in a large degree to the fact that they preached separation.—Mail.

A Gentleman From Mississippi

By THOMAS A. WISE

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THOMAS A. WISE

"Premature," she suggested.

The maid returned.

"Mr. Wall says Senator Langdon is wanted at once at the capitol."

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Langdon, springing to his feet and glancing at the clock. "I'm late, I'm late! I hope to God I'm not too late!"

"Mr. Wall says a carriage is coming for Senator Langdon," concluded the maid.

"We must talk this matter over some other time, Mrs. Spangler," the Mississippian cried as he sent a servant for his hat and coat. "I hope that carriage hurries, else I'll try it on the run for the capitol."

"It's a half hour away on foot," said Mrs. Spangler. "Better wait. You'll save time."

But to herself she muttered as though mystified:

"I wonder why Peabody changed his mind so suddenly? Why should he now want the old fool at the capitol?"

The rumble of wheels was heard outside.

"Hurry, father!" cried Hope Georgia.

The senator hurried down the stone steps of Mrs. Spangler's residence as rapidly as his weight and the excitement under which he labored would permit. Opening the coach door, he plunged inside to come face to face with Bud Haines, who had huddled down in a corner to avoid observance from the Spangler windows. The driver started his horses off on a run.

Came face to face with Bud Haines.

Struggling to regain his breath, the senator cried:

"Well, what are"—

"Never mind now. But first gather in all I say, senator, as we've no time to lose: When I couldn't locate you and I saw you probably wouldn't be at the senate chamber in time to make your speech on the naval base bill I persuaded Senator Milbank of Arkansas to rise and make a speech on the currency question, which subject was in order. He was under obligation to me for some important information I once obtained for him, and he consented to keep the floor until you arrived, though he knew he would earn the vengeance of Peabody. That was over an hour and a half ago. He must be reading quotations from 'Pilgrim's Progress' to the senate by now to keep the floor."

Bud paused to look at his watch.

The senator stretched his head out of the window and cried, "Drive faster!"

"Got your speech all right?" called Bud above the din of the rattling wheels.

"Yes, here," was the response, the senator tapping his inner breast pocket.

"Thought maybe she"— cried Bud, jerking his head back in the direction from which they had come.

The Mississippian shook his head negatively and set his jaws determinedly.

The coach swung up to the capitol entrance.

"Tell me," asked Langdon, as both jumped out, "how did you find out that"—

"I phoned the house—gave a name Peabody uses"—

"Great heavens, but how did you know where to phone?"

They were at the door of the senate chamber.

"Norton gave me the tip—for your sake and Carolina's—for old time's sake, he said," was Bud's reply.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

ON THE FLOOR OF THE SENATE.

TOO much occupied in concentrating his thoughts on his speech, Langdon failed to notice the consternation on the faces of Peabody and Stevens as he walked to his seat in the senate. They had failed to succeed in getting Milbank to conclude and consequently could not push the naval base report through. But they noted the passing of over an hour after their opponent's appointed time and had felt certain that he would not appear at all.

"The boss of the senate" leaned across to Stevens and whispered hurriedly:

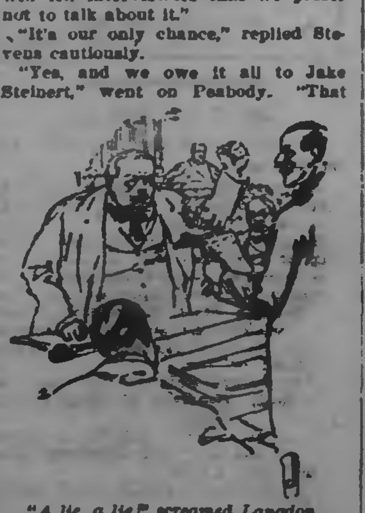
"We must tear him to pieces now—discredit him publicly. It's his own fault. Our agents can sell the land to Standard Steel. Our connection with the scheme will be impossible to discover—after we have made the public believe Langdon is a crook."

"But how about our supposed combination to protect the government that Langdon will tell about?" asked Stevens. "We can't deny that, of course."

"No," answered Peabody. "We can't deny it, but we will not affirm it. We will tell interviewers that we prefer not to talk about it."

"It's our only chance," replied Stevens cautiously.

"Yes, and we owe it all to Jake Steinert," went on Peabody. "That fellow Telfer will do anything to please Jake. Jake has convinced Telfer that Langdon was responsible for the defeat of Gulf City, and the mayor is wild for revenge."



"A lie, a lie!" screamed Langdon.

"The boss of the senate" rose and walked to the rear of the senate chamber to issue orders to two of his colleagues.

"Report of the committee on naval affairs," droned the clerk mechanically. "House bill No. 1100 is amended to read as follows"— And his voice sank to an unintelligible mumble, for every senator present he well knew was aware that the amendment named Altacoola as the naval base site.

Senator Langdon rose in his seat.

"Mr. President," he called.

"Chair recognizes the gentleman from Mississippi," said the presiding officer as he leaned back to speak to Senator Winans of Kansas, who had approached to the side of the rostrum.

The Langdon speech on "The New South and the South of the Future" proved more than a document suited only to a reverent burial in the Congressional Record. Although wearied at the start owing to the exciting happenings of the day, the Mississippian's enthusiasm for his cause gave him strength and stimulation as he progressed. His voice rose majestically as he came to the particular points he wished to accentuate, and even those in the uppermost rows in the galleries could hear his every word.

At the close of his formal speech he began on his statement of the action of the naval affairs committee in buying control of Altacoola land to foil attempts to rob the government. As he had predicted, the senate did "sit up." The senate did agree that a new kind of politics had arrived.

During this latter part of the speech many curious glances were directed at Peabody and Stevens, who sat in the same tier of seats, in the middle of the chamber, only an aisle separating them. Through this choice of seats they could confer without leaving their places. Various senatorial associates of these two men in other deals found it difficult to believe their ears—but was not old Langdon at this moment narrating the amazing transaction on the floor of the senate? Would the statue on the pedestal step down? Would the sphinx of the desert speak the story of the lost centuries? Would honor take the place of expediency in the affairs of state? What might not happen, thought the senate machine, now that Peabody and Stevens had taken to their bosoms what they termed the purple pup of political purity?

Neither did the full portent of the situation escape the attention of the reporters' gallery. Dick Cullen observed to Hansel of the Record:

"Virtue's getting so thick around here it's a menace to navigation."

"Blocking the traffic, eh?" queried Hansel, and both laughed.

"Hello! What's this?" exclaimed Cullen a few minutes later. "Horton has been recognized, when the program was to adjourn when the naval base bill was over with."

Langdon's speech had proved the hit, the sensation of the session. After he concluded, amid resounding applause, in which senators joined, as well as occupants of the galleries, Senator Horton of Montana rose and caught the presiding officer's eye.

"I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution."

Hearing no objection he continued in a manner that instantly attracted unusual attention:

Winnipeg Water Supply.

Winnipeg, Nov. 4.—Manufacturers here have taken a hand in the agitation for a new source of water supply, and have demanded that the present system of artesian wells be abandoned in favor of a visible supply of pure soft water. They realize that this step cannot be taken hurriedly, and recommend that in the meantime the city authorities arrange to instal an equipment for softening the present supply.

Congratulated Botha.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—At the annual meeting of the Canadian Club yesterday, Isaac Pitblado, K.C., was elected president. A long cablegram of congratulation was sent to Rt. Hon. Louis Botha, Premier of South Africa. Dr. J. W. Robertson, chairman of the Technical Commission, delivered an address.

Boy of 13 Guilty of Manslaughter.

Quebec, Nov. 5.—Wilbrod Laprise, aged 13, was found guilty yesterday of manslaughter, and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. His brother Alfred and his friend Blouin were acquitted.

Wilbrod Laprise is the lad who shot the son of Mr. Langlois, M.P.P.

To Fortify St. Helena Once More.

London, Nov. 5.—Both the Admiralty and Board of Trade are interested in a plan to revive the prosperity of St. Helena by again fortifying it as a naval base. It might also become a stopping place for vessels en route to the Panama Canal.

Attacked Captain With Knife.

Kingston, Nov. 4.—Michael Divine, a young man and well-known character, was arrested last night. It is alleged that in an altercation Divine attacked Capt. James Oliver with a knife. The latter suffered a bad jab over the right eye and several cuts on the left hand, but his injuries are not very serious.

Queen Mary and the Poor.

London, Nov. 7.—The spectacle of a Queen busy unpacking, sorting and arranging piles of rough garments for the poor is not a frequent one.

Queen Mary throughout the past week has devoted several hours each day to tasks of this kind and has worked as hard as any of the women who have been helping her. She is patroness of the London Needlework Guild, an institution which makes garments for the poor.

Strike Not Settled.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Hopes of an immediate settlement of the garment workers' strike disappeared yesterday, when the strikers voted not to accept the agreement recommended by T. A. Rickert, president of the United Garment Workers.

The Chicago Federation of Labor voted yesterday to uphold the garment workers.

CRIPPEN'S EXECUTION POSTPONED TILL NOV. 23

STARTLING NEWS

Special to the Review.

London, Nov. 7.—The execution of Dr. Crippen, who was convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen, was to-day postponed until November 23.

This announcement was made in the wake of sensational cablegrams which came from the United States, stating the belief that Belle Elmore Crippen still lives, and that she had been recently seen either in or near Chicago.

Barrister Arthur Newton and Alfred Tobin, who had apparently abandoned hope for Crippen when the appeal was dismissed Saturday, renewed their efforts to-day with redoubled vigor.

They held a conference with the judges in chambers this morning.

It is stated that sufficient time will be given for a full investigation of all reports that Belle Elmore Crippen is still alive.

Special Wire.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 7.—Police here take little stock in the story emanating from Philadelphia that Belle Elmore Crippen for whose murder Dr. Harvey Hawley Crippen was condemned to hang in London, is in Chicago.

The police here have not taken up an investigation so far. They likely will not.

ABOUT GOOD WEEDS AND ALSO BAD ONES

"I have planted— Appollos watered, but God gave the increase."

The opening meeting of the Church members of St. Luke's Sunday afternoon, was addressed by the Rev. Dr. Symons, rector of Christ Church Montreal, and formerly of this city. The centre aisle was reserved for children alone.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt presided.

Dr. Symons has a very pleasing manner of gaining the childrens' attention. The words of the above text applied to children's lives, was the theme of his discourse.

He compared a child's life to a garden in which were both good and bad weeds, and of different seeds which should be planted and cultivated.

In the heart of a child there is something both good and bad, and these can be compared to good and bad weeds in a garden.

In that little garden of your own heart children, "Sow Good Seeds", said the speaker. Some of these seeds should be truth, obedience, kindness, and clean works.

During life bad weeds will grow up. But we must strive to conquer the bad in our dispositions, and only cultivate the good weeds. Honor justice and purity in women, as commanded in the Bible, should be observed both by boys and girls.

Dr. Symons' address was very suitable for the occasion, and the children were much impressed.

HORSE LEFT ON ROAD AND DIED

Animal Suffered from a Broken Hip, Received Through Being Struck by Street Car on Water Street— A Dangerous Place

One of the team of horses which Mr. Matthew Young, of Young's Point, was driving on Water street north, Saturday evening was struck by a street car and sustained a broken hip bone.

The animal died during the night.

Mr. Young had passed the railway crossing on Water street and just immediately north of Allison's grocery store.

HORSES FRIGHTENED.

The horses became frightened as a street car approached travelling north. The driver endeavored to gain the end of the car line before the car caught up to him but was unsuccessful.

As the car, which had all the time been gaining speed, caught up to the outfit, the nearest horse reared sideway and in such a manner that the car struck it, with such force that the hip bone was badly broken.

This was shortly after six o'clock. Dr. Johnston was notified and on arriving decided that the animal should be shot.

Accordingly he called the police station and P. C. Meagher went to the scene of the accident.

HORSE SUFFERED.

Mr. Young had in the meantime, secured another veterinary surgeon, Dr. Rogers. It was decided, however, that the animal should not be shot and it was left on the road suffering terrible pain until it died during the night.

Yesterday Mr. F. Flaherty removed the carcass.

A DANGEROUS PLACE.

At the time of the accident darkness had set in, and the glare of the headlight of the street car contributed to the awkward position which Mr. Young found himself. This point is regarded as particularly dangerous on a dark night and it is only by extreme good fortune that the list of bad accidents is small.

MEMBERS OF LADIES' AID TELL OF THEIR TRAVELS

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Charlotte street Methodist church on Friday of last week four ladies of the society gave interesting accounts of recent trips which they have taken and of their impressions of the places visited.

Mrs. Walker in her talk described the prettiest places in the old land and to any one contemplating a trip there she recommended several places for them to visit.

Mrs. James Frowde gave some reminiscences of a trip to Nova Scotia describing accurately the picturesque and rugged scenery of that province and also her impressions of the large steel works at Sydney, Cape Breton. Various summer resorts around Sydney make it an ideal place to spend the summer and Mrs. Frowde was highly delighted with her visit.

Mrs. H. B. Collier accompanied her husband on the manufacturers' excursion out to the coast this summer. She gave a very interesting account of her trip and spoke at some length of the hospitable manner with which she was treated on the trip. Mrs. Collier's talk was very intently listened to and was interspersed with several humorous incidents.

Mrs. (Rev.) G. W. Henderson also was out to Victoria this summer and was able to tell some interesting experiences in connection with her trip.

A recitation by Miss M. Sherlock was well given as was also a solo by Mrs. Davidson.

The Misses Clarry and Campbell gave an instrumental duet.

The meeting dispersed about 10.30.

ENORMOUS QUANTITIES OF GRAIN NOW BEING SHIPPED

Eighteen Hundred Train-loads at Midland on Saturday—Busy Railroad Period

"The freight traffic in grain is now beginning to be very heavy," said a local railroad man to-day. Our busy season is now on."

Immense quantities of grain are now commencing to move from Midland, destined to Montreal and Portland mainly.

Eighteen hundred carloads altogether were at Midland on Saturday. Already five trains of grain have passed through the city on the Grand Trunk, and from now on the number will increase.

A double-header freight loaded with grain went into the Quaker Oats siding to-day.

TO LICENSE THE BARBERS

The barbers of the province are determined to insist that a man have proper qualifications before he can become a full fledged knight of the blade.

This week, they will endeavor to have passed by the province a measure calling for the licensing of barbers throughout Ontario, and if the bill is passed, apprentices will have to serve three years before they will be given a license. This will do away with graduates of barber schools coming out as fully qualified men.

Secretary Gainey of the local union informs the Review that the barbers all over the province are in sympathy with the proposed enactment. One provision of it is that the men who obtain the licenses must pass a board of Government examiners [illegible]

FELL FROM A LADDER

Was Putting on Storm Windows —No Bones Broken

Mr. C. L. Huffman, 526 Sherbrooke street, while engaged at putting on storm sash Saturday afternoon, fell from a ladder. He was working at the residence of Mr. W. C. Ackerman, Park street.

While no bones were broken still the shock was sufficient to hinder him from proceeding with the work and he was taken home on the street car.

PRESS OPINIONS OF THOMPSON - SEATON LECTURES

New York Herald—Mr. Thompson Seton's strong sympathy with animals, his keen and discriminating powers of observation, his thoroughly original and graphic manner of presenting his facts, combined with his unusually attractive personality, make him easily the leading lecturer in his chosen field.

New York Evening Sun—Mr. Thompson Seton is not only an observer and a naturalist, he is a philosopher. He believes that animals have their individuality just as men have.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle—Of Mr. Thompson Seton's ability to hold the attention of his auditors, even when they are very juvenile, the following incident will serve as an example: The theatre was in total darkness, save for the white patch of light thrown upon the picture screen by the stereopticon. There was a dead silence, broken only by the smothered gasps of small boys and girls as the lecturer told how Lobo, the king wolf of the Currumpaw pack, took bloody vengeance for the murder of the beautiful white wolf who was his mate. "Lobo crept up to our cabin at night," said Mr. Thompson Seton, "and we were awakened by a stifled yelp. Then all was still. We knew what had happened. In the morning we found that Lobo had seized our pet dog and tore him into little pieces." Suddenly a small voice piped shrill and high through the darkness: "What did he tore up the dog for?" Like a wise man Mr. Thompson Seton didn't stop to solve the problem, but kept right on with the story of the plot that led to Lobo's undoing, and which is familiar to those who have been fortunate enough to read "Wild Animals I Have Known."—February 14, 1900.

Mr. Thompson Seton will appear at "The Grand" next Thursday, Nov. 10 under the auspices of the Peterborough Boy Scouts.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed
Eye Examination to Determine the Necessity for Glasses.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 34 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

TOURING IN OLD BIBLE LANDS

VISIT TO JERICHO, JORDAN AND THE DEAD SEA

Continuation of Descriptive Articles on the Holy Land by Charlotte K. Taylor.

"Oh! go to Jericho!" says the man in an ill temper; and he means you nothing good when he says it, and thereby consigns you to that far off region. But he might wish you something worse than the "going to Jericho!" At least so I thought when we made an excursion there in January last, from Jerusalem, where we were spending the greater part of the winter. It was a pleasant change down to the June atmosphere, the sweet perfume of the tangled roses and the golden glow of the orange-laden trees in the low-lying plain where the swift-flowing Jordan rolls its muddy waters down to the deep depression of the Dead Sea. I said down to the June atmosphere of Jericho, and it is down, and very much so too, for Jerusalem stands high, being built on four mountains, Zion, Acra, Bezetha and Moriah. It is 2,500 feet above the sea level. When you go out by donkey ride some five miles from Jerusalem to the top of "Neby Samuel," the Mount Joy of the crusaders, crowned with the tomb of the Prophet Samuel, and gaze around at the magnificent panorama, you can, just see the glimmer of the blue waters of the Mediterranean away to the west, whilst exactly on your other side and to the right far below you, can plainly discern the equally blue shining of the Dead Sea, some eight miles above, which nestles Jericho, in the great plain or "circa" of the Jordan.

The Dead Sea — Northern Shore.

When I told this the other day in casual conversation to a doctor and an educated man, he almost gasped with astonishment. "What! see both the Mediterranean and the Dead Sea at the same time! Why I thought Palestine was 300 or 400 miles across!" How little people know about the most historic land in the world! It is only 36 miles across. And so, as Jerusalem is about 20 miles from Jericho which lies down below in the Jordan plain, 1,300 feet below sea level, you have consequently a great "dip" down of between 3,000 and 4,000 feet in going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, as did the man in the parable. Luke X. 30.

Away back in the prehistoric cretaceous and tertiary ages of geology some cataclysm threw up those grand great bare limestone rocks among whose wild weird gorges your carriage slowly winds its way down to Jericho, a way at times so precipitous that you are fain to grasp your drivers' "abba" and exclaim, "Oh! let me out to walk here, please do." But just a little danger adds a spice of enjoyment, and we did enjoy that drive down to Jericho on Jan. 26th, Anno Domini, 1910.

We were a merry party of eight all told, my father, Mr. Robt. A. Strickland, known to many readers of the Review, as one of the oldest inhabitants of Lakefield, still healthy and active at 80 years of age. My husband and self and our four daughters to whom our "love in Bible Lands" is a great joy and our kind host, Mr. Richard Hughes, of the Hughes English Hotel, outside the Jaffa gate of Jerusalem, whose genial manner and intimate acquaintance with the country in which he has lived for 18 years, make him a most interesting guide and companion on such an excursion.

It was a glorious drive on a glorious day. The rain was past long enough for the breeze to have dried up every patch of mud, but recent enough to have left the hillsides springing green, while sunshine gilded the slopes of the Mount of Olives as we drove along the road which skirts it, passing first the little garden of Gethsemane down in the hollow, and then the sheltered spot where our Lord is said to have last stood among His few faithful followers and bidden them farewell ere His ascension. Before long the tall rim of the traditional house of Lazarus at Bethany rises into view on our left, while away to the right, down a very zig, zag path, by which we next descend, is the Apostle Spring, a well which our Lord and His Apostles must often have paused to drink and rest after the steep and weary journey up from Jericho, since it is the only spring to be met with on the way between Jerusalem and Jericho.

After leaving this well the scenery rapidly becomes more wild and grand and the mountains around more bleak and desolate Professor Geikie on traversing this same road 20 years ago, said: "From this point (the spring just noticed) the road stretches on between high hills absolutely desolate, and with no sign of human habitation whatever. The slopes are covered with thorny bushes and beds of stone fallen from above. The silence of earth reigns on all sides." While Dean Stanley, passing through it some 40 years before, in 1852, calls it "A wilderness as bare and as solitary as the deserts of Arabia." On the right are the Judean hills, on the left the mountains of Benjamin, the road running exactly between them deep down, and these once formed the tribal division and borders of Judea and Benjamin from the time of Joshua. The wild, natural caves in the limestone ranges have formed for long centuries the haunt of the brigand murderer and robber, and the scene of the "Parable of the Good Samaritan." Luke x, where the traveller fell among thieves, is all around us till we reach the Plain of Jericho The road is still called the "Ephes Samium," or "way of blood," and about half way to Jericho and crowning one of the Benjaminite hills is the ruin of a fortress said to occupy the site of the ancient Khan or Inn where the Good Samaritan took the Wounded Man. The scene of the attack is probably nearer Jericho, at a spot which gives just such an opportunity with a sudden bend in the road, and a precipitous cliff, where a dead body might be thrown over, and the carriages and mules pass along the road above, with never a hint of what was lying far down below, hidden by the overhanging thorn bushes. Many a murder has been known to take place here, and at this very spot, and but this very Xmas, a few weeks ago, some of our Jerusalem friends were attacked and robbed of £10 and other valuables, while one of them (a well-known doctor at Jerusalem), arrived at Jericho with a dislocated arm, two broken ribs, and but for the fact of their carrying firearms, the little party, three in number, would never have escaped with their lives. Of course we, without escort of native drivers and Mr. Hughes, who is as well known in Jerusalem, and the neighborhood as the town sheriff would be in western lands, were perfectly safe from attack, but I must say I looked rather askance at the various parties of mounted Bedouin we met on the road with their dark faces and long rifles. They always saluted Mr. Hughes with much respect, but I felt certain I should be sorry to meet the gentlemen in question alone on that lonely road.

Just below the ruined Khan there stands the modern Inn of the Good Samaritan, or half way house, where you can get lunch, but to-day we are pushing on, for has not, Mr. Hughes promised us that we shall lunch this very day by the Brook Cherith in the valley Kelt, where Elijah was fed by the ravens nigh on 3000 years ago.

Wilder and grander grew the scenery as we came down to the deep gorge. Words fail me to describe it, the wildness and the grandeur, and for fear that my readers should think I exaggerate, I am fain to quote briefly the words of better known travellers. Dr. Thomson in his "Land and the Book" says: "It is grand, wild and stern, almost beyond a parallel," while Dr. Geikie in the Holy Land and the Bible says: "The whole of the Wady Kelt is singularly wild and romantic, for it is simply a deep rent in the mountains scarcely 20 yards across at the bottom, filled with tall canes and beds of rushes, to which you look down over high perpendicular walls of rocks. Hills rise in the wildest shape on all sides, the whole seamed in all directions by deep torrent beds."

The glare of the sun on these bare limestone hills is very wearying to the eye, and almost oppressed by the wild grandeur of the scene, and eyes caught with joy at the foot of the precipitous cliffs, the green thread of the Brook Cherith.

Dean Stanley's facile pen has given us the wonderful impression it made on his mind. "After traversing for six hours the almost total desolation which marks the descent from Jerusalem to the valley of Jordan over the limestone hills, the eye is caught suddenly by the sight of a thread of Verdure at the bottom of a deep glen, the most romantic in the world of Palestine. This green thread is the course of the torrent now called Kelt, possibly the ancient Cherith, and if so, doubtless deriving its name from the manner in which its course is cut through these tremendous precipices.

Dr. Norman Macleod is more positive than the dean about the site of Cherith and says that immediately below us to the left was a deep gorge that cut its way through rocky precipices, between which, five hundred feet down, a fresh, full mountain stream rushed along to the plain of the Jordan, this was the Wady Kelt, and in all probability is the Brook Cherith, and where Elijah was fed during the famine. And here, as confirming the conjecture, we noticed many ravens and heard their hoarse croak echoing from the wild precipices.

But Dr. Robinson is surer than any and places with much certainty Elijah's brook, just down here in this deep gorge, where to-day the Roman Catholic "tradition" has built the Monastery of Elijah, and where the Bedouin points if you ask him where did the ravens feed Elijah.

Anyway, the ravens are there; as large as life and as black as coal. Never was Elijah more glad of the food they brought him than were we at the prospect of lunch to-day, as we emptied ourselves out of the carriages where we were cramped with long sitting, and followed Mr. Hughes and one of the drivers with the lunch basket down the steep descent to the bottom of the gorge, where the Cherith musically tinkled. It was a lovely spot we reached after a stiff scramble down; perhaps all the more lovely in contrast with the surrounding gloom and desolation. Picture to yourself a long, low fissure lying deep down between the overhanging cliffs, with a beautiful, sparkling brook flowing along it, touching with fairy hand the banks on either side, making the desert to blossom and bloom as the rose. Literally, for roses tossed in the gentle breeze on their high bush stems, fern fronds and grass were beneath our feet, while overhead the pampas grasses and the tamarac trees cast a grateful shade. It was like Paradise in Eden, the garden in the Steppe (the literal rendering of Eden is Steppe or Waste). It was such a liberal lunch that Mr. Hughes dispensed from that basket that we, however, longed for no forbidden fruit, and we wondered if Elijah enjoyed his God-sent meals as much as we did that lunch. When we had finished our meal we followed his example and "drank of the brook" (I. Kings, xvii. 6).

Afterwards we wandered along the fertile fissure watered by the Cherith and cultivated by the monks of the Convent of Elijah, which convent hangs half way down the steep cliff like a bird's nest. They have made a fish pond and a little acqueduct to bring up the water to their convent It is a very ingenious contrivance, and my youngest daughter was very anxious to fish in the pond, though the eye of the monks were upon us. I believe the convent is used as a penitentiary for refractory monks.

My husband climbed up to the convent and saluted the monks, who offered him coffee and Turkish delight

SPORTING NEWS

SWIMMING 'Y' PAPER CHASE Basketball Wrestling

The paper chase held Saturday afternoon was a great success and furnished some exciting sport for the large number that turned out. The trail was laid by Physical Director Thompson and Arthur Flowers. The trail was laid from the east side of Smith Street bridge, north east across the fields, over the swamps, and turned east city until the river was reached. The hounds by this time were getting dangerously close, so the hares took to the river fording it just below the Cereal dam, knee deep in the cold water. From here the hares made their way back to the building, just arriving in time to stall off the leading hounds of the pack. It was enjoyed so much by all who were out that they asked for another next week, and if you missed last week be sure and get out with the hares and hounds, Saturday next.

The swimming classes will open to-night at 8.45, when advanced swimming will be taken up by Mr. W. O. Taylor. If you wish to learn some new strokes come along. Wednesday night at 8.45, the beginners swimming class will open. If you cannot swim, this is your chance to learn.

In the Junior Basketball League three very fast games were played on Saturday. The Tigers defeated the Cubs, 6-0; Athletics defeated Midgets, 4-2; Beavers defeated the Maples 10 to 4.

In the Senior League, the Moonshiners defeated the Highlanders score 8 to 4.

The wrestling class will start on Monday, Nov. 14, and will be in charge of Mr. H. B. Cowan, late Canadian welterweight champion. If you are interested in this line of physical work, be on hand on Monday, Nov. 14, at 7.30 p.m.

WON THE BIRD, BUT DIDN'T CALL TO GET HIS TROPHY; THE SHOOTING AT YEOTES

There is a turkey waiting for Wm. Phillips at Yeotes' shooting gallery, George street. He forgot to collect it Saturday night. He finished with the top score in the paper target rest shooting division, but he was through at 7.30 Saturday evening and neglected to call to claim the prize at 10 o'clock, or to see how the competition had resulted.

In the rest target Sharp and Sullivan were tied, but the latter didn't turn up on Saturday night to shoot off the tie, so the bird went to the Sharpe shooter.

The result—

SPORTING COMMENT

Ottawa took a try in the last five minutes of the game with Argonauts Saturday, and won by a score of 23 to 20. The Toronto outfit raised a holler, as usual. The vision of a win and a defeat to Hamilton, followed by a play-off, and then the championship went all to the bad.

By defeating Queen's at Rosedale, Varsity won the Intercollegiate championship and the Yates Cup, which goes with a third consecutive win. The score was 25 to 9.

Pete Campbell played quarter for Varsity II., who defeated Kingston R. M.C. intermediates by 18 to 6.

Ben. Simpson's work was again the feature of Hamilton Tigers' performance against Montreal. By their win and the defeat of the Argonauts, the Big Four championship rests with the Jungle Terrors.

EVANGELIST AT ST. JAMES

Rev. R. H. Whiteside Opens Evangelistic Services

Rev. R. H. Whiteside opened yesterday a series of evangelistic services in St. James' Methodist church.

In his morning sermon from the text Mal 3;10, he outlined conditions of success in evangelistic effort. In the evening, basing his address upon the words "Where art thou?" Gen. ;39 he made a strong presentation of the matter of personal relation, and the relation of each individual to Jesus Christ, as Saviour and Lord.

The men's meeting in the afternoon was attended by over eighty men, and the service was one of genuine interest and strong in its personal appeal.

Rev. Mr. Whiteside is a sympathetic speaker with a clear conception of the place and need of religion in every man's life. He is also the possessor of a good voice and very successful in his leading of music. In the evening service he was assisted by a choir of thirty-five voices.

LENIENT WITH ACTING MANAGER

Lindsay Warder.

A young man who has been acting manager of the Farmers' Bank of Canada at Kirmount for the past ten days, was recently arrested at his home at Winona, near Hamilton, charged with forging the signature of John Hughes, a customer of the bank, to a cheque for $100, appropriating the funds to his own use.

The accused was let out on bail and with his father came to Lindsay Wednesday and paid the $100 with costs, and the charge was withdrawn by the bank.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its' correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Your edition of Friday last gives the synopsis of a lecture purporting to have been delivered by Rev. Mr. Pogue to the Cavan Blazers in which he is reported to have said; "The Eucharistic congress with all its magnificent splendor was the last 'kick' of the Catholic Church."

I have been informed that this Rev. Mr. Pogue is a clergyman in connection with St. Paul's church of this city. If such is the case then his duties are to inculcate in the minds of the people thought and ideas that are noble, loving and pure, to instruct them to look forward and upward to higher ideals of conduct, and to teach all to practice the grand and noble virtue of charity.

WELL DRESSED WAS SUSPECT ARRESTED AT THE STATION

P. C. Newhall Got Man Who It Is Alleged Committed Thefts at Hotel

"The idea of me being arrested."

"Someone will pay for this."

Frank Beal was a very indignant person when he was arrested by P.C. Newhall at the C.P.R. station yesterday afternoon, and the above statements were forthcoming from him.

Beal come here last Thursday and registered at the White House, and, it is stated, he took pretty well, in fact his accomplishments in this respect got him into trouble.

He touched up three of the guests to the extent of a coat and vest, two razors and sixty cents, during Friday and Saturday, so it is said.

The police then took a hand. P.C. Newhall found the coat at Jays' second hand store, and landed Beal yesterday afternoon as he was about to take the 4 38 train for Toronto, which he claims, is his home.

He appeared before his Worship this morning and pleaded not guilty to the charge.

"I'll ask for a remand," said the chief, and Beal will have a week to figure it out at the hotel on the hill.

The prisoner is a well-dressed man in the neighborhood of thirty years of age, and was a striking contrast to a drunk who sat with him in the dock and was fined $2 00.

SIXTY-TWO CENTS WAS AWARDED TO PLAINTIFF

He Claimed $11.00 as Wages Due Him for Work in the Woods.

Chas. Hunt, an Englishman, claimed the sum of $11.00 from E. P. Creswell at the police court this morning, but all he was awarded was 62 cents.

Mr. E. C. Goodwill appeared for the defendant.

The plaintiff was not present when the case was called, and the magistrate asked for the defendant's story.

WORKED THIRTEEN DAYS

This was to the effect that Hunt, was hired by an employment agency at Toronto, to work in the woods for Wm. Creswell. He commenced work on October 10, and left the shanty on the morning of October 28, having not worked on the 13th, 26th and 27th, on account of his claim that he was sick. He was rated at $22.00 per month. For the thirteen days he worked $11.00 was due him, but from this amount, expenses in connection with his transportation from Toronto to the woods, and a van account, totaling $9,77, were deducted, leaving a balance of $1.23 which he was paid.

INJURED BY TREE.

The plaintiff stated that he was only off work two days. He was struck on the small of the back by the branches of a falling tree. He had paid the agent at Toronto $1.50 but the understanding was that the employer would go good for this.

The man who was at work at the tree which fell, said that Hunt was told by him to look out, but that no attention was paid to the warning, by Hunt who was in a stooping position, and grabbing at another tree. The tree in question was a little barsam, about the thickness of a man's arm.

The magistrate held that 50 cts. of the $1.50 should be credited the plaintiff, as he had paid it at the agents office, and at the same time, it formed part of the deduction from his wages, from the defendant. The van account, included six plugs of tobacco, but plaintiff said it should be five, so he received judgment for the fifty cents and twelve cents for one plug of tobacco.

Note: It is a custom with employers of woodsmen, that in case a man does not remain for the full amount of time, the tranportation ex- amount of time, the tranportation expenses are charged against him.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION BANQUETED DR. SYMONDS

Ministers All Present—Address by Dr. Symonds—Many Former Local Ministers now in Montreal

The Ministerial Association were in session this morning at the Y.M.C.A. All the clergy were present and also Dr. Symonds of Christ church, Montreal. After the regular business had been put through an enjoyable luncheon in honor of Dr. Symonds, was served in the Y. M. C. A. club room, about 12.30.

Dr. Symonds and Mrs. Symonds were the guests of honor. The president of the association Rev. Robt. Pogue, was at the head of the table.

After luncheon a number of the members made complimentary remarks on the address of the morning meeting.

Dr. Symonds made a very interesting reply, recalling past experiences in the Peterborough Ministerial Association, and made reference to the number of Peterborough ministers now in Montreal.

LOST SUIT

Action Against Corporation of Havelock Dismissed by Chancellor Boyd

The action brought by Alex. Innis and his wife, Maud Innis, against the corporation of Havelock, and which was heard at the Fall Assizes of the High Court in October, has been dismissed without costs by Chancellor Sir John Boyd.

The plaintiffs claimed $5,000 damages as compensation for injuries sustained by Mrs. Innis through falling into a hole in the sidewalk.

His Lordship held that the sidewalk had been so long out of repair as to relieve from blame the municipality.

STOPPED RUNAWAY

Plucky Performance by George Weir—Was Dragged Long Distance

Shortly before two o'clock this afternoon, Mr. George Weir, of Omemee, pulled off a nervy performance when he caught a runaway three-year-old team of horses, the property of William O'Brien, of Douro.

The owner, after unloading an order of hay at the Fire Station had gone into the station for his ticket, leaving the horses in the yard at the rear. They freightened and dashed out on to Aylmer street turning up Simcoe street, then north to Water, turning east on Hunter. At the corner Mr. Weir succeeded in catching hold of one of the horses, but was dragged to the corner of Sheridan street. His plucky work gained the day and the animals were finally quieted. The owner had his horses turned over to him at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets, but nary a word of thanks did he say to Mr. Weir.

HAD HIS ARM BADLY INJURED

Mr. John Richardson, son of Mr. Isaac Richardson, Homewood avenue, sustained a serious accident this morning about seven o'clock.

He was riding his wheel and at the corner of Park and Dalhousie street, while going at quite a speed the wheel slid and he fell heavily on his right arm. The arm was not broken but was badly bruised and sprained.

DEDICATIONS AT ST. JOHN'S YESTERDAY

Yesterday was a joyful day, being the 75th anniversary of the Dedication Festival. The services were bright and inspiring.

A men's fellowship tea in the school at 5 p.m., was well attended, and with the rector's warden, Mr. W. Johnston, in the chair, the gathering proved to be a really helpful event.

Evensong rang with a true accent of worship, and the rector, in his sermon, pleaded that all worshippers would pray for a deeper conception of the spiritual life, and take a real part in all the church services.

The choir, as usual, seemed to overcrowd their space, and deserve the best that can possibly be said of their unselfish services so splendidly demonstrated yesterday.

LOCAL CENTRE

Of Astronomical Society Held First Meeting--An Instructive Evening

The opening meeting of the local centre of the Royal Astronomical Society, held at the assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute Saturday night, was largely attended, and the occasion proved to be an interesting and instructive one for all.

Prof Alfred T. De Lury, of Toronto University, and president of the Astronomical Society of Canada, spoke on astronomy of to-day. He dwelt particularly with the astronomical problems which have arisen in recent years, and on the progress made.

Hon J. R. Stratton was present and presented to the local centre a telescope, which will be greatly appreciated.

On behalf of the society Messrs H. B Collier, T. A. S. Hay and D. Walker thanked Mr. Stratton for his gift.

Prof. Chant, of Toronto, will be the speaker at the next meeting.

"CHINA" WILL BE THE SUBJECT

The Sleeping Giant Awake, China, is the most interesting country in the world to-day. Pictures illustrating the life and people and conditions will be shown in Knox church to-night. These pictures will illustrate a talk by Mrs King, of Toronto, who has recently returned from a trip through China. The evening promises to be most interesting.

Ladies are reminded of the drawing room meeting to be held to-morrow afternoon in the Y W.C.A. parlors at 4 p.m. to meet Mrs. Shaplaigh, lately returned from China. Mrs. Shaplaigh will give a talk on conditions in China to-day.

WHEEL CAME OFF COAL-WAGGON

It was a general break down. One of R. J. Wolstenholme's wagons heavily loaded with coal, was proceeding out Charlotte street about 11 o'clock this morning, and at the crossing at Alymer street shed its front wheel and keeled over in the mud.

A street car coming along behind was brought to a stop until the wagon was shifted to one side to allow it to pass. Shortly after the coal was transhipped on to another wagon, and both were drawn away.

BOY SCOUTS TO HELP TO WELD CANADA AS A NATION

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—"Except in Ontario, (particularly Toronto, where I saw 2,000) scouts though started, have not yet been raised in large numbers, but this was because the organizers were awaiting my visit to see more exactly how to proceed. I have no doubt now of an extended development of the movement in each province."

The above is an extract from a report from Lieut.-General Sir R. Baden Powell, the distinguished head of the Boy Scout movement. It relates to his Canadian visit and tells what he saw. The report has just reached the Capital.

He tells of visiting fifteen scouting centres; endorses Canadian Clubs as patriotic associations with branches in almost every city; says that though there is not in Canada the need for scouting as an educational influence that there is in England, but that it still exists; and adds:—

"The racial difference between French-Canadians and those of British descent, and the influx of foreigners of all kinds, call for some practical welding of the whole in spirit for forming the rising nation

"In view of the proximate formation of a Canadian Navy and of the exceptional facilities for instruction afforded by the great lakes and rivers, "Sea Scouting" promises to be of value to the country in sounding the call of the sea to the boys and in teaching them the elements of seamanship."

TOURING IN OLD BIBLE LANDS

(a thick, rich sweet meat) after the hospitable manner of the east.

Then all the rest of the party, except my father and myself, elected to walk under and around the steep cliffs, down to Jericho, while we two, following the driver, climbed again up the steep ascent and entered the carriage. The rest of the road down to Jericho was extremely precipitous, but those wonderful little Arabian horses, reminding one of the active Canadian ponies, took us safely down, after much shaking and jolting, to the Ciccar of the Jordan. It is a wonderful sight, that luxuriant Jordan plain, and beautiful even in its ruined state. What must it have been, that "city of palm trees," in its palmy days, rearing its proud head in the midst of that magnificent forest of palm trees, which Josephus, the Jewish historian of the time of Christ, describes to us as eight miles long and three miles broad, though now, alas, not a single, solitary palm tree rears its head amid all the wild tangle of verdure, in which to-day stands modern Jericho.

So rich was the revenue once yielded by these palms and by the precious balsam, peculiar to the Jericho plain, that Marc Antony gave it to the woman of his love and his ruin Cleopatra. But those palmy, balmy days are over now, and it was through a wilderness growth of date trees and flowering oleanders and rose bushes that we drove. Herodian Jericho, marked still by the ruins of Herod's acqueduct to the wretched little village of Modern Jericho, with its negro huts and two good hotels, and put up at the Bellevue, from which we are going to see Ancient Jericho, the Jordan and the Dead Sea.

Thursday, Jan. 27, 1910.

This has been a wonderful day. After a good breakfast we started at 8.30 a.m. to drive to the Dead Sea, which is nine miles distant. We had three carriages for our party of eight, and each carriage had three horses, for driving is heavy over this sandy plain. There is really no proper road and in some places it was a regular "switch back" up and down over the sand hills, the girls, and I think the horses, too, enjoyed the fun of taking the steep hillocks at a hand gallop On the way we passed the slime pits of Gen. xiv, 10, where the King of Sodom and Gomorrah got caught like flies in a treacle trap, and have the appearance to-day of an Irish bog, a nasty place to fall into The getting to the Dead Sea is a very curious experience. It looks so close to you all the whole way, because the air is so clear in the plain, but at the end of three-quarters of an hour you do not seem to be much nearer that shore than when you started. However, in somewhat less than two hours we were at the shore of the Dead Sea. The blue salt lake lay gleaming there in the brilliant eastern sunshine just as I had seen it three years before, when we visited it in 1907 but there was something there I had not seen before, and which is very seldom seen at that sea, a large sailing smack, with a small boat attached. As we descended from our carriages the owner came forward to greet us and introduced himself as Max Ungab, or Max the Hungarian, a well known figure in the city of Jerusalem, and soon he had launched into an interesting conversation in which he told us that Holman Hunt, the celebrated painter, had lived at his father's house in Jerusalem for three years, and that he had there painted the celebrated "Scapegoat" picture on the westernmost shore of this same Dead Sea, for which, (Max Ungab) had himself procured the white goat, without spot, which had figured in that celebrated picture. Max himself had held the palette and brushes and watched the picture grow on the canvas. Then he told us a great deal about this curious Dead Sea on which he sails his smack to Kerah, at the head of Arabia. He was quite poetical and enthusiastic over it, and finally he invited us all to get into his boat and he would take us for a row, an offer which we gladly accepted, since Mr. Hughes told us it was a very unusual experience, for during the eighteen years he had lived in Jerusalem this was only the second occasion of his having a row on the Dead Sea. It was as calm as a sea of glass and is of a soft deep green in color when you are on it, though blue from a distance. I dipped in my fingers and tasted its acrid waters. Ugh! it was bitter and stung my tongue. The salt dried and glistened afterwards on my hand and yet left an oily feeling. It is the strangest thing on the earth this Dead Sea. As MacMillan says, "Earth has nothing else where exactly like it." It lies in the deepest depression on the face of the globe. Its surface is 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean and according to Dean Stanley was formed in prehistoric times by a convulsion of such magnitude that it must have shattered Palestine to its centre. As Newbold says, the whole valley of the Jordan Abor, which ends in the Dead Sea and starts up in the snow mountain ranges of Lebanon and Anti Lebanon, is just a big crevasse in Calcareous and volcanic rocks caused by an awful cataclasm; while many think that the whole long valley from the base of Hermon, which raises its snowy head 10,000 feet into the blue, right down to the gulf of Akaba was once an arm of the Jordan ocean connecting the Red Sea with the Mediterranean, may not this wonderful formation have taken place at the time of the Deluge, Gen. VIII., 11 .When the fountains of the great deep were all broken up by awful earthquakes and the waters of the Indian Ocean, as Sir William Canson says were tilted over the whole land washing the floating chest or ark up to the table lands of Ararat. A little study over a good map of Asia or even a school atlas brings the whole thing clearly before one's eyes The Hebrews called this the Salt Sea because of the extraordinary proportion of salt in solution in its waters. It is impossible to sink in it. Dr. Thomson could not make himself go lower than the arms, while Josephus in describing its extraordinary bouyancy, says that the Emperor Vespasian for an experiment had some Roman criminals with their hands tied behind their backs, thrown into this sea, when it so happened that they all swam as if a wind had forced them upwards. In modern traveller tales Dr. Robinson, who never could swim before either in fresh or salt water, says that in this Salt Sea he could sit, stand, lie or swim without difficulty. While Lynch in his expedition there says he had the greatest difficulty when swimming to keep his feet from going up over his head. Two fresh eggs which he placed in it swam with one-third of them out of the water. When he placed fresh eggs in the Mediterranean they went at once to the bottom. A horse standing in the bay had the greatest difficulty to keep himself from bobbing up and over. All this was due, as I before stated, to the immense amount of saline matter or superabundance of salt saltpetre and bromide of magnesiam. Careful calculation by the United States expedition ascertained that each gallon of the Dead Sea water holds 2 1-3 lbs. of salt in solution, while sea water of the Atlantic holds but 1-2 lb. or less. And Marchand's analysis shows that the quantity of salt in the Dead Sea is 128 times as great as that of the ocean. From Khas hin Usdenn, the great salt Mountain on the western side of the lake and some copious brine springs on both shores comes this supply and great salt layers or beds are being continually formed at its bottom by the immense evaporation on the surface.

The most extraordinary and unique thing about the Dead Sea is that it has no outlet, and that, in spite of the numbers of fresh rivers that run into it. But this is balanced by the immense evaporation of the salt water, which more than equals the supply. No fish will live in these waters, where the Jordan empties itself at the northern end of the sea, its muddy waters being distinctly visible for a long inrush to the blue-green sea; fishes are often carried in, but ere long they are seen floating dead upon the surface.

From here we drove up and across to the River Jordan, which there is no difficulty in finding, for all along that sandy Jericho Plain you can see the long, narrow strip of vegetation caused by the swiftly flowing, deep, narrow river, "the descender," as Jordan means in Hebrew. Mr. Hughes hailed a boatman and in a few minutes were were all seated in a boat and rowing up the Jordan, not quickly by any means, for it is very difficult to row against that strong, deep current of the muddy brown water. We rowed up to the fords of the pilgrim's bathing place, a sacred spot in Bible history, for here, according to tradition, our Lord was baptised by St. John the Baptist. Mark, 1, 5. Here also Elijah and Elisha divided the stream with Elijah's mantle. Kings II., 8. Here, also, I believe, is where the Israelites crossed under Joshua, for we are particularly told it was over against Jericho, and this spot is exactly opposite to ancient Jericho. The banks of the Jordan are beautifully wooded with golden tamaracs and green willows, while the Pampas waves its feathery fingers. We wanted just to say we had been in Moab on the eastern shores of the Jordan, so we got Mr. Hughes to land us on the somewhat muddy bank who knows, Joshua's fleet once blessed the sod.

Escaped Lunatic Perishes.

Brandon, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Charles H. Harding of Lethbridge, aged 48, was found Saturday night on the experimental farm, having just expired from exposure. Deceased was a harmless lunatic, who had been five years in the asylum burned on Friday night. She escaped in the confusion and snowstorm, and perished within a mile of the town and asylum. No inquest was considered necessary.

Canada Resents Imputation.

London, Nov 7.—Henry Vivian, M.P., when interviewed, stated that he had been asked to deliver a message from Canada, which strongly protested against the imputation that her loyalty would be in jeopardy unless tariff reform on a preference basis were adopted.

Story of a Royal Residence.

It is not generally known that King George almost purchased a residence in the North of Ireland a few years ago, and the true story why he did not do so has never previously been told. The residence in question was one that particularly appealed to him. The estate was extensive and possessed excellent fishing and shooting rights, while the scenery in the neighborhood was among the most picturesque it would be possible to imagine. The Prince and Princess of Wales (as their Majesties then were) fell in love with the place, and negotiations for its purchase were well advanced when the matter came to the ears of the leaders of the Irish party. A protest was at once entered with the Prime Minister of the day, and a significant hint was given that if the Heir-Apparent took up his residence in Ireland matters would be made pretty awkward for the Government in the House of Commons. The Premier was consequently in something of a dilemma, and sought an audience of the late King.

King Edward listened to what his chief political adviser had to say, and then consulted the Prince of Wales, and pointed out the objections that had been raised, and the awkward position in which the viceroy would be placed every time the prince or princess appeared in Dublin. King Edward further added reasons of his own for opposing this plan chiefly on account of the distance from London that his heir would be when residing upon his Irish estate. His present Majesty at length agreed to forego his project, and to accept Frogmore as his country home.

Far Too Official.

During a portion of the South African war, Lord Kitchener had as an orderly a young scion of a noble house who had joined the Imperial Yeomanry as a trooper. He could not quite understand that he was not on terms of perfect equality with the members of the staff, and having been summoned one morning to carry despatches for the commander-in-chief, he entered the room with a jaunty air. "Did you want me, Kitchener?" he asked calmly, while the rest of the staff gasped for fear of what would happen next. Kitchener, however, merely looked at him with a quiet smile. "Oh, don't call me Kitchener," he remarked gently, "it's so beastly formal. Call me Herbert!"

Irish Avoid the Navy.

In proportion to its population, Ireland supplies very few sailors to the royal navy. The number of boys who joined within the last two years was only 211, as compared with 6,349 for Great Britain. In the same period 318 second-class stokers were enlisted in Ireland, and 7,488 in Great Britain. There is no naval training ships on the Irish coast, the number of boys joining in Ireland being too small to justify it.

Imagination.

It is imagination rather than reason that distinguishes man from brute, and no person who is devoid of imagination can know extremes of happiness or misery. Happiness in a great measure depends on the faculty for forgetting.

Life Insurance

Many a father is going to mortgage the house in town or the farm in the country this Fall that the son may go to college. Possibly that "rainy day" fund is going to be drawn upon for this purpose. I have enough faith in Canadian youth to believe in such investments. The son intends to pay back to his father every cent just as soon as he gets into business for himself. With but an exception now and then, he will—IF HE LIVES. It is the latter point I want to emphasize. Life is not a certainty. A glance at any college catalogue will show the asterisk in the list of students and the word "deceased" at the bottom of the page. Frequently there is added to the loss or the son the LOSS OF THE COST OF HIS EDUCATION. The latter may mean the loss of the home. One of the legitimate uses of life insurance, it seems to me, is to take care of just such cases. The cost of life insurance for the son is very slight, because he is young and a good risk. It adds but little to the financial burden. In return it gives full protection to the parent, and in later years—after college debts are paid—it safeguards the home which the son sets up for himself No son who can get insurance has the right to mortgage his father's or his mother's future happiness when there is such a good way to avoid it. One word more, young man. Be sure that your insurance is in a well established, responsible company.

Someone has said, "The true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the SUN LIFE OF CANADA needs no comment, and the profits paid—let the actual results tell their own forceful story.

HARDWARE CONVENTION TO BE HELD HERE WILL BE A BIG AFFAIR; DETAILS ARE ALL ARRANGED BY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Hardware and Metal.

The Executive Committee of the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association met at Toronto, on Thanksgiving Day, all the members being present, as follows; D. Cinnamon, Lindsay, president; R. C. Chown, Belleville; M. B. Madole, Napanee; W. J. Bell, Beeton; H. Occomore, Guelph; W. A. Rankin, Ottawa; W. F. Macpherson, Prescott; R. H. Blackmore, St. Thomas; C. W. Conn, Tilsonburg; John Caslor, Toronto, treasurer, and Weston Wrigley, Toronto, secretary. D. Brocklebank, Arthur, chairman of the Mutual Insurance Company, was also present.

The secretary reported that arrangements were well under way for the sixth annual convention to be held at Peterborough, Feb. 21 to 24, 1911. The armories have been secured, a hall 176 x 80 being available for the exhibition with a meeting hall upstairs and an office also available for the secretary and treasurer. A large hall in the Collegiate Institute building adjoining the armories is also available for special gatherings where an attendance of over 300 is expected. The Reception Committee of the Peterborough City Council had advised that accommodation was available as follows; Oriental hotel, 200, $2 per day; National hotel, 150, $2; White, 40, $1.50; Snowden, 30, $1.50; Grand, 40, $1.50; Albion, 50, $1.50; Maple Leaf, $1.50; Montgomery, 20, $1.25; [illegible] 12, $1; Windsor, American, King George, Munro and Crown, 10 each, $1 per day. A Reception Committee will meet the visiting hardwaremen at the depot and cards containing a map of the business section of the city, and locating the depots, hotels, public buildings, armories, hardware stores and hardware factories will be distributed.

The Oriental hotel has been selected as convention headquarters. A card will also be placed in all the leading hotels in Ontario advising them to avoid Peterborough during Hardware convention week.

EXHIBITION AN ASSURED SUCCESS

Although it is still about four months before the convention will assemble, the space in the large armories has been almost completely taken up; only four of the seventy odd booths not having been allotted or held under option. E. F. Walter & Co., Montreal; the Glidden Varnish Company, Toronto, and D. J. Barker & Company, Picton, are the latest to arrange for displays. Yale & Towne, Stamford, Conn., are also expected to make a display, a feature of which will be an automatic demonstration of their goods in actual use. This is the class of displays that are being encouraged, displays that will enable visiting hardwaremen to learn more about the manufacture and practical uses of the goods they have in stock so that they will be better equipped to sell them intelligently.

The exhibition hall, which is 176 x 80 feet in size and has an area of over 14,000 square feet, is to be divided into booths with a frontage of twelve and a depth of ten feet. There will be about 70 booths, each constructed of framework, decorated with bunting and capped with a sign by the association according to a universal scheme of decoration. Some of the booths will also be fitted with wires for special lighting and mechanical devices.

AN INTERESTING PROGRAM.

The exhibition hall is to be open every morning, from 9 to 12, but will be closed during the convention meetings in the afternoon. The convention will sit from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m., after which the exhibition hall will be thrown open until 5.30.

On Tuesday afternoon, however, the hall will be closed all afternoon, the convention being open to travellers, manufacturers, etc., who will be invited to give short talks on "Methods of Salesmanship." A committee of travellers will be asked to assist in making the "travellers' hour" a success.

On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings band concerts will be given in the exhibition hall. On Tuesday evening only retailers will be admitted and on Wednesday evening the general public will be allowed to attend, a nominal fee of ten cents being charged. On Wednesday evening the association members will be engaged in their "Question Box" discussion, which this year will be in charge of a committee of which Wm. Magladery, Liskeard, Ont., is chairman. On Thursday evening retailers, exhibitors, and travellers will fraternize together in a social evening in the Collegiate Institute. Walter H. Cottingham, president of the Sherwin Williams Co., Cleveland, who began at the bottom of the ladder as a hardware clerk at Peterborough, has been invited to deliver an address on "Price Maintenance," and in addition to this, one of the best professional entertainers in the country will be secured to assist the "Hardware Chorus" and such trade talent as can be secured to make up an enjoyable program. Instead of a formal banquet with lengthy toasts and responses, a buffet lunch will be served during and after the concert.

Peterborough hardware manufacturers will name certain hours on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings, when their plants will be open for inspection.

WINDOW DRESSING COMPETITION

Several prizes will be offered for the best dressed windows of hardware, paints, stoves, etc., but the details of this part of the program will not be decided upon until the Peterborough hardware retailers have been consulted. Suggestions sent to the secretary regarding the competition will receive consideration.

SPECIAL RAILWAY RATES.

Arrangements have been made for special railway rates, which guarantee a single fare to all attending the convention, the Association assuring the railway companies of an attendance of over 300. Part of the arrangement is that return tickets will be issued free to those desiring to return home at any time during the convention. Much friction was caused at the London convention a year ago by the refusal of the railway agents to issue free return tickets until 300 certificates had been handed in to the railway officer. This delay will not be experienced at the Peterborough meeting.

The two telegraph companies and the Bell Telephone Company were asked to follow example of American telegraph and telephone companies in allowing delegates to convention to send personal messages to their home addresses free during the night hours. The request was refused, however, by each of the companies, on the ground that no precedent existed for this in Canada.

PERMANENT BADGE SELECTED.

A gold plated button in the shape of a paddock was selected as a permanent badge to be worn by the retailers and travellers belonging to the Association. The design and finish is very attractive, it being copied after the button universally used by members of the retail hardware associations in the United States. One of the buttons will be given with each receipt for membership in the association for 1911.

The Gillette Safety Razor Company are, in addition, getting up a handsome badge to be worn by those attending the Peterborough convention.

OTHER BUSINESS.

An invitation to affiliate with the International Ironmongers' Association, with headquarters in London, England, and with branches in various European countries, was not favorably considered at the present time.

A suggestion that an organizer be placed in the field to secure provisional applications for policies in the proposed mutual fire insurance company was not accepted. A letter was read from Attorney-General Foy to the effect that the statutes of Ontario are now being revised, and the suggested amendments to the Ontario Insurance Act would be brought before the commission shortly.

The secretary reported that the stove "lien notes" or "rent agreements" had been taken up by members in an encouraging manner, and a new issue had been printed, with several improvements over the first issue. Orders and requests for samples had been received from as far east as Nova Scotia, and as far west as North Dakota. The "rent agreement" is likely to be reprinted for use by several of the State Retail Hardware Associations. The "Blank form" committee are now working on a plumbing order form which will be suitable for general use by members.

The joint committee reported that they had been in correspondence with representatives of the Wholesale Hardware Association, and arrangements are being made for a conference in January to discuss matters affecting both jobbing and retail branches of the trade.

Action was taken on a complaint made by Purvius Bros., Sudbury. An explanation has been asked of the firm complained of.

Another complaint regarding the marketing of coal oil without any marks showing the weight, gravity, etc. was also dealt with.

Notice of the decision of the white lead manufacturers to discontinue marketing a second grade lead as "No. 1" in Ontario, as a result of the protest made by the Ontario Retail Hardware Association, was read and favorably commented upon.

An offer was received from F. C. Lariviere, Montreal, to give free consultation on business matters to members of the Ontario Association during the convention. Mr. Lariviere will remain in his room on hours to be announced, and any who desire advice on business system, financial matters, etc., can have same without cost.

These committees will stand subject to revision and additions at the opening of the convention.

FELL OFF SLIPPERY DAM AND FRACTURED HIS SKULL

Accident to Mr. Arthur Head, of Bethune Street, a Member of Bottle Lake Hunt Club.

Mr. Arthur Head of Bethune street, an employee of Fitzgerald's Carriage Works, who was in the back country with the Bottle Lake Hunt Club, fell off the top of a dam at Stoney Creek on Wednesday morning and was seriously injured. He was brought to the city on Saturday night by Dr. Amys, and the doctor stated to the Review this morning that he feared the base of Mr. Head's skull had been fractured. The injury is not necessarily fatal, however.

After the heavy rain of Tuesday the timbers of the dam were very slippery, and while Mr. Head was walking over it he lost his footing and fell.

LEAGUE OF GOOD FELLOWSHIP

Variety was given to the Rev. C. Carpenter's Sunday afternoon meetings yesterday, when a very large number of men attended the Princess Theatre, and enjoyed a happy "Musical hour."

The hymns were sung most heartily and the the other musical items were much appreciated.

The Rev. C. Carpenter prefaced each hymn with remarks as to its authorship, and the circumstances connected with its composition.

He spoke of the good done by Gospel singing as shown by the success of such compositions of Moody and Sankey of Crossley and Hunter, and others. That men who cared little for the Gospel message, when preached loved to hear it sung, and many would look back with happy thoughts to the little quiet Sunday evening sing-songs by the cosy fireside in the dear old home. He said that the power to sing was given by God, that it might be devoted to His service and prayer and thanksgiving, when put into song would uplift the human heart if we enter into the spirit of the words we sing.

In his prefaces to the hymns, he mentioned that "Lead Kindly Light" was composed by Newman, about 1833, before he went over to the Church of Rome and its beauty was such, that perhaps its influence on the hearts of men had been greater, than that of any other hymn.

"There Were Ninety-and-Nine" — Moody and Sankey were travelling to Glasgow, when Moody asked Sankey if he had a hymn to fit in with the subject of "The Good Shepherd." Sankey replied that he had some words but no tune, and immediately set to work to compose a tune in the train, and the result is, this touching hymn as it is known to-day.

"Nearer My God to Thee" was written by Mrs. Adams, a Unitarian, and he pointed out that while not mentioning the name of Jesus Christ it breathed His spirit.

"Jesu lover of my Soul" was said to have been suggested to the writer, Chas. Wesley, by a small bird flying in at his window and taking refuge in his room, during the raging of a great storm. He told a story of how the words, "Cover my Defenceless" had saved the life of a sentinel on outpost duty during the American Civil War. An enemy had crept up in the darkness and had, unknown to the sentinel, covered him with his rifle, when this murmured prayer came to his ears, and he retired feeling that God was protecting his enemy.

"Rock of Ages" Toplady, the author of this hymn, was that rare combination, through poet and through musician, who was converted at the age, 16, by hearing some rough, uneducated men preaching in an Irish barn. This hymn was the favorite one of the late Prince Consort, who, at the end of his life, said, that worldly honors left him poor but trust in the "Rock of Ages" made him rich.

During the afternoon Mr. A. C. Black sang "A Little Child Shall Lead Them" and Tosti's "Goodbye"; Mr. Morfitt sang the "Holy City," and a very efficient orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Halpenny was a great factor in an afternoon of thorough enjoyment.

In conclusion the Rev. Gentleman thanked all who had taken part, and extended a hearty invitation to the men of the city to attend the meetings in the Princess Theatre, and also to visit the club at 161 Antrim Road, any evening from 7 to 10.

HAS NO USE FOR INDIAN LIST: REV. W. C. RIDDIFORD TALKED, AND TALKED PLAINLY SUNDAY MORNING

In the first of a series of sermons upon "Constraining Motives," the Rev. W. C. Riddiford in the course of his remarks at the Park Street Baptist church, yesterday morning, gave expression to some very pointed convictions along some lines.

After touching upon the various motives that prompt men and women to do certain things because they are creatures of chance and free-will agents, he said, among a lot of other good and practical things, "Will the placing of a man on the black list make him a sober man? No. Any man with an ounce of honor will resent it. It may make him a worse man than he was before, and it may make him so ashamed of himself that he will want to sink out of sight, like a whipped cur. Personally, after a careful and, I trust, prayerful, study of the black list law and its effects on the lives and homes of men and women in general, I want to say frankly and candidly that I am opposed to it. Does that seem strange? Well, it is my honest conviction. I propose to help men live right by advising them to make a full and unconditional surrender to Jesus Christ. I want to put men on the blood list. The blood-bought, blood-washed list of Calvary, and not on the man-made black list of legislation that deprives many men of honor and individual sense of obligation to society and God.

To a large extent (leaving, perhaps, a reasonable margin for hereditary tendencies) men are drunkards by choice, and it is only by chance, by the constraining motive for the best that they can be rescued. If the constraint of appetite can keep men drunken, then I attest in no uncertain tones of absolute authority that the constraining blood of Jesus Christ can cleanse from all sin, be that sin, drunkenness or anything else.

"A few days ago I was at the Yonge Street Mission, Toronto, and listened to man after man testify to the saving and keeping power of Jesus Christ from drink. Yes, I repeat, I believe in the blood list of Jesus and not the black list of legislature reformation. Get men on the blood list and there will be no need of the black list.

CAMPAIGN AT AN END BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

Election For Governor of State Which Will Tell Whether or Not Theodore Roosevelt can "Come Back" Finds Betting Three to One on Democratic Candidate—No Liquor on Election Night.

New York, Nov. 8.—The New York gubernatorial campaign of 1910 passed into history last night with Henry L. Stimson, the Republican candidate, and Theodore Roosevelt, his most prominent backer, voicing their last appeals for votes. The final word on the Democratic side was spoken Sunday night, when John A. Dix, the head of the ticket, sent to Mr. Stimson his answer to the twelve questions telegraphed by Stimson to Dix's home in Thomson.

Mr. Dix spent the last day of the campaign at home. Mr. Stimson occupied the morning preparing an answer to his rival's reply of Sunday night, and the rest of the day and evening on the stump, or in an auto hurrying between political rallies in New York City.

The Democratic leaders declared that the quiet that prevailed yesterday on their side of the campaign was itself evidence of confidence. "Our party machinery up state is in better shape than at any time for the past fifteen years," said Chairman Rodie. "All the details of election are arranged, and we are not looking for trouble anywhere."

Chairman Prentice of the Republican state committee, said last night: "I am absolutely confident we'll carry the whole ticket, and I don't think the vote will be close."

He added that he believed campaigning up to the eleventh hour, such as Mr. Stimson and Col. Roosevelt indulged in last night, was useful in a big centre of population like New York.

The lid will be on and the great white way will be a vast vale of tears early Wednesday morning. Announcement was made yesterday that applications made by hotel and lobster palaces for permission to stay open all election night had been refused. No drink can be legally sold after 1 a.m.

Betting on the New York State election was lively in Wall street yesterday afternoon. Up to the close of the market it was estimated that about $60,000 had been wagered on the gubernatorial contest by curb brokers and members of the exchange. The prevailing odds were 3 to 1 on Dix.

$8,000,000 TO THE GOOD

Montreal, Nov. 8—Campbell Sweeny, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Vancouver, who is here to-day, says that the Government of British Columbia has no less than $8,000,000 to the good, as a result of the sale of the Prince Rupert townsites, and the dues coming in from a very great development of the lumber industry.

The banker thinks that Premier McBride will spend a good deal of this surplus money in providing good wagon roads in parts of the country which are almost inaccessible on account of their remoteness.

Guilty of Forgery.

Guelph, Nov. 8.—Lou Watson, alias Thomas Burns, was brought before Judge Chadwick yesterday afternoon on three charges of forgery, pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence Watson had forged several checks using the name of E. B. Clancy of the Wellington Hotel. Norman King, on a charge of indecent assault, also pleaded guilty, and was remanded for sentence. King was out on suspended sentence at the time of the assault.

SUFFERING FROM LACK OF POWER

Port Arthur, Nov. 8.—Port Arthur is suffering considerable inconvenience, owing to scarcity of electrical power, due to the Current River running dry. CHOOSING A LEADER

Edmonton, Nov. 8.—The Conservatives of the province will hold a convention in Edmonton on Wednesday, at which it is expected that a leader for the party will be chosen. It is said that R. H. Bennett has announced that he will retire from politics after this session. The party are desirous of securing either M. J. McCarthy or H. J. McGrath, but neither of these wish to give up their federal positions. E. Michener of Red Deer is also mentioned, but he is not considered sufficiently strong in faith for the position.

NEIGHBORS' HEARTLESS CONDUCT

Buchanan, Sask., Nov. 8.—The circumstances surrounding the death from suffocation of three children of A. Todd, farmer, living a few miles from here, place the neighbors in a very bad plight. The father of the children was away with a threshing gang and the mother was milking the cows, when a fire started in the kitchen, and the mother rushed back to rescue the children. A baby of six months was dead, although it had been carried to the bedroom by the eldest child, aged four. A second child died four hours later, and, when the mother rushed to the neighbors to ask them to go to town for a doctor, they all refused. Word reached here next day, and the doctor went, but was unable to save the life of the eldest child.

NATIONAL GUARD IS DEMORALIZED

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 8.—With three officers and four company officers having tendered their resignations, and three companies urgently requesting the Government to muster them out, the Texas National Guard is practically demoralized as the result of the recent conviction of Sergt. Manley of Company E, who bayonetted and killed a spectator during President Taft's visit to Dallas a year ago. Manley was given a life sentence.

Believe He Suicided.

Brockville, Nov. 8.—The belief seems to be gaining ground in Morristown that Barton S. Cruikshanks committed suicide by drowning himself last June. His widow, however, sticks to the theory of foul play. A motive for suicide, it is said, may have been discouragement over the failure of the military school, which Cruikshanks was trying to establish west of the village.

Prominent Cavan Man Dead.

Omemee, Nov. 8.—James McLean of Mt. Pleasant, Durham County, died Sunday night in his 85th year. He was prominent in Cavan Township, being a justice of the peace, and chairman of the board of health. He is survived by his widow, to whom he had been married 62 years, and by seven children.

MEANT LIBERTY FOR CRIPPEN

London, Nov. 8.—It was officially announced that Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, convicted and sentenced to death for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, would not be executed to-day, as originally arranged, for the reason that the law provides that two weeks must elapse between the dismissal of an application and the carrying out of the sentence. Nov. 23 has been fixed upon as the date for the execution.

Meantime Solicitor Newton, Crippen's counsel, is drafting a petition for a reprieve.

Meant Liberty for Crippen.

Toronto, Nov. 8.—According to Hon. Joseph Martin, K.C., now in Toronto, the Court of Criminal Appeal in London has no power to grant a new trial and must either affirm the conviction or set it aside. If conviction is set aside the man convicted is discharged and can not be again placed on trial for that offence. This is what would have happened in the Crippen case if they had found any error in the trial proceedings.

A WINDFALL FOR WARDEN

Kingston, Nov. 8—Daniel O'Leary, deputy warden of the penitentiary, was bequeathed $2,000 by his uncle, Jarvis Morgan, who died at Potsdam, N.Y., leaving a fortune of $500,000, divided between four nephews, the others being John O'Leary, Prescott; Henry O'Leary, Ottawa; George O'Leary, Norwood, N.Y.; and three sons, the late Con. O'Leary, Ottawa; George and Morgan O'Leary.

Owing to the fact that men cannot be secured for stoker work at the penitentiary, the work is being done by convicts. Inspector Dawson will investigate. The claim is made that one man cannot do the work, and that if outsiders are to do it, two men must be put on the job.

POISON IN THE WINE

Vancouver, Nov. 8.—Louis Iansnersy is dead, Emil Delasdier and Henri Cachett are in the General Hospital and John Damr is either dead or a fugitive from the police, as the result of a drinking bout in Vancouver early yesterday morning, in which poison is said to have figured.

The four Frenchmen met in a house in Fairview, and among the drinks consumed was a bottle of port wine, which is believed by the police to have contained strychnine. When the police were called to the house they found the dead body of Iansnersy, and Delasdier and Cochett were so nearly dead that it was at first thought little could be done for them at the hospital. They are not, however, out of danger.

Demar was missing when the police searched the house, and a general call has been sent out for his arrest, the police believing he is still alive.

WAS CURIOUS COINCIDENCE

New Orleans, La., Nov. 8.—W. O. Fitzgerald, a painter, hurrying homeward with an oyster loaf early yesterday morning, stumbled against a post, fell into a shallow puddle of water and was drowned.

The two men were not related.

A "Vilifying Report."

Melbourne, Nov. 8—Premier Murray at Victoria emphatically contradicts what he characterizes as "a certain vilifying press report" from Australia, published in some Canadian papers, regarding the resignation of Thomas Tait, chairman of the Victorian Railway Commissioners. Premier Murray says that his resignation was entirely voluntary, and greatly regretted by the Government.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—The annual general meeting of the Dominion Alliance opened here yesterday afternoon. The election of officers brought one important change, Rev. W. M. Rochester of Winnipeg, formerly general secretary for the west, becoming Dominion general secretary, to replace Rev. T. Albert Moore, formerly of Hamilton, now of Toronto, resigned.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8.—The city's population is 10,036, according to the police census report, submitted to the council last night. The airline distance, as given out by the Wrights, in 65 miles, and the flight was made in 66 minutes. Parmalee carried $1,000 worth of silk for a dry goods' firm, and it is said that this is the first time that the biplane has been put to such commercial use. Parmalee flew at a height of 3,000 feet.

MUST PROVIDE FOR THE INSANE

Brandon, Nov. 8.—This city will compelled to find accommodation for as many homeless patients of the asylum as are allowed to remain in Manitoba. Relief will be afforded, of course, by the removal of many to the new asylum at Ponoka. Unwillingness on the part of citizens to allow the Government to use the winter fair building in the centre of the city vanished, when Hon. G. R. Caldwell acting Minister of Public Works, intimated that the institution might be removed from Brandon if the winter fair building were not turned over for the use of the patients.

Tailors to Close to Prevent Disorder.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Inability to detail policemen to preserve the peace at the many tailoring shops affected by the garment workers' strike, and at the same time to prevent disorders at the 1,322 polling places in Chicago on election day, compelled Chief of Police Steward yesterday to appeal to the clothing manufacturers to shut down their places of business. He said nearly all of the strike-bound places promised to comply.

No Postoffice Yet.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 8.—Windsor will not have a new postoffice, for the present at least. There has been an agitation on foot for some time for the enlargement of the postoffice floor space, but work was started on the installation of new interior fittings, which is all that the Government will allow for the present. These will entail an expenditure of about $7,000.

MAKES CHARGES AGAINST POLICE

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Archbishop Bruchesi Sunday denounced the licenses allowed to the road houses and hotels, and said the police knew they were being used for immoral purposes, and that they did nothing, owing to influence in high places. The answer of Chief Campeau was a general denial.

CONFERENCE IN CAMERA

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—The Canadian and United States trade negotiators were again in conference yesterday afternoon, but, after a sitting of three hours, it was announced that there was nothing yet available for publication regarding the progress of the negotiations. The commissioners on both sides are observing the strictest confidence as to the nature of the respective Canadian and American proposals relative to free trade, and it is stated that no authoritative announcement as to the progress made or the tentative agreements reached may be expected for some days. Beyond the general statement as to the basis of the negotiations, and the probability of any tariff agreement being mainly confined to a larger measure of free trade in natural products, as already outlined, any authoritative information affecting the detailed aspects of the whole question is not available.

The two meetings of the American commissioners with Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson have not yet developed any tangible results calling for consideration by the Government as a whole, and it is understood that it will take several days of further careful consideration of the various complex aspects of reciprocal tariff reductions before even a tentative agreement as to some of the proposed changes can be reached.

A member of the Government told our correspondent last night that he anticipated no very radical tariff changes as a result of the present negotiations, and that in any event there would be no serious reduction, if any, in Canada's customs revenue.

INCENDIARISM IS SUSPECTED

Welland, Nov. 8.—The firemen, returning at four o'clock yesterday morning from a fire which destroyed the house of Harry Robbins, discovered that Cutler's planing mill was on fire. Owing to the inflammable nature of the contents and the building, nothing could be done to save the property. The loss is $15,000, on which there is an insurance of $3,000.

The barn of the Whalley House was also discovered to be on fire, and the chief of police suspects an incendiary has been at work, as no cause can be ascertained for the fires.

At midnight Sunday three houses were burned in Cainsville, near Humberstone, and yesterday Mrs. Samuel Sloat, James Doan and Frank Vasbinder are homeless. Very little of the contents were saved, and the inmates of the Sloat home were rescued only with difficulty. Mrs. Sloat was considerably burned about the face. The total loss will run about $5,000.

Carrick Buys Montreal Property,

Montreal, Nov. 8.—J. J. Carrick, M.P.P. for Port Arthur, yesterday completed the purchase of the Redpath property, which is quite a large slice of Mount Royal, for half a million dollars. The city had been negotiating for the property for two years to add it to Mount Royal Park.

Reception to General Benson.

NATHAN SAYS HE DID NOT BLASPHEME IN CONTROVERSY

Chief Executive of the City of Rome Sends Letter to Montreal Council Declaring That When He Criticized the Papal Administration He Had No Intention of Assailing Spiritual Side of the Catholic Church.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—Ernest Nathan, Mayor of Rome, has sent the following letter to the mayor and council of Montreal:

"Gentlemen,—His Eminence the Archbishop of Montreal, in accordance with other reverend and eminent men, who direct the political organization of the Roman Catholic Church, has called a meeting of the faithful to scourge me for blasphemy, for insulting God, the Saviour, and His Holiness the Pope.

"At a meeting of the common council, many of you gentlemen before approving a similar vote of censure, in the uprightness of your judgements, desired to have before you the precise text of the averred blasphemies. I have much pleasure in enclosing you a copy, both of my speech, and a later reply to the papal bull. I trust you will perceive the justice of your reserve, the injustice of a supposition, whereby I am accused of insulting religion, and its divine representative.

"A man who, like myself, has a profound belief in religious faith, whatever shape it assumes, cannot be guilty of what is truly blasphemy. As the whole gist of my words truly points out, my criticisms do not affect faith. They treat of a political organisation, waging war in faith's name against my country, striving to undo Italian unity, to repress and condemn liberty of conscience, power of research, modern science, civil progress. Men holding public office have, the undeniable right to criticise the hostile attitude and to show as in a picture how different the past papal sway of Rome was to its present government.

"So much and no more is set forth in my words, whereby, if the charity of his reverence the archbishop, which beginneth at home, has been excessive, surely that excess has been accounted for by the lack of temperance and justice of his unchristian strictures.

(Signed) "Ernesto Nathan,
"Mayor of Rome."

This letter will be presented to the City Council at its meeting to-morrow night.

There are twenty-nine Catholic families fewer in the parish of St. Louis de France than there were this time last year, and Cure Bellanger deplores the fact that the French-Canadians are allowing the foreign population to crowd them out.

GUELPH STUDENTS ARE VERY ANGRY

Guelph, Nov. 8.—Some very interesting developments are bound to follow as the result of certain statements made by the Rev. G. W. Arnold, pastor of Knox, to the effect that he had on very good authority that a number of young men of this city, some of whom were members of the Guelph Collegiate Institute, were seen drinking Thanksgiving Day.

A deputation of the students waited upon the principal, James Davison, yesterday morning, and stated that they wished something should be done to prove either the truth or falsity of the statements, and thus vindicate the student body of the collegiate. Mr. Davison agreed that the reverend gentleman ought to be made either to prove his statements, or retract them and apologize, and stated that he would see to it that this was done.

LINDSAY MAN DIED ON TRAIN

Lindsay, Nov. 8.—A telegram received here yesterday announced the death of Fremont Crandell, one of the best known residents of Lindsay. Mr. Crandell was purchasing agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific, with headquarters at Prince Rupert.

The deceased had been unwell for several weeks, visiting his family, and had left here on his return trip to the west on Oct. 22. He reached Wetaskawin on Nov. 2, and at the noon hour was apparently well, walking two miles to the station. Later he complained of some stomach derangement, and becoming alarmingly ill and unconscious, dying on the train at 4.30, despite the medical skill of two doctors, who were on the train.

Says He Was Assaulted.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8.—Blair Bratten, who was made yard foreman during the Grand Trunk strike, complained to the police that he was assaulted on the street last night by four former car checkers. They will appear before the magistrate to-day. Bratton says he escaped injury by running away.

Didn't Get Permits.

Port Arthur, Nov. 8.—That the official building permit figures do not show the total was evidenced when three local contractors were given nominal fines in the Police Court for neglecting to take premits on a total of twenty business blocks and residences.

George Martsen Guilty.

Woodstock, Nov. 8.—George Martsen, who was arrested by the Toronto police after he was liberated from the Central Prison, was tried on three theft charges yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH

There are no flies on the Board of Health. It is cold weather. Are they stiff, unconscious, or dead? The flies are. This body attempted to meet this morning, but there was no quorum. The reason ——

However, the garbage pile increases day by day in the lane and in the back yard.

A QUESTION

Where was our Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, when on Saturday night an horse was allowed to lie with a broken hip and die from suffering? Is the Society as dead as the horse? Or, did we never have one? Will some wise one please answer.

LICENSE THE BARBER

The movement to license the barbers of Ontario is one that will meet with the general approval of those who do not grow whiskers.

Why should a man come out qualified as a barber in eight weeks from a barber college when it takes three years to become a journeyman and join the union in any accredited shop?

Razors are razors.

Whiskers are whiskers.

Mix a bunch of tough whiskers, wiry and wild on a face that is delicate and let some half qualified savage skin you and bleed you alive with a razor that is dull and a hand that is trembling, and you will vow that it will never, never take place again.

But whiskers are whiskers and razors are razors, and whiskers will grow and razors will scrape so long as unqualified men are allowed to use them.

As one who believes in the clean face we are in sympathy with a license for every man who proposes to make facial adornment his art. We have M.D.—Medical Doctor. Why should we not have J.B.—Journeyman Barber, attached to the end of a duly qualified worker with the razor?

ARE WE BEING ECLIPSED

And what of life's eclipses?

That young man who came in new from the country, and engaged in the store, and who paid faithful attention to his duties, who did not work for revenue only, who was full of git up and git

You know him and so do we.

He has eclipsed the other fellows in the same place and will be manager of a department before the Christmas rush

Eclipses, yes, we see them everywhere

We see it in the business world. one merchant, the newcomer, paying strict attention, advertising and watching every chance, gobbling opportunity wherever he sees it. And one day he is acknowledged a superior rival, and he has totally eclipsed the other fellow.

You have seen it in music, the timid singer, the first night, the first song in public, trembling, quavering, and weak, a voice of rare quality, but no confidence, He keeps on day after day hoping, studying, and improving, and one day he is noted, she is noted, and they have eclipsed their jealous rivals.

Life's eclipses.

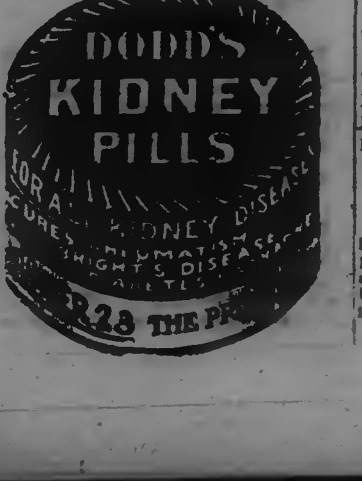
Sickness comes and casts a shadow. Yes, and then follows health, and how bright the day. How the birds sing for us with a new song, how the winds carry a new message, for the eclipse is past, and we are well again.

Life's eclipses pursue us all, for there is no life without its shadow no home without its sigh.

It may be the shadow of poverty that crosses over our path, or disappointed hopes, or unrequited love, or defeated ambition. We must all know this shadow, and none can step aside.

Yes, the sun came out again this morning, out from behind the moon, but there will come that darkness, that final darkness, that final eclipse to which the whole world hastens.

It may be this day and it may be to-morrow till this life is eclipsed, to appear again where the sun shines forever, where there are perpetual fountains, no dust, no jarring noise or deepening shadows.



WHAT OF THE COMING GENERATION?

Quebec, Nov. 5.—Wilbrod Laprise, aged 13, was found guilty yesterday of manslaughter and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. His brother Alfred and his friend Blouin, were acquitted.

Wilbrod Laprise is the lad who shot the son of Mr. Langlois, M.P.P.—Yesterday's Review.

A shout has gone up and down the land, "How terrible."

They have been reading the Laprise case of the murder of the little babe.

They have passed judgment on the little boy, and condemned him. They have called him a fiend and a devil.

Don't blame the boy so much.

Blame the surroundings, blame the early training, blame the harum-scarum life he was perhaps, allowed to lead.

He might have been corrected in time.

It is not too late; he may be corrected yet, and turn out a respectable man.

The world forgets its lesson soon, and nine days' wonders are quickly out of mind.

No doubt many a parent thinks of the Laprise case, and shudders when they think of the neglect.

But their own boy is "bumming" about the town, standing on the corner smoking cigarettes and spitting on the sidewalk.

He is one of the worst fellows in the neighborhood.

But he doesn't advertise who he is at home.

He says, "To hell with the old man, he isn't running me," when his pals go home early, and he moves further down the street.

They don't realize that he bids fair to become a menace to society.

The mothers who are pitying the lad, and talking about him being so badly brought up, are allowing their girls to run out at nights and keep dates with their sweethearts after dark. And they do keep them, and the parents don't know anything about it; and the quiet walks will be taken, those quiet walks that bring the tear, for

"A sigh too much and a kiss too long,
Then follows the sound of a sweeping rain,
And things are never the same again."

Some day a scandal is suppressed, for Tom has been crooked, and left in a hurry. Mary has been betrayed, and her betrayer has skipped from the country.

Keep your eye on the kids in this great and glorious fall.

Every mother and father naturally thinks that their children are about right, but keep your eye on them.

Don't chain them, let them jump up and yell and holler and tear things loose, for if they don't there must be something wrong; but when Old Sol goes to sleep, when the bird puts its head beneath its wing, we think it is time for the maternal eye, for the parental eye, to be on the outlook for the children.

Don't blame the Laprise kid.

There is more or less of the devil in us all and was it encouraged in the unfortunate who is now charged with murder.

Discourage His Satanic Majesty, and keep the kids off the streets at night, and some day when they get on long skirts, and when the long trousers come, they will say, "My old man was a good head, my mother took an interest in me."

It may save you a few sleepless nights, a few wrinkles and a lot of tears.

Yet unfortunate it seems to be, that THERE WAS NO PLACE BUT A PENITENTIARY TO PUT A LAD OF FIFTEEN YEARS IN FOR REFORMATION AND RECLAMATION.

THE SANE AND INSANE

Six hundred sane people in a theatre hear a cry of "Fire," and there is a panic. Six hundred insane, in an asylum, are menaced by a real conflagration, and escape unhurt. What is the answer?—Toronto Star.

The answer we would suggest is that the six hundred insane at Brandon had been so carefully watched that they had forgotten to take any heed for themselves. Their come-day-go-day existence, under the eye of the guards and attendants, left them largely nothing to do but eat and sleep. Wake to eat and sleep again. In St. Catharines, when there was the call of fire, the panic, which was happily allayed, arose from the selfishness in man and the idea that unless he hustled he would be trampled and burned to death.

Ideas, do they seek to cultivate sane ideas in our asylums!

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Forty odd shopping days remain before Christmas. Perhaps ninety per cent. of the people of Ottawa will do their Christmas shopping in the ten per cent. of this remaining time that lies next to Christmas Day.

If this ratio could be reversed, then holiday time would be a great sight more comfortable for the merchants and clerks of the city and Christmas would not be signalized as it now is by a doubling of the ordinary amount of labor to a large number of people. —Ottawa Journal

Shop now and avoid the rush. This is no new expression, neither is Christmas new. Every year people procrastinate till the best things are sold, the clerks are out of temper and out of sorts. Deliveries cannot promptly be made. There is general confusion. Shop early and avoid the rush—that is, if you have the price.

THE SPARROW

A sparrow lit on a wisp of hay on Chambers street and attempted to take it to his winter home. He no sooner got it to a roof than another sparrow grabbed it with his beak. Then there was a tug of war. The first sparrow lost his straw, but soon got after the other fellow and picked at not the straw, but the assailant. We didn't wait to see the result. It was dinner hour. If there were more men with the spunk of the sparrow there would be better homes and fuller coal bins, and more comfortably clothed families in the province than there are to-day.

Somebody feels that he is unjustly treated. He throws up his job. He doesn't buck up and work harder than ever. He gets cold feet. Some woman hears a story about her. She first gets mad. Then she bursts into tears. The sparrow is ever chirping from the eave trough. He always gets his food. Sometimes it is a cold, sometimes it is a warm dinner. But he is a happy chap winter or summer, rain or shine. Consider the sparrow, my son.

BRAINS AND MONEY

Mr Tudor Jenks, in the New York "Independent" considers that brains are a drug on the market, although they are of the utmost value to every community, and common sentiment admits this to the extent of awarding them nearly every recognition but money. "Give me the cash and I can hire the brains" is so common a saying that it is never disputed. Mr. Jenks explains the disparity by the fact that mankind's work in the world consists chiefly in making unmaking or transporting combinations of matter. Considering the intrinsic value of their services what classes, asks Mr. Jenks, are more poorly paid than authors, who are the critics and creators of our ideals; editors, who should sift from the crude material the ore that is valuable; the teachers of morals, whose work outweighs in preservative power that of all the armies, navies, and police of the globe; the statesmen who keep the nation's honor and insure its permanence; the physicians, who make living possible under artificial conditions imposed by civilization; the poets, musicians, artists—the whole artistic corps—who make life bearable by feeding the imagination, cultivating romance rewarding taste, and culture? All these may be and are cheaply hired; they have to peddle their abilities to men who have made a business of making money; and who when they have made it affect a pose of culture which may be laudable but which is frequently amusing and sometimes offensive. There must be compensation, however, in high thinking on "a little oatmeal," since that describes the condition of some of the very finest characters of the human race. At the same time, there was some excuse for the professor's wife who objected: "They say you are far more clever than Mr. Jones the pawnbroker and of far more service to your fellows; yet you have a shabby coat, I have a last season's hat, and we both find it difficult to give our children the education and other things they deserve. The Joneses, on the other hand, have everything material they want. What's the use of being brilliant? 'How can brains secure adequate remuneration or be enabled to make the most effective use of their power' is a subject suggested for debate by the author.—Montreal Witness.

Yes too bad that Christ, the Master Man had no place to lay His head "Paradise Lost" was sold for $80. Bunyan was a tinker, Bunyan and a bunch of other immortals hadn't enough to have a decent funeral. But you can't lay claim to be an immortal among men and be a rich guy and an autocrat on earth. Strange compensation isn't it? There are cases, but few. Edison is one, but for every one there are a hundred who suffer and who express their suffering for future generations to feel. "He was one of us."

"It is my unpleasant duty"—Peabody and Stevens exchanged glances—"to place a matter before this body that to me, as a member of this honorable body, is not only distasteful, but deeply to be regretted.

"There has arisen ground to suspect a member of this body of having endeavored to make money at the government's expense out of land which he is alleged to have desired his own committee to choose as the naval base.

"I therefore offer this resolution providing for the appointment of an investigating committee to look into these charges."

Langdon was intensely excited over this new development. "Some one has learned something about Peabody or Stevens," he muttered. He feared that this new complication might in some way affect the fate of the naval base—that the south, and Mississippi, might lose it. He rose slowly in his seat, while the senate hummed with the murmur of suppressed voices.

"I ask for more definite information," he began when recognized and after the president of the senate had pounded with the gavel to restore quiet, "so that this house can consider this important matter more intelligently."

Senator Horton rose. He said:

"I will take the liberty of adding that the senator accused is none other than the junior senator from Mississippi."

Langdon's eyes blazed. He strode swiftly into the aisle.

"Mr. President," he cried passionately, "I know this is not the time or place for a discussion like this, but ask that senatorial courtesy permit me to ask"—then he concluded strongly before he could be stopped—"what is the evidence in support of this preposterous charge?"

"This is all out of order," said the presiding officer after a pause, "but in view of the circumstances I will entertain a motion to suspend the rules."

This motion passing, Horton replied to Langdon.

"Your name is signed to a contract with J. D. Telfer, mayor of Gulf City, Miss., calling for 3,000 shares in the Gulf City Land company, and"—

"A lie, a lie!" screamed Langdon.

"That official," went on Horton coolly, "is now in Washington. He has the contract and will swear to conversations with you and your secretary. His testimony will be corroborated by no less a personage than Congressman Norton of your own district, who says you asked him to conduct part of the negotiations."

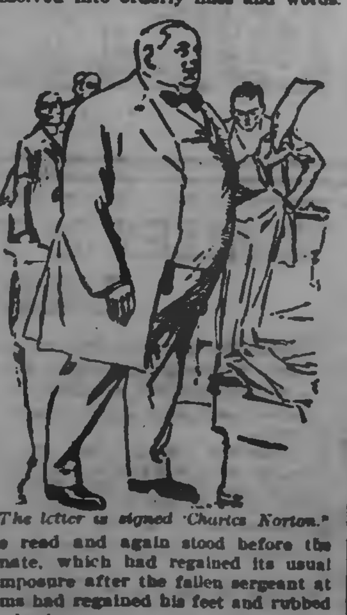
"And I might add," cried Horton, "that it is known to more than one member of this honorable body that you had drawn up a minority report in favor of Gulf City because of your anger at the defeat of your plan to take the naval base away from Altacoola."

Langdon sank into his chair, bewildered, even stunned. There was a conspiracy against him, but how could he prove it? The ground seemed crumbling from under him—not even a straw to grasp. Then the old fighting blood that carried him along in Beauregard's van tugged at the valves of his heart, revived his spirit, ran through his veins. He leaped to his feet.

A sound as of a scuffle—a body falling heavily—drew all eyes from Langdon to the rear of the main aisle. An assistant sergeant at arms was lying face downward on the carpet. Another was vainly trying to hold back Bud Haines, who, tearing himself free, rushed down to his chief waving a sheet of paper in the senator's eyes.

"Read that," gasped the secretary breathlessly, and he hurried away up a side passageway and out to reach the stairs leading to the press gallery.

Langdon spread the paper before him with difficulty with his trembling hands. Slowly his whirling brain gave him the ability to read. Slowly what appeared to him as a jumbled nothing resolved into orderly lines and words.



"The letter is signed 'Charles Norton.'"

He read and again stood before the senate, which had regained its usual composure after the fallen sergeant at arms had regained his feet and rubbed his bruises.

"I do not think there will be any investigation," he said, with decided effort, struggling to down the emotion that choked him. "I ask this house to listen to the following letter:

"Dear Senator Langdon—When you receive this letter I shall be well on my way to take a steamer for Cuba. I write to ask you not to think too harshly of me, for I will always cherish thoughts of the friendship you have shown me.

"Peabody and Stevens have finally proved too much for me. When they got old Telfer to swear to a forged contract and wanted me to forge your name in the land records at Gulf City, I threw up my hands. Their game will always go on, I suppose, but you gave them a shock when you broke up their Altacoola graft scheme. And I'm glad you did. They cast me aside today, probably thinking they could get me again if they needed me.

"I am going on the sugar plantation of a friend, where I can make a new start and forget that I ever went to Washington."

Langdon paused deliberately. The senate was hushed. The galleries were stilled. Not even the rustle of a sheet of paper was heard in the reporters' gallery. The Mississippian gazed around the senate chamber. He saw Stevens and Peabody craning their necks across the aisle and talking excitedly to each other.

Then he stepped forward and spoke, waving the paper in the air.

"This letter is signed 'Charles Norton.'"

The old southerner gazed triumphantly at the men who had sought to destroy him. It was with difficulty that the presiding officer could hammer down the burst of handclapping that arose from the galleries.

Senator Horton, however, was not satisfied with Langdon's sudden ascendency.

"How do we know that that letter is not a forgery, a trick," he exclaimed.

"Go get Congressman Norton—if you can—and get his denial," responded Langdon.

The junior senator from Mississippi hurriedly pushed his way out of the senate chamber. His day's work was done.

* * * * * * *

Down on a broad plantation along the Pearl river an old planter, who has borne his years well, as life goes nowadays, passes his days contentedly. He delights in the rompings of his grandchildren as they rouse the echoes of the mansion and prides himself on the achievements of their father, Randolph, who has improved the plantation to a point never reached before.

Sometimes he receives a letter from his daughter, Hope Georgia, now Mrs. Haines, telling him of her happy life, or perhaps it is a letter from Carolina, describing the good times she is having in London with the friends she is visiting.

And the old planter goes out on the broad veranda in the warm southern twilight, and he thinks of the days that were. He remembers how the Third Mississippi won the day at Crawfordsville. He thinks of the days when he fought the good fight in Washington. His thoughts turn to the memory of her who went before these many years and whom he is soon to see again, and peace descends on the soul of the gentleman from Mississippi as the world drops to slumber around him.

THE END.

Spaniards' Taste in Reading.

The librarian selected a book entitled "Farming In the Ohio Valley." "Will you give this to that young man waiting at the desk?" she said to an assistant. "He is a Spanish student learning to read English, and I think this will suit him."

"That sounds like a very unpromising subject for a student in English to tackle," a friend remarked.

"It would be uninteresting to anybody but a Spanish student," said the librarian, "but the Spaniards run to farming literature. When training beginners in English of any other nationality something sprightly in the way of fiction or travel usually is recommended. But not to the Spaniard. Nine times out of ten it is a work on agriculture that he will make the best progress in."—New York Press.

Had to Bow to Custom.

The late King Oscar of Sweden was the least conventional of monarchs, but he had to courtesy to custom nevertheless. The king and M. Bonnier, the botanist, met as strangers while out in search of flowers near Stockholm. They were soon the best of friends, and Bonnier suggested lunch at his inn.

"Come home with me instead," said the other.

When the way led to the palace gates Bonnier hesitated.

"I'm sorry," said his companion, "but I happen to be the king of this country, and this is the only place where I can entertain my friends."

DECLINED WITH THANKS

FAMOUS BRITONS WHO HAVE REFUSED TO ACCEPT TITLES.

Chamberlain Was Unwilling to Lose Himself Under a Strange Name and It Was Only After Years That Lord Morley Took His Peerage—Radicals Have Several Times Turned Down Honors—Heaton Said "No."

Most men are only too pleased to receive some honor as a mark of recognition of either political services to their party or in the wider sphere of usefulness to their fellows, says M.A.P. It, therefore, requires considerable strength of character to refuse such an honor from motives of modesty or owing to an unswerving adherence to principles. Yet many a famous man has refused recognition by his sovereign and a grateful country for these reasons, some of them more than once.

That great statesman whose failing health has kept him out of the turmoil of politics for so many months has refused to lose his identity under a little known title. Thus, when he went to Washington in 1887 on a mission concerning the fishery troubles between Canada and the United States, Lord Salisbury offered him a peerage on his return, but Mr. Chamberlain refused it, preferring to remain in the Commons where he had won so many triumphs.

It is well known that it was only with the utmost reluctance that Lord Morley was prevailed upon to accept a title. He had refused one several times, but when it at last came to the choice of remaining in the Lower House as a private member or retaining his post as Secretary for India in the calm of the Lords, he finally decided to accept the honor.

When the present Lord James of Hereford became Solicitor-General he refused for some time to accept the knighthood that goes with the post, but Mr. Gladstone insisted that tradition should be respected.

More than one sturdy Radical who had no belief in the peerage, has refused promotion to the Gilded Chamber, or declined lesser honors. Two years ago it was expected that the Birthday Honors List would include the name of Mr. Arthur Acland, who entered Mr. Gladstone's last Cabinet in 1892 at the same time as Mr. Asquith, but it was understood that he had declined the proffered peerage. Then, when that veteran statesman, Mr. Henry Chaplin, left the Conservative Government ten years ago, he did not see his way to accept the peerage that Lord Salisbury was anxious to bestow upon him.

Knighthoods have been declined on the same grounds, while others have preferred to retain the simple title of plain "Mr." In two cases knighthoods have been refused after The Gazette has contained an announcement of their bestowal. Mr. Henniker Heaton, the famous advocate of universal penny postage, who is retiring from the representation of Canterbury at the end of the present Parliament, declined knighthood on several occasions. When Mr. Balfour resigned office in 1905 he recommended Mr. Henniker-Heaton for the K.C.M.G., in recognition of his work in binding the Empire closer by means of cheap postage. The member for Canterbury was then on one of his visits to Australia, and when he heard of the announcement he at once wrote to decline it.

The same thing happened to Dr. J. W. Hackett, a prominent politician and newspaper owner of Western Australia. He was astonished to receive a cable from London announcing his knighthood, but he had no desire for the honor and promptly refused it.

At the time of the Imperial Press Conference last year at least two of the colonial representatives did not see their way to accept a knighthood that had been offered. But they do not set much store by titles in the colonies, and many statesmen belonging to the dominions beyond the seas have preferred to remain undistinguished above their fellows. That noted Imperialist, Mr. Deakin, has consistently refused every honor, even a Privy Councillorship having no attractions for him. At the last Colonial Conference those visiting Premiers who did not already belong to the Privy Council were sworn in as members, but the Australian Premier again declined as he had already done in 1900.

It is only within comparatively recent years that the arts of literature and the drama have been recognized as deserving honor as much as painting and the sciences. Mr. J. M. Barrie, who is equally successful as novelist or dramatist, is of such a shy and retiring nature that no one was very surprised when he refused a knighthood offered him twelve months ago.

Very few men have refused an honor in so graceful a manner as did Major Karri Davies, that sturdy Outlander who was a thorn in the side of the late President Kruger, and who led the South African Light Horse so gallantly during the Boer War. He was offered the Commandership of the Bath, but he wrote expressing his thanks and asking that he "might be permitted to serve His Majesty without any reward, as that was reward enough."

There are unregenerate people who look on the Victorian Order as a sort of negative honor to be without which is a greater distinction than to possess it, but it was not for this reason that M. Gunnar Knudsen refused the Grand Cross when the late King Edward was visiting Scandinavia two years ago. He asked leave to decline it as he disagreed with orders in general, an explanation that was published at the time, because some thought it odd that while the Premiers of Denmark and Sweden were created K.C.V.O. the Prime Minister of Norway was left out.

The King's Castles.

There are four residences which are always considered as being in the personal occupation of the King, namely, Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Marlborough House, and Frogmore. It is said that in future the occupants of the last-named will be Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck.

Rev. Arthur Carlyle was inducted as rector of All Saints' church, Windsor, by Bishop Williams, of Huron diocese.

TO-DAY IS THE DAY

Special to the Review.

New York, Nov. 8.—Voting is going on briskly everywhere to-day, according to reports received here, and present indications are that the total vote cast will be the heaviest in years. The betting, however, is unusually light, and it is estimated authoritatively, that not over $300,000 has been wagered on the outcome. Most of the money is placed on the question of pluralities, the prevailing odds being even money that Dix will carry the State by 50,000. The Democratic managers, however, declare the plurality will be over 100,000. The Republicans are not quite so confident as they have have been in fact. Colonel Roosevelt is quoted as saying he does not count on more than 25,000 plurality for Stimson.

The weather all over the State is cold with frequent snow flurries.

EIGHTEEN IS THE AGE LIMIT FOR POOL ROOMS

Chief Thompson wishes to make known to the local licenses of pool or billiard premises, that the age limit for patrons is eighteen and not sixteen.

Yesterday during a case at the county court a witness stated that he did not allow any boys under sixteen years of age to frequent his pool and billiard rooms. He claimed this to be the limit as he had made it his business to find out. But he was wrong.

The clause in the statutes was changed in 1907 to read eighteen years of age, and the revised law has been in force ever since.

For a violation of this law, the fine is $10 for the first offence, and $20 for each subsequent offence.

NEW PLAY WAS EMPHATIC HIT

Toronto, Nov. 7.—"When All Has Been Said," a new drama by Bayard Veiller, was produced by Liebler & Co., at the Royal Alexandra to-night and scored a sensational success. It is a strongly built story around a plot to destroy the banking house of a young man by his political elements and is full of thrill. A big hit was made by Thomas Tobin, who plays a boy wanting to be grown up. The cast is a fine one and the play is splendidly mounted. An appealing love story runs through the play.

CHILDRENS' AID SOCIETY WHAT IT STANDS FOR AND WHAT IT IS DOING

The work and objects of the Children's Aid Society are:—

To protect children from cruelty; to care for and protect neglected, abandoned and orphaned children, to provide such children as may be lawfully committed and entrusted to the Society with suitable homes in private families and to watch over and guard their interests and promote their happiness and well being; to secure the enforcement of laws relating to neglected and dependent children or juvenile offenders, and generally to interest all classes in the social uplifting of neglected, abandoned children; to mediate between parents and children and between judicial officers and youthful offenders, with a view to bringing about reformation without the stigma of imprisonment; to improve home surroundings and to add to the happiness of young people.

It is hard to remove the impression that the Children's Aid Society exists solely for the purpose of taking children from their parents. The main object of the Society is not to take children from their parents, but by kindly effort, and, if necessary, legal action, to bring about sobriety, cleanliness and moral living for the sake of the children. But there are occasions when these efforts are of no avail and the children have to be removed for the sake of their own future and for the protection of society.

Under the provisions of The Children's Protection Act of Ontario, all children coming under the guardianship of a Society are required to be placed in foster homes as soon as possible. A child placed in a public institution still remains homeless in the real sense, and it cannot be given that affection, sympathy and individual treatment so essential for its proper growth. The ideal for which the Society strives is a home for every homeless child.

Some five thousand five hundred children have been received under the guardianship of the Children's Aid Society in Ontario from the lowest possible surroundings and transferred to foster homes, and the Superintendent reports that less than two per cent of these children have gone back to the conditions from which they were received. The average placement is three hundred and fifty (350) In 1909 605 children were placed for the first time Of their number 468 were Protestant and 137 Catholic.

The Government has provided for the personal visitation of all children placed in foster homes by the various Children's Aid Societies, and no matter in what part of the Province a child may be, it is visited at least once a year in order to make sure that it is well treated, and also an encouragement to foster parents. A written report of each visit is submitted to the Superintendent at Toronto, and by him to the Secretary of the Society, of which each child is a ward.

The Children's Aid Society is an organization which in itself cannot accomplish the whole work to be done unless it has the co-operation of the citizens of each community

There are 9 children in the Shelter and there are that many more who should be there forthwith. The citizens of Peterborough can co-operate and assist in the work of the Society by a generous contribution to the Tag Girls next Saturday.

MYSTERIOUS STRANGER AGAIN MAKES TROUBLE

He Told Young Man of Hiding Place of Stolen Goods -Suspended Sentence

His Honor Judge Huycke dealt leniently with Fred Sullivan yesterday noon.

Although finding the young man guilty of the charge of breaking into the premises of James Edgar and stealing therefrom goods to the value of $26.25, on the night of October 6, his Honor allowed him to go on suspended sentence, but not, however, before he outlined the duty of the prisoner as to his future mode of conducting himself, and which should help him materially.

County Crown Attorney Wood prosecuted and Mr. G. N. Gordon acted for the accused.

The evidence of the prosecution was practically the same as given at the preliminary hearing at the police court, and which was reported at the time.

MET A STRANGER

For the defence Sullivan took the witness box and his explanation of the affair was to the effect that he met a stranger on the east end of the C. P. R. bridge, while on his way to the saw mill to see about a job. The stranger asked for a cigarette, but "scrapings" was all that he could give.

The man then told him where he could go and get a lot of stuff. He said it would be found in an old vacant hotel on George street.

This was the City Hotel, to the rear of which the stolen articles were found by the police.

Sullivan said he went to the hotel and found the goods in the oven of a stove, removed them to a pit, and never went near them again.

FAVORED P.C. MEAGHER

Asked by Mr. Wood why he did not inform the police, witness claimed that he wanted to tell P. C. Meagher, so he would get the credit. His explanation of why he removed the articles was that he didn't want the workmen to find them as they would probably inform some of the other officers.

Sullivan did not inform P. C. Meagher, although having a week to do so

Witness denied having used the words as testified by P.C. Newhall, "they got me pretty slick, but can only get me for receiving the goods."

Mr. Wood characterized the story of the prisoner as "such a yarn as the blackliaters give in the police court."

TO COMPLAIN ABOUT POLLUTING OF OTONABEE

As a result of a recent meeting of North Monaghan, Otonabee and South Monaghan, a deputation went to Toronto to-day, to make complaint to the Provincial Board of Health, which meets in the Parliament Buildings, that Peterborough city is polluting the water of the Otonabee.

This question has been the subject for much discussion on the part of the residents of the three townships, and they are very indignant at the state of affairs which they allege are existing.

At the meeting of the three townships Mr. Porter was appointed to arrange for the deputation which will number about fifteen.

SPORTING NEWS

HOCKEY BUSINESS TO-MORROW NIGHT

What will be the results of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club, which is called to take place in the Oriental parlors to-morrow night at eight o'clock?

The question is a hard one to answer. It is only natural that one result will be the representation of Peterborough again in the Ontario Hockey Association, but that is a mere nothing. The real results will not be seen until the referee rings the bell for the first, second or third scheduled game. It will be then that the followers of the team or teams as the case may be, will either applaud or look on with faces that tell a story altogether different.

It was ever thus.

Even in the palmy days of Peterborough vs. Belleville, with Mag. Whitcroft caressing the golden locks of "Lady" Maguire, at centre ice, there were the same sports and the soreheads.

Things are different now. That famous seven, with the exception of Rollie Glover, has drifted far and wide apart,, and it is now up to us to make the best of a bunch of indifferent material.

Of late the feeling in some quarters has been against an alleged clique behind the players who have battled for O.H.A. honors. Some of the players have complained of unfair treatment. Again it has been freely stated that hockey promoters get poor encouragement from those in charge of the rink.

Not one firm hand, but several are needed to save the situation. The meeting to-morrow night is open. Any criticisms accompanied with a remedy for mistakes made in the past, will receive a glad hand. We should know where we are at, at the re-organization meeting and get on a good footing by electing an executive whose good judgment is only equalled by their desire to distribute a square deal all round.

SPORTING COMMENT

The Port Hope Guide says—Port Hope is considering the advisability of having a professional hockey club, and a meeting of several of the gentlemen interested will be held this evening. It is a long time since we had a real live hockey team, and no doubt a good team would receive liberal support this winter. Let every person boost.

Yacht Wrecked.

Tobermoray, Nov. 8.—Saturday night the yacht Villa of Alpena, Mich., ran on the shoals off Yeo Island, 12 miles from here. The crew succeeded in landing safely on the island, and were unable to reach here till yesterday, on account of the heavy seas of Sunday. The Villa was completely wrecked. The cabin and upper works were washed off by the seas. The yacht was valued at $30,000.

Left Work Unfinished.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 8.—The Russell Engineering Co.'s dredge, that has been dredging Chippawa Creek for the past two months, left yesterday, work not completed. Wm. Fell Dead After Saving Child.

Standing on her doorstep in a street in Carmarthen, Wales, the other week, a widow named Hannah Owen saw a five-year-old girl knocked down by a motor-car. She rushed forward, snatched the child towards her, and took her into the house, where she found that the little one was only scratched on the arm. The incident, however, had such an effect upon the woman that she fell dead.

The Expensive Promoter.

"That man's time is worth $60 a minute," said the mathematician.

"More than that," replied the reckless investor. "He once gave me five minutes of his time when I was looking for advice and it cost me several thousand dollars."

BOY SCOUTS OF THE CITY

A most interesting sight and a grand opportunity to see what the Scouts are doing, presents itself to the public each Saturday, when the boys take to the parks and outskirts of the city for various manoeuvres, which are interesting to them and to the spectators, and are instructive. Last Saturday some forty boys left in one party for the north-east suburbs of the city, where two camps were pitched and a very instructive but amusing time was spent by the boys who learn as they play, and are under the very best supervisor. Then to the north-west of the city a similar sport was carried on by a troop or two from the "Y," under the supervision of Mr. Hodges, their scout master, who gave the boys the benefit of his South African experience, teaching them how to capture a position.

Soldiering is by no means the main idea of scouting, but a certain amount is being introduced to teach the boys in an interesting way discipline. The boys will be taught during the winter months, first aid, signalling, knot tying, life saving, and many other features. They will also have their social evenings, and a Bible class will be started for Scouts, only, very soon.

The boys can be seen any Friday at the armories in drill or at the Y.M. C.A. in their social rooms, boys' department, between 8 and 9.30 p.m.

Is your boy a Scout? If not, why not? Scout object—A good, clean, wholesome sport that looks after the boy physically, spiritually and mentally.

The "Y" Scouts will meet on Thursday night at the armories and march with the Peewitt patrols to the illustrated lecture which will be given by Thompson Seton, under the auspices of the Boy Scouts.

Help the boys to help themselves by purchasing a ticket from them for this lecture.

THE CHILD AND THE STAGE

The Billboard.

Through its enforcement of an Ohio law regulating the employment of minors, the Gerry Society has again come into prominence in the Buckeye State. Again overlooking the factories and the sweat shops, it has pounced down upon the stage as its prey. It is very voluble regarding the evil influences of the theatrical profession on the young and impressionable mind. But its theories are all wrong and its practices likewise. How much better off is the child who appears for a few hours every week before the footlights than is that neglected youngster who toils with tired muscles in the vitiated atmosphere of the factory or the sweat shop. How much better off even is this child of the stage living in hotels, sleeping between clean sheets, eating wholesome food, than the off-spring of poverty-stricken parents whose life is contaminated by the morally evil influence of a bad home, even though he attends the Public schools regularly, while he is half fed, poorly clothed and otherwise uncared for. The child of the stage is learning the lesson of life. He is imbibing whether or no, the rudiments of an education that is superior and less elemental than that of the waif of humanity who has a permanent home though a bad one, who goes to bed early, albeit in a crowded room between unsanitary bedclothes, and whose daily life is a monotony of unbroadening associations and vitiating influences. The child of the tenement is usually withdrawn from school before the attempts at education made upon him have had any material result. He goes to work at menial employment, amid contaminating surroundings and for a pittance that goes a very short way towards relieving the stringency of the family treasury.

The influence of the stage on the child may not in all cases tend toward his uplift, but the Gerry Society usually shows little discrimination, and their work is for this reason worse than neutralized.

People Who Work Indoors With Their Hands

Seamstresses, watch-makers, artists, draughtsmen, and many others, cannot properly handle their tools with cold, stiff hands. Many a lost hour or two on cold winter mornings results from the delayed heat of furnace or stove.

The Perfection Oil Heater in a few minutes gives the temperature that assures the worker warm hands and pliable muscles. The quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. Has automatic-locking flame spreader which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so the wick can be quickly cleaned.

It has a damper top and a cool handle. Indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down; it is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain, and cannot get lost.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir—Rev. Mr. Riddiford is evidently seeking notriety first, and the afflicted later on.

The Blacklist Law may not be perfectly written. Is any law perfect? Laws are being amended continually. But a good citizen who has a suggestion to make thinks it necessary to address the lawless or the weak from the housetops.

Blacklist law is, in the opinion of me, a god-send to wives and children, if not to the drunkard, and we all know that it is to him.

Every man I have met thinks Mr. Riddiford merely advertising himself at the expense of law and order. His remarks look like the flash talk of a misguided enthusiast.

Yours truly.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—I have been following up your well directed efforts to urge our Board of Health to be up and doing before it is too late, and we are visited with a plague. I agree with you that something should be done about systematic garbage collection.

But don't you think that the first thing to do is to provide a garbage disposal plant, situated where it will not be a nuisance? Do you think that there is anything fair in garbage being collected, as is now done, from your back door and other back doors, and dumped in a great exposed heap, right in the heart of the city, and not a hundred yards from the market square?

Filth, filth of the worst kind, including decayed fruit from the stores, back yard scrapings, manure and worse than that, mattrasses and some of them quite good, indicating that they have evidently been used by some fever patient, or they would not be thrown away, but given to some poor person.

Is that a state of things that should be allowed to go on in the heart of the city? But that is not the worst of it, for there are all kinds of dead animals dumped there without covering, some thrown on the ground, and others into the water, which is a stagnant pool, breeding disease and mosquitoes.

This dump is also headquarters for the largest and fattest colony of house flys, blow-flys and bottle-flys, in this part of the country. And last, but not least, is the swarms of rats making this place their home. They are there in hundreds and increasing right along.

Now, my idea in addressing these lines to you is to give you some intimation as to the conditions that exist in our midst and to suggest perhaps that you take a couple of hours off some mild afternoon soon, go and get disinfected, take no chances, and then take a walk down to the east end of Charlotte street and see for yourself the state of affairs, and I will guarantee that you will get your eyes opened, and find lots of material to work on for some little time in the garbage line.

The Review would be doing a Christian act if they would enter an action against the city for maintaining such a fever breeding spot in the city limits.

Mark me! Those rats are going to be the cause of trouble before long if not exterminated. Get your Isolation Hospital ready.

There is also the danger from fire to be looked at; with a good strong wind blowing, and a fire starting there at night, it could easily be the means of destroying half the city, for there is all kinds of inflamable material there for the making of a good hot fire, including the heavy crop of dead, dry weeds, allowed by the city authorities to grow in that vicinity. The enclosed clipping from Saturday's News shows that Toronto is waking up and why not Peterborough? I am satisfied that if you visit this dump you will agree that it is not just right to have this eye-sore immediately adjoining one of our leading hotels entertaining visitors from all over the world.

I have occasion to pass this spot occasionally and know whereof I speak, and thought it only but right to let you know what is being done with the garbage as now disposed of and hope that you may be the means of bringing about a change in such disposal by having it either burnt or buried.

The letter reads:—Then the campaign against the flies will be gretly aided if the City Council and the ratepayers endorse the proposal to establish an up-to-date garbage disposal system, instead of the present method of hauling the garbage, dead animals and all, to the garbage dumps.—Toronto News.

HEALTH.

(To The Editor of The Review)

Dear Sir, — In reply to the letter in last night's issue, signed "Church Member," I would say that I am not responsible for garbled reports of my utterances, nor do I think that I am called upon to waste my time in correcting every such statement that may be published. Anyone who has had the experience of having his remarks reported knows how frequently words will be attributed which were never employed, and a sense conveyed which was not intended.

In the first place I did not speak to the "Cavan Blazers." There is no such organization in existence. Then, I was merely quoting the words of a Roman Catholic priest as they appeared in an article in a Philadelphia paper, when I spoke of the enormous loss the Church of Rome had sustained in the United States. The quotation was: "Where are the nine million Irish Roman Catholics, principally of the second and third generation that ought to be in the ranks of the Church? They are in the ranks of our enemies." I would not be justified in saying that these nine million have turned Protestant, any more than I would be justified in saying that those who had left the membership of the Protestant Church had, in every case, turned Roman Catholic. I am not a stirrer up of strife among my Roman Catholic brethren. When I have had occasion to speak on such matters, I have had favorable comment made upon my utterances by Roman Catholics, for their charity and freedom from bitterness.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE CURED ONCE MORE

Dodd's Kidney Pills Vanquish Terrible Ailment

Alcide Trambly Issues Statement for the Benefit of others.—Good news for Sufferers from Kidney Disease

Mistassini, Lac St. Jean, Que., Nov. 7.—(Special).—That even the deadly Bright's Disease, the most fatal form of Kidney Disease, can be cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after all other means have failed, has again been proved in the case of Mr. Alcide Tramblay, a well-known resident of this place. In order that other sufferers may benefit by his experience, Tramblay has given the following statement for publication—

"I was troubled with Bright's Disease, Rheumatism and Gravel for seven years. Three doctors prescribed for me, but they did not help me. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing. I was always tired and nervous and had dark circles under my eyes.

"I heard of other cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills and started to use them with the result that in one month I was completely cured, and have been in good health ever since."

Bright's Disease is a disease of the Kidneys. Gravel and Rheumatism are caused by diseased Kidneys failing to strain impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure them all by curing the Kidneys.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

TORTURED HIM FOR 25 YEARS

"Fruit-a-tives" Brought Mr. Jones Quick Relief.

SARNIA, ONT.

"I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and doctors but derived no benefit whatever. Finally I read an advertisement of "Fruit-a-tives" in which Hon. John Costigan (Senator from New Brunswick) stated that he had been cured of Constipation by "Fruit-a-tives" so I decided to give it a trial. It is the only medicine that does me any good. I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" and cannot praise it too highly."

PAUL J. JONES.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine that will actually and completely cure chronic Constipation and effectively regulate the bowels to move regularly and naturally. "Fruit-a-tives" is also the only medicine in the world made of fruit that acts directly on the liver—and the only possible way to cure constipation is to make the liver healthy and active.

If you suffer with Constipation, do just as Mr. Jones did—take "Fruit-a-tives". 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Otttawa.

TRAVELERS' TALES.

Some That Were Discredited and Vindicated Long Afterward.

Travelers' tales have often been accused of being mere flights of imagination, and in the past stay at home people have sometimes erred in treating travelers' tales with scorn. There was, for instance, the description by James Bruce in 1770 of the barbarous Abyssinian custom of eating raw meat cut from the living animal, which was ridiculed by everybody. Yet Bruce has even recently been proved right. When Paul Du Chaillu explored equatorial Africa in 1861 and described the wonderful gorillas and also the nation of dwarfs there he was discredited none too politely by the British Royal Geographical society. Yet subsequent explorers amply vindicated his veracity.

In the matter of discredited travelers' tales vindicated long afterward it will never be possible to beat the classic instance in Herodotus. He tells how King Neco of Egypt commissioned certain Phoenician mariners to circumnavigate Africa if they could. They did it, starting from the Red sea and returning by the straits of Gibraltar after very many months. And they reported, says Herodotus, that in rounding the southern end of Africa they had the sun on their right hand. "I, for my part," he says, "do not believe this, but perhaps others may."

In modern times that detail is precisely what proves that the Phoenicians did achieve the wonderful voyage. Such an "improbable" fact could never have been invented in an age which was not familiar with the equator.—Chicago News.

Two Cheerful Liars.

Two Americans were disputing as to which had experienced the greatest cold in winter. Said one: "In the part of Iceland where I was last summer the ground is frozen so hard all the year round that when they want to bury a man they just sharpen his feet and drive him in with a pile hammer."

The other replied: "Yes, I know that place. Didn't stay there long—found it not quite bracing enough for me. Went on to a small town farther north. The hotel where I was staying caught fire. My room was on the top story. No fire escapes or ladders in that primitive settlement. Staircases burnt away. Luckily, kept my presence of mind. Emptied my bath out of the window and slid down the icicle."—Truth.

Funny Stories.

"Ha, ha!" said the jovial man as he slapped an acquaintance on the back. "I'm glad to see you. I have one of the funniest stories on record, and you are just in time."

"I don't care for it," was the candid reply. "You see, there is often a pathetic side even to humor. I have just been out with my architect, and he showed me three of the funniest stories I ever saw. If I hadn't been paying for them I'd have laughed myself silly."

His Little Comeback.

Miss Neverstop, seating herself between two much engrossed senators, exclaims, "A rose between two thorns!"

"Nay, madam," retorts one irate old gentleman; "say, rather, a tongue sandwich."—Life.

Unless.

Townsend—Can a man live on $1 a day? Beers—Certainly, unless he's so prodigal as to lay something aside for a rainy day, keep up his insurance, eat when he's hungry, buy clothes and pay his bills.—Chicago News.

Flight.

"Would you take $10,000 to fly from Albany to New York?"

"Why not? Our cashier took only $1,000 to fly to Europe."

Exporters.

Maybee and Wilson bought on order 88 export cattle, at $5.65 to $6.

Butchers.

Butchers' cattle of good quality were in demand and sold readily at 10c to 15c per cwt. higher, and more could have been sold. There were three picked cattle, 1100 lbs. each, sold by Maybee and Wilson, at $6, which was the highest price heard of. Selected loads sold at $5.50 to $5.75; loads of good, $5.25 to $5.50; medium, $4.90 to $5.15; common, $4.25 to $4.80; cows, $3 to $4.75; bulls, $3.50 to $4.25; canners, $1.25 to $2.40.

Stockers and Feeders.

Trade was not as large nor as brisk as usual for feeders. Short-keeps are worth from $5.25 to $5.50; good steers, 900 to 1000 lbs., $5 to $5.25; steers, 800 to 900 lbs., $4.75 to $5; stockers, $4 to $4.75.

Milkers and Springers.

There seems to be no abatement in the demand for milkers and springers. Prices ranged at from $55 to $85 each.

Veal Calves.

Not many calves were on sale. Prices ranged at from $4 to $7.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices for sheep and lambs were 20c per cwt. higher than last week. Lambs sold at $6, and sheep at $5 per cwt. See sales given below.

Hogs.

None on sale. W. J. Johnston, buyer for Gunns, reports prices as follows: Selects, fed and watered, $7.10, and $6.75 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points. Mr. Johnston reported having bought five carloads to arrive at these prices

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Nov. 7.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Nov. 5 were 2500 cattle, 2900 sheep and lambs, 2200 hogs and 210 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale consisted of 1300 cattle, 1800 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 150 calves.

Prices show an advance of ¼c to ½c per lb. A feature of the trade was the buying for St John, N.B., account, and several carloads will be shipped to that point. There was also an increased demand from packers for canning purposes. Choice steers sold at 5¼c to 5¾c; good at 5c to 5¼c; fairly good at 4½c to 4¾c; fair at 4c to 4¼c, and common at 3¼c to 3¾c per lb. The undertone to the market for hogs continues weak, and prices as compared with those paid a week ago show a further decline of 15c per 100 lbs., and with last Wednesday 10c. Prospects are for still lower prices in the near future. Sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

An easier feeling has developed in the market for lambs. An active trade was done, with sales of Upper Canada stock at 6c to 6¼c, and Quebec stock at 5½c to 5¾c per lb. There is no change in the condition of the market for sheep, for which the demand is fair at 3¾c to 4c per lb. There was a good enquiry for choice milk-fed calves, which were scarce, and buyers found it difficult to fill their wants at 5½c to 6c per lb., live weight.

Life Insurance

Many a father is going to mortgage the house in town or the farm in the country this Fall that the son may go to college. Possibly that "rainy day" fund is going to be drawn upon for this purpose. I have enough faith in Canadian youth to believe in such investments. The son intends to pay back to his father every cent just as soon as he gets into business for himself. With but an exception now and then, he will—IF HE LIVES. It is the latter point I want to emphasize. Life is not a certainty. A glance at any college catalogue will show the asterisk in the list of students and the word "deceased" at the bottom of the page. Frequently there is added to the loss of the son the LOSS OF THE COST OF HIS EDUCATION. The latter may mean the loss of the home. One of the legitimate uses of life insurance, it seems to me, is to take care of just such cases. The cost of life insurance for the son is very slight, because he is young and a good risk. It adds but little to the financial burden. In return it gives full protection to the parent, and in later years—after college debts are paid—it safeguards the home which the son sets up for himself. No son who can get insurance has the right to mortgage his father's or his mother's future happiness when there is such a good way to avoid it. One word more, young man. Be sure that your insurance is in a well established, responsible company.

Someone has said, "The true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the SUN LIFE OF CANADA needs no comment, and the profits paid—let the actual results tell their own forceful story.

ELOQUENT AND ENTERTAINING LECTURE BY REV. DR. SYMONDS ON THE LIFE OF TROLLOPE

Dr. Symonds' lecture last night in All Saints' Parish Hall was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The subject was "The Life and Writings of Anthony Trollope." The lecturer, not without considerable humour, sketched the unpromising boyhood of Anthony Trollope, his early struggles, his work in the Postal Department of Great Britain, his marriage, and his early stuggles and disappointments in the literary world. At last, success began to flow in, and though his earnings for the past five years were but a few hundred dollars, before he died his pen earned $400,000. The lecturer named a large number of the writings of Anthony Trollope, recommending those it was best to read. As a novelist Anthony Trollope does not rank in the first class among Scott, Dickens and Thackery, but in the second class of novelists, Read, Lytton, etc., he has probably the highest place. The moral lesson to be drawn from his life, is the lesson of industry and its ultimate triumph.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the lecturer by the rector of All Saints on the motion of Judge Huycke and Hon. J. R. Stratton.

The musical part of the program consisted of:

Solo—Miss Sisson.
Vocal Solo—Miss Ruth Dawson.

THAT PRINCE OF KIDDERS SHELDON IS NOW LOCATED

(SO IT IS SAID)

Special to the Review.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 8.—An extra, issued by the Herald at noon, states that C. D. Sheldon, alias Washburn, the blind pool operator, for whose capture a big reward is offered, has been located near Pittsburg, Pa., and that a certified copy of the warrant for his arrest is now on its way to that city. It is asserted that the identification was made by a private detective, who knew Sheldon, at Scranton, where the latter formerly operated.

FARMER ASSAULTED STRUCK WITH PITCH FORK

Arrest Made Yesterday — Accussed Admitted to Bail — Hearing on Monday

Yesterday, Richard Anglessey, was arrested at the home of his brother, near Yonge Point, on a warrant, charging him with assaulting Joseph Young of Yonge Point.

High County Constable Cochrane, and County Constable, Archie Moore brought the prisoner here last evening.

This morning magistrate Edmison admitted him to bail, to the amount of $500 and two sureties of $250 each.

He will appear next Monday at 11 o'clock for a hearing.

The alleged assault took place last Friday in a field owned by Mr. Young, who was hit on the head with the handle of a pitch fork by the accused, so it is said.

Dr. Graham of Lakefield was called to heal the injuries, from which no serious complications are expected.

HELLO THERE BELLE! ARE YOU HERE OR WHERE ARE YOU?

Special to the Review.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Search for Belle Elmore, for murdering whom Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen is sentenced to be hanged November 23rd, and who was reported to be alive and in hiding near Chicago, centered to-day near Richmond, Indiana.

A mysterious note in the Virginia hotel here, mysterious telephone calls and the appearance recently in Hammond of a pretty woman, who closely resembles Belle Elmore, have spurred the police to extraordinary efforts to locate the singer.

Meantime, however, a report has gained currency among sporting men that the story of Belle Elmore being alive and in Chicago is a "frame up" for theatrical purposes.

THE GUN AND ITS TOLL ANOTHER SHOOTING ACCIDENT NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH BUT IS MINUS HIS RIGHT ARM

As the result of another shooting accident, Mr. Wm. Wormsworth, son of the game warden of Arden township, now lies in the Nicholls Hospital minus his right arm.

He was brought to Peterborough last evening on the 4.38 C.P.R. train from Tweed, it being in that vicinity that the accident occurred.

As far as is known the details of the affair are this:

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Young Wormsworth with a companion, were starting out from the shore of the lake in a canoe to enjoy a hunt. His gun was lying across the thwart, pointing towards him. They had just shoved off when the young man noticed a flock of ducks above and commenced to draw the gun towards him by the stock, still keeping his gaze on the birds. The trigger caught in the thwart, and the contents of the discharge shattered his right arm just below the shoulder.

They immediately put back to shore, and assistance was obtained. Dr. Meagher, of Tweed, hurriedly dressed the wound, and he was placed on the train, which was about ready to leave. He was greatly weakened by loss of blood, and at the Peterborough station Belleghem's private ambulance was waiting, and he was conveyed to Nicholls Hospital. The arm was amputated at the shoulder by Dr. Eastwood last night.

To-day he is resting easily and and prospects are bright for his recovery.

COLLEGIATE PHILOMATHEON SOCIETY MET LAST NIGHT

The inaugural meeting of the Collegiate Institute Philomatheon Society was held last evening at four o'clock in the assembly hall of the school. It was largely attended and got off with a good start.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Miss Edwards.

An address by the president, Mr. J. Harstone, followed.

A splendid piano solo was then given by Miss Hill.

The vice-president, Mr. Wallace Armstrong, gave a short addres, discussing future plans.

Miss Margaret Edwards, the secretary, made a few remarks thanking the members for her appointment.

A piano solo by Miss Bernice Giroux was the next number.

The treasurer made a short speech of appreciation for her appointment.

Miss Bernice Billington was heard to excellent advantage in a vocal number.

The reading of the Collegiate Echoes followed

The last number was an excellent reading by Miss Maggie Halpin

In criticising the meeting Mr Petit complimented the participants on their efforts

ORANGE SPEAKERS SAY PROTESTANTISM IS NOT DYING AT ALL

Thoroughly imbued with the spirit of Orangeism and Protestantism, and composed of enjoyable features, prominent among which were several stirring and patriotic addresses, was the grand concert and Orange re-union held in the Simcoe street Orange Hall last night.

Great enthusiasm was displayed. With typical Orange ardor the Orangemen and their friends turned out in large numbers, and it is estimated that two hundred and seventy-five were present.

The programme of the concert was of considerable length and was provided by local talent. Each number drew forth well-deserved applause, and several encores were demanded.

The concert commenced at eight o'clock with Mr. J. Johns acting as chairman in a very able manner.

The first number was a piano solo by Mr. Harold Foster, organist of Park St. Baptist church.

Mr. Asa Huycke next followed with a vocal solo.

Mr. H. Goodwin on the concertina gave several selections, and his playing was well received.

Rev. W. C. Riddiford, in a short address, soon had the loyal Orange blood of his hearers circulating fast. He was glad that he was extended an invitation to be present and celebrate with others the immortal "Guy Fawkes' Day."

"We are still Britishers and we are are still Protestants." There were two things in connection with the religion of the Roman Catholics that he could not agree with, and they were the piety of the Catholic church and the polity. These two things he would never agree with.

"While I revere and respect liberty and give every man the right to worship according to the dictates of his own conscience, still I do not believe in bowing down before the Pope. There is only one Pope, and that is the crucified Jesus, the lowly carpenter of Nazareth, and the workingman's best friend," said Mr. Riddiford.

Mr. Riddiford gave his reasons for objecting to the piety of the Roman Catholic religion. He was directly opposed to the fundamental beliefs of their church, and to the belief that the priest is the ambassador of God, enthroned with the power to forgive sin and give any man absolution.

"I believe," said he, "that I am as good as any priest on earth, and I do not claim God's power. It is a mystery how a man can say he is clothed with all the power of God. If the Roman Catholics can believe that, let them believe it. When we come to gatherings such as these, as loyal Protestants, we should think of the great legacy left us.

"The Eucharistic Congress held recently will be the greatest boon to Protestantism that we have had for some time. What if it is claimed that we have a soulless religion? In less than twenty years we shall show them that we have more soul than they ever dreamed of. In regard to the bi-lingual controversy, there is only one language that should be taught in the schools. Why, even in China a decree has lately gone forth commanding English to be taught in all the schools in China.

"In concluding," said Mr. Riddiford, "let us pray that God will bless Canada with another Eucharistic Congress that we may be more zealous in the things that we believe."

A mouthorgan duet by Berdine Garside and Howard Cranfield was much applauded.

A selection by the Ark Quartette, composed of Messrs. Huycke, Cunningham and Biggs, was well received, and they responded to an encore.

COLONEL MILLER SPEAKS

An address by Colonel Miller, was the next feature. He was glad that it was in the minds of some to remember important facts in the history of the British race.

"Where are the banners of Rome today? Away back in the Vatican. Our forefathers who met them have broadened out. They have built colleges, schools and churches. Look at the benefits that have occurred, and it is right that we meet to commemorate these important events. Where is the man to-day who has not more liberty than he had under the Roman Catholic reign?

"Our heritage is bright and untarnished. Let us remember it and pass down to generations yet unborn, the light of liberty we now enjoy. If we do not we are not fulfilling the obligation we should all feel is laid upon us."

Messrs. Garside and Goodwin in a duet sang very nicely. A violin solo by Mr Hacketh was also well given.

REV. POGUE'S ADDRESS.

Another stirring address given by Rev. Robert Pogue, then followed. Mr. Pouge spoke in a very forcible and plain manner and his words met with instant favor.

"What with a Eucharistic congress, bi-lingual schools and so on, one has not far to look in order to find a subject. The question is often asked is "Protestantism dying?" Decidedly it is not. We must remember that the method of Protestantism is very much different to Roman Catholism. Protestantism is, or should be, synonymous with Christianity. Protestantism is placed in the world that it may go on silently doing its work. Catholicism wants to attract more attention to itself by a great beating of drums. But is this a sign of its vitality? The Eucharistic congress was not a sign of the superabundance of vitality of the Catholic Church. This parading before the eyes of the world, advertising herself in the presence of everybody, while Protestantism goes on without a single demonstration. When this occurs some people naturally think Protestantism is dying. They say "See what a showing Catholicism can make and then look at Protestantism."

"But within the last two years," said the speaker, "there has been inaugurated a movement that far surpasses any Eucharistic congress than can ever be held. I speak of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. For an evidence of the vitality and strength of Protestantism, look at it.

"If Orangemen and Protestants stand for anything they stand for Christianity.

"Yet Catholicism is not dying. The front page of the Sentinel reveals that fact. Read this paper, edited so ably, and so full or articles both lucid and strong. It will convince you of the realism of Catholicism.

"Cardinal Vaughan told us that Protestantism was a soulless religion and that it made infidels.

"In the last few years there have been tens of thousands of converts from the Catholic Church to Protestantism particularly in Austria. The fact that Catholicism is dying is bemoaned.

"Again vast numbers of Catholics while not found in the ranks of the Protestants, yet are no longer Catholics.

"Catholicism is doomed to die before the onward march of Christianity.

"One place where Catholicism is not dead, however, is in the politics of our country, where it is very much alive."

The speaker held that while the Church of Jesus Christ as a Church, should not take a part in politics, still the most active and earnest Christians should, if they do take a part, should take their Christianity into that field with them. If this were done it would be better for the country at large."

Ald. Joseph Patten also made a brief speech full of loyalty to the Orange cause. He also told a couple of humorous incidents and put everybody in good humor.

Rev. Mr. Coon was down for an address but was unable to be present.

A bountiful supply of refreshments of cake, sandwiches and coffee were served at the conclusion of the affair. The committee in charge of the proceedings were Messrs. Parrie, Moore and Dodds.

Mr. Harold Foster was pianist. A much appreciated part of the programme were the selections on the phonograph by Mr. Garside.

The gathering broke up about eleven o'clock with the singing of "God Save the King."

Henry L. Stimson continued his campaign tour in the Hudson Valley speaking at Catskill and Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Lake Chelan, in Chelan Co., Washington, was sounded by the geological survey and found to be 397 feet deep.

THE PRACTICE OF OPTOMETRY

The Science of how to furnish right Glasses when needed

EYE EXAMINATION TO DETERMINE THE NECESSITY FOR GLASSES.

The furnishing of glasses needed has in the past decade become almost an absolute and exact science, which is based upon purely mathematical and optical principles. This is now so firmly established that laws regulating the practice of Optometry are written on the Statute books of 24 of the States of America, two of the Provinces of Canada, and in Great Britain. It is a foregone conclusion that similar legislation will be enacted in other States and Provinces. We believe that it is not possible to examine too thoroughly or to make the mathematical calculations too carefully for the eye, when so much comfort, happiness and ability to earn a livelihood is dependant upon such.

DR. HAWKE WAS ACQUITTED AFTER A BRIEF HEARING

Charge of Illegal Operation Against Prominent Medical Man Fails Utterly—Judge Sums up in His Favor—Doctor Had no Need to Testify.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—Dr. B. E. Hawke was honorably acquitted last evening of a charge of performing an illegal operation on 17-year-old Florence Watson of Orillia. His hand was seized by a host of friends when the court adjourned at 8.40 p.m., and several of them rushed different ways for telephones to apprise other friends of the verdict. The jury were out 30 minutes, and Justice Britton thanked them for having stayed so late on the case without supper. "But," he adder, "I think it was better than you should have stayed.

The judge's charge was distinctly in favor of the accused, he laying stress on the fact that Dr. Hawke had very candidly come forward to give evidence when he might have sat back in the dock and demanded, "prove these things against me."

"Dr. Hawke," said his lordship, "frankly admitted having examined the girl, but denied having operated upon her." In that examination the doctor had discerned that she was already in an abortive state. Evidence such as the girl had given, if falsely given, would be very hard to disprove, but it was uncorroborated, and to convict on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice was not a safe thing for a jury to do. It was not usual, and a jury ought not to do so. If, however, they believed such a story as that told by Florence Watson, they were at liberty of course to convict. "But, do you think such a story probable? Do you think that an eminent medical practitioner would do a crime of this kind for $25, and that without seeing the money beforehand—running the risk of imprisonment for life?" he asked. "You must remember, too, that he had never even seen this girl before the night he examined her."

AN OLD LADY ASPHYXIATED

Toronto Woman is Dead and Her Husband Unconscious.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—When Dr. Herbert Clutterbuck, Clinton street, was called to Joseph Nailor's home at 55 Jersey avenue, last night, he found Mrs. Nailor lying dead across the kitchen doorway at the back of a long hallway. The old man was sitting unconscious in a chair in the front room of the cottage, gasping for breath.

The physician had been summoned by a grandson, who said that he had gone into the house to see the old couple, and found them helpless. Dr. Clutterbuck ordered the man to be removed to the Western Hospital, and notified Chief Coroner Johnson of the death of the woman.

Coroner J. M. Cotton was appointed, and after an investigation last night, decided that death was probably due to poisoning by coal gas, but that an inquest should be held.

When Dr. Clutterbuck arrived, the lights in the house were lit and the stove in the front room was burning cheerily. Neighbors had seen the old couple at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when they appeared in perfect health. The dead woman was 65 years and her husband 57 years of age.

The man is in a serious condition in the Western Hospital. He is a retired carpenter and builder, and is comfortably off.

SMITH'S FALLS MAYOR UNSEATED

Smith's Falls, Nov. 9.—Judgment was given Monday by Judge Senkler in the action brought by John Smith to disqualify Mayor McCallum of Smith's Falls, on the grounds of irregularity in selling cement to the town. It is in favor of the plaintiff, and Mr. McCallum is unseated and ordered to pay the costs of the case.

No election will be held to fill the office of mayor. The judge made no direction regarding it, and in the absence of an order the council has authority to elect a chairman for the remainder of the year. At Monday night's meeting Mr. J. S. Gould was appointed. No acts of the town are invalidated by reason of the mayor's disqualification.

Burned to Death.

St. Armand Station, Que., Nov. 9.—About three o'clock yesterday morning a fatal fire occurred near Morse's line, Missisquoi County, when Frank Pecia, was burned to death. Pecia, who worked for Mr. Tittemore, was 17 years of age, and although wakened did not manage to get out of the house in time. His charred remains were found yesterday morning.

MISS MARGARET ANGLIN'S ILLNESS

New York, Nov. 9.—According to a despatch to The World, Dr. G. W. Whitfield, who is attending Margaret Anglin, the gifted Canadian actress, considers her condition very grave. He is quoted as saying that "her vocal cords are in a frightful condition. In all my experience I have never seen a case where the nose and vocal organs have become in such a dreadful state. An operation will be necessary, but this cannot be performed at the immediate present, for she is in too nervous and run-down a condition."

CORONATION PROCEDURE

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At the coronation on June 22, the Canadian Associated Press understands that as to the procedure of the ceremony the King will adhere to precedent. There will be no disposition to excel in any of the historic characteristics by adding courtly or military displays. The only possible alteration to the program will arise from any specially expressed desire from the overseas dominions to be more comprehensively represented.

DROWNING IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, Nov. 9.—A double drowning accident occurred near Port Greville Monday night. Geo. Dorsay and Everett Allen left Fraserville for Port Greville Monday afternoon with a boat and raft of piling. Yesterday morning the body of Dorsay was found at the mouth of Ratchford River, near his overturned and broken boat. Allen's body has not been recovered.

Piling from the raft is scattered along the short above Fraserville, and it is supposed that when the raft broke up the men tried to reach Port Greville, and that their boat struck a sandbar, near the river mouth and capsized. Dorsay, who was a strong swimmer, evidently tried to reach the shore, and nearly succeeded. Allen probably sank at once and was swept away by the strong current.

Both men were married, and Dorsay leaves a family.

HOPE OF MORE COMPLETE UNION

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Joseph Chamberlain, in a letter to Lord Ridley re the annual meeting of the Land Reform League at Manchester, referring to the preference, says: "I hope the preference is indeed a hope of the more complete union of our colonies, and unless this is secured at the next colonial conference, it may be too late to influence those whom we have to deal with. They have shown a willingness to meet us half way, which is very promising for our trade and our country, but they will not forever wait upon us.

"We should take the advantage which the conference offers once more, or we may find it too late. The present is the time given for our decision, and I hope we shall no longer show ourselves unwilling to make the change our colonies have already made."

THE FAIR HAD FAIR SURPLUS

St. John, N.B., Nov. 9.—The financial statement for the fair held here in September was submitted to the St. John Exhibition Association shareholders yesterday, and shows a surplus of, roughly, $12,000.

Rev. I. N. Parker of Sussex, one of the most widely known Methodist ministers in New Brunswick, died in the hospital here yesterday, aged 75 years.

Motorist Pays $2,000.

Orangeville, Nov. 9.—The jury in the action of Mrs. Margaret Marshall, widow of John Marshall, who was killed on June 17 near his home in Melancthon Township by his horses being frightened by the automobile of Dr. T. J. Gowans of Horning's Mills, yesterday morning brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $2,000 damages, which Dr. Gowans [illegible].

T. P. O'CONNOR OF NO ACCOUNT

London, Nov. 9.—William O'Brien, interviewed, said that T. P. O'Connor, having been on Canadian ground, and being, above all things, a faithful English Liberal, has hitherto stuck consistently to his instructions from the Liberal whip, but he says O'Connor does not greatly count, and will be either repudiated or will repudiate himself at the word of command.

Led Band at Victoria's Coronation.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 9.—Thomas Cannell, who led a band at the coronation of Queen Victoria, died here on Monday, in his 96th year, having 80 descendants, including seven great-great-grandchildren. Cannell was born in the Isle of Man in 1814. He crossed the plains on foot and settled in Utah in 1868.

Mistaken for a Deer.

Orillia, Nov. 9.—Dr. A. R. Harris, one of Orillia's leading physicians, was shot through the left arm on Saturday morning by a guide, who mistook him for a deer. The accident occurred in the Township of Longford, about 50 miles from here.

DEMOCRATS HAVE SWEPT COUNTRY

Great Wave of Victories in Many States Indicate That the Opposition Forces Have Carried House of Representatives by Storm.

New York, Nov. 9.—Elections held throughout the United States yesterday resulted in a political convulsion far-reaching in extent, similar at many points to the famous tidal wave of 1882, and apparently more widespread in its effect.

The indications are that the national house of representatives had been carried by the Democrats, reversing the present Republican majority of 43.

The United States Senate will probably have a reduced Republican majority as a result of legislative elections held in many states.

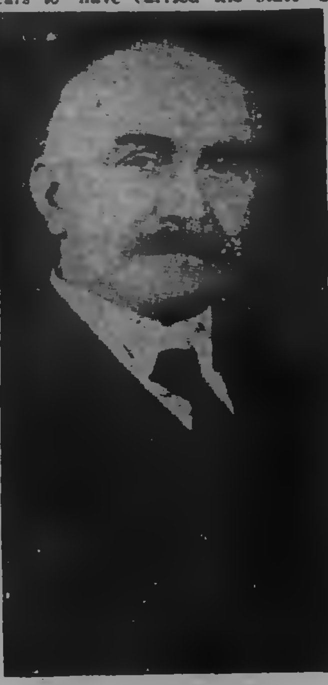
In New York State John A. Dix, Democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Henry L. Stimson, Republican, by a plurality of about 55,000, reversing the Republican plurality of 70,000 in 1908 for Gov. Hughes.

In New Jersey Woodrow Wilson, Democratic candidate for governor, is elected over Vivian M. Lewis, Republican, by about 15,000 plurality, reversing the previous Republican plurality of 8,000 for Gov. Fort.

In Massachusetts Eugene M. Foss Democratic candidate, has defeated Gov. Eben S. Draper, Republican candidate for re-election, by about 30,000 plurality.

In Connecticut, Judge S. E. Baldwin, Democratic candidate, is elected governor over Charles A. Goodwin, Republican, by a plurality of about 40,000.

In Ohio, Gov. Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for re-election, appears to have carried the state by about 15,000 over Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate.



JUDSON HARMON.

In New Hampshire, Robert P. Bass, Republican candidate for governor, is leading Charles E. Carr, Democratic candidate, by about 6,000 plurality.

In Pennsylvania, the election of John K. Tener, Republican candidate for governor, is claimed by a large plurality.

In Rhode Island Gov. Pothier, Republican candidate for re-election, is slightly in the lead over Lewis A. Waterman, Democrat, with a plurality much reduced from that of 1906.

In Tennessee, the fusion candidate, B. W. Hopper, is apparently elected by 15,000 plurality.

Democratic governors have been elected in Alabama and South Carolina.

In Iowa, the Democrats claim the election of Claude S. Porter for governor, but this is not yet conceded.

In Wisconsin, the election of the Republican candidate for governor, Frances C. McGovern, is claimed by a reduced majority, and the return of Senator Lafollette to the Senate is assured.

In Michigan, Chase S. Osborne, the Republican candidate for governor, appears to have a safe lead over L. T. Hemans, Democrat.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—It is now well assured that the Democrats has gained control of the House of Representatives.

The known gains by Democrats are one in Connecticut, one in Kentucky, two in Maryland, one in Massachusetts, three in New York, and one in North Carolina, or a total of nine.

This is offset, however, by a gain by the Republicans of one congressional district in Pennsylvania and one in New York.

Returns indicated that the Democrats would probably gain three or four seats in Missouri, three in Iowa, one in North Carolina and five or six in Illinois, or enough to assure them a net gain of 22, now necessary for Democratic control of the House.

Might Have Been Arrested.

New York, Nov. 9.—United States Attorney-General J. G. Wickersham narrowly escaped arrest and arraignment in a police court yesterday.

Through either the ignorance or oversight of someone connected with the registry verification system, the law granting federal employes the right to vote from their last place of residence, no matter how long they have been absent, was ignored, and because Mr. Wickersham was not found at the number, 36 East Fifty-First street, where he lived before he went to Washington, his name was formally placed on the challenge list, and a policeman waited for him, so that he might be arrested if he appeared to vote.

Arrested Election Officials.

McAlister, Okla., Nov. 9.—Charged with conspiracy to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate certain negro citizens, by refusing them the right to vote, half the election officials of McAlister were arrested by a deputy U. S. marshal yesterday, taken before the U. S. commissioner, and held in bonds of $2,000 each.

The election officials were charged with refusing the negroes the right of suffrage without subjecting them to the test of writing or reading any section of the constitution.

Women Watched Polling Booths.

New York, Nov. 9.—Miss Maude Ingersoll, daughter of the late Col. R. G. Ingersoll, was one of fifty women who yesterday acted as non-partisan watchers at the voting places, under the auspices of the Equality League of Self-Supporting Women.

Hundreds of other women were out yesterday taking an active part in the campaign, among them Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. Clarence Mackay. A number of prominent society and suffragette leaders donated autos, in which lunches were carried to the women watchers.

TERRIBLE TED IS AT OYSTER BAY WITH NARY A WORD TO SAY

Special to the Review.

New York, Nov. 9.—Fuller returns of yesterday's elections show the Democrats will have a majority of forty-four in the new house, as against a Republican majority of forty-three in the late house.

The standing of the parties in the new house will be as follows—

Democrats	217
Republicans	173
Socialists	1

John A. Dix's plurality over Henry D. Stimson, the Republican candidate, is 62,487

New York City gave Dix a plurality of about 100,000

The Democrats, it is expected, will have a majority of twenty-five in the Assembly and a majority of three in the Senate.

The election of Woodrow Wilson, (Democrat) as Governor of New Jersey is assured by a plurality of 15,000 to 20,000.

This morning's returns indicate the Democrats will have a good majority in the Legislature

It is now believed Senator Beveridge has been re-elected in Indiana by a small majority

Theodore the Terrible is at Oyster Bay keeping strictly silent.

PAYMENT CEASED HE DISAPPEARED

St. Catharines, Nov. 9.—Tracing her husband from Montreal to this city, where she found he had opened a fur store, Mrs. Meyer Lithmer yesterday caused his arrest for non-support.

In April last year the couple separated, but by court order Lithmer has since that time been paying her $25 monthly. Last July payment ceased, and Lithmer disappeared, and it was only recently that the woman traced him to this city, where she arrived yesterday, to find him living with another woman. Police Magistrate Campbell yesterday afternoon adjourned the case till Monday morning.

Because of lack of work the New Orleans Mint has been closed, and all the gold bullion transferred to Philadelphia.

TAXICAB CHAUFFEURS WENT OUT

New York, Nov. 9.—Although yesterday was expected to mark time in the strike of express company drivers and helpers, owing to the apparent disposition of the labor leaders to postpone consideration of the general strike question until after election, unexpected interest was injected into the sympathetic movement in aid of the strikers yesterday by the announcement that 1,000 additional taxicab chauffeurs had joined the strike. This made, according to Secretary Forster of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a total of 2,300 chauffeurs on strike, despite the fact that 900 "taxi cabbies," employed for the most part by smaller companies, which had made agreements with their men, went back to work yesterday.

MORE CHARGES AGAINST THE GREAT FREDERICK COOK

Kund Rasmussen, the Danish Explorer, Tells of the Way in Which Cook Conducted His Expedition—Made False Map.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook was further discredited in a special cable despatch to The Chicago Daily News yesterday from its correspondent in Copenhagen, Denmark. The story was the first publication of the report of Kund Rasmussen, the Danish explorer, as sent by him to his wife in Copenhagen, and now given out by her.

Contained in the story is what purports to be the statements of Cook's two Eskimo companions in the polar quest, Itukusuk and Apilak, in which they confirm Comander Peary's charge that Cook traveled in a circle and never even approached the pole, Rasmussen is quoted as saying he himself did not interview the men, but their statements were taken by the Rev. Gustave Olsen and Katekets Echmann Ross-Bach, missionaries born in Greenland, and at the time of securing the statements working in the country from which Cook claimed to have started for the Pole.

This is part of the story told by the Eskimos:

"One day I, Apilak, came upon Dr. Cook sitting down and drawing a map. I looked at it and asked him, 'Whose route are you drawing?' 'My own,' replied Dr. Cook, but that was a lie, because he drew the map a long way out at sea, where we never had been. The small rivers had only begun to break when we reached Hell's Gate.

"We caught walrus, musk ox and bears all that winter. With the bow we killed only two hares. We had a gun to kill musk ox and bear, as to kill a musk ox with the bow is impossible. It was a fine autumn and had good provision for the winter.

"During the dark time we were inside most of the time making clothes. Dr. Cook wrote all the time. At first sight of the sun we started home.

"Dr. Cook, during the journey, promised us a good reward, but he proved himself a liar and swindled us out of the payment. We did not get the guns he promised us. These he sold for fox skins. He gave us only a knife, some matches and a useless boat. This is all we, Itukunk and Apilak, have to tell of our journey with the great Dr. Cook."

WILL OPEN UP GREAT COUNTRY

Edmonton, Nov. 9.—That 250 miles of railway into the north country will open to civilization more than 2,000 miles of river and lake suitable for navigation by large steamers, is the opinion of W. Hays, capitalist, of Duluth, Minn., who has just returned from a trip into the Arthabaska country with A. Velette, the man who is contesting the city's rights to use the Arthabasca River for power purposes.

Mr. Hays gives a very complete survey of the country. He says there is timber enough there to supply western Canada for the next half century. Agricultural prospects could not be better, while copper, iron and gold are found, and also petroleum, asphalt, limestone and oil. Fishing could be developed into a great industry.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

The President of Cuba has recommended a revision of the island's staff.

Guelph citizens will present Mr. J. P. Downey, ex-M.P.P., with a check for $1,000.

From fifty to seventy miners were entombed by an explosion in a Colorado mine.

Marshall Filson of Stella was dragged a quarter of a mile by a runaway horse, but escaped with a few bruises.

The Railway Commission has ordered the C.N.R. to build a five-pier bridge over the Moira River at Belleville.

The Government has taken up with Mr. Hays the case of the striking trainmen who have not yet been reinstated.

The disturbed colliery districts in Wales have been the scene of wild disorder, buildings being stormed and stores looted.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain, speaking at Wigan, told his hearers that a tax of two shillings on corn would not bring dearer bread.

All hope of reprieve has vanished, and Timothy Candy who, killed two constables at Montreal the night of the King's death, will be hanged on the 16th.

An explosion of natural gas at the residence of Mr. Albert M. Bailey at Windsor severely burned Mr. Bailey and Mr. P. H. Richards. The furniture of the room was destroyed.

RICHARDSON MAY RUN IN ENGLAND

London, Nov. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Bob Richardson of The Winnipeg Tribune, made some eloquent speeches during a recent visit, when on several occasions he spoke in the St. Pancras district. He so impressed the Labor and Radical Association of South Pancras that he was then and there offered the nomination for the ensuing election. The Canadian Associated Press understands that Mr. Richardson has not yet said whether or not he will accept the offer.

Naval Authorities to Decide.

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Before plans for any dry dock are approved by the Government, and either a first or second class subsidy awarded by the Government, they will have to have the endorsation of the Canadian naval authorities. In Britain this practice is followed in order to make certain that important docks shall have capacity and floor strength to handle the largest battleships.

Dynamited Safe.

Beattie, Kan., Nov. 9.—Five masked men, who came to this place in an automobile, dynamited the safe of the Beattie State Bank at an early hour yesterday morning and obtained $3,500. They escaped in the car, followed by a posse of citizens, and a running fight ensued, during which 100 shots were exchanged. Two of the robbers were wounded.

BRUCE MILLER SKEPTICAL

He Does Not Believe Belle Elmore is in America.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Bruce Miller of East Chicago, friend of Belle Elmore, the actress, whose husband, Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, is under sentence of death in London for murdering her, takes no stock in the story that the woman is alive.

"No, there is nothing in it. Some other woman must be impersonating the slain actress. If Attorney Tobin of Philadelphia thinks he has her located, it would be an easy matter to have me identify her. But she is dead. You may rest assured of that.

No Action From Washington.

Washington, Nov. 9.—No action is contemplated by the State Department in regard to the reports that Belle Elmore Crippen is still alive and in this country. Even if the affidavits reported to have been forwarded to Washington are presented at the State Department, it is declared that they would be referred to the British embassy or the English consul in Philadelphia, as the case is considered solely within the jurisdiction of the criminal court of England.

TURNING THE TABLES

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Allegations have been made by the Ottawa press against Hull, on account of accusations of allowing gambling. Chief Marcaud of Hull, an old Ottawa policeman, comes back by saying: "The authorities consider that they are doing everything possible to elevate the morals of the city, and do away with many existing evils. There is plenty of scope for investigation in Ottawa, where gambling in pool rooms and in regular gambling houses is a frequent occurrence. Further, a Hull man is prepared to state that he has five of these gambling machines, which are played for quarters, rented to different parties in the capital."

SIX INCHES OF SNOW AT SOO

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 9.—A heavy storm, which swept down from Lake Superior Monday night, brought about six inches of snow, with every appearance of winter setting in early. Ice is forming on the smaller lakes, landlocked bays, and rivers, and there is some sleighing and skating here already.

A Woman Stabbed by Husband.

Camden, N.J., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Carrie Bard, 40, and John White, 33, were admitted to the hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from severe stab wounds as a result of arguments over elections. Mrs. Bard was stabbed in the left side by her husband, and her death is expected. The husband escaped.

Drowning at Collingwood.

Collingwood, Nov. 9.—While working on a Government tug in the harbor here yesterday, a young man by name of Parlette, from Montreal, was drowned. At the time the tug crew were lifting buoys, and in some way the unfortunate man got caught in the ropes and was pulled into the water.

Died In India.

Belleville, Nov. 9.—Word has been received here of the death of Jos. T. Warrington, which occurred at Singapore, India. Deceased was at one time a resident of this city, and a member of the firm of Warrington & Son, prominent cheese exporters of this country.

St. Thomas, Nov. 9.—Charles McCorkell, who, with a party of St. Thomas sportsmen, returned from northern Ontario Monday, brought back a white moose, shot by him. It is believed to be the second or third ever shot in Ontario.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 9, 1910.

GOOD NEWS, LADIES!

There should be a big drop in the price of curls, puffs and switches in ties, for in compliance with an edict from China many Chinese in Toronto are cutting off their queues. The barber shops are doing a land-office business in pig-tails.

A COMMON DISEASE

Ottawa, Nov. 7.—At the market here to-day turkey was discovered that had been infected with Black Head.

There is another disease that is prevalent at Ottawa, and Toronto and Montreal and Hamilton. It is not unknown in smaller centres such as Brantford, London, St. Thomas, St. Catharines and Guelph. Even Peterborough is known to have a few cases of it. This disease infects males and females, particularly males. IT IS CALLED THE BIG HEAD.

A FIGHT

The authorities of Lindsay are fighting over a telephone pole "Trouble Over a Telephone Pole" This is the heading we observe in the Lindsay Post We have heard of cases of men fighting over imaginary grievances, but here is something very tangilbe — a telephone pole Why not grease it and the one who gets to the top first wins the case!

A DISGRACE

The attendance at the Scottish concert in the Opera House last night was a disgrace to the city. This city poses as musical. The prices were not high, the music was excellent. Scotch song has stirred the ages. There is something in it to make the blood run, to make the heart beat faster. Are we musical? Yes, apparently, when we can hear it for nothing. In the west the Scotch singers played to capacity houses. But then, that's the west, where men, women and children do not nurse their money—they pass it along and get it again.

CRITICS WHO DESTROY

A capable English journalist who lately paid a visit to Belleville, said in conversation with the Ontario, that one of the most serious defects of Canadian journalism was the eternal process of fault-finding and destructive criticism.—Belleville Daily Ontario.

The Ontario agrees with this capable English journalist.

We don't agree with the journalist or the Ontario. We are not surprised at the silk tiled, frock tailed, monocled journalist from over the sea. He always was and always will be too deep for us, and we have met a few dozen. His language is too precise. His vocabulary is too "lawge, doncher know." He is a perfect gentleman, and we hold that a "real lady" or a "perfect gentleman" has no business with the business end of a pen in connection with the editorial inkpot. Life is too strenuous. We don't go far without making errors, but we are ever seeking truth and trying to get the fellow who feels he is friendless, or the woman who is weary to take heart again.

WE BET ON JOE CLARKE

A farm hand who did not like the Toronto Star Weekly's articles on "Stay on the Farm," offered to exchange jobs with the editor of that publication for one week. The editor accepted the "defi" and the pair will put in an interesting time next week if neither backs out.—Galt Reformer.

We bet on Jo Clarke against the known" who threw down the challenge. Jo. years and years and years ago was once a farmer down near Pickering. A man who can plow once can always plow, a man who knows the fundamental principles of farming never forgets them any more than we forget how to swim It takes years to become initiated into the finer arts of the Fourth Estate, and the print and pith of a story. To know the need of the short sentence and when to pad, when to blue pencil and when to paragraph. You can go to school and pass the university a gold medalist and yet enter a newspaper office and pass into the editorial rooms unfitted for active service. It can't be taught except by actual practice and then there are many who simply hold their jobs that's all. Newspaper men are born, not made.

We bet on Jo. Clarke editor of The Weekly Star, former farmer from Pickering, against the unknown.

A CALAMITY

At the offices of J. H. Simpson & Co., wholesale grocers, it was learned this morning that an advance of ten per cent. had been made in the prices of all kinds of laundry soaps, which means the soaps which have up to the present sold at six cakes for a quarter, will now sell at five cents per cake straight. This change takes effect immediately and is due, it is said, to the increase in the cost of raw materials from which the household necessity is made. Tallow, resin and other ingredients have all become dearer of late, it is said.—Guelph Herald.

J. H. Simpson & Company, wholesale grocers, Guelph, announce a raise in the price of laundry soaps. They state that there will be no more a case of six for a quarter, but the cakes will sell at five cents straight. This is a blow struck at our cleanliness. We can live without chicken, we may live without eggs, but we can't afford to go around in dirty shirts, or wearing ill favored underwear. A blow has been struck at the root of our national life.

It is a loss to our washwomen. Cannot some modern Tom Hood rise and append a rhyme, a sequel to The Tale of the Shirt, entitled The Tale of the Cake of Soap.

WEAK SPINES

A sad lack of those qualities which may be grouped under the designation of backbone or stiffness of the vertebral column is often to be noticed in several members of the City Council.

At the meeting last night there were several woeful exhibitions of the old game of follow the leader. Some aldermen, who have not got enough grey matter to reason out a question for themselves and form an independent opinion on it before casting their votes, or else are too lethargic to use their own brain power, fall readily under the influence of such an active member as Ald. Grant.

It is not an uncommon occurrence in the council to see the word being passed along as to how to vote on some motion. Some of those weak, soft spined aldermen should be left at home by the electors next January. The City Council is no place for such as they.—Ottawa Free Press.

However, this Ottawa case does not apply to Peterborough. There is no woeful exhibition here. Every member of our council has an independent opinion, and look what has been done this year. Have not the streets been sprinkled with oil? Yes. Has not a live advertisement of Peterborough's facilities been spread broadcast? No, it has not. Has not a splendid system of garbage removal been augmented? No. Well, anyway, we have smelt oil and we know where some of the money has gone.

THE RESULT YESTERDAY

Yesterday showed that THE MASS IS RESTLESS.

It is a psychological phenomena that no one can explain. Editorials don't do it, political speeches crowd back in the speakers' mouths. Money cuts little ice. It's a movement that the longest and most profound editorials cannot explain. But certain it is that the Terrible Teddy, the slayer of lions and elephants, got his terrible bumps on Monday. But to Theodore Roosevelt defeat is only an incident. To the ordinary man it would be a calamity—a grand finale.

It is so near Thanksgiving Day and the Republicans got it where the turkey will get it on the great American national holiday, Thanksgiving Day. Good Gracious, Maude, wouldn't old Father Knickerbocker fall dead if he was to Rip Van Winkle it from his grave to New York? He fought the wolves, the Indians, fought and prayed and was devout of life and action. His ancestors fight, fight for existence, or for another million, to form another theatre trust, or to pull off another fight, or to squeeze the people just a little more.

The old, old Puritan fought for God and his country. His ancestors fight the wolf at the door or for another million Uncle Sam is becoming a land of extremes. Will it end in war? Will the battle be of the bullet or of the ballot?

The Globe says that the American people are dissatisfied with high tariff. That's so perhaps, but that's but part of the reason. It was the same kind of a wave that struck Terrible Ted as struck Napoleon, and swept him on the throne to sweep him off again.

SIR WILFRID THE DICTATOR: HIS HAUGHTY SPIRIT HUMBLED: SHOWN HIS DAY IS DONE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has just been read a very severe lesson as to the danger and folly of his pernicious habit of flouting public opinion, and of playing the dictator to members of Parliament, regardless of the views and wishes of their constituents.

When Sir Wilfrid first made public his entirely useless and highly expensive naval program, the public opinion of the country generally, and of the Province of Quebec in particular, was clearly enough expressed in opposition to it.

It was especially urged by representatives from Quebec that such an expensive scheme should not be entered upon without first submitting the question to the people at the polls.

But Sir Wilfrid flouted the public opinion, so duly expressed, with that characteristic haughtiness which of late years has become a disagreeable habit of the Prime Minister's, and proceeded to whip into line the members from Quebec, nearly all of his own political party, in that dictatorial manner which he is able to use through the accident of his being "drest in a little brief authority."

Sir Wilfrid would have been wiser if he had trusted the people, rather than thus seek to walk on the necks of them and their representatives.

Sir Wilfrid, by his dictatorial methods, was successful in whipping into line practically all the members from Quebec, though they knew that in bowing to his behest they were disregarding the views and wishes of their constituents and the best interests of the country—all of which shows that under Sir Wilfrid's dictatorship real parliamentary government has ceased to exist in Canada.

But Sir Wilfrid sought to play dictator once too often.

He had previously laid his arbitary hand upon Messrs. Bourassa and Lavergne, but not with success.

Instead of bending these men to his will, he drove them into insurgency, to become the leaders of the insurgents of his own party, who should at no distant date destroy him

At the by-election in Drummond-Arthabaska, brought on in his arrogance and vanity for the purpose of defeating and destroying the insurgents, he merely began to reap what he had been sowing. For years he had been sowing to the wind and he reaped the whirlwind.

From such a conspicuous and ruinous downfall, in such a Province as Quebec, Sir Wilfrid cannot recover.

Quebec has always been a very poor place for fallen political leaders. The people there generally think that the business of a champion is to win, and when he has ceased to win he has virtually ceased to be.

Apply to the whole Province such a popular turn-over as took place in Drummond-Arthabaska, and what would become of Laurier's "solid Quebec"? There would not be a shred of it left.—Halifax Herald.

SIDE LIGHTS

HER CHANCE

She had it in her power to make him strong
To lead him to a seat among the great;
To make him see the right and shun the wrong,
To wake within his soul a vibrant song,
To soothe the wounds that filled his heart with hate.

She might have led him from temptation's snare
And fed the fire of hope within his heart;
She might have claimed the splendid right to share
With him renown, unlimited and fair,
And won unstinted credit for her part.

But, longing for a glib fool's empty praise,
And caring less for honor than for dress,
She crushed him whom she had the chance to raise,
And thinking herself wronged, dragged out her days
In wretched and unpitied loneliness.

CHAPPED HANDS & COLD SORES

One thorough application of Zam-Buk at night will bring ease by morning. Zam-Buk stops the smarting, heals the cracks, and makes the hands smooth.

PROOF—Miss Hattie Bertrand, Galesburg, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with chapped hands and arms and nothing ever seemed to heal them thoroughly until we found Zam-Buk. It has cured them. My father has also used it for several skin troubles and injuries, and thinks there is nothing like Zam-Buk."

Mothers should see that their children use Zam-Buk daily, as there is nothing like prevention. A little Zam-Buk lightly smeared over the hands and wrists, after washing, will prevent chaps and cold sores.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin diseases, eczema, itch, ringworm, blood-poisoning, piles, and for cuts, burns and bruises. 50c box at all stores and druggists, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations.

THE MATURING WEST

EAST MEETS WEST WITH NEW AND OLD TOWNS IN BOTH.

The Visitor to the West Who Has Looked Upon the Prairie Cities as Prosaic Mushroom Growths Is Surprised at Mass of Fascinating History Lying Behind Some of Them—More Experienced Than East.

The literary discovery of the Canadian West has been the achievement of a very recent period, writes Roden Kingsmill in The Canadian Courier. The Wild West we had long ago from Ballantyne, Butler and a dozen of their followers, but only of late has the Westerner begun to figure largely in fiction or descriptive article as anything but a curiosity. At present, native and alien writers are alike solicited to write of the West as it is, just as if the West as it was yesterday or day before yesterday had been quite a different place. An Englishman, in a recent English review, gives us, with a flowered opulence of phrase, an idea of his surprise at western conditions: "Tanned by the prairie winds, warmed by the glowing sunshine of the level lands, standing where meet the trade currents of East and West, with command over both, the Canadian Westerner has in his grasp a glorious destiny, and he seems capable of living up to it."

Nobody surely desires to speak slightingly of the amelioration of the Westerner's lot which has followed the introduction of such discoveries and inventions as dry farming, irrigation, the co-operative local telephone and its companion, the Government lines, and the automobile without allusion to which no discourse on the West of to-day can be called complete. But other people cannot reasonably be asked to admire the West's performance unless they themselves have been unequal to similar feats. The participants in a long-distance run do not turn around at its end to marvel at one another's speed or endurance—unless, perhaps, one of them is a boy or a weakling from whom nothing much was to be expected. The West not so long ago, was as sensitive to being snubbed or patronized by the East as was New England when Wendell Holmes waxed wrathy because foreigners displayed their "certain condescension." But though the West is now more urbane—perhaps does a little patronizing itself—toward its cities, it is a reasonable question how much longer it need be regarded as a youngster.

Every so often some writer on Canadian affairs speaks of the "experiment" of a federal country within the Empire. And yet Canada as a nation is in point of fact one of the oldest, in place of being one of the youngest in the sense that our form of government has continued in operation for more years with less alteration than many of the others. Our instrument of government is older than that of Germany, France, Japan, Russia, Norway, Turkey, Spain. The same argument may with justice be applied to the claims of the West. Montreal was founded by the French, yet almost no sign of French occupation remains in the streets or edifices of the city. Even Quebec is much more modern than ancient. On the other hand, not even Winnipeg can show so large an area of brand new buildings, so many acres that were market gardens ten years ago, as are to be found in Montreal or Toronto. Residents of Winnipeg, who in the eighties were offered acre lots on Portage avenue for $100, are not more numerous than Montrealers whose fathers could have bought equal acres on St. Catherine street for a like amount or Torontonians who misguidedly let go generous slices of central property. "How much this is like British Columbia!" said a Westerner driving through dukedoms of Nova Scotia apple orchards. "How much this is like Ontario!" said Easterners who motored with Mr. R. L. Borden through the Riding Mountains when he toured the West four years ago.

In any event, it is only figuratively that we speak of a community as growing old. The only Anglican prelate in Canada who was born in his diocese is the Archbishop of Rupert's Land—and he is the oldest bishop, also. Where shall you find a sleepier—or pleasanter—town than Selkirk on the Red River of the North? It was a thriving village three generations ago when lusty young Ontario and Nova Scotia cities of to-day had not been chopped out of the forest or set atop their coal mines to transmute carbon into gold.

And so it is only figuratively that we may speak of communities as growing old. Greybeards, though near the passing of the Great Divide, move west into the very newest boom towns; babies continue to be born in cities that saw Madame de la Peltrie or entertained Frontenac. If that town is oldest which can trace back a coherent and connected history for the longest period, then we must not forget Selkirk and Winnipeg and Esquimalt. And add Fort Churchill. All can put in very plausible claims for admission to the fellowship of the good old towns. The Canadian press has had occasion to refer to the highly modern energy of Moncton, whose Board of Trade are booming the New Brunswick railway centre with a vigor that prairie-dwellers could not better. Any western community that has gone on doing the same thing—wheat dealing, for instance—in an increasing scale for twenty years or so is older, in a sense, than Amherst, which has so broken with traditions of a leisurely past that it is in the front rank of woollen-producing communities; or Sydney, with its burrowing coal mines and roaring furnaces; or bustling St John; or Quebec, which, with Levis, is the third greatest boot and shoe manufacturing centre in the Empire. Away from the railway lines in some parts of the West, or in Ontario, are to be found villages which are stagnant in appearance as Valleyfield or Welland or Sherbrooke are brisk and up-to-date.

Partridge are very plentiful.

HATES MODERN WEDDINGS.

Prof. William Robert Smith Criticizes Present Day Customs.

British and United States publications, not merely the society sheets and women's magazines, but some of the great daily newspapers have been devoting columns of space to the discussion of a pronouncement of Prof. William Robert Smith, M.D., F.R.S., against the giving and taking of wedding presents on the ground that the practice is immoral as tending to extravagance, to sycophancy, to waste and to imposition. Some publications, which have resented this structure upon a practice which has developed rapidly of recent years, have attacked the critic as "an impossible crank probably more at home among the musty tomes of his antiquated library than he would be in modern society." As a matter of fact, the learned "Professor" is, besides being one of the most up-to-date medical practitioners in London, considerable of a lion in the highest professional social set in the world's metropolis, having a splendid city home in fashionable Bloomsbury square, as well as a country place at Plumstead, in Kent. He is member of four of the most fashionable and smart clubs—the Carlton, the Royal Societies', the Savage and the Pilgrims. He comes by his title of "Professor" as the occupant of the chair of Forenic Medicine at King's College, London, and was educated at Aberdeen and Edinburgh Universities, taking the degrees of M.D. at the former and D.Sc. at the latter. Besides being a physician he is a barrister, having studied for that profession at the Temple, and having taken the degree of Doctor of Laws at Cambridge. He was also granted an honorary degree by the University of Geneva. Dr. Smith is anything but a mere bookworm, his activities having been varied and numerous. He was one of the Departmental Committee of the War Office that drew up the scheme of volunteer medical organization which proved so useful during the South African War, and still holds the rank of colonel in the Royal Army Medical Corps. He was the founder of the British Institute of Public Health and is now principal of the Royal Institute of Hygiene. He has for many years been regarded as the foremost champion in Britain of the cause of public health, maintaining that sickness and the death rate can be tremendously reduced by the introduction and rigid enforcement of well-devized laws for the provision of perfect water and drainage systems, the construction and equipment of homes, factories, schools, institutions, etc., on hygienic principles, the inspection of foods, the segregation of the sick, the disposal of the bodies of the dead, etc., etc. To his exertions it is mainly due that statutory provision was made requiring that medical health officers in Great Britain must possess special qualifications in the department of public health and hygiene, special courses being established in all the medical schools to afford doctors this particular training. As a manager of the Metropolitan Asylum Board he has taken a prominent part in dealing with the question of infectious disease treatment in London, and the result has been the establishment of a system which is regarded as a model one throughout the world. With a view of having the London schools placed in a thoroughly hygienic position, the Metropolitan School Board some years ago appointed him first medical adviser to their body, and under his direction the work was carried through with great thoroughness. During his active career Dr. Smith has found time to write several medical books, all regarded as standards.—Family Herald and Weekly Star.

The Plowman.

To turn a single acre of ground with a twelve-inch plow requires eight and one-fourth miles of heavy furrow travel. In plowing one square mile of land the solitary plowman and his horses must walk 5,280 miles. It would be easier (and the distance is less) to walk around the earth at the equator (if there were no ocean) than to follow a plow turning a prairie of five square miles. To equal our national tale of plowing—the work of myriads of teams, each using force sufficient to move seven tons over a good stone road—it would take an army of 4,550 plowmen to travel as far as from the earth to the moon and back again. For the world's yearly labor of this kind it would send about 80,000 men on that same half million mile journey.—World's Work.

Helping Out His Opponent.

Mr. Gladstone was once making one of his great speeches in the House when Lord Beaconsfield (then Mr. Disraeli) was leader of the opposition. Gladstone had worked himself up into a great state and referred to "the right honorable gentleman and his 'satellites'." On this there were cries of "Order, order!" "Question!" etc., which so disconcerted the right honorable gentleman that he lost the thread of his discourse. He threw back his head and in vain tried to remember where he left off, when Mr. Disraeli leaned across the table and said quietly, "The last word was 'satellites'."

He Meant the Bird.

A man once received as a present from a sea captain a fine specimen of the bird known as the laughing jackass. As he was carrying it home he met a brawny Irish navvy, who stopped him.

"Phwat kind of burd is that, sorr?" asked the man.

"That's a laughing jackass," explained the owner genially.

The Irishman, thinking he was being made fun of, was equal to the occasion and responded, with a twinkle of the eye:

"It's not yerself; it's the burd I mane, sorr!"—London Spare Moments.

His Terrible Accident.

Admiring Young Listener—And how did you lose your leg?

Old Salt—Well, young man, one night in the dogwatch, while I was carryin' the baby jib, I stepped on a starboard tack and blood pisin ensooed.

Rev. Arthur Carlyle was inducted as rector of All Saints' church, Windsor, by Bishop Williams, of Huron diocese.

BROUGHT UP HOT WATER.

The Friction of the Boat Made the Ocean Almost Boil.

The steamship was speeding over seas with a record breaking list of passengers when one of the gay, young and inquiring girls who are found on every trip skipped up to the captain and asked:

"Captain, are we really going fast? It seems as if we were just crawling."

"Fast," answered the captain gruffly, "of course we're going fast. With nothing to see but water and sky you can't judge our speed, but, my dear young lady, the friction of the boat is so great it makes the water hot aft."

"I don't believe it," giggled the girl, and the captain, with a great show of indignation, called for a rope and bucket to prove his words. These brought, he slung the pail down aft of the vessel directly under the drainpipe of the galley, where hot water runs all day, and brought it up smoking, to the astonishment of the awstruck girl.

A long, lean Yankee who had been watching the performance then came forward and drawled, "Say, cap, that must make you change your course mighty often."

"Change my course?" blustered the captain. "What would I change my course for?"

"Well," said the Yankee slowly, "so darn much friction as that must wear the ocean out mighty quick."—Philadelphia Times.

Sugar.

Our word "sugar" is said to be derived from the Arabic "sukkar," the article itself having got into Europe through the Arabian Mohammedans, who overran a great part of the world in the seventh, eighth and ninth centuries. According to Dr. Van Lippman, a Dutch writer, as a result of the Arab invasion of Persia sugar found its way into Arabia, whence again its culture was carried to Cyprus, Rhodes, Sicily and Egypt. In the last named country the preparation of sugar was greatly improved, and the Egyptian product became widely famous. From Egypt the industry spread along the northern coasts of Africa and so entered Spain, where, about the year 1150, some fourteen refineries were in operation. Columbus introduced sugar cane into the new world.—Argonaut.

Capt. Warren Dixon, a well-known pilot and former ship builder, was drowned at Hopewell Cape, N.B.

A DEED OF DARING.

Twenty-seven Lives Saved by One Man in a Shipwreck.

A historic case of daring and endurance rarely equaled in life saving annals was that of the rescue of twenty-seven souls by one man in 1867. The fishing schooner Sea Clipper was driven by the tempest against a reef near the Spotted islands on that coast and speedily went to pieces. Captain William Jackman, in charge of a fishing crew at these islands, had wandered in a direction he had never been before as if by inspiration and suddenly saw the whole tragedy enacted before his eyes. Hurrying his one companion back to the fishing station to summon help, he plunged into the bowling swirl himself and eleven times swam to the ship. Each time he took back a human being to safety, battling splendidly against wind and tide.

Then help arrived, but no means was available of communicating with the vessel, so Jackman fastened a rope around his waist and made fifteen more trips, returning with a castaway on each occasion. It was then discovered that a woman had been overlooked and left on board, and the belief was expressed that she was dead, but he declared that he would not leave her there, living or dead. Accordingly he plunged into the surf again and soon bore the hapless creature to the shore, where, divesting himself of his flannels, he wrapped them round her, as she was almost at death's door. She expired a few hours later, but lived long enough to thank her preserver for his noble efforts in her behalf.—Wide World Magazine.

THE GLASGOW CHOIR

Fine Concert At Grand Opera House Last Evening

Those who did not hear the Glasgow Choir at the Opera House last evening certainly missed a treat, for it was without doubt the best musical evening that has been given in the city for some time. The audience, though not large, made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers, and evinced their enjoyment of the several selections by the heartiest of applause. Many encores were demanded, but as the programme was a lengthy one they were only given in a few cases.

The concert was in every way a delightful one, and the choir were in splendid form. The part songs were sung with admirable ease and precision, and in the softer passages were very fine.

Many old favorites were in the list of part songs, including "The Cameron Men," "Cam Ye by Athol," "McGregor's Gathering," while amongst the solos were "When the Ebb Tide Flows," by Mr. Alex. Patterson, and "My Aine Folk," by Miss Young, were most pleasing.

The choir have been meeting with great receptions in the western cities, and at Winnipeg quite recently all seats were sold out two days before their appearance. It is to be regretted that there was not a larger audience to hear them in this city, as they are very fine.

OBITUARY

KATHARINE MURRAY.

A young life came to a close about seven o'clock this morning, when Katharine Murray, aged 23 years, passed away at the residence of her uncle, Mr. Michael Perdue, ex-Reeve, lot 2, in the 7th concession of Ennismore.

The deceased had been ailing for seven months. She had been very popular with a large circle of friends, who will mourn her loss. She is survived by her mother, one sister, Ellen, and one brother, Patrick, who reside at Ennismore. Another brother, Thomas, is of this city.

The funeral will take place Friday morning at nine o'clock, from the late residence, to St. Martin's church, Ennismore, and thence to St. Martin's cemetery.

AN APOLOGY

Following the announcement in our 5th Anniversary Annex Dodger of a sale of 200 Sample Blouses on sale sharp at 8.15 this morning—The rush was so great that the lot of blouses lasted only a short while at the ridiculously low price of 25c each and hundreds of our Annex patrons were disappointed.

The count was nearly a half over what we advertised, but we hardly anticipated so great a crowd at this season of the year. However we wish to extend our apology to the disappointed public for not being able to supply all and hope that the equally big values served to satisfy them to some degree.

We might here state that the 200 some odd blouses were sold out in less than 35 minutes from the time the sale commenced. It pays to be early at the Bargain Annex.

CRESSMAN'S

"Y" BOARD

Reports of Departments Show Progress-Improvements to be Made

A very good meeting of the Board of the Y.M.C.A. was held last night at the Association building. On account of the fact that the Board room has been turned into a class room for educational work the meeting had to be held in room No. 3. This is a good sign, for it indicates that the educational work is becoming more important and aggressive.

Mr. J. C. Shook was in the chair, and the following members were present:—Messrs. E. L. Goodwill, His Honor Judge Huycke, C. E. Sisson, J. H. Connal, J. J. Howden and Dr. J. E. Middleton.

The reports of the several departments were received, most of which showed progress. This was particularly true of the boys' work and the physical work departments. Certain improvements badly needed were authorized by the Board, and a plan laid out by which it is hoped the Association will be able to finish its financial year free of all debt. The Membership Committee had a number of new members to propose and reported that the committee hoped to do good work before the end of the year.

The Educational Department was pleased to report two classes which reach the men of the industrial class, a class in Electricity meets once a week, and a Mechanical Drawing class once a week. There is no doubt that these classes are meeting a great need in Peterborough.

The report of the Physical Committee showed that there is life in that department. The total number using that department during the month of October was 1,666. There are classes in wrestling, tumbling, advanced and elementary swimming, Aid to the Injured, Life Saving, as well as in the several regular physical features.

A Helping Hand NEEDED NOW

THERE is no form of benevolence more to be commended than that extended to the helpless, forlorn and destitute children, through the Children's Aid Society.

The objects deserve both your sympathy and your support. The first is always desirable, but it needs to be backed up by some means to make it practical.

An appeal will be made to you — on Saturday next — from and for the practical side. It is TAG DAY. Be liberal — if you can't be liberal, be as liberal as you can. Every little helps. Encourage the willing workers by buying the tags — they are without price. Let your heart and sympathy make the price what it should be.

The worthy men who are caring for the children and giving unselfishly of time and money deserve encouragement. They will be doubly encouraged if the results of Saturday's effort bring to the Society a substantial sum. Let it not be said that Peterborough, which supports so liberally, churches, schools, fraternal societies, clubs, recreation organizations and entertainments of all kinds, has fallen down on so laudable, helpful and deservedly noble an object as that of the Children's Aid Society.

DEER APPEAR SCARCE; NO TALES OF BIG BAGS

A fine, big buck weighing 210 pounds, is suspended outside of Gordon's butcher shop. This is net weight after the animal was dressed. It was shot by Mr. Gordon Hunsell in the vicinity of Lakefield.

So far no stories of unusual good luck have been heard. It is reported that deer are scarce, and to find them it is necessary to go back a considerable distance.

One hunter remarked to the Review that it is improbable that many deer will be shot on the runways this year. He himself saw the bones of animals lying on the runways and this would itself deter the deer from frequenting the run.

The Shawanaga Club, who are hunting up in the Parry Sound district, only got five deer up till last Friday, and three of that five were shot on that Friday.

"CLEANLINESS IS NEXT TO GODLINESS" BUT IT WILL COST TO BE CLEAN SOAP HAS GONE UP IN PRICE NOW A BLOW TO HOUSEWIFE WHO SAVES

The price of laundry soap has gone up. Not only in Peterborough, but all over Ontario and Quebec. In conversation with Mr. James Edgar, wholesale grocer, he said that he had been notified on Saturday last that such was the case.

When asked if he could give the cause of the advance, Mr. Edgar said he was of the opinion that it was a combine between all the leading manufacturers of laundry soaps. Furthermore, he had been told that all the surplus tallow, which is one of the main ingredients of soap, had been collected and shipped to England by a leading soap firm, thus causing the price to rise.

A meeting of the representatives of the soap manufacturers was held recently, and all of them were of the opinion that it would be beneficial, both to themselves and to the retailers, to advance the price thirty cents a case.

Another traveller for a leading wholesale house, stated that it means that the retailer will have to pay thirty cents a box more to the wholesaler than formerly. The high price of the raw material, such as linseed oil, tallow and resin, was the reason given by our informant.

A list of the prices of the above ingredients has been submitted to the wholesalers, showing the cost of securing them for the last eight years, and it is owing to the increased expense the advance was made.

The Sunlight, Comfort, Sunrise and Taylor Borax soap manufacturies are the firms involved, it is stated.

CALL TO CONVERT THE CHINESE

The Annual Thank-Offering Meeting of the Park Street Mission Circle was held last evening, with Miss M. Mann, the president in the chair.

In a few words Miss Mann explained the beginning of Ladies' Mission work in Canada. Mr. Timpany, a returned missionary from India, so enthused the women by his heart-stirring accounts of the needs of the women in the far-off lands, that this society for Women's Mission work was formed.

This was followed with scripture reading and prayer, by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Riddiford

The programme consisted of the following numbers and was very much enjoyed.

A paper by Mrs. Riddiford entitled "The Force of Missions in China—Especially Among Women."

Solo—Miss E. Hill.

Solo—Miss Hincliffe.

Recitation—Miss Ethel Hill. (A selection from Longfellow. The Vision.)

Duet—Mrs. and Miss Hincliffe.

Address—Rev. Mr. Fee, of Bethany Tabernacle spoke on China. In the short time allotted to him, Mr. Fee, gave a most interesting talk on the work in China, touching on several important subjects. He said the population of China is 45,600,000. The number of souls passing daily into eternity were 350,000. In 1908 there were only 4,000 missionaries there, and dividing the population into parishes, it meant 106,900 souls in each parish. This showed the great need of more Gospel missionaries. In closing Mr. Fee was asked to repeat a verse of scripture in the native language, he gave John 3-16. He also sung by request, (Jesus Loves Me.)

Solo—Mrs. Hincliffe.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mr. Fee.

LADIES MANNED THE SHOW

The ladies of the central section had charge of things last evening at Central Smith, when they gave a tea and social, wholly conducted by themselves, in the Temperance Hall. The object of the gathering was the raising of funds for painting and otherwise improving the hall, which has done such good service for the section for some 40 years.

The tea was an excellent one and much enjoyed by all, while the program was exceptionally good. The only mere man who was allowed to take part was Mr. H. B. Cowan, editor of Farm and Dairy, who was permitted to preside. Reeve Graham was granted permission to move a vote of thanks to the ladies on behalf of the men for the enjoyable evening. Every item on the long program was much enjoyed. Miss Mildred Archer as usual brought down the house with her recitations, while Miss Graham's solo was much enjoyed and brought a hearty encore.

The program included:

Opening song—Maple Leaf.

Chairman's address.

Quartette—Misses Graham, Tindle, and Mrs. Jas. Young.

Solo—Miss Gertie Tindle.

Recitation—Miss Mildred Archer.

Solo—Miss Darling.

Reading—Miss Clara Young.

The Farmer's Club will meet for re-organization on Monday evening next. Another social and tea will be given to-morrow (Thursday) evening, in the hall for the purpose of raising additional funds for the same object.

TO ASK COUNCIL TO INSTALL SEPTIC TANK

The city will be asked to instal a septic tank at the sewer outlet into the Otonabee River, by the townships of North and South Monaghan and Otonabee.

A deputation from the three townships with Mr. W. J. Pirter as chairman, went to Toronto yesterday and waited on the Provincial Board of Health to complain about the polluting of the Otonabee River, by the city of Peterborough.

The Board advised the deputation to ask the City Council to instal a septic tank, thus putting a stop to the present conditions, and the Board stated that it would be behind the townships in their request to the Council.

The deputation arrived home at noon.

That will be the case on Saturday, the tag day of the Children's Aid Society. However, if you wear your badge you will not be asked for further contributions.

The matter will be further considered.

The members present were: — Dr. Burnham, W. Sotcker, F. Wise, R. M. Glover, P. Campbell, T. A. S. Hay and H. L. Beal. Messrs. H. B. Beal and R. M. Glover were added to the Board as a result of vacancies brought about.

THE ROARIN' GAME

The Peterboro' Curling Club is looking for a banner season. The present members are endeavoring to boost the membership list.

Curling is great sport.

Last season the local club made a pretty decent showing, and it was with much regret that the brethren of the stane, watched the classy sheets of ice, turned out by iceman Angus McIntosh, revert to their initial state and then disappear from sight.

This year those behind the arranging of the annual schedule will endeavor to profit from the experiences of other years, and make firm rules which will be carried out to the last letter.

A few lessons on the end of a stane will give a novice decided encouragement and at the Peterborough Curling Club will be found many good fellows who will be only too glad to initiate new members and make them feel at home.

SPORTING COMMENT

Graystone Blue Charm, a collie dog, and one of the world's most valuable dogs, is dead. His owner recently refused $1,000 for him.

Rev. F. W. Armstrong, of the Trenton hockey club, has forwarded several amendments to Secretary Hewitt, of the O.H.A. One in regard to rough work reads;—In the event of a player causing an injury or hurt in any way through wilful breach of the rules or while acting under a temporary fit of ill-temper, the referee shall rule such offending player off the ice for the rest of that game, and for all such subsequent games as the injured player is incapacitated from playing, the duration of said incapacity to be determined by certificates of two independent licensed medical practitioners. Mr. Armstrong's other amendment aims to compel the opposing team to drop the player who occupies the corresponding position in case a player is compelled to retire for any cause, instead of leaving it optional with the opposing team as to whom shall be dropped.

A large attendance is looked for at the hockey meeting to-night at the Oriental hotel parlors. The meeting is called for eight o'clock.

Belleville has decided to sidetrack the professional game and enter a junior and intermediate seven in the O.H.A.

What about the scheme to form a new hockey association for the Lake shore towns and which originated at Trenton during the latter part of last season. Nothing doing.

Hamilton Tigers ought to find Argonauts easy picking next Saturday and then for the battle between the Hugh Gall and one Benjamin Simpson.

Up to the present we have not heard of the citizens of Lindsay banqueting their Junior O.R.F.U. district champions.

It is not likely that Keene will be represented in the Peterborough City League this season. McDougal has gone to Sarnia and Mr. A. St. A. Smith, who took great interest in the team last year, has removed to Millbrook.

A report says that the Sacred Heart church T.A.S. intend to be represented by a seven in the league.

Irving Buck, John Oldham, has Junior O.H.A. aspirations. After the first game the West End magnate would be wondering what he did with his summer's receipts from the City Baseball League.

His Bad Dream.

Truly oriental was the defense put forward by a prisoner at Alipore. Charged with stealing a Hindu idol with its ornaments, he stated that the goddess told him in a dream the night before that, as she was not properly worshiped by the Hindu priest, she would be better taken care of by him, a Mohammedan, and that unless he took charge of her worship she would in her wrath destroy his whole family. The magistrate, however, was not satisfied with the story and sentenced the accused to two months' rigorous imprisonment and to pay a fine.—Bombay Gazette.

When the Loss Was Felt.

Wife (on returning home after a long visit)—Have you noticed that my husband missed me much while I was away, Mary? Maid—Well, mum, I didn't notice that he felt your absence much at first, but this last day or two he has certainly seemed very downhearted, mum.

He Promised.

Sutton—No, can't spare the money very well, but I'll lend it to you if you promise not to keep it too long. Gayboy—I'll undertake to spend every penny of it before tomorrow.—Washingtonian.

Illegal Trapping.

Lindsay, Nov. 9.—Game Warden Toole of Omemee caught two residents of Emily Township, a farmer and an Indian, trapping muskrat. The traps were confiscated and the law-breakers fined $25.

COUNTING THE PEOPLE.

First Census Proposal in England Raised a Fine Row.

It was in 1753 that a proposal to count the people was first made. Thomas Potter, son of the archbishop of Canterbury and member for St. Germans, introduced in that year a bill "for taking and registering an annual account of the total number of the people and of the total number of marriages, births and deaths and also of the total number of poor receiving alms from every parish and extra parochial place in Great Britain." It was inevitable, of course, that directly this proposal was made the precedent of King David should be quoted. And many were the jeremiads as to the alternative evils which would befall the country. Those submitted to David were mild in comparison. Mr. Thornton, member for York city, said:

"I did not believe that there was any set of men or indeed any individual of the human species so presumptuous and so abandoned as to make the proposal we have just heard. I hold this subject to be totally subversive of the last remains of English liberty. The new bill will direct the imposition of new taxes, and indeed the addition of a very few words will make it the most effectual engine of rapacity and oppression that was ever used against an injured people. Moreover, an annual register of our people will acquaint our enemies abroad with our weakness."

Matthew Ridley, another opposing member, added that his constituents looked on the proposal as ominous and feared lest some public misfortune or an epidemical distemper should follow the numbering. However, the bill passed the commons only to be promptly rejected by the lords. Not until 1800 was the proposal again made, and on this occasion it was brought to a successful issue. The first census of England and Wales was taken in March, 1801.—Westminster Gazette.

GENEROUS GEORGE.

Washington's Tips and Compliments to Patty and Polly.

Those who take tipping in the somewhat solemn spirit of the social investigator may find their minds enlivened by the perusal of an excerpt from the writings of our first president, which shows what a graceful turn appreciation and courtesy may give to the custom.

In 1789, on his return from his New England progress, Washington lodged at Taft's inn, at Uxbridge, Mass., where the domestic service—as at many inns in the country—was performed by the landlord's daughters. Somewhat later Washington wrote to Mr. Taft:

Hartford, 8 November, 1789.

Sir—Being informed that you have given my name to one of your sons and called another after Mrs. Washington's family, and being, moreover, very much pleased with the modest and innocent looks of your two daughters, Patty and Polly, I do for these reasons send each of these girls a piece of chintz, and to Patty, who bears the name of Mrs. Washington and who waited upon us more than Polly did, I send 5 guineas, with which she may buy herself any little ornaments she may want, or she may dispose of them in any other manner more agreeable to herself.

As I do not give these things with a view to have it talked of or even to its being known, the less there is said about it the better you will please me, but that I may be sure the chintz and money have got safe to hand let Patty, who I dare say is equal to it, write me a line informing me thereof, directed to "The President of the United States at New York." I wish you and your family well and am your humble servant, GO. WASHINGTON.

The Shark Is a Slow Swimmer.

One ill service nature has done the shark—namely, that of placing a triangular fin on his back which acts as a danger signal and gives warning of his approach. Happily the shark has not been gifted with sufficient sagacity to be aware of this peculiarity, for had he been so he would unquestionably abandon his habit of swimming close to the surface of the water and would in that case be enabled to approach his victim unobserved. The shark is a slow swimmer for his size and strength. Byron observes, "As darts the dolphin from the shark." But Byron was a poet and does not appear to have been a close observer of the habits of inhabitants of the water or he would have known that a shark would have no more chance of catching a dolphin than a sheep would of overhauling a hare.

Sardine Fishing.

In sardine fishing there are many uncertainties. There is a twenty-eight foot rise and fall of tide in the bay of Fundy, and especially constructed wooden picket inclosures are staked out in the water to gather in the fish. Last season a man erected an inclosure in what he supposed to be excellent fishing territory, but got nothing. He deplored his loss and for a time failed to go near it. "Why don't you seine it again?" somebody asked. "What's the use?" he replied. "Let me try it," the other persisted. "Yes, and you may have all the fish you get." The other man pulled out $1,700 worth at one haul.—Frank Leslie's.

A Sailor's Hands.

A sailor is betrayed by his hands, though his gait might betray him. They are permanently half shut. Walking, talking or sleeping the sailor has his hands half shut and could not open them flat if he tried. This is the result of years of climbing and pulling ropes.—London Chronicle.

The Joke on Her.

The Friend—Your wife doesn't appear to be in very good humor. Husband—No; she thinks I've invited you to dinner.—Jean Qui Rit.

John A. Dix figured in an automobile accident while going from Albany to Troy, being badly shaken up.

Will Arrest Indians.

Vancouver, Nov. 9.—As a result of the inquest on the body of William Bernard, a half-breed, which was pulled out of the Fraser River at Ewing's Cannery, the arrest of several Indians is expected. The jury brought in a verdict that deceased met death by foul play. Bernard was last seen alive on the night of Sept. 20. He was in a fight with some Indians. The police found blood on the wharf and saw the Indians pulling away in a boat.

Favors Arbitration.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Arbitration as the preventative of strikes is the position of the new French Government, as outlined yesterday to the Chamber of Deputies by Premier Briand.

Briand's declaration that the Government questioned the right of public service employes to tie up the business of the nation to win their points, was greeted with hisses by some of the Socialists and strike sympathizers.

Fatal Collision.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 9.—In a collision between a Rock Island passenger and a Santa Fe work train, three miles south of here yesterday, A. Wilson of Kingfisher, the Rock Island engineer, was killed, and eight passengers were injured, none fatally. R. Williamson, the Rock Island fireman, was probably fatally hurt. Several other trainmen were injured.

No Car Strike.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—At three o'clock yesterday afternoon it was announced that the arbitrators had reached an agreement on the interpretation of "loyal men," which has caused friction between the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. and its union men. It is stated that the agreement will satisfy both sides and end all talk of a strike.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

(To The Editor of The Review)

I do not wish to interfere with the controversy now going on between Toronto and Ottawa, as to the respective merits of widening the Welland Canal and depening the St. Lawrence river on the one hand, and the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal on the other hand, but it is amusing to see the Toronto World reading a homily to the Mayor of Ottawa by saying that he should be content to advocate the latter project upon its own merits, and cease making unfair and disingenerous attacks upon the projects, while that is just what the World has all along been doing when disparaging the building of the Trent Valley Canal. With it no project should be considered excepts what passes the door of Begtown.

Yours,
OBSERVER.

BLUFFED AND WON

A Dramatic Incident of the Fateful Hundred Days.

ONE OF NAPOLEON'S COUPS.

The Way of the Great Military Genius Overcame the First Opposition He Encountered on the March to Paris After His Return From Elba.

A striking incident in the career of Napoleon is described by Camille Cosuaud in his book, "Le Retour de l'Isle d'Elbe" ("The Return From the Island of Elba"). It describes how he met the first opposition offered to his march to Paris after his escape from Elba:

"Meanwhile Napoleon had traveled by the Alps to Dauphine, advancing into the interior of the country. Having received information on Sunday, the 4th of March, the prefect of l'Isere had immediately, in concert with the military authority, taken measures to deal with the startling situation. A detachment composed of a battalion of the Fifth regiment of the line and two companies of engineers was dispatched to prevent the further advance of the emperor.

"The meeting between this detachment and the little troop from the isle of Elba took place on the 7th of March near Vizille, but not before the peasants had had time to hasten to inform Napoleon of the antagonistic disposition of the officers commanding the troops which had been sent from Grenoble. In order to avoid the shedding of blood the emperor ordered Cambronne, who was accompanied by a small escort, to enter into treaty with the cocardes blanches (white cockades). Cambronne found the detachment ranged in order of battle. The commanding officer refused to enter into communication, and the soldiers remained silent and gloomy.

"Napoleon immediately took his share in the proceedings. He gave the order to his grenadiers to put their rifles under their arms, in order to give proof of their pacific dispositions. Then he advanced alone, while some of his friends cried to the soldiers of the line:

"'Friends, do not fire! There is the emperor, who wishes to speak to you.'

"Napoleon now found himself about thirty meters from the Grenoble detachment. He dismounted and, his arms crossed on his breast, remained standing in the middle of the road.

"'Soldiers of the Fifth,' he said in a loud tone—'soldiers of the Fifth, do you recognize me?'

"'Yes, yes!' they all replied.

"Then Napoleon, throwing open his gray cloak with a dramatic gesture and pointing to his breast with his hands, replied:

"'If there is one among you who wishes to kill his general, his emperor, he can do it. Here I am!'

"The response was unanimous, sublime: 'Long live the emperor! Long live the emperor!'

"Breaking the ranks, their shakos at the ends of the swords or on the bayonets, the soldiers of the Fifth, to whom were joined the engineers, ran toward Napoleon, surrounded him, embraced him, kissed his hands, called him their preserver, their father, their general, their emperor. Finally the two detachments mingled together and became consolidated. Napoleon then had 2,000 men with whom to march on to Grenoble.

"They took the road, and it was a triumphal march. The people of the district came to meet the column, acclaiming Napoleon as the liberator of the nation and as the living incarnation of the revolution.

"The peasants wept with joy. At this sight the emperor, turning toward his officers, Droudt and Bertrand, said to them:

"'Everything is now in good order. Within ten days we shall be at the Tuileries!'"

Song of the Flame.

Fire can be made to sing. A writer says: "Take a lighted candle and blow gently against the flame. You will hear a peculiar fluttering sound. The fluttering sound is fire's first attempts at music. Instead of the unsteady breath of our lips let us employ the steady blast of a blowpipe. Instead of the pale and flickering light of a candle let us use the bright and ardent glare of a chemist's lamp. When you have a lamp and blowpipe you can make fire sing in earnest."

An Evident Success.

"So you have a position as stenographer. I hope you will succeed in making yourself indispensable to your employer."

"I think I have, auntie. We are to be married next month."—Pittsburg Post.

Lucky.

"Noah must have felt lucky when he landed after his long sail."

"Yes," replied the New York importer. "Think of a man landing all that cargo without a customs official to say a word!"—Washington Star.

Just What He Wanted.

"Is your suburb wholesome?"

"No, old chap, it ain't. My wife lost her voice as soon as we moved out here, and"—

"What's the price of the lot next to yours?"—Cleveland Leader.

MUTILATED CURRENCY.

Often Used In Attempts to Cheat the Treasury Department.

Many efforts are made to cheat Uncle Sam through the redemption division of the treasury department, which division has to do with redeeming partly destroyed government currency.

Once a man in a western state sent in half of a ten dollar bill, accompanied by an affidavit to the effect that while on a spree he had used the other half to light a cigar. The half he forwarded was nicely charred along the inner edge, and the story would have been accepted by treasury officials had it not been that within twenty-four hours there was received from a bank in the same state the other half of the note.

The theory of treasury officials was that while more or less intoxicated the man had struggled for possession of the bill with some one who had wrested half of it from him; that the despoiler had turned the half into the bank and received five dollars for it; that the intoxicated man, recovering his senses, had found the other half in his pocket and, not wishing to lose his money, had conceived the plan of singeing the edge of the note and claiming that the other half had been destroyed. So he committed perjury in an attempt to rob the government of $5.

A man in Cleveland sent an affidavit to the treasury department, accompanying the singed half of two twenty-dollar bills and one ten-dollar bill. This affidavit was typewritten and in perfect form. It set forth that the deponent was a commercial traveler; that after returning from a journey he had been cleaning out his traveling bag when inadventently he had thrown into the fire an envelope containing $50 in bills; that in accordance with section so and so he would like to have the money restored to him, etc.

The clerk who brought this document to the officials commented on its lucidity and completeness, but to one of these the story seemed unnatural, and he ordered that the claim be held up for awhile.

Twenty-four hours later a big shipment of mutilated currency came from a subtreasury in the west. The official who had ordered the claim held up asked whether there were any half notes in this shipment. In four or five minutes a clerk brought him the missing halves of the bills the Cleveland man had sent in.

The attempt to defraud was plain. The matter was at once put into the hands of the secret service division, and a man was sent west to investigate. The man who had made the affidavit confessed at once. He had cut the bills in halves and for one-half of them obtained $25. The other half he singed and attached to his affidavit. The gross profit of the swindle could not have been more than $25, and for that trifling sum the man forfeited his liberty for a year and a half.—Washington Star.

Calais and Its Lighthouse.

Calais is rather an untidy place for a French town. The Place d'Armes, where the tower of the Hotel de Ville has remained since the fifteenth century, is the center spot. Here Calais meets its friends and has its cafe noir. In the square, towering out of the roofs of surrounding houses and dwarfing them, is the old watchtower. Since 1848 it has been superseded as a lighthouse by the magnificent one at present in use. Never shall I forget the effect of this lighthouse as I stood under it that night. The revolving spokes of light cast away into filmy space in all directions, looked like the ribs of a huge umbrella being turned by the white handle, which was the lighthouse tower. So tall is this that its revolving light can be seen from a distance of twenty miles at sea.—Wide World.

Helping Him Along.

"What is all this straw doing in the roadway? Somebody sick?" asked the man passing.

"Easy!" said the man at the gate, holding up a warning finger. "There's a young man calling on my daughter tonight who has been coming to see her for six years. He's very easily frightened. We hope he's going to propose tonight, and we are taking every precaution against his being startled!"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Barefoot Burglar.

"Have you seen the barefoot burglar?" asks the Florida Times-Union. We have. We caught her in the act yesterday morning, the three-year-old miscreant, as she stole up to our bed, stole a kiss, shook her tousled head and said, "If you don't get up, dad, you won't get any bre'fes'."—Allentown (Pa.) Democrat.

Life Insurance

Many a father is going to mortgage the house in town or the farm in the country this Fall that the son may go to college. Possibly that "rainy day" fund is going to be drawn upon for this purpose. I have enough faith in Canadian youth to believe in such investments. The son intends to pay back to his father every cent just as soon as he gets into business for himself. With but an exception now and then, he will—IF HE LIVES. It is the latter point I want to emphasize. Life is not a certainty. A glance at any college catalogue will show the asterisk in the list of students and the word "deceased" at the bottom of the page. Frequently there is added to the loss or the son the LOSS OF THE COST OF HIS EDUCATION. The latter may mean the loss of the home. One of the legitimate uses of life insurance, it seems to me, is to take care of just such cases. The cost of life insurance for the son is very slight, because he is young and a good risk. It adds but little to the financial burden. In return it gives full protection to the parent, and in later years—after college debts are paid—it safeguards the home which the son sets up for himself No son who can get insurance has the right to mortgage his father's or his mother's future happiness when there is such a good way to avoid it. One word more, young man. Be sure that your insurance is in a well established, responsible company.

Someone has said, "The true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the SUN LIFE OF CANADA needs no comment, and the profits paid—let the actual results tell their own forceful story.

NEWS FROM THREE LIVE PLACES

CAMPBELLCROFT, PERRYTOWN AND GARDEN HILL.

GARDEN HILL.

Hallowe'een, ah, Hallowe'een, come again no more, is the cry of some of the citizens of The Hill, after the boyish pranks of last Monday night, for many gates are ajar since.

A large number from here attended the funeral of the late Stanley Boyd, who died in St. Joseph's Hospital of typhoid fever and was buried in the English cemetery, Perrytown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peacock went to Peterborough to visit their daughter, Mrs. Ernest Lee, who is very ill.

Miss Muriel Campbell, of Knoxville, was the guest of Miss Ora Trull last week.

Mr. McLung, of Centreville, visited at Mr. Ephriam Dean's last Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Lowes has moved into our midst. He will occupy Mr. Hurst Taylor's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson have moved into Alex Deyell's house.

All the vacant houses in this place occupied.

The members of Garden Hill Institute intend giving an Irish supper on the evening of November 16th.

PERRYTOWN.

Mr. Samuel Coldwell is the guest of his son, Theodore, in Perrytown.

Mrs. Warren Dunber, we are pleased to hear, is recovering from her severe illness.

Everybody is hustling in their turnips now.

Hallowe'een passed off very quietly in our town, no tricks being played.

Mr. John Purcell, of Welcome, drove out to visit his brother, the postmaster here, last Sunday.

Miss Annie Noble, of Canton, is the guest of her sister, Etta, on Buck Ridge

Mr. E. A. Wilson is in the north country in the interests of the Deering Co., Hamilton.

CAMPBELLCROFT.

Mr. John Campbell and Mr. Nelson are busy threshing with their new outfit. They have given every satisfaction to their many patrons.

Miss Connor, of Owen Sound, who has been visiting Miss Osland, has returned home

Miss Tillie Sampson, of Welcome, was a guest at the Osland home over Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Allison has secured a position as brakeman on the Midland division of the G.T.R.

CEDERDALE CHIPS NOT STALE OR FRESH

Special to the Review.

Cedardale, Nov. 8.—Mr. Jas. McGuire has returned from his trip through the western provinces, and has great praise of that promising part of our Dominion. We believe he intends to locate there in the spring.

Cedardale cheese factory has suspended operations for another season. No longer the merry rattle of the milk wagon disturbs our morning slumbers; the sounds that have now grown familiar to our ear are the hum of the separator and the thump of the churn.

Mr. Drok preached his first sermon in Knox Presbyterian church last Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Marvin is to preach the anniversary service in the Methodist church next Sunday afternoon.

We hear that Miss Flynn, together with the young people of S.S. No. 3, is preparing a concert for the evening of the 25th. We are sure a treat is in store for us, and hope everyone will take advantage of it.

Several of our young men have sought recreation after their hard summer's toil by shouldering their guns and going in search of the antlered monarch of the forest. A number of them, however, returned empty handed on Saturday night.

Mr. Bert Esson and Mr. Wallace Shearer had rather an exciting experience while hunting on Bald Lake Monday forenoon. In attempting to shoot some wild fowl they unfortunately capsized the canoe, and had it not been for the timely assistance of Mr. W. Coons, the accident might have ended seriously.

Miss May McConnell has returned after spending Thanksgiving with her parents in Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark, of Ennismore, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Thompson.

Mr. Bert Achison spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. A. L. Shearer.

The root crops throughout this locality has been very good this year. Mr A. G. Shearer has a Greystone turnip on exhibition in his store at Buckhorn, which was grown on his farm here, that weighs thirty-one pounds, and certainly is a dandy.

HERE'S FROM HAVELOCK

Two Accidents — S[illegible]h School Institute — Two Marriages — Personals

Special to the Review.

Havelock, Nov. 8.—Mr. Fred Howard a C.P.R. brakeman, was very badly hurt by falling off the top of a box at Central Ontario Junction on Monday morning. He left here on the wayfreight train early Monday morning and while doing some shunting at the station at Central Ontario he fell between the cars, striking the coupling bar in his descent, and severely injuring his back and side. Although he was severely hurt by the fall, he managed to get out from between the cars, and no doubt only for his quickness of action, the wheels of the car would have passed over his body.

He was brought back to Havelock and taken to Mrs. Campbell's private hospital. The true extent of his injuries have not as yet been ascertained.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

An accident which might have turned out fatally occurred at the home of Mr. Morris Whitney, nine miles north of here, on Wednesday last. Mr. Whitney was endeavoring to remove a cartridge which had become stuck in his gun, when the shell exploded. Mr. Whitney, who was holding the gun, had his face marked in several places by the powder, while his nine year old daughter, Edna, had a wound about an inch and a half long inflicted on her breast by the rim of the shell, which flew backwards to where she was standing when the explosition took place.

A meeting of the Girls' Guild of St. John's church was held at Mrs. Holdcroft's residence on Tuesday last.

Brewster, of town, spoke on "The Need of the Church in the Sabbath School," Miss Davis on "The Aim and Purpose of the Modern Sabbath School," while Rev. J. DARED HIM TO SHOOT, WAS SHOT THROUGH HEART

Sixty-Year-Old Man Orders Younger One Out of the House at Monetteville, Near Sturgeon Falls, and When Dared to Fire Puts Bullet Through Visitor's Heart.

North Bay, Nov. 10.—The little village of Monetteville, the centre for a thriving community of French-Canadian farmers, is in the throes of excitement over a terrible tragedy, which took place Monday night, resulting in the death of Joseph Larveque. Monetteville is situated 35 miles from Sturgeon Falls, at the extreme west end of Lake Nipissing, and is served by a tri-weekly steamer service from Sturgeon Falls. In the absence of telegraph and telephone service, news of the tragedy did not reach the front until yesterday.

The facts, as gathered from the crew of the steamer, which made a trip to Monetteville yesterday, are that Joseph Larveque, a farmer living near Monetteville, was drinking with a companion Monday evening, and about 11 o'clock went to the residence of Isaac Larveque with a bottle of whisky. The latter, who is an old man of sixty, a widower, living with his grown-up family, was in bed when the men came, and, having been drinking during the evening was not in a good humor. He got up and drank with his visitors, a quarrel started and the old man ordered Joe Larveque out.

The latter refused to go, although his companion tried to take him out. Isaac Larveque told him to go out, or he would shoot him, taking down his rifle. The visitor was standing in the doorway at this time, and, turning, said, "Shoot me, then." The old man pressed the trigger and shot Joe Larveque through the heart. He fell across the door step outside the house, and at latest accounts yesterday the body was still lying where he fell, as no coroner was available and no one seemed disposed to make a move in the matter.

Isaac Larveque had not been arrested up to noon yesterday, as there are no officers in the village.

Joseph Larveque is a married man, aged 35, with six children, and is variously reported as being the nephew of his slayer and of being no relation. He occupies the adjoining farm to Isaac Larveque and it is said that the men had been on friendly terms.

Mrs. Gli Brosseau of Sturgeon Falls was visiting the family of Isaac Larveque, her uncle, at the time of the tragedy, and came home yesterday. Interviewed, she said that she had retired early Monday evening, when she heard loud talking downstairs and heard the shot fired, but did not know anyone was killed until the next day, when she left the house and went to the hotel to wait for the boat. In leaving the house she just saw the feet of the dead man lying near the door, but was too nervous to go near the corpse. As she was not well Monday night, she had not been told of the tragedy, and the noise had frightened her, so that she was afraid to go downstairs.

Isaac Larveque states that he never intended to shoot Joe Larveque, and seems to be greatly exercised over the tragedy. The coroner will likely go on from Sturgeon Falls to-day with Provincial Constable McRae.

MURPHY REFORMS PRINTING BUREAU

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—For a year past Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, has been conducting a most thorough job of Governmental housecleaning in connection with the country's huge Printing Bureau at the capital, which annually handles an output of printed and stationery matter costing over a million and a half dollars, and which is one of the very largest industrial establishments of its kind in Canada. The results of that housecleaning, begun voluntarily and without suggestion from the Opposition in or out of Parliament, are embodied in a voluminous report to the Governor-in-Council, which will be presented to Parliament on the opening of the session. The report concludes with a series of comprehensive recommendations looking to the reorganization of the whole bureau from top to bottom, the rectifying of abuses inherent in the anomalies of the act of Parliament which created it many years ago, and the placing of the whole business of Parliamentary and Governmental printing on an up-to-date and business-like basis.

In connection with the reorganization it is announced that Mr. Fred. Boardman, for some years in charge of the Montreal Herald job printing department, has been appointed Superintendent of Printing in place of ex-Superintendent McMahon, retired on superannuation, and Mr. Joseph O. Patenaude, Assistant Superintendent of Stationery, has been placed in charge of stores and distribution. The post of Superintendent of Stationery is not yet filled.

HOUNDS BRUTALLY TREATED

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Veterinary Inspector Cook, at Parry Sound Tuesday, happened to kick a box lying on the platform of the station and was surprised to hear the faint moan of a dog. He ordered that the box be opened, and discovered two half-starved hounds, which had apparently been shipped up there for hunting purposes. The box had been shipped from Blair, Ont., in the infected district, and the dogs had been in it, without food or water, and only what air come from a small crack in the side, for three days. The owner, a Toronto man, will be prosecuted on charges of violating the Government quarantine and of cruelty to animals.

ELECTIONS WILL HAVE NO EFFECT

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—There was no meeting of the Tariff Commissioners yesterday. Referring to the negotiations which have been in progress, Hon. W. S. Fielding said yesterday that the discussion were necessarily of a confidential character, but that when the right moment comes, whatever is available will be given to the press.

"What do you think of the results of the elections in the States yesterday?" was asked of Messrs. Pepper and Hoyt, the two representatives of the United States Government now in the city, discussing reciprocity with the Dominion Government.

"When an avalanche starts, it usually carries everything before it, and that is what happened in this case," was the laconic answer.

"Do you think the results will in any way affect the reciprocity situation?"

"We don't see how it can," they said.

"Were you surprised at the results?"

"Not in the slightest; we expected just what happened."

RIOTING CONTINUES

New York, Nov. 10.—Mayor Gaynor issued two characteristic letters last night, with a promise to bring the strike of express company employes to a head to-day. He forbids the operation of wagons by unlicensed drivers, thus eliminating the strikebreakers on which the companies have depended.

More than 10,000 drivers and helpers, augmented by most of the taxicab chauffeurs in New York, are still on strike and rioting is unabated.

A gang of seven strikers overturned a loaded Adams' Express Co. wagon yesterday, and after driving off three of the wagon men attacked John Smith, a guard, whom they beat nearly into unconsciousness, and sent the horses galloping down the street.

One of the worst riots occurred in Eighth avenue, near a garage. Drivers of four machines were attacked by a mob.

Charles Fredericks, a meat inspector, was found near the scene of a disturbance on First avenue, with a fractured skull.

A loaded truck belonging to a big furniture house, whose employes have struck, was set on fire, and the furniture destroyed.

FREE TRADE SILLY TALK

London, Nov. 10.—Sir Gilbert Parker, speaking at Manchester, said: "There is some silly talk of Canada going back to free trade, because a handful of farmers in the west are demanding, not free trade as we understand it, but a revised tariff, which would give them as good an advantage as the present tariff gives the manufacturers of the country. That is a matter of adjustment, but no candidate dares to go to a constituency in Canada offering a system of free imports as England has it. No Government would last a week that proposed it."

Hunted With Motor Boat.

Belleville, Nov. 10.—Capt. JOS. P. DOWNEY GETS A PRESENT

Guelph, Nov. 10.—By presenting him with $1,000 in gold and his wife with a huge bouquet of American beauty roses, the citizens of Guelph, showing a fine disregard for all political partisanship, yesterday honored J. P. Downey, ex-M.P.P., superintendent of the Orillia Asylum, at a public meeting, which was held in the council chamber of the City Hall, with Mayor G. D. Hastings presiding. People of both political parties contributed towards the generous gift to the former member for South Wellington, and people of both parties took part in conferring the honor upon him, as a token of recognition for the service he had done the province in general, and the south riding of Wellington in particular.

ABOUT THIRTY

Democratic Sweep Gives Them Good Working Plurality.

New York, Nov. 10.—The political upheaval of Tuesday in the United States was followed yesterday by a general survey of the field, which disclosed with greater detail and precision just what results had been accomplished.

Latest calculations on the national House of Representatives based on the complete but unofficial returns, show that the Democrats will have a working majority of thirty.

The complexion of the United States Senate is now definitely settled. The Republicans are assured of sixteen new Senators, which with thirty-four hold-over Senators, gives them a total of forty. Two Senatorships are still in doubt, namely, the succession of the late Mr. Dolliver in Iowa, and of Mr. Carter in Montana, where there is prospect of a tie.

These determined totals, however, leave a Republican majority in the Senate as follows: Total membership 92; necessary to majority, 47; Republicans, 50; Democrats, 40; doubtful, 2. The sixteen Republican Senators considered assured are from California, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Michigan, Nevada, North Dakota (2), Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

CHAMP CLARK,
Who May Succeed Speaker "Joe" Cannon.

Internal Dissension Blamed.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Blaming the rout of the Republican party to bitterness in its own organization, but predicting success for 1912, Wm. B. McKinley, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee, yesterday gave out the following statement:

"When it is considered that barely two-thirds of the Republican vote in the middle west states went to the polls, and the further fact that factional differences had aroused an unusual degree of bitterness among the Republicans, the result is not surprising."

AUTO JAMMED BETWEEN CARS

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Miss Rosslyn Campbell, daughter of Dr. Colin Campbell, 93 West Bloor street, and Mrs. Ada Gibson of Buffalo, her aunt, had a narrow escape at 7.30 yesterday morning, when an auto in which they were being driven along Bloor street was jammed between two street cars at St. Thomas street.

A car driven by Motorman H. Roberts was eastbound on Bloor street, and a Belt Line was standing at Balmuto street, when Robert Morrison chauffeur of the auto, turned his machine to cross to the north between the two. The eastbound trolley struck the rear of the auto, and threw it on to the other car. The auto was wrecked, and only for the steel frame, which held, the ladies must have suffered serious injury. They were carried into a near-by residence suffering from a severe shaking up and shock.

The vestibules of both street cars were wrecked.

The ringleader in the plot was found to be a Japanese named Kotoku, whose wife was also one of the conspirators. She is the only woman involved.

WOULD DEFEND BRITAIN

Bourassa Says Autonomy is all He Asks For Canada.

Montreal, Nov. 10.—At a meeting of ten thousand Nationalists, held in the east end last evening, beneath the folds of the Union Jack, Mr. Bourassa proposed the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"This meeting acclaims the result of the election in Drummond and Arthabasca as the triumph of the principle of Canadian autonomy.

"That the victory justifies emphatically the attitude adopted on the navy bill by Mr. Monk, member for Jacques Cartier, and by the Federal representatives who supported him. It shows that the people want to be consulted before being dragged into a new policy of imperial militarism.

"The meeting approves and ratifies the verdict rendered by the electoral division of Drummond and Arthabasca, reaffirms the will of the Canadian people to uphold the rights of the British crown in Canada, declares itself ready to approve all necessary and efficient measures to make sure the defence of Canadian territory, but it considers as contrary to the principle of Canadian autonomy and to the real unity of the Empire any policy tending to impose upon Canada, that has no voice in the government of the Empire, any share in its external responsibilities and its military defence outside of the Canadian territory, the only portion of the Empire upon which the Canadian people may exercise any political or constitutional action."

TO BE TRIED FOR MURDER

Goderich, Nov. 10.—Edward Jardine was committed for trial on a charge for the murder of Lizzie Anderson on Sept. 20, by Magistrate John Butler yesterday.

Thomas Jardine, brother of Edward, was let go at the same time, when the crown dropped the charge that he was an accessory after the fact, for want of sufficient evidence.

Something of a sensation was produced when within the same hour that he was released, information was laid against Thomas Jardine, charging him with perjury in connection with his evidence before the coroner's investigation. Curiously enough, Jardine was allowed to leave the court without being placed under arrest, though County Attorney Seager warned him of the information laid against him.

The county attorney declined to cite any specific instances of alleged perjury.

DOMINION GOVERNMENT WILL HELP NATIVE INSTITUTIONS

Hon. Frank Oliver Confers With Home Mission Officials Who Have Been in Charge of Boarding Homes For Boys and Girls of Various Reserves.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—A conference took place in the office of Hon. Frank Oliver, superintendent-general of Indian affairs, on the subject of Indian boarding schools receiving Government aid. Those who have the more immediate control and direction of Indian boarding schools throughout Canada, were represented.

While in Mr. Oliver's opinion the boarding schools situated on or near reserves were the more valued factor in educating the Indian, the relations of these schools with the Government had always been indeterminate. While in some few cases the buildings had been erected by the Department, in the large majority these had been erected by the churches as missionary enterprises in the early days of the country's settlement, and the Government had been called upon from time to time to improve these properties to render the schools efficient. His present desire was to make an arrangement whereby the whole management would be covered by a contract between the Government and the churches, whereby the responsibilities of each to the other would be definitely fixed, and that the financial straits in which the churches found themselves, owing to the general increased cost of living and the extraordinary demands made upon their finances, on account of the expansion of evangelical work in the western country, owing to its rapid settlement, would in a measure be relieved by the Government.

After some slight amendment it was unanimously decided to adopt Mr. Oliver's suggestions, as meeting all reasonable demands for several years to come.

The school authorities are required to sign a contract with the Government to limit the number of pupils in residence, so as to prevent overcrowding, to provide for medical examination of the children to be admitted, give the Government control over the staff and other conditions which provide for general improvement, also providing for improvements in existing buildings which will bring them up to a particular standard.

SKATING RINK BURNED AT SOO

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 10.—In a serious fire here early yesterday morning the Soo skating rink was totally destroyed and several buildings in the vicinity lost. Total loss will be $30,000, partly insured. The curling rink, adjoining the skating rink, was also burned, the curlers losing their stones and paraphernalia. Among the buildings lost were two implement sheds, owned by the city, at the rear of the municipal buildings, which narrowly escaped destruction, and the residence of William Wilson. The rink will not be reconstructed this year, which is an assurance that there will be no indoor hockey. Among the buildings lost was the varnish upholstering shop, which loses $3,500.

Caught Between the Cars.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—Charles Edwards, London, a Michigan Central brakeman, died at the general hospital early yesterday from injuries sustained at Montrose yards near here Tuesday midnight. Edwards was pinned between two cars he was attempting to couple.

A Pair of Liars.

Kingston, Nov. 10.—Frank Bennett and Cora Bennett, arrested for vagrancy, told a lie when they stated they were married six months ago in Syracuse, N.Y. They will be deported. The woman said she was compelled to take to the streets as her husband was out of work.

CONTRACTOR SHOT BY A WORKMAN

Deloraine Man., Nov. 10.—George Wright, contractor, on the Canadian Northern construction, was shot and seriously wounded by J. McIntyre, one of his workmen, Tuesday night. The men had had some words after McIntyre had been paid off, and he pulled a revolver, firing instantly. The bullet struck Wright in the nose and lodged in the back of his head. The affair took place at a camp a few miles from Winnipeg, and the wounded man was hurried there, where he now lies in a weak state. McIntyre decided at first to come to town and give himself up, but changed his mind and escaped on a freight train.

STRUCK BY A FALLING BEAM

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—Struck by a falling beam at the Ontario Power Company's plant Tuesday night, Richard Clement, a rigger, sustained a fracture of the right leg. This is the third time Clement has escaped death at the power plant since August. In the first of the series of accidents he lost a finger; in the second, last Sunday, he escaped unscratched. He had just gone up the ladder that fell, killing William Dashney and injuring two others.

CITY BYLAW PROHIBITED WHISTLING

Winnipeg, Nov. 10.—In the trial of Engineer Nicholls at the Assizes on the charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Lawrence at the Pembina subway crossing in July last, it was announced that the city bylaw contributed indirectly in some measure to the accident. It prohibited whistling by locomotives, and the probability was that, if the whistle had been sounded, the collision with the street car would not have occurred.

BAPTIST WOMEN'S CONVENTION

Woodstock, Nov. 10.—Woodstock was invaded yesterday by 400 women delegates to the annual convention of the Baptist Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of Western Ontario. Mayor Scarff officially welcomed the delegates at the First Baptist Church, and the reports showed that $16,522.97 was raised for all missionary purposes during the year.

These officers were elected: President, Mrs. Firstbrook of Toronto; first vice-president, Mrs. J. McLaurin; second vice-president, Mrs. J. J. Ross.

DEAD UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES

Selkirk, Man., Nov. 10.—Rachel St. Clair, a young woman living here, was found dead near her father's home Tuesday night, and a young man, who had been in her company several times recently, is being detained, while the police investigate the circumstances. The girl is supposed to have collapsed from violent hemorrhage, expiring a few minutes after.

Second Victim of Gas.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Joseph Naylor, 58 Jersey avenue, died in the Western Hospital early yesterday morning of coal gas poisoning, from which his wife had died in their home the previous night.

A Polychromatic Squirrel.

ORIGINATED THE GARDEN SCHOOL

St. Catharines, Nov. 10.—Lincoln County lost one of its most efficient teachers late Tuesday night, when James Painter died at Jordan after a short siege of typhoid fever. The deceased was the originator of the school garden at Vineland, which was the best and most successful in Ontario. He was organist in Jordan Methodist Church, and had been for some time secretary-treasurer of Lincoln County Teachers' Association.

BIRD MAN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—Arch. Hoxsey, in his "baby" Wright biplane, attempted to break the altitude record, but had trouble with his motor. From a spectator's view it seemed that when about 2,000 feet high the intrepid airman would be dashed to the earth. Fortunately he got a partial control of the machine, and zig-zagged to earth, alighting with a jump from his seat. His escape was considered miraculous. The machine is badly damaged.

Gave the Hoax Away.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 10.—Convicted of masquerading as a deaf mute and begging on the streets, James Clark was yesterday sentenced to six months imprisonment in the Central. He gave the hoax away when he swore at a policeman for awakening him in the cell.

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, NOV. 10, 1910.

AT LAST DISCOVERED

Hon. Charles Murphy's report from our Ottawa correspondent makes interesting reading. It will be noticed that 15,000 cork screws were on hand. What did they want cork screws for? That's a silly question. TO OPEN INK BOTTLES OF COURSE.

IS IT POSSIBLE?

A cigar maker gets $7.00 a thousand for making them, the Government receives $6.00 a thousand. It is said that alcohol can be made at 25 cents a gallon. It sells at $5.00 a gallon. The Government gets a big rake off. We are taxed for everything AS THE COMMON PEOPLE. We see rich men, we read of rich men, we are not rich. Where does the money go to? Is it possible that WE THE COMMON PEOPLE ARE A BUNCH OF SUCKERS?

THE SEXTON

They are advertising for a sexton in St. Paul's church. May the pastor and elders secure a good one. A sexton can spoil a sermon even if St. Paul should preach. He can melt a congregation not to tears but to perspiration, or chill them so that even a picture of hell, raging, roaring, hungry hell, can not move them. May they land a good one, who knows the science of aiding the delivery of the Truth to perfection.

FOR EACH OTHER

Its drawing on to winter now, getting very close. Madame, are you making it homelike for him? If he smokes do you make him sit in the woodshed or do you let him sit in the house? If he enjoys the papers do you see that the paper of his choice is ready for him, that the house is warm and bright? Do you cook sometimes just for HIM? Do you try and live for HIS sake? If you do unless HE is a brute you can and will hold him. If he is a brute the sooner you leave HIM the better.

And you, sir, it is winter season now as far as the entertainments go, the shows and the social round. Do you see that SHE is taken out from the smell of the cooking, from the round of washing, ironing and bed making? Do you see that SHE has clothes to go? Do you live for HER? Do you take HER out as you used to do?

Yes you disagree with HIM.

You disagree with HER.

But who does not and how much happier when the kiss of peace is given, and HOW BRIGHT THE HOME WHEN HE LIVES FOR HER AND SHE LIVES FOR HIM.

THE COMMON CONCERN

The common concern of all is to avoid a race quarrel. There is nothing in the traditions or in the policy of the Conservative party to excite the distrust of French Canadians. The Conservative leaders have been loyal to the constitution. They desire to extend equal treatment to all races and to all the Provinces. They believe that we should make adequate provision for defence and that we cannot decently evade the obligations which fall upon all other communities. If we are to continue to exalt the flag and to rejoice in the glories and privileges of British citizenship, we should bear also a fair share of the burdens of Empire. We are not an isolated country, but a wide spreading Dominion with outposts on two oceans. Shall we do nothing for our own protection, shall we go unprotected, shall we continue to impose our burden upon the heavily laden taxpayers of Britain? Our duty should be as plain to French as to English speaking Canadians, and it must be infinitely unwise for Quebec to resist and obstruct, to separate itself from the other Provinces and to excite passions and prejudices which its best friends may find it difficult to control.—Toronto News.

"AN ANIMAL THAT SPITS"

A naturalist — his name is unknown, and Ernest Thompson Seaton wouldn't say such a thing—describes man as an animal that spits. This compels us on this Thursday morning to compare man with the animals. Man is an animal that spits, but a monkey doesn't tear off a chew and spit, and spit, and spit. Score one for the monkey, and if in doubt, go to a show or a circus and then stand on the street corner leading to them.

A man topples up to a bar and, hanging on to it, hollers for a drink. Sometimes he gets it; sometimes he don't. But he hollers, then sinks into a stupor and vomits, and drinks some more and vomits. A pig wouldn't do that. Score one for the pig, and mark that the pig isn't a man, and has no lofty immortal soul. He's made for chops and roasts. Man is made for noble achievement.

A man knifes his best friend, the friend who has been loyal and true to him. She knifes her best friend in a fit of jealousy or envy. A dog wouldn't do that.

However, thank God, there are white men and white women alive, so that we man have full confidence in our high destiny.

MAN SHOULD BE ALMOST DEVINE.

Nature never withdraws her blessings. Man murders, but the flowers do not wither when sent to the murderer's cell. Man breathes scandal, oaths and meanness, but the sun smiles just the same on him. He is no more in the shade, nor are the birds any less tuneful in his presence than in the presence of the holy and pious devotee; the rose is still the rose, though it bloom amid want; the grass was a delightful green though it last summer was the bed of a tramp. The snow flake that fell on the outcast, beautiful and mystifying in its loveliness and proportions, died on the coat of the outcast no less willing than on the fur of my lady.

BRAINS

What's the difference if IT wear pants or is clothed in skirts so long as IT has brains. And because it has brains and wears skirts should IT be less considered worthy of a place or admiration or only poo poohed as a woman.

How many men are marked men in the world because their wives had brains. Do you know any such? How many fellows would have been dismal failures except for the council of the GOOD WOMAN at home. How many unknown wives of well known men have sent out their message through the man who faces the world? We don't care a rap whether IT wears skirts or trousers, we take off our hats to the brains beneath the dome of thought, whether hid under false hair, natural hair or shining like a platter. Brains are the stuff after all that differentiate. Hats off to brains.

THE AVERAGE MAN

Marcus Stone, R.A., the famous English artist, who celebrated his seventieth birthday the other day, tells a very amusing story about a model he once knew.

He was visiting the zoological gardens when he came across a man who had sat for one of his pictures.

"What are you doing now?" asked Mr. Stone. "Last time I saw you was when you were sitting for Mr. Black for one of his religious pictures."

"Yes, sir," replied the model sadly. "An' now I'm cleaning out the elephants' stables. Nice comedown for one of the 'twelve apostles,' ain't it sir?"—Calgary Herald.

This humorous story is duplicated everywhere, only in a serious strain. Life is a journey. A man rises to dizzy heights. One day he falls and lies there. They pass him by and pity, but they seldom stop. Pity never helped much. We have plenty of churches, thousands of church members, but few good Samaritans to help a man, to TAKE HIM TO THE INN AND AID HIM TO TAKE HEART AGAIN. We know many men who were once weres and who died once weres. The work of the world is done not by the men at the dizzy heights. Its the man, the average man who wins. It would be a rum looking king if he and another man comprised the kingdom. ITS THE AVERAGE MAN, THE RANK AND FILE WHO WIN THE VICTORIES, SOW THE CROP, REAP IT, MAKE THE FLOUR AND SPIN THE LIFE OF THE NATION. We will learn to respect the average man more and more as the days goes by.

THE LAW IS JUSTIFIED

As a result of the representations made to the City Council two weeks previously, that body on Monday evening adopted a report recommending drastic legislation for the control of children on the streets and at moving picture shows unless parents exercise better supervision over their young.—Journal, St. Catharines.

St. Catharines will attempt to enforce a by-law to have children of tender years at home after nine o'clock unless attended by an adult.

Nonsense you say.

How do you make that out? Where did you learn to swear, or drink, or smoke?

It was on the street and on the corner after the sun had set.

Where did you, Miss, where did you, Madame, make that mistake you have regretted all your life?

It was not at home, it was not in the family circle, it was at the dance, or the drive, out walking, sitting, resting in the secluded spot.

If the father or mother have no common sense in controlling their children the law is justified in supplying the deficiency.

THE IDLE RICH

In a recent address Lloyd George, the British chancellor of the exchequer, spoke in scorn of the "idle rich," who, he said, are a more objectionable class than the wastrels of society. The London Times showed resentment at Mr. George's remarks and reminded him that "loose condemnation of the idle rich is apt to include in its scope many rich men who are by no means idle, although they are not occupied in making money out of a factory.—Hamilton Herald.

The idle rich are the curse of England. They are the barnacles of the ship of state. However they are spelling their own doom. No one has any respect for a person in youth who, having money will neither travel nor read, nor improve his time in any way. He is not even fit to be called a barnacle, he's a louse. Seen at boxing matches, seen in private boxes, seen at champagne suppers and at latter dinners, he, a non-producer with hundreds of thousands in rags and wretchedness in the city of London, is not worthy of the name of a louse. A louse has to work for his living. He is a damn fool.

SIDE LIGHTS

"DAD, HERE'S TO YOU."

(Charles F. Raymond in Toronto Star)

We happened in a home the other night and over the parlor door saw the legend worked in letters of red, "What is Home Without a Mother." Across the room was another brief "God Bless Our Home."

Now, what's the matter with "God Bless our Lad." He gets up early, lights the fire, boils an egg, and wipes off the dew of the lawn with his boots while many a mother is sleeping. He makes the weekly hand out for the Butcher, the Grocer, the Milkman and the Baker, and his little pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour.

If there is a noise in the night Dad is kicked in the back and made to go downstairs and find the burglar and kill him. Mother darns the socks, but Dad bought the socks in the first place, and the needles, and the yarn afterwards. Mother does up the fruit; Dad bought it all, and jars and sugar cost like the mischief.

Dad buys the chickens for Sunday dinner, serves them himself and draws the neck from the ruins after everyone else is served. "What is Home Without a Mother?" Yes, that's alright; but what is home without a Father? Ten chances to one it's a boarding house. Father is under a slab, and the landlady is the widow. Dad, here's to you—you've got your faults—you may have lots of 'em—but you're all right, and we'll miss you when you're gone.

THE RUSSIAN PEASANT.

Stupid and Poor, a Good Fellow Who Merely Exists.

The Russian peasant does not live; he merely exists. "Nitchevo" ("it is nothing"), he merely says when anything happens to him. Nothing matters, nothing could be worse, and "Nitchevo" is his panacea for all evils. And yet the Russian moujik is really a fine fellow. Ordinarily, H. P. Kennard tells us in his book, "The Russian Peasant," he is a splendid, well built man, large limbed, large headed and healthy. He is equally unaffected by 20 degrees of frost or twenty glasses of vodka. He is clothed in uncured sheepskins and carries in winter more clothes than the average Englishman could stand up in.

He is unspeakably stupid, however, and his dream of happiness is to gorge, to sleep as much as possible through the winter and dance and sing in the summer. But the stranger's first objection to the moujik is that he smells —not because he does not wash himself. As a matter of fact, in every village there are public baths—baaza—and the peasants wash themselves there unfailingly every Saturday in order to be allowed to go to church on Sunday, for the Orthodox church enjoins cleanliness.

The Russian peasant is always poor and generally in debt. He plows the land in the same way that his father plowed it and gets as little for his labor. His main worry in life is how to pay the governor's taxes. If he says he cannot pay he is flogged, or perhaps he will sell part of his next year's power of work—i. e., work for nothing for several months—to raise a loan, and of course he is worse off than ever the following year.

On Christmas night at dusk the marriageable village girls go out into the streets and meet their young men, and one says, "What is your name?" The young man answers "Foma," and she replies, "My husband's name is Foma."

Some days later at the girl's home relations are gathered together. There comes a knock at the door. The starosta and the young man enter, carrying loaves of bread. The starosta says something like this:

"We are German people, come from Turkey. We are hunters, good fellows. There was a time once in our country when we saw strange footprints in the snow, and my friend the prince here saw them, and we thought they might be a fox's or marten's footprints or it might be those of a beautiful girl. We hunters, we good fellows, are determined not to rest till we have found the animal. We have been in all cities from Germany to Turkey and have sought for this fox, this marten or this princess, and at last we have seen the same strange footprints in the snow again, here by your court. And we have come in. Come, let us take her, the beautiful princess, for we see her in front of us, or can it be that you would keep her till she grows a little older?"

Thus does the moujik ask for a wife.

Inventor Davy and Love.

Sir Humphry Davy, the inventor of the Davy lamp, found love something of a delusion, if not a snare. Writing to his mother, he said, "I am the happiest of men in the hope of a union with a woman equally distinguished for virtues, talents and accomplishments." And in a letter to his brother he expresses his rapture thus: "Mrs. Apprece has consented to marry me, and when the event takes place I shall not envy kings, princes or potentates." The widow must have been a person possessed of great powers of fascination, for Sir Henry Holland makes mention of her as a lady who made such a sensation in Edinburgh society that even a regius professor did not think it beneath his scholarship to go down on his knees in the street to fasten her shoe. The sequel need not be dwelt upon further than to add that the marriage turned out to be altogether a mistake.

Fergusson and the Rabbits.

Robert Fergusson, the poet, was first matriculated at St. Andrew's university in the session of 1764-5. It was the custom at this time for each bursar to take his turn in invoking "blessing" at the meals. The college table having been surfeited with an unbroken diet of rabbits in various forms of cookery, Fergusson, on being called to say grace, repeated what are now celebrated lines:

For rabbits young and for rabbits old,
For rabbits hot and for rabbits cold,
For rabbits tender and for rabbits tough
Our thanks we render, for we've had enough!

It may be added Fergusson was not sent down, but the rabbits were "rusticated."

The Quipus.

The quipus, upon which the ancient Peruvians kept their records and accounts, consisted of a thick main cord, with smaller cords tied to it at certain distances. Upon these smaller cords the knots were tied by means of which the reckoning was kept. The length of the main rope varied from a foot to several yards. The cords were of various colors, each with its own proper meaning—as red for soldiers, yellow for gold, white for silver, green for corn, and so on. The reckoning seems to have been largely regulated by the distances of the knots from the main cord and the sequence of the branches. —New York American.

Same Effect.

"Cyril," said his mother as they sat down to the breakfast table, "did you wash your face this morning?"

"Well, no, mamma," said he slowly, evidently casting in his mind for an excuse, "but," he added reassuringly, "I cried a little before I came down stairs!"—Delineator.

He Promised.

Sutton—No, can't spare the money very well, but I'll lend it to you if you promise not to keep it too long. Gayboy—I'll undertake to spend every penny of it before tomorrow.—Washingtonian.

FIRST NEWS OF MUTINY.

British Were Warned by W. Brendish, a Telegraph Operator.

The following story of the Indian mutiny is told in The London Daily Mail:

There has just been retired from the service of the Postmaster-General a servant who may be said to have practically saved India to this country. This is W. Brendish, telegraph master, the sole survivor of those who were present in Delhi in May, 1857, and who, in the courageous discharge of his duty on the memorable 11th of that month, rendered invaluable service to the state.

It was Mr. Brendish who, without orders and acting on his own responsibility, despatched the telegram which warned the authorities of the Punjab of the outbreak of the terrible mutiny. "The sepoys have come in from Meerut and are burning everything," he wired. "Mr. Todd is dead, and, we hear, several Europeans. We must shut up."

The fateful news was sent to Lahore by Mr. Brendish, who was then but a youth, while the mutineers were pursuing their work of slaughter in every part of the cantonment. It has been acknowledged that this presence of mind on the part of young Brendish saved India. The story is told by Mr. Brendish in a modest narrative of his services on that eventful day. The telegraph staff at Delhi, he says, consisted of Mr. Todd, assistant in local charge, and two young signallers, Brendish and Pilkington.

On Sunday, the 10th of that month, in the forenoon, the signallers at the Meerut office wired that eighty men of the 3rd Cavalry had been confined, and were to be blown away from guns for refusing to bite the Enfield cartridges only recently issued to the troops. No further news was received, and at 4 p.m. the line with Meerut was found to be interrupted. On the following morning Mr. Todd took a dak and started for Meerut, to ascertain at what point along the road the break had occurred. He got no further than the bridge of boats over Jumna, for he there met the mutinous 3rd Cavalry, who killed him.

The signallers remained at their post in the telegraph office, which was fortunately outside the city walls, about one mile distant from the Kashmir Gate and from the Flagstaff Tower. They saw a regiment of native infantry with two guns pass along the road from cantonments towards the city, and learned afterwards that they had joined the 3rd Cavalry. Later on, heavy firing was heard in the city, and Brendish, who was at the signalling instruments, kept on wiring to Lahore all news that was brought to him.

At noon he went out on the road to see what was going on, and presently there passed a wounded British officer, driving from the city, who called out: "For God's sake get inside and close the doors."

"We did so," says Mr. Brendish, "but even then Pilkington and I did not feel we were secure, as we were but two lads encumbered with the wife and child of Mr. Todd, whose sad end was not yet known to us, and surrounded by servants who perhaps were prepared to take our lives, but who were doubtful as to the termination of events."

For two hours more the boys held on, listening to the firing within the walls. At 2 p.m. Brendish went to the Umballa instrument for the last time and signalled to the hands at the other end of the wire the historic message, ending "and now I am off," the meaning being that they were leaving the office.

He and his comrade had persuaded Mrs. Todd to accompany them to the Flagstaff Tower, where a number of Europeans had already congregated, as it was the only possible place of safety. They remained there until sunset, and witnessed the blowing up of the magazine. That night the refugees fled, and the two signallers eventually got safe to Umballa.

A Latham Incident.

An Italian paper has a good story of Latham, whose accomplishments include prowess with the gun. The aviator made a long stay in Abyssinia, and indulged in big-game shooting. One day he brought down two elephants, male and female. The law of Abyssinia required Latham to pay for his authorization two of the tusks. He sent those of the female, the smaller ones. The authorities demanded the larger, but the aviator flatly refused. Then began Fort Chabrol anew. Latham barricaded himself in his house, which the soldiery surrounded. He was well armed and well provisioned. The siege lasted a month, and it was brought to an end by Menelik learning of the incident. The Negus ordered the forces to retire, and returned the trophies to the heir-at-law of Nimrod and Icarus.

Base Canard.

Spring chickens were scarce, and they had killed the ancient gamecock for Sunday dinner.

"Ah," said the old farmer reverently, "this certainly was a game chicken. In fact, he was the bravest in two states."

The star boarder glared at the carcass of the deceased fowl.

"If I only had an axe," he mumbled.

"And what would you do with an axe?" demanded the farmer curiously.

"I'd assassinate the man that started that expression, 'The bravest are the tenderest'."

He Was Engaged.

An Irishman being prosecuted for a breach of the peace, a witness for the accused was told by the magistrate that he might have stopped the fight.

"Indade, no, your honor," said Paddy. "I was too busy fighting a friend of my own."

A Double Purpose.

"They say that melody will make cows yield more milk."

"Then the installation of a sextette of operatic milkmaids might increase the dairy output and also keep the boys on the farm."

John A. Dix figured in an automobile accident while going from Albany to Troy, being badly shaken up.

Trinidad's Asphalt Lake.

One of the natural wonders of the world is the great pitch lake of Trinidad, the most southerly island of the British West Indies. Paying better than any gold or diamond mine, the lake is locally known as "The Black Diamond." An American syndicate handles most of this natural asphalt under a concession from the Government, and from one corner of the lake obtains 800 tons every day. The material is shipped in enormous quantities to America, England and all parts of the world, where it is in demand for street making.

Close to the village of La Brea, the lake is inspected every year by numerous visitors to the island, for it is a curiosity not to be seen elsewhere. The lake lies 138 feet above the sea and is three miles in circumference. How deep it is nobody knows, for though many attempts have been made to fathom it, all have failed. To all appearances this is indeed the "bottomless pit."

Scientists describe the pitch substance as "bituminous matter floating on the surface of fresh water." For three feet down the pitch is solid enough to bear the weight of men and allow of their digging it up in great slabs with pickaxe and spade. Under that hard substance is liquid pitch cast up by subterranean fires, and under that again is the fresh water of the lake.

Though the syndicate secures several freight train loads every day, next morning when the army of negroes return to their work the surface is level and hard as before. An inexhaustible supply is therefore at hand without any preliminary expense. Alongside the lake is a light railway with iron cars that are run down to the sea—only a short distance—and there the asphalt is transferred to ships. From this remarkable industry the Government of the island receives a substantial part of its revenue every year. Columbus discovered Trinidad in 1498.

The Queen's Gift.

Many pretty stories have already been told of Queen Mary's kindness of heart, and the latest to hand is a very charming one. A young married woman, who recently arrived at Bridlington with her baby, found herself in very distressing circumstances, and, in her want and perplexity, she wrote a letter to Her Majesty, telling her of her sad and needy position. The Queen promptly had the matter investigated, and it was proved to be a genuine case, deserving assistance. Then the kind Queen sent some money to a trustworthy person to be expended in relieving the woman's distress, and thus rescued her from her sorrowful plight by wise and timely aid. Those who know how royal ladies are inundated with applications for pecuniary help will appreciate the mingled good sense and generosity with which the case was dealt.

The Nurse's Reward.

It is Lady Roberts who tells this story. She was once visiting the hospitals at the base of operations in India, and was so pleased with the nurses' work and their devotion to the sick, that she exclaimed: "Really, I think the sisters deserve a medal for this campaign as much as anyone and I hope they will get one." "I don't know about a medal," said a gallant colonel, who was in attendance, "but they are sure, at all events to get plenty of clasps."

That will be the case on Saturday, the tag day of the Children's Aid Society. IS THE PLAY OF THE HOUR

"This Woman and This Man" A Direct Convincing and Clean Cut Drama--Cast Headed yb Notable Star

The play of the hour is "This Woman and This Man."

Miss Minnie Victorson, who plays the star role is well known here, and whose success in "The Squaw Man" stamps her as an actress of great dramatic scope.

Miss Victorson is appearing this season in Avery Hopwood's dramatisation of real life, "This Woman and This Man," which scored so notably in Philadelphia, and at the Maxine Elliott Theatre in New York City. It is a play that is handled without gloves, as all who see it will appreciate. The story is very simple, there is no mystery or guess work about it, the audience being taken into the confidence of the author at once.

Miss Victorson brings convincing simplicity and sincerity to the title role, both when she is merely the governess, and when she afterwards becomes the wife of the son of the house. While rightly termed a drama, there are many true bits of comedy and feeling in "This Woman and This Man" and Miss Victorson brings out the lights and shadows with artistic verity. In fact her performance assures her another triumph to her professional standing. The actors who play the other parts have been carefully selected and the public may be assured of a brilliant performance on Monday, November 14, at the Grand Opera House.

BOTH WERE IN THE WRONG

Assault Charge Dismissed at the Police Court

At the police court this morning Albert Beard charged that Ralf Chambers assaulted him.

The magistrate heard the particulars of the mixup and these showed that both parties had broken the peace. He, however, decided to dismiss the case.

The trouble occurred on Hunter street, yesterday afternoon.

Beard claimed he was used as a target by Chambers, and he exhibited his christy with a dint in the top to substantiate his charge. Evidence of the defence however, showed that the complainant struck a blow at Chambers, and who when he was pushed away fell down, he not being any too steady on his feet through indulgence in tanglefoot.

A Helping Hand NEEDED NOW

THERE is no form of benevolence more to be commended than that extended to the helpless, forlorn and destitute children, through the Children's Aid Society.

The objects deserve both your sympathy and your support. The first is always desirable, but it needs to be backed up by some means to make it practical.

An appeal will be made to you — on Saturday next — from and for the practical side. It is TAG DAY. Be liberal — if you can't be liberal, be as liberal as you can. Every little helps. Encourage the willing workers by buying the tags — they are without price. Let your heart and sympathy make the price what it should be.

The worthy men who are caring for the children and giving unselfishly of time and money deserve encouragement. They will be doubly encouraged if the results of Saturday's effort bring to the Society a substantial sum. Let it not be said that Peterborough, which supports so liberally, churches, schools, fraternal societies, clubs, recreation organizations and entertainments of all kinds, has fallen down on so laudable, helpful and deservedly noble an object as that of the Children's Aid Society.

LOOKS LIKE CITY MUST

Mail and Empire.

Unless the Council of the City of Peterborough takes some steps to treat the sewage from the city so that it will no longer pollute the waters of the Otonabee River, the Provincial Board of Health will step in and, so far as lies in its power, will compel the city to do so. A large deputation from the township of South Monaghan interviewed the board, to complain of the contamination of the river by the sewage from Peterborough and were advised to interview the City Council of Peterborough with a view of having the sewage treated. If this is not done, then the Board of Health will try to get relief for the township.

SPOKE ON FAR CHINA; HAVE GREAT PARISHES

Mrs Shapleigh, of the China Inland Mission, from the Province of Kiang Su, China, gave a very interesting address in St. Paul's Church last evening. Referring briefly to Dr. Hudson Taylor's conversion and call to China in answer to his parents consecration and prayer, Mrs. Shapleigh spoke of how during his first term of missionary service in China the evangelizing of the eleven Provinces, which, at that time had no missionary, was laid heavily upon his heart and in answer to prayer God gave twenty-two workers to go back with him after his furlough to undertake this work. She spoke also of a few instances of how God had blessed those in pioneer labors and then told a little of her own experience while on the field, and of the great need of 16,000 more missionaries to evangelize the yet unreached portions of China. With this greatly increased missionary force, each worker would then have a parish of 25,000 persons.

Those who have not yet heard Mrs. Shapleigh will have an opportunity this evening, when she will speak in Bethany Tabernacle.

Man's Early Building.

The ruins of successive human habitations unearthed in Asia show how man advanced from primeval savagery to the pomp of Babylon and Nineveh. First he improved the caves in which he dwelt by leveling the floors and cutting windows to give him light. Afterward he constructed entirely artificial habitations for himself, at first roughly made tents of boughs and leaves, then huts of mud and finally dwellings of wood and stone.

Spiteful.

"Yes," said the engaged girl, "Dick is very methodical. He gives me one kiss when he comes and two when he goes away."

"That's always been his way," returned her dearest friend. "I've heard lots of girls comment on it."

Thus it happens that they cease to speak to each other.

Fell In With the Argument.

"The leading question," said the colonel, "is the financial one."

"Right," replied the major, "and I was just about to ask you to add $5 to that $10 I borrowed from you yesterday."—Uncle Remus' Magazine.

"The easiest thing I know of," says the philosopher of folly, "is to begin to save up some money next month."—Cleveland Leader.

A CURIOUS ANIMAL.

The Sea Cucumber Can Part With and Replace Its Organs.

Among the curious animals which inhabit the sea we may take the holothuria, or sea cucumber, so called from its resemblance to the cucumber.

When this animal is attacked by an enemy it does not stand up and fight, but by a sudden movement it ejects its teeth, stomach, digestive apparatus and nearly all its intestines and then shrivels its body up to almost nothing. When, however, the danger is past the animal commences to replace the organs which it has voluntarily parted with, and in a short time the animal is as perfect as ever it was.

Dr. Johnstone kept one in water for a long time, and one day he forgot to change the water. The creature in consequence ejected its intestines and shriveled up, but when the water was changed all its organs were reproduced. Although the animal is not eaten in Europe, it is a favorite with the Chinese, and the fishing forms an important part of the industry of the east. Thousands of junks are annually used in fishing for trepang, as the animals are called.—London Tit-Bits.

AT LAST!

THAT PRINTING SCANDAL! LOSS ONLY $70,000; WHICH IS MERE NOTHING--STRONG ON CORK SCREWS AND CUT GLASS INKSTANDS --- SOME STARTLING DISCLOSURES

From Our Own Correspondent.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Hon. Chas. Murphy to-day issued a voluminous report of his investigations of printing bureau irregularities at Ottawa to be presented to Parliament. He has found graft proven on the part on practically only one man and the late superintendent of stationery, who, because of a lax and inadequate system of accounting took advantage of that system, starting three years ago to collect a rake off on goods purchased from half a dozen New York firms at higher than Canadian market rates. The loss to the country on stationery supplies so purchased is estimated after thorough examination, at $94,000. But as partial offset to Mr. Murphy's action in cancelling orders and in seizing goods (goods) already delivered under fraudulent circumstances recovered $23,330 of improper profits, thus the net [illegible] is reduced to about $70,000. No evidence was shown of any improper dealings with any Canadian firms. It will be remembered the sensation Frank Gouldthrite, the superintendent, caused by disappearing and succeeding by leaping from the deck of a steamer near Detroit. The report occupies 15 columns and contains scores of startling statements. Murphy recommends to Parliament a new act to be passed governing the Printing Bureau. To prevent present waste in preparing printing and revising copy in which, by the way, members of Parliament lead the way. Mr. Murphy proposes a central bureau of the editing and final preparation of all printing matter.

With all the recommendations carried into effect it is believed a net saving to the Public Treasury, of at least $50,000 per year will be effected.

One special report deals with excess purchases and the condition of affairs shown is in some instances grotesquely unbusiness like.

Here are some of the more glaring cases;—Annual stock average on hand used August, 1910; wastepaper baskets used 164, on hand, 1,751; web binder used, 3,610, on hand, 15000; corkscrews used 6, on hand 201; set squares used 180, on hand, 1,569; blank checks used 22,500, on hand 75,000; cut glass inkstands used 499, on hand 1,146; flat rulers used, 868, on hand, 2,246; typewriter ribbons used 6,426, on hand, 42,938.

NOTED EVANGELISTS TO BE HERE

Messrs. McMurdo and Walker, two widely known and successful evangelists, will conduct special gospel meetings at Gospel Hall, corner of George and Brock streets, commencing Sunday evening, November 13th, at 7 o'clock. On week nights the services will be held at 8 o'clock.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan will lead in the song service.

FOR THE "WEE BAIRNS" SAKE; WHAT CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY DOES; THE CHILDREN'S AID SHELTER

Friends of the Children's Aid Society are frequently asked, "Why is a Children's Shelter necessary when there are so many orphanages and homes practically doing the same work?"

In the first place it can be clearly stated that no other institution is doing or can do the special work of a shelter. The orphanages exist for the definite purpose of maintaining and educating various classes of children that cannot be maintained by their own parents. Usually the relatives contribute part of the expense, visit them from time to time, but do not relinquish guardianship. The Shelter is, as its name implies, merely a temporary abiding place where any child can find ready admission and have its peculiar need studied with kindness, sympathy and love. It might be fittingly called a clearing house, or a preventorium—an ever-open door through which the uncared for children of the community may pass to a life of happy usefulness under the agency of a society formed expressly for their protection.

The great majority of children brought to the Shelter are those requiring temporary care. They come under all conceivable conditions; a child of three or four who has strayed away from home is kept until claimed by anxious relatives; young people from twelve to sixteen possessed of a spirit of adventure, run away from country or village and are detained until enquiry can be made; a child is boarded with some family by a parent, who goes off to the States and leaves no address, and such a child is after two or three months, transferred to the Shelter as deserted; a mother is arrested for drunkenness and four or five children are taken to the Shelter until her case is decided; children found begging or in disreputable company, are taken in until parents can be looked up and remonstrated with; a respectable mother has to go to the hospital and the father asks that two or three little ones be taken care of until she comes home again; a girl of fifteen is found on the streets, and she is taken to the Shelter that she may be reclaimed before it is too late; and sometimes parents admit their inability to control their children, and request the Shelter's aid. Homeless and waywardness, child-desertion, family quarrels, bring the Shelter into constant requisition. For many of these cases a week or ten days suffices to bring about some improvement or to readjust family troubles, so that the children may go back to their own people.

A blessed thing about the Children's Shelter is that it is the means of saving many a home from being broken up. When a child enters the Shelter the first place visited after the history and particulars have been recorded is the bathroom. Here the ill-smelling rags are speedily taken off, the dirt that has encrusted itself on little legs and arms is removed with a plentiful supply of hot water and soap; the hair is anxiously inspected and combed; clean garments are brought from the store room, and then, what a change there is! The child's self-respect develops at once. He feels that he amounts to something, that he is among friends, and that swear words and lies would be entirely out of place—in fact so evident is the transformation that the proverb might be altered to read "Cleanliness is Godliness." Mothers who come to the Shelter after a debauch or a term in jail, almost fail to recognize their own offspring, so clean and sweet and happy do they look under the kindly regime of this children's love centre. Maternal pride is awakened, the father is sent for, new promises are made, the home is cleaned up, and the superintendent hands over the children with a parting word of praise and encouragement. In this way hundreds of homes are converted into fit places for children to live in through the Children's Shelter acting as a friend in need.

PIPES CAUGHT FIRE AND FRIGHTENED TENANT

The pipes in a frame house on Edinburgh street, occupied by Chas. Barton, caught fire last night and the fire brigade responded to a telephone call.

Some difficulty was experienced in locating the house, but fortunately the department was, on arriving at the scene of the trouble, enabled to prevent damage to the house.

The pipes in the parlor, which came from a stove in the kitchen, were ablaze and the tenant, fearing that they might drop to the floor and set fire to the house, sent in the alarm.

IMPRESSED WITH NEED OF THE LUMBER CAMP

At the annual session of the Diocesan Mission Board of the Anglican Church in the Diocese of Toronto, held yesterday in the Synod offices at Toronto, a report was presented showing that the scheme suggested by the board last February for placing the missionaries in the rural deanery of Haliburton under one head was carried into effect on June 1st last, by the appointment of Rev. P. B. De Lom, formerly secretary for the Pan-Anglican thank offering to the newly created post of chief missionary. He is situated at Peterboro. Mr. De Lom has since been created rural dean of Haliburton, and has been actively engaged in visiting the various missions under his supervision. He reports that Galway and Stanhope are very promising missions. Bishop Sweeney, who recently spent ten days in the Haliburton deanery, stated that he was impressed by the need for religious ministrations in the various lumber camps.

LOCAL CLUB WILL ENTER AN INTERMEDIATE SEVEN

West Ends and T.A.S. Clubs Wish to be Represented in Junior O.H.A.—Mr. Sam Ray New President — Business Transacted at Annual Meeting.

Peterborough will be represented by an intermediate seven in the O.H.A.

So said the meeting last night, held at the Oriental hotel parlors. Junior representation is a matter yet to be settled.

Mr. McPherson, a member of the O.H.A. Executive, will be asked to stand for re-election.

Mr. Sam Ray is the new president of the Peterborough Hockey Club, and the executive includes Mr. Thos. McGeachie, late of Trenton, a sport enthusiast, who has had a large experience with athletic bodies. He will be the club's representative to the annual meeting of the association at Toronto.

Mr. R. M. Glover consented to again handle the reins as secretary-treasurer, and as was the case last season Mr. Wm. O'Brien will be under his wing as assistant.

The patrons and patronesses are—Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.; Mrs. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Denham, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. G. Denne, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., and Mrs. Bradburn, Mr. J. H. Burnham and Mr. H. H. R. Kenner.

Hon. President—Mr. W. E. Wasson

President—Mr. Sam Ray.

Vice-Pres.—Mr. E. N. McWilliams.

2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. Jos. Picard.

Sec'y-Treas.—Mr. R. M. Glover.

Executive—Messrs. W. Metheral, Thos. McGeachie, Chas. Ray and Leo Ibrocher.

In view of the situation regarding the Junior O.H.A. it was decided to leave the question of age limit over for discussion at another date.

The warmth of the enthusiasm shown at the meeting wasn't altogether responsible for one of the windows being opened, but nevertheless good progress was made, and the prospects ahead look fairly promising. The president was unable to be on hand, and Mr. W. O'Brien took the chair.

The secretary-treasurer read his statement of last season, which showed a balance on the sunny side of $61.92.

Then followed the announcement that notice had been given by the West End Athletic Club of their intention to enter a team in the Junior O.H.A. series.

Mr. Jack Oldham, president of the club, stated his proposition, which was to the effect that the club would place a team in the association, under the name of the club and independent of the Peterborough Hockey Club. Mr. Oldham explained that he had given the matter considerable attention, and that the organization which he represented would go ahead in the matter.

Mr. O'Brien, on behalf of the T.A.S.A.C., informed the meeting that the T.A.S. had decided to enter a junior team and then the question was "as to the advisability of the city being represented by two teams."

On motion Mr. McGeachie, who has taken an active interest in the hockey game in Trenton, unloaded some of his experiences and these, with a discussion, in which the majority of the attendance figured, brought about the motion that "the representatives of the West End and T.A.S. clubs meet the executive for the purpose of solving the riddle." This motion was carried.

As to a grouping, the feeling was that the experience of last season did not warrant a repetition. A two team group and double schedule was not the proper thing, the meeting said.

It looks as though the intermediate team will be a bigger success this season. The probabilities are that the juniors will be off the hands of the club, and this means more attention for the first team.

SPORTS AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The first programme in the Intermediate Basketball League, will be played to-night, when the Maple Leafs meet the Pirates and the Shamrocks clash with the Rowdies. There has been a handsome trophy given for this league by one of the senior members, and judging from the interest taken in the novice league, which has just closed, this league promises to be even more interesting.

The Business Boys' League brings together the Visitors and Indians; Giants and Dreadnoughts.

In the senior Basketball League the games for Friday are Cranes and Moonshiners, Eagles and Sailors, Hawks and Highlanders.

The First Aid Class had a good session last night. There is just room for one or two more before the limit is reached.

Both the Beginners Swimming classes had a good attendance yesterday. Junior at 4.15, and Seniors at 4 p.m. Advanced swimming, Mondays at 8.45.

Intermediate Bible Study Club meets to-night at 7.30.

Collegiate Basketball League opens to-morrow as follows: Whirlwinds, Rough Riders, Mugs and Rubes.

JUNIOR O.H.A. SITUATION

Should there be two Junior O.H.A. teams in Peterborough? No, there should not. Should there be one team entered in the association that would not lend a hand to the father club if called upon? No, decidedly not.

* * *

The hockey situation in Peterborough has developed into a position that calls for a display of good sportsmanship and clear judgment. As to whether the interested parties will arrive at a settlement which will go for the interests of junior hockey remains to be seen.

* * *

The West Ends want to be represented by a team, and the T.A.S. wish to try a hand at the same game. Now, the Peterborough Hockey Club will jump at the chance of securing a management that will relieve them of the expense and hard work connected with the junior club but they desire affiliation with their club and the support that could be given in the event of injuries or sickness to members of the intermediate team.

* * *

The Peterborough Hockey Club has the junior franchise, and if the situation requires such a move they can prevent the West End and T.A.S. clubs from accomplishing their aim. But this would be the last thing to be thought of.

* * *

The West Ends claim or their representative did, at the hockey meeting last night, that a winning team under the nineteen-year rule could be placed on the ice to do battle in the junior series. There the proposition stands. To give aid to an intermediate team is another question, and one which the club is not prepared to give an assent.

* * *

However, a point comes up here. Should the West Ends go ahead and enter their team in the O.H.A. as the West Ends, and independent of the Peterborough Club, their players, in accordance with a rule of the association, would not be allowed to take a position on the seven of the Peterborough Club.

* * *

With the West Ends having a team, where is the material for the T.A.S. seven? The whole matter means a fight for players between the two clubs, and as the list is limited ONE CLUB would take the leavings.

* * *

The situation then would be worse than was the case last year, and this in the face of two of last season's junior stars having removed from the city.

* * *

The newly elected executive and representatives of the West End and T.A.S. clubs will meet shortly, and it is to be hoped that the situation will be saved.

SPORTING COMMENT

Basketball is due for a boom at the Young Men's Christian Association. The number of teams is in the neighborhood of twenty-five and every member has a chance to get into the game, even though he never handled a ball. This is good policy and is in keeping with the general methods employed by the officials at the institution to allow of the boy meeting others and make him "dig in" to show what kind of stuff he is made of.

* * *

Other cities have lady curlers, why not Peterborough? At Kingston this week the tenth annual meeting of the Kingston Ladies' Curling Club was held and there were twenty-one members present. The waiting list contains quite a large number of names.

Life Insurance

Many a father is going to mortgage the house in town or the farm in the country this Fall that the son may go to college. Possibly that "rainy day" fund is going to be drawn upon for this purpose. I have enough faith in Canadian youth to believe in such investments. The son intends to pay back to his father every cent just as soon as he gets into business for himself. With but an exception now and then, he will—IF HE LIVES. It is the latter point I want to emphasize. Life is not a certainty. A glance at any college catalogue will show the asterisk in the list of students and the word "deceased" at the bottom of the page. Frequently there is added to the loss of the son the LOSS OF THE COST OF HIS EDUCATION. The latter may mean the loss of the home. One of the legitimate uses of life insurance, it seems to me, is to take care of just such cases. The cost of life insurance for the son is very slight, because he is young and a good risk. It adds but little to the financial burden. In return it gives full protection to the parent, and in later years—after college debts are paid—it safeguards the home which the son sets up for himself. No son who can get insurance has the right to mortgage his father's or his mother's future happiness when there is such a good way to avoid it. One word more, young man. Be sure that your insurance is in a well established, responsible company.

Someone has said, "The true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better; when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the SUN LIFE OF CANADA needs no comment, and the profits paid—let the actual results tell their own forceful story.

CHEMISTS AND CRIME.

The Analyst Is Now One of the Greatest Police Agents.

Analysts have played an important part in the Crippen case, and it might be said without exaggeration that were it not for these gentlemen hundreds of crimes would be added to the police list of unsolved mysteries. Medical detectives, as the analysts employed by Scotland Yard are called, invariably carry through their duties with skill, certainty, and absence of prejudice. They have mastered the action and character of every poison under the sun, and this fact, being well known, has decreased poisoning to a considerable extent during recent years.

Practically the poisoners can hide nothing from the modern analyst, for that gentleman is not only familiar with all poisons, but can recognize their presence almost as easily as he can recognize the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral. By the aid of his test-tube, his miscroscope, and his spectroscope, he is able to lay bare the poisoner's secret and track him down. If any great criminal was suspected of poisoning his wife, the analysts, upon examining the remains, would be able to prove what poison was used and in what quantity.

Delicate to a marvellous degree are the tests employed by analysts in the case of poisons. If a man were to be poisoned with arsenic to-morrow and were buried without being examined internally, an analyst could a quarter of a century later gather from the remains of the body a considerable amount of the poison which killed him and in the same state as that in which it was administered.

Probably arsenic has been more frequently used by murderers as a death-dealer than any other poison, and arsenic is a very peculiar poison. It is a well-known fact that many men and women take arsenic in small doses, as a medicine, while the inhabitants of Syria are said to eat it as freely as we eat salt. To a person who has never touched, eaten, or smelt arsenic a medium-sized dose would have a fatal effect. No matter how it got into the system it would be deadly, for arsenic kills whether it is swallowed, rubbed into a wound, or breathed as a vapour. Chapman, who was hanged for poisoning his mistresses, used arsenic, and the drug was also used in the memorable Maybrick case.

Mme. Lafarge poisoned her husband, an ironmaster, by means of arsenic. While M. Lafarge was in Paris on a visit his wife pretended to send him a parcel, in which was her portrait, five small cakes made by his mother, and a letter. This parcel was sealed in the presence of witnesses. When the parcel reached Lafarge it contained only one large cake. He ate this, and nine days later he died. Mme. Lafarge was arrested and charged with murder by poisoning. At the trial it was alleged that she had made the large cake with arsenic as one of the ingredients, and substituted it for the five small ones. She was found guilty after a trial exceeding a fortnight, and condemned to imprisonment for life.

To micro-photography the discovery of many a crime is due. The spectroscope is infallible in revealing the presence of the minutest trace of blood, but it is unable to distinguish between human and animal blood. The microscope can, however. The corpuscles of different mammalia can only be distinguished by their size and shape, and it can be seen that without the microscope it would be impossible to draw a distinction between the blood of a man and the blood of an animal.

The corpuscles of both men and animals are all circular with the exception of those of the llama, alpaca, camel, and their kind, which are oval.

Some time ago a man suspected of murder was found to own an axe covered with blood. An analyst examined the blood, and found that it was that of a goat, the corpuscles measuring 41-tenths of a micron. On this evidence he was found not guilty.

Cloth stained with red thought to be blood is touched with ammonia. If the stain is caused by fruit juice it turns blue or green; if by Condy's fluid it become blue; and if by cochineal it becomes crimson. But if it be blood, human or animal, the color under the influence of the ammonia does not change in the least.

Thieving as a Calling.

Thieving is an honorable calling among the members of the Zakha Khel Afridi tribe, which inhabits the country south the Khyber Pass, one of the principal gateways into Afghanistan from India. A young Afridi woman will not look favorably upon a young man unless he is proficient in the art of stealing and the dearest wish of a mother is that her little boy may become a daring thief. Every child is consecrated, as it were, at its birth to crime. A hole is made in the wall similar to that made by a burglar and the mother passes the infant backward and forward through it, singing in its ear all the time:-"Be a thief, be a thief, be a thief."

An Amendment.

"See here," indignantly exclaimed the pompous little man, "did you tell Blank that I couldn't tell the truth if I tried?"

"No, sir," replied the big man; "I never told him anything of the kind."

"That's all right then," rejoined the little chap. "I didn't believe it when I heard it."

"On the contrary," continued the big fellow, "I told Blank that I thought you might be able to tell the truth if you tried, but I didn't believe you had ever tried."

An Exception.

"Politeness always pays," said the old gentleman. "Always practice politeness. You never lose anything by it."

"Yes, sometimes you do, dad," interpolated his son. "For instance, I lost a comfortable seat coming home in a crowded train to-night through that very cause."

BROUGHT UP HOT WATER.

The Friction of the Boat Made the Ocean Almost Boil.

The steamship was speeding over seas with a record breaking list of passengers when one of the gay, young and inquiring girls who are found on every trip skipped up to the captain and asked:

"Captain, are we really going fast? It seems as if we were just crawling."

"Fast," answered the captain gruffly, "of course we're going fast. With nothing to see but water and sky you can't judge our speed, but, my dear young lady, the friction of the boat is so great it makes the water hot aft."

"I don't believe it," giggled the girl, and the captain, with a great show of indignation, called for a rope and bucket to prove his words. These brought, he slung the pail down aft of the vessel directly under the drainpipe of the galley, where hot water runs all day, and brought it up smoking, to the astonishment of the awstruck girl.

A long, lean Yankee who had been watching the performance then came forward and drawled, "Say, cap, that must make you change your course mighty often."

"Change my course?" blustered the captain. "What would I change my course for?"

"Well," said the Yankee slowly, "so darn much friction as that must wear the ocean out mighty quick."—Philadelphia Times.

Sugar.

Our word "sugar" is said to be derived from the Arabic "sukkar," the article itself having got into Europe through the Arabian Mohammedans, who overran a great part of the world in the seventh, eighth and ninth centuries. According to Dr. Van Lippman, a Dutch writer, as a result of the Arab invasion of Persia sugar found its way into Arabia, whence again its culture was carried to Cyprus, Rhodes, Sicily and Egypt. In the last named country the preparation of sugar was greatly improved, and the Egyptian product became widely famous. From Egypt the industry spread along the northern coasts of Africa and so entered Spain, where, about the year 1150, some fourteen refineries were in operation. Columbus introduced sugar cane into the new world.—Argonaut.

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the uterus. The doctors said it was a tumor, and could not be removed, as it would cause instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said I could not live more than six months in the condition I was in. After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. ORILLA BRADLEY, 284 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have mysterious pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

LATEST IN GARTERS

London, Nov. 8.—The divided garter is the latest feminine requirement. Not that it is really divided—if that should part the ensuing confusion of ruffles is not to be pictured by any mild-mannered male—but that it contains that central responsible thread which gives one skirt the air of being two.

The divided garter being then doubly and trebly fastened, is intended as the invisible mentor of the hobble skirt. It is a sort of deft little hitching post which prevents one leg from running away from the other.

The ordinary garter of silk elastic and ribbon with a flower or a buckle still fits at the proper angle just above the knee, but the bifurcated arrangement, which is nothing more nor less than a third garter sewed up the middle, holds together the other two and is warranted to withstand any mad dog scare.

As a pull-back it has no equal.

A CRISIS

London, Nov. 8—The Standard says :—"Let us be perfectly frank. The commercial arrangements between Canada and the United States must and can only be the thin end of the wedge of political union. The negotiations at Ottawa represent the most momentous crisis which the Empire has experienced since the Boer war. Surely the Canadian Statesmen and the Canadian people can think out other means of meeting the situation than commercial negotiations with Washington, which not only endanger her political autonomy, but are a grave menace to the existence of the Empire."

FORTUNES ON CANVAS.

Some of the Great Sums Realized In the London Art Sales.

Over £1,300,000 has been spent on art treasures at Christie's Rooms in London, England, during the year 1910. The picture sales of the season compare favorably in interest with famous disposals in the past, such as the great Gillot sale in 1872, when a sum of £164,501 was realized; the Dudley sale of 1893, which yielded a turnover of over £30,000, and the Day, Cuthbertson, Gaskell and Quilter sales last year, which produced an aggregate of £300,520.

The principal sale of the year was that of the remaining portion of the Alexander Young collection, with its magnificent examples of the masters of the Barbizon and Modern Dutch schools. In three days £154,069 was obtained, a result which has only been exceeded on one occasion.

The wonderful records achieved by Turner in 1908 and 1909 paled before the 13,000 guineas fetched by Corots' delightful "Birds'-Nesters" in the Young sale. The remarkable prices obtained throughout this sale afford an encouraging commentary on the value of the George Salting bequest, which was bought chiefly from this collection. The rapid rise in favor of the painters of the Corot school in recent years has brought considerable profit to those whose earlier appreciation of their works led them to collect when prices were low.

In the Day sale last year the net profit amounted to about half the total sum realized, and the dispersals of 1910 have furnished numerous instances of profitable collecting. Only £460 was paid thirty years ago for the Corot which changed hands this season at 13,000 guineas, while Constable's "Stoke-by-Neyland," which realized 8,800 guineas, was bought in 1860 for 100 guineas.

Jacques' pastoral scenes were obtainable not very long ago for about 50 guineas each, whereas a small painting of a shepherd and flock by him fetched 900 guineas in the Young sale. Millet, whose little picture of a shepherdess, measuring only 8 1-4 inches by 6 1-4 inches, brought in 1,050 guineas in the Young sale, was at one period of his life so poor that he could not afford to buy canvasses.

The second sale of importance during the year was that of the collection formed by the late Baron Schroeder, which yielded £138,068. In this the chief treasures were the rare specimens of French decorative art Sevres porcelain, gorgeous snuffboxes, and tablet cases, and other ornate objects made in the luxurious days of Louis XV. and Louis XVI.

No les than 9,000 guineas was paid for a set of three little Sevres vases which had cost little more than a quarter the sum in 1886, while a Louis XV. snuffbox, acquired for £1,000, was re-sold at £4,000.

In this sale also there was again brought under the hammer the famous sixteenth century crystal biberon which realized the record sum of 15,500 guineas after a sensational contest in 1905. As was expected, its value dropped on this occasion to £10,000.

On Another Errand.

The Gaekwar of Baroda was one of the first of the native Indian princes to take up motoring, and his state car is a really gorgeous affair

In this connection he tells an amusing story of a minor prince who brought a motor-car some years ago. It was a matter of considerable difficulty for him to get regular supplies of petrol, while his tire difficulties were more than usual. Upon one occasion the Gaekwar met this prince, gravely driving along in his motorcar, to which he had fitted a pair of shafts and in them was harnessed an old horse!

Upon another occasion the Gaekwar was visiting Windsor, and entered a chemist's shop to make some purchases. A little girl came running towards the shop and tumbled just outside the door. The Gaekwar at once went to her assistance, and, having picked her up, said:

"How did you come to fall?"

"I didn't come to fall," replied the child with great dignity, "I came for some turpentine."

The New Lord Steward.

The Earl of Chesterfield, who has been appointed Lord Steward of the Household in successin to Lord Beauchamp, is no novice at Court duties, for from 1892 to 1894 he filled the office of Treasurer of the Household to Queen Victoria. He is the tenth peer of the title and is descended from a famous family. The first Earl of Chesterfield fought for King Charles against the Roundheads. The fourth Lord Chesterfield was the author of the famous "Letters" in which he gives much good advice to his son, one particularly practical piece being: "Let your lodging be up to your means, your dress above your means, and your living below your means." Lord Chesterfield is aged fifty-six, is very good-looking, and is considered one of the best-dressed men in London. He is also a good shot and an excellent golfer.

Dramatist at Trial.

The dramatic features of the Crippen case are appealing to actors and playwrights as no other case in the history of English criminality, and features of it will undoubtedly find their way to the stage. This was evidenced the other day by the appearance in Bow Street court room of Sir John Hare and H. B. Irving, leading English actors, and of Sir Wm. Gilbert, playwright. They had seats close to the witness stand, and made frequent notes. On two previous occasions Sir W. Gilbert was honored with a seat by the side of Sir Albert De Rutzen, the presiding magistrate.

Epsom Salts.

A distinguished foreigner visiting Epsom Downs in Thackeray's company noticed many men dressed as sailors who were not, to native and experienced eyes, the real article. "Ah," said the visitor, "these are, I suppose, who you call your British tars?" "Oh, no," replied Thackeray. "Only Epsom salts."

In the suburbs of Montreal several schools have been ordered closed owing to an epidemic of measles.

QUARTERLY SERVICE.

The usual quarterly service was held in the Methodist church on Sunday morning last, when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. A large number of the church members were present.

CHEESE FACTORIES.

The cheese factories in this vicinity have closed down after one of the most prosperous seasons during their existence. All summer the supply of grass has been abundant, owing to the frequent rains and the patrons of the different factories are more than pleased with the amount of money earned from each cow during the summer.

HUNTING NOTES.

None of the hunters have yet returned from the back country and as the law only allows one deer to each hunter it would appear that the different parties must be meeting with poor success.

Partridge have been quite plentiful during the fall. Several good bags have been procured by some of our villagers, but all who have hunted the wary bird will know that seeing partridge and getting them are altogether different propositions.

One of our local hunters, however, asserts that out of five birds seen while out for a few hours he succeeded in bringing home four, while on another day he raised ten birds and came home without any.

Another party of three hunters got ten birds on Thanksgiving Day in a woods not more than four miles from Norwood, and claim they should have had double the number, as birds were very plentiful.

ROOTS ALL IN.

The fine weather during the fall has given the farmers in this vicinity ample opportunity to look after the gathering in of their root crop and get the plowing done with the result that nearly everyone has his work in good shape for the coming frost king. Winter feed for stock is going to be plentiful. Corn and roots are extra good yields, and while the supply of straw is, perhaps, considerably below the average, still there is an abundance of hay, principally clover.

Farmers report that cows are milking better now than they have done for years at this season. As a consequence, cream separators are in demand.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Monday evening next, when important business in connection with the Agricultural Society will occupy the attention of the members of the board.

Rev. Mr. Emery, of the Stone Church, Picton, will preach in the Methodist church next Sunday morning and evening and during the following week will assist the pastor, Rev. B. W. Tucker in special revival services.

Esquimault Naval Yard Handed Over.

Victoria, Nov. 10.—The Esquimault naval yard was handed over to the Dominion of Canada by the Imperial authorities at noon yesterday. The transfer was made by Capt. Vivian of H.M.S. Shearwater, and was accepted by C. J. Desbarats, Canadian Deputy Minister of Naval Affairs, in the presence of Rear Admiral Kingsmill, Commander Roper and Capt. Stewart of the Rainbow. The naval yard will, therefore, in future be under the command of Capt. Stewart. The chief difference made by the change is that the expense of maintaining the yard and dry dock will henceforth be borne by Canada instead of Great Britain.

Town Marshal Arrested.

Stettler, Alta., Nov. 10.—On Sunday morning last about 2.30 Sergt. Ensor and Corporal Davis of the mounted police raided a gambling house at Castor, and arrested ten poker players. The proprietors of the joint were fined $50 and costs and the frequenters of the place $20 and costs each.

Later in the night the town marshal was arrested on two charges of being bribed by the gamblers, and he was committed for trial and removed in custody.

Gambling His Downfall.

Brandon, Nov. 10.—Several people here are looking for Charles Seeley, formerly bookkeeper for a local furniture store. He disappeared about a week ago, and examination of his books indicate a shortage of about $600. He also handled funds of a fraternal society, and a similar state of affairs is found in its books. He has fled to the United States, and is supposed to be still there. His troubles are attributed to gambling.

The disabled steamer wished to be towed, but the Mira did not have sufficient coal to take it to Bermuda.

Fresh Air in Winter

In winter, it is hard to get fresh air in certain rooms. Some rooms in a house are usually colder than others, and if you open the windows it is hard again to heat the room properly.

If you keep the windows closed you don't get fresh air; if you keep them open you cannot quickly reheat the room. The

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER
Absolutely smokeless and odorless

solves the difficulty. You can leave the windows in a room open all day in winter, and when you close them apply a match to a Perfection Oil Heater and heat the room to any temperature you desire in a few minutes.

The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel. It burns for nine hours. It has a cool handle and a damper top. It has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that the wick can be quickly clenaed. An indicator always shows amount of oil in the font.

The filler-cap does not need to be screwed down. It is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is attached to the font by a chain.

The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged, because of a new device in construction, and consequently, it can always be easily unscrewed in an instant for rewicking. The Perfection Oil Heater is strong, durable, well made, built for service, yet light and ornamental.

WE ARE VERY GLAD GERMAN EGGS ARE MADE AND LAID IN THE SAME WAY AS OURS AND WE ARE FOND OF "'EM"

The Star says.—The Canadian hen is meeting with competition right here in Toronto, and the imported eggs bear the label, "Made in Germany."

The Canadian hen, or rather, her product, is protected by an import duty of three cents a dozen on eggs. This has failed to exclude competitors however, as within the last few days large shipments of eggs have been received in Toronto from Germany.

Is the Canadian hen played out, is she over-worked, or is her owner getting too much money for her eggs?"

The Star asked an importer this morning.

"Well, I'll tell you a few things. Then you may form your own opinion. We exported Canadian eggs to London, Bristol and Manchester. When we found that Russian and German eggs undersold us, we gave it up, and contented ourselves with the home market. There are no exportations from Toronto now, to the best of my knowledge, though there are exporters in the Province. As to prices we get from the retailers 26 cents a dozen for one quality of cold-storage eggs, 30 cents for selects, and 35 for strictly fresh eggs. Your grocer, who ought to have a profit of 4 or 5 cents a dozen will ask 35 or 36 cents a dozen for the select cold-storage eggs. Selects are carefully candled by experts, and I prefer them to the ordinary eggs from the farm. I am not speaking of the farm eggs that come guaranteed, but of the general purpose farm variety, so to speak."

German eggs can be laid down in Ontario in a week, so distance doesn't count for much. The Russian egg, however, may not join in the invasion.

SEVENTY YEARS OF MAN'S EATING

If a man of seventy years was starving it would probably be little comfort to him to think that he had consumed in the course of his life 53 3-4 tons of liquid, or about 1,280 times his own weight in both solids and liquids, but it would be true.

Being a man of average appetite and purse, he would have eaten 15 tons of bread, which would have made a single loaf containing 1,500 cubic feet and appearing about as large as the average suburban home and on his bread he would have spread one ton of butter. If his bacon had been cut in a single slice the strip would have been four miles long; and his chops, placed end to end, would have extended two miles.

Twenty ordinary sized bullocks have supplied him with beef, 18 tons of which he has eaten, along with 5 tons of fish and 10,000 eggs and 350 pounds of cheese. If he had elected to have all his vegetables served at once they would have come to him in a train of cars, the pod containing all his peas, being over three miles long.

He has had 9,000 pounds of sugar, 1,500 pounds of salt, 8 pounds of pepper and 100 cans of mustard. Three pints of liquid a day would have amounted to 76,600 pints, or 42 3-4 tons. If he had been a smoker he would have burned about half a ton of tobacco in a pipe, or, if he preferred cigarettes, would have smoked a quarter of a million.

It is understood that a distinguished Japanese visitor will accompany Col. Denison and be a guest at the first dinner of the Canadian Club at the National Hotel this evening at 8 o'clock.

AT THE CRYSTAL NEXT SUNDAY DR. JOHN BROWN MAY BE HEARD, HE IS SECRETARY OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE Y.M.C.A.--ALL WELCOME

To give the greater number of the men of Peterborough a chance to hear Dr John Brown, next Sunday afternoon, it has been decided to hold the Mens' Meeting, which he will address, in the Crystal Theatre. Mr. Edwards, the proprietor has kindly consented to grant the use of his theatre free of charge for which the Association is very grateful.

Dr. Brown's subject will be "The Strength of A Man" a topic which will be well worth the attention of every man who can crowd into the Crystal on Sunday afternoon.

The singing will be led by a male chorus of twenty voices, and there will also be some special solo or quartette work.

Dr. Brown is the Secretary on the International Committee, who has special supervision of Physical work in Canada. He is a former Toronto West End boy, and is well known to some of the Peterborough men, as a thoroughly good fellow.

This will doubtless be one of the best meetings of the kind held in this City this season.

$1,800 INCREASE TO BE SPENT BY PUBLIC

Now that the price of soap has soared thirty cents a case, an approximate estimate of the increased price which householders will pay in one year, might be of interest to some.

A local wholesaler, in conversation with the Review, estimated that there are eighty grocers in town. These would, combined, sell about six thousand cases of soap in one year. Reckoning these six thousand cases of soap at thirty cents increase for each case, it amounts to eighteen hundred dollars.

The price list of Lever Bros., manufacturers of Sunlight soaps, show that a retailer who buys from five to ten cases does not purchase any cheaper than the dealer who orders a quantity of from one to five cases. The same price per case prevails in each instance. This is done so that the smaller store may not be outdone by the larger shop, and serves as a protective measure for his business.

The price of toilet soaps is unchanged. It may later on be raised, but as to when out informant was unable to say.

RA! FOR THE UNION JACK

The London Times in a recent despatch from Lisbon says:—

"There is good reason for believing that nothing will be done to prejudice the interests of priests of British antionality residing in Portugal. The duties of British Catholic chaplains in Lisbon are discharged by four priests, whose home is the Irish Dominican College of Corpo Santo. The rector of the College is Father Magennis, who is a comparatively new comer to Lisbon. He is assisted by Father Paul O'Sullivan, who has lived in the capital for the last fifteen years, and by two other priests. All four are exempted from the application of the new anti-clerical decree by their official position, and their British nationality. Then they go out of doors they carry an official permit and wear a small Union Jack in their buttonhole as a protection from arrest or interference."

The correspondent of the London News writes from Lisbon:—

"The Irish Dominican Church resembles the committee rooms of a Tory Imperialist candidate at an English election. Over the doorway hangs the British flag: the priests in the sacristy wear miniature Union Jacks in their button holes, while the table holding the mass books is decorated and guarded by several small British flags.

The British colors have acted as a perfect talisman, for the church has been quite unmolested, while other churches which have hung out the Spanish, Swiss, Italian and other flags have found them "bad joss," and with two exceptions have had to close their doors. Thanks to the British flag, the Irish Church was the only one in which mass was celebrated to-day.

TELEPHONE GROWTH HERE AND ABROAD

(Telephone Gazette)

Although the establishment of telephone service in Europe was practically coincident with its beginnings on this continent, it is not alone in the comparative excellence of the service supplied that America leads the Old World, but in development as well. In a country, such as Canada, in which the growth of towns and cities is very rapid, the problems to be solved in the development of telephone service are far greater than in localities in which population is more or less fixed, so that it may be claimed, we think, that Canada has been reasonably efficient in the extension of the telephone.

The following figures show the development of the telephone in some of the leading cities of Canada—

	Population.	Telephones January 1, 1910.	Telephones per 100 Inhabitants.
Montreal	425,000	27,164	6.39
Toronto	340,000	28,310	8.32
Hamilton	68,000	4,196	6.17
London	52,000	3,438	6.61
Brantford	21,000	1,370	6.52
Peterborough	17,000	1,196	7.03
Ottawa	80,000	6,570	8.21

The above figures are made doubly interesting when compared with those for the leading cities of the Old World—

	Population.	Telephones January 1, 1910.	Telephones per 100 Inhabitants.
London	4,700,000	181,011	3.8
Paris	2,700,000	09,205	2.5
Vienna	1,700,000	41,552	2.4
Brussels	580,000	16,133	2.5
Budapest	800,000	16,133	2.0
Rome	495,000	9,014	1.8
The Hague	225,000	6,682	2.9

MAGISTRATE TRIES HIMSELF

Orillia Packet.

Orillia the other day had the unusual spectacle of a magistrate trying a case against himself. Moreover, after hearing the evidence, the Police Magistrate dismissed the case.

When court opened on the day in question the first case called was that against George H. Clark, for allowing his dog to be at liberty without a muzzle.

The charge was laid by Constable George Reeve, who was acting as day constable in the absence of Chief Reid on his holidays.

The police magistrate, who evidently had an easy conscience, pleaded not guilty. Three witnesses, Messrs. J. D. Knox, A. Clark and C. E. Hewett, were called by Constable Reeve in support of the charge, but all three disavowed any knowledge as to whether or not Mr. Clark's dog had been wearing a muzzle on the day mentioned in the charge. His Worship thereupon dismissed the case, remarking that he had done his best to comply with the regulation as to muzzling, and if his dog ever got abroad unmuzzled, it was through accident.

Messrs. Knox and Hewett jocularly asked, "What about witness fees?" but the police magistrate retorted that he certainly was not going to pay them. And so ended a case unique in the annals of Orillia court records.

VETO SESSION TO SETTLE POWER OF LORDS FAILS

Premier Asquith Announces That the Committee Chosen After Death of King Edward Cannot Reach an Agreement — Joint Committee Which Should Arrange Future Difficulties is Point of Division.

London, Nov. 11.—The conference which was organized shortly after the death of King Edward, in an endeavor to secure a settlement of the acute controversy over the question of the veto power of the House of Lords with reference to measures passed by the House of Commons — a controversy aggravated by the refusal of the Upper House to pass the budget—has dissolved without reaching an agreement.

Announcement of the failure of the leaders of the two great political partise to find a solution of the dispute, which has kept British politics in a turmoil for more than a year, was made by Premier Asquith last night, after a meeting of the Cabinet, which followed the earlier gathering of the conference. The official statement does not disclose the cause of the disagreement. It simply says: —

"The conference which has been sitting to consider a constitutional question has come to an end without arriving at an agreement."

The statement adds that the members of the conference had decided not to disclose the course of the negotiations or the causes which led to its termination.

PREMIER ASQUITH.

It is understood, however, that the rock on which the conference split was the question of the composition of the joint committee of both Houses that should adjust the differences arising in the future. The Liberals insisted that the proportion of peers on this committee should be such that the will of the House of Commons would have a fair chance of prevailing. The Conservative members could not agree to the Government's proposals, and their alternative proved unacceptable to the Liberals.

Walter Hume-Long announced last night, on the authority of Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, that neither home rule, imperial federation, nor devolution formed any part of the discussion, which confirmed previous reports that the conference had confined itself to the constitutional question.

The political situation now reverts to the position it was in before the truce. The conference secured a respite in the controversy over the most acute issue of the day during the period of national mourning, which gives hope that some means will be found to avoid political complications until after the coronation.

How this is to be accomplished remains a matter of conjecture, and politicians are preparing to resume the fight. Advanced Liberals, long tired of inactivity, are urging the Government to press forward the original proposals limiting the power of the House of Lords by immediately introducing in the Upper House the resolutions passed in the House of Commons last April. These the House of Lords would reject, and, in the crisis then arising, Mr. Asquith is pledged to advise the use of the royal prerogative for the appointment of a sufficient number of peers to ensure the passage of a measure making the will of the Commons supreme.

If this course were followed there would probably be a general election in January or soon after. The opinion prevails, however, that the Government will force an immediate dissolution and get the elections over before Christmas. The result of recent bye-elections encourage the Liberals to make an immediate appeal to the people. Besides, they are thoroughly organized, and in a far better position for a contest than they were last January.

Fall Fifty Feet.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 11.—Leo French fell fifty feet on to the rocks at the Ontario Power Co.'s power house on the lower river bank yesterday. He sustained severe injuries about the head and body. He was working on the high wall of an addition to the plant, when he lost his balance and fell to the rocks below.

Two Tunnels for Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Traffic congestion here has become a live question, and two tunnels are suggested. The first, a four-track subway under St. James street, from Gosford to Victoria Square, and the second, which will cost a million, to be built under Cote de Neiges Hill.

TARIFF SESSION ENDS; ELECTION RESULT IN U.S. CAUSE OF TERMINATION

Official Statement Says Frank Discussion Was Held, But no Conclusion Was Reached—Another Sitting to be Held in Washington in January.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Beyond the accompanying statement as to the adjournment of the trade conference, Messrs. Fielding and Paterson both preserved absolute silence as to the specific nature of the discussions at the conference. The American Commissioners were likewise reticent. They declared they were well pleased with the courteous and frank manner in which the Canadian Ministers had entered into the negotiations, and concurred in Mr. Fielding's statement that the outlook was bright for the reaching of an agreement later on, which will be of mutual benefit to each country. Messrs. Hoyt and Pepper will remain in Ottawa until Saturday, when they leave for Montreal, spending a day in sight-seeing there before returning to Washington.

NOT UNEXPECTED.

The termination of the conference to-day was not unexpected. The reaching of any definite agreement on so complex and intricate a subject as proposals for mutual international tariff changes, involving the consideration of a multitude of varying industrial and commercial interests and political exigencies on both sides of the line, must be a matter of very cautious and deliberate negotiation.

EXCHANGE OF VIEWS.

It was understood from the first that the Ottawa conference just closed could not accomplish much more, at first, than enable both sides to exchange views as to a tentative basis of agreement. This is practically what has been done. The general ideas of each Government as to ways and means of promoting freer trade have been presented, difficulties have been pointed out on each side, and each Administration now has a clearer view as to the general limits of any trade agreement that is practicable. Between now and January there will be time for the Government here to sound members of Parliament as to how far Canada should go in accepting or rejecting the American proposals. Similarly at Washington the Government can ascertain the probability of securing the agreement of Congress and the Senate to the proposals for a lowering of tariff against Canadian products. Then when the conference resumes at Washington in January the negotiations will be in a position to take up the question in detail and with a well-established understanding of conditions.

NOTHING TO LOSE BY DELAY.

Meanwhile Canada, at any rate, has nothing to lose by the delay, since political winds across the border all seem to be blowing in the direction of a voluntary lowering of the tariff in the interests of the consumers. It is probable that Hon. Mr. Fielding will arrange to take a short holiday rest as soon as he can clean up the numerous duties now pressing on his attention in preparation for the opening of Parliament.

When he and Mr. Paterson go to Washington it is understood they will confer directly with President Taft and Secretary Knox, as well as with Messrs. Hoyt, Pepper and Foster.

U.S. TARIFF TO TO BE REVISED DOWNWARD

So Says Champ Clark, Prospective Speaker of the House of Representatives—Should be Cut to a Revenue Basis—Four Women in Colorado Legislature—Majority is Now Sixty.

Bowling Green, Mo., Nov. 11—Downward revison of the tariff at once is the pledge made for the new Democratic House of Representatives by Champ Clark, Congressman from the ninth district, who is a candidate for the Speakership.

"This landslide is in line with my prediction of months ago," said Congressman Clark at his home. "The people are tired of the present Administration and are provoked to just the extent that the returns indicate, with the tariff deception.

"The first and greatest proposition the Democrats should stand for is a reduction in the tariff to a revenue basis. I would reduce it scientifically and gradually and put into it a sliding scale much like there was in the tariff bill of 1833.

"There is no question but that the Democrats will be on their good behavior in the next Congress and the future will depend largely on our conduct. Democrats now have a golden opportunity for constructive statesmanship and should seize it and demonstrate once more their fitness for legislating wisely and patriotically."

Four Women Members.

Denver, Nov. 11.—Four women will sit in the eighteenth general assembly of Colorado as a result of the elections. They are Alma Lafferty, Louise U. Jones, and Louise M. Kerwin, all elected to the House of Representatives from Denver district on the Democratic ticket, and Agnes Riddell, Republican representative for Adams, Arraphoe and Elbert Counties. In the last general assembly Mrs. Lafferty, who was re-elected, was the only woman representative. There are no women Senators.

Taft Off For Panama.

Charleston, S.C., Nov. 11.—President Taft sailed yesterday for the Isthmus of Panama to get in personal touch with conditions along the big canal. Taft sailed on the armored cruiser Tennessee, with the cruiser Montana as convoy.

Socialist Gains.

New York, Nov. 11.—Marked gains in the Socialist vote throughout the state are shown in the election returns. Figures indicate a total vote for Charles Edward Russell, nominee for governor, of 65,000, which is nearly double the vote of 1903. In New York, Russell received 27,230.

Up-state, sixty-five cities that gave a vote of 7,850 two years ago, show 21,000 this year. Districts which formerly showed less than ten votes, this year report from 100 to 500. Among the large cities that show substantial Socialist gains are: Buffalo, Schenectady, Syracuse and Rochester. In some instances the increases are as high as 500 per cent.

Standing of the Parties.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Revised figures indicate that the Democratic majority in the next House will be sixty. The latest totals are 225 Democrats and 165 Republicans, with one Socialist.

ALBERTA'S LAWMAKERS AT WORK

Edmonton, Nov. 11.—The second session of the second Legislature of Alberta was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieut.-Governor Bulyea. A good deal of popular interest attaches to the work of the assembly this year on account of the stirring events which marked last session, and also on account of the change in the Premiership.

In the speech from the throne the Lieutenant-Governor dealt with the crop situation in the province, pointing out that wherever proper farming methods had been employed, good results had been obtained. Marked success, he added, had attended the efforts to secure an influx of approved immigrants.

Changes in administration were enumerated and reference was made to report of the royal commission on the Alberta and Great Waterways investigation. After the address from the throne, the report was laid on the table. The House then adjourned until Monday.

WERE ANXIOUS TO GET IN

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 11.—Canadian immigration officials say that John Dee and Stefan Rozck, Russian Poles, yesterday afternoon braved the dangers of the river above the falls in a rowboat to gain entrance to Canada. Both were arrested by immigration officials shortly after landing on Canadian soil and will to-day answer to a charge of entering the country illegally. Dee and Rozck were on Wednesday refused admission to Canada at the upper bridge.

Where the men are alleged to have crossed the river it is very dangerous. The current is swift and treacherous for those not acquainted thoroughly with its moods. That they were not swept down and carried over the falls appears miraculous.

NEW FIGHT FOR CRIPPEN

London, Nov. 11.—A new fight to save Dr. H. H. Crippen from the gallows for the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, is being waged to-day by his attorney, Arthur Newton.

A petition which is to be presented on November 15th to Home Secretary Churchill, is being circulated all over the country. It begs for a commutation of the sentence imposed on the convicted dentist. Newton has been working quietly on his petition and already seven thousand signatures have been obtained.

There are many persons who believe that Crippen is innocent of intentional murder. They have rallied to his support, and Newton has had little difficulty in obtaining signatures to his petition.

NEW YORK'S BIG STRIKE SETTLED

New York, Nov. 11.—After backing for five hours, an executive session of the striking drivers and helpers of the five trans-continental express companies decided tentatively yesterday morning to return to work Monday, under the terms of the agreement signed Thursday afternoon.

If the Jersey City strikers also approve the agreement, the men will go back; if the Jersey City men reject the agreement, the New York men will stay out.

Drivers and chauffeurs on strike not employed by the express companies are not affected and may settle their differences as they chose.

Jumped From Sixth Floor.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—Charles Finkler, aged 32, jumped from a sixth storey window of a bank building here yesterday, in an attempt at suicide, and landed on the trolley tracks on the street below. The trolley wires broke his fall. A fractured shoulder and a scalp wound were the extent of his injuries.

HARDY GETS SIX MONTHS

Toronto, Nov. 11.—A sentence of six months in the Central Prison was imposed by Justice Britton in the jury assizes yesterday on Charles Hardy, charged with assault on the late Thos. Horder in the Saranac Hotel, of which Horder was proprietor. Horder died a short time after the assault. Hardy was originally charged with murder. Medical evidence showed that erysipelas had developed in the wound Hardy had inflicted.

Hardy had been singing in the bar. Horder objected and threw a piece of ice at him, and later someone squirted some seltzer from a syphon on him. At 11 o'clock Hardy was ejected, and struck Horder. He was arrested at Fort Frances, Ont.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., counsel for Hardy, criticized Inspector Duncan for having questioned Hardy in his office, with a stenographer present. "If I said anything improper the notes will show it. There was no sweat box about it," said Mr. Duncan.

Dr. Ball said that Horder had been predisposed to the disease of erysipelas and he might have died of erysipelas had he received no wound.

"Whether you intended to hurt Horder or not, the law holds you responsible for the result of your act," said Mr. Justice Britton. "I personally acquit you of all intent to do him injury, but the jury could not do otherwise than find you guilty."

Thomas Mack, aged 23, was sentenced to three years for having entered the home of Mrs. Ida Berman, 61 Duchess street, in pretence of looking at a room and attempting an assault.

Walter Bell and John Jones, convicted of burglary, were sentenced to 18 months. They will be taken to Brampton to face trial as the alleged murderers of a Chinaman at Streetsville.

THE CORBETT WILL CASE COLLAPSED

Whitby, Nov. 11.—The Corbett will case, which has been before the courts for the past year, was disposed of at the Assizes before Justice Riddell. The late James Corbett was a very rich bachelor, who lived to be over 80 years old. His property was valued at about $90,000. He left the entire estate to two maiden ladies who lived with him, one his niece, the other his housekeeper. A large number of sisters, nephews and nieces, who were not mentioned in the will, sought the aid of the courts to upset his will.

On being put on oath none of the plaintiffs could substantiate the allegations made, and the case collapsed before the trial.

OPPOSITION VINDICATED

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Discussing the report of the investigation into the Government printing bureau scandals, R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, said yesterday:

"The result of this enquiry is a striking vindication of the position which the Opposition took at two different sessions, in moving for a thorough, searching and unrestricted investigation into the operation of all the great spending departments of the Government."

James McCutcheon, an aged farmer living a few miles south of Brampton, in attempting to walk downstairs, was seized wth a fainting spell and fell to the bottom. His neck was broken.

John O. Schenk, millionaire president of the Schenk & Sons Co., is dying at Wheeling, W.Va., of arsenic poisoning, and his wife, Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, is under arrest.

Telephone "trouble" men, looking for wire trouble near Montezuma, Ga., Wednesday came upon the cause unexpectedly, when they found the body of a negro dangling from a pole tangled up in the wires. This was the negro lynched by a mob the morning before.

WOULD CANCEL EXEMPTION

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—Complications with the Midland Railway may result in representations to have the exemption from taxation clause struck from the company's charter, until such time as work is started in evidence of good faith. The Midland Company, which is Manitoba's name for James J. Hill's Great Northern, is reported to be tied up by monetary conditions in the United States, and not one cent had been passed for the proposed terminus at Winnipeg.

PULLMAN RATES ARE REDUCED

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The Pullman Co. officials, at their annual meeting, bowed to the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The directors decided that further opposition to the general proposition of the commission's power to fix rates for sleeping car berths would be futile.

The result will be that in a short time cheaper rates for berths and lower charges for upper than for lower berths will be put into effect.

The Pullman Co., when the Interstate Commerce Commission last spring undertook to enforce lower rates between St. Paul, Minn., and other cities, obtained a temporary injunction against the order of the Federal court. It pleaded that it was not a common carrier and that it could not be subjected to the regulations of the interstate commerce law.

Now that the Pullman Co. has acknowledged the authority of the commission to fix its rates, reductions applying to all parts of the country are expected to follow.

RETURNED TO TORONTO

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Several clothing cutters, who arrived in Chicago from Toronto, were interviewed yesterday by S. L. Landers, Canadian Garment Workers' organizer, and they decided to quit work and return to Toronto. The strikers are still firm in their demands for a closed shop. Meetings were held in all parts of the city. Fifty-five thousand is now the approximate number out on strike. Though last week, in their excitement, strikers denounced the members of the Garment Workers' executive board, as having sold the strike, this week they are passing votes of confidence and regret at their previous action. Sympathy strikes are being called in Cleveland, Rochester, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and St. Louis.

WILL FALL INTO LINE

Mitchell, Nov. 11.—Mitchell votes next Tuesday on the electric power by-law. Last evening a mass meeting was held in the opera hall to discuss the pros and cons of the question. Mayor Campbell spoke strongly in favor of the scheme, and was followed by the Hon. Adam Beck, who went minutely into details, and, as was evident from the applause, convinced nearly all present that Niagara power was going to revolutionize things in the Province of Ontario, and that it would be to the interests of Mitchell to fall into line with other progressive towns and cities in the province.

Mayor McCallum of Seaforth spoke along the same lines.

Wolverine Safe.

Selkirk, Man., Nov. 11.—All anxiety regarding the steamship Wolverine, which went out to assist the steamer Mekado on shore on Smoky Island and not heard of for two weeks, has been removed by information to the effect that she is ice bound within short distance of the wreck, but in no danger.

Unless the ice breaks up before Christmas, she must harbor in the ice pack all winter.

DOUBLE MURDER IN BOSTON

Boston, Nov. 11.—Two men were shot and killed yesterday in the district attorneys office here. The victims were Police Sergeant Frederick Schlehuber and Frank A. Rees, Dorchester.

The assassin is Walter G. Fall, a young man of 25 years, who was employed in the office of the sealer of weights and measures in the State House.

Fall was arrested on a charge of assaulting Esther Fogg, a step-daughter of Rees. The case was to come up soon and Fall, accompanied by his attorney, Benj. F. Haines, went to the court house to ask about the case. At the distict attorney's office were Rees and the police sergeant, who were witnesses against Fall. Shortly after Fall entered he pulled a revolver and began shooting.

DOMINION'S GREAT DEBT

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—According to the Public Accounts volume, published yesterday, the funded debt of Canada payable in London was £52,900,902 at the end of the last fiscal year. The net debt of the Dominion was $336,268,546, an increase of $12,338,267. The accounts show consolidated fund receipts of $101,503,710, and expenditure $79,411,474, leaving a surplus on this account of $22,091,963. In addition to this, however, there was a total capital or special expenditure of $35,971,911, of which $19,968,064 was on the national transcontinental railway and $2,414,171 on bounties.

AVIATION MEET AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11.—Aviation enthusiasts flocked yesterday to the field where the Baltimore aviation meet is being held. There were bomb throwing and target shooting contests and aerial gymnastics, and several prominent Government officials made trips. Postmaster-General F. Hitchcock went up with Count Jacques de Lesseps, and was so pleased with the experience that he asked Arch. Hoxsey for a flight in the Wright bi-plane. Hoxsey, however, said the upper air was too gusty to make passenger altogether safe, and asked the Postmaster-General to wait until to-day. Gen. James Allen, chief of the signal corps, also went aloft with Count de Lesseps.

A Labor Ticket.

Fort William, Nov. 11.—At a meeting Wednesday night, the Fort William Trades and Labor Council decided to break into the municipal election game, and with the exception of a candidate for mayor, a full labor ticket was chosen. Mayor L. L. Peltier's name was brought up in connection with the labor nomination for the office next year, but he was turned down.

Anxiety For Steamers.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—A good deal of anxiety is being shown in some quarters over the non-arrival at Selkirk of boats long overdue there. The early freeze-up on Lake Winnipeg has probably held up steamers, but news of the safe arrival of the steamer Wolverine, two weeks overdue, would be welcomed. She has about 20 passengers on board, in addition to a crew of fourteen.

The Daily Review

FRIDAY, NOV. 11, 1910.

WE HAVE FORGOTTEN

Reader—No Ernest Seton Thompson is not the naturalist who said that 'man was an animal who spits," neither was it the landlady. We have forgotten his name, but we do not deny the allegation that it is true.

A MAN

Sometimes it pays to keep quiet, unless you can prove it. Even then it is often wise to make no noise. Rev. G. W. Arnold, an ardent reformer and Presbyterian minister, of Guelph, said publicly that a number of the Guelph Collegiate Institute boys were drinking on Thanksgiving Day. Perhaps they were. Perhaps they were not. However, they got ruffled beneath their Collegiate collars and made things warm for Mr. Arnold, who apologized. We congratulate Mr. Arnold for being man enough to apologize. Any donkey can refuse to acknowledge error. It takes a man to come out and say, "Boys, I'm wrong; I apologize.

PEACE TO HIS ASHES

The ninth of November is past and no one thought about it. Such is fame and such is honor. Such is vanity of yanity. The ninth of November was King Edward's birthday. King Edward the Peacemaker has gone. He will live in monuments, in bridges, and in churches. Last week in Thorold, Ontario, an organ was opened, dedicated to his memory, for which those interested received a gracious reply from the Queen Mother and King George. He was first a man and then a King. His work tremendously forwarded the vision of the dreamer when war shall cease, and the roll of the war drum be crowned in the hum of commerce.

EDUCATION

The Canadian Courier and the Kingston Standard are discussing the education system of Ontario. We believe that in so far as "readin', writin' and rithimetic" goes, its on the road to Wellville as far as the future is. But after that we must admit that its very much MADE UP OF FUNK. We have cheaper books and higher salaried and better brained teachers, thanks to Sir J. P. Whitney and his colleagues, than before the "angels" were drummed out, but we haven't got the right idea yet. What's a B.A. and an M.A.? Its held up as a grand possible in the schools bullseye and a professorship or a principalship or a preachership. But how often is the individuality taught out of a man? Why not fit the student for his life work? Why make so many foolish subjects a part of the course? Why not teach the youngster from the time he has his first aspirations ALONG THE LINE OF THOSE ASPIRATIONS. Then we wouldn't have half so many APOLOGIES for men and women working at their trades and professions.

DO YOU LIKE OUR JOB?

It's a bad time of the year to get out, but DO YOU LIKE YOUR JOB? The Atlantic Monthly has an interesting article on the subject. We have not read it, but someone told us about it, and we like the subject, only we would ask, not "Do you like your job?" but "Does the boss like your work?" There are a great many men and women, to say nothing of children, who are hanging on to their jobs by an eye-lash. They don't like their jobs and the boss doesn't like their work. Too bad, isn't it? Why is it? Oh, they have no interest in their work. They do just what they are paid to do; they do it poorly; sneak in late and leave on the first toot of the whistle or stroke of the clock. They leak. They tattle. They don't make friends for the business. How can they when they don't take heart in their work? Would they miss you to-night in the office if you left it forever? Would they miss you in the shop, in the store, in the pulpit? or would the boss say "That's good, I'll get a better one to fill the place?" Would they miss you very much anywhere if you were to take wings to-night and fly towards Gabriel?

AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—At the last meeting of the committee which had charge of the Missionary Institute recently held in our city, I was instructed to write to "The Peterborough Review," thanking them for their help in making the Missionary Institute the success it was.

In the preliminary press notices and also in the reports of the meetings while the Institute was in progress, the Review rendered valuable assistance in bringing the Missionary Institute, its classes and its public meetings before the citizens of Peterborough.

This hearty vote of thanks was unanimously adopted by the committee.

On behalf of the committee.

I am, yours etc.,
WILFRED SHINER,
Hon. Sec.

Work on a daily newspaper must be done to-day, this hour, this minute, this moment. A minister has all week to prepare his sermons. The news of the day must be gathered, condensed, enlarged, edited, set up revised, headed, and printed in a very brief space of time. If the newspaper missed a single issue—why such a thing is never dreamed of! In spite of this fact the errors in a paper are few, far less than in any other business in proportion to the everlasting hustle.

A newspaper's mistakes are public, a firm's mistakes are private. So we are glad to feel that our work is appreciated.

Newspaper men are not heartless. There is no newspaper man who does not hold at least one, and often several stories sacred, that if published would drive an apparently respectable citizen or charming woman from its precincts. A good newspaper man never betrays a secret. The grave is scarcely less sure. The reporter's province is to report, that is what he is paid for, but seven a week passes that the pen is withheld, that some trouble, some disgrace may not be made public. Bishop Potter, the eminent New York divine, once said: "I would tell a good newspaper man anything and trust him not to publish it if I asked him." That is the ethics of the New York Sun,—that is the ethics of every honorable newspaper office. We appreciate the thanks of the Missionary Institute, and that is why we write this article and reproduce their letter.

TROUGH POLITICS

When E. M. Macdonald told the people at Lethbridge that the Government knew they needed a postoffice, and admitted that they were entitled to it, but could not give it to them because they had voted Conservative, he shocked the west. But it is important to note that he was using exactly the line of argument which he was accustomed to use in Nova Scotia. It was on exactly such lines that he ran his own election. Here for example, are extracts from his election address in his County of Pictou. He came to the election with the following "arguments."

A promise that the Transcontinental should run through Pictou to Country Harbor.

Dredging of the East River.

Several new stations on the Intercolonial.

Public buildings at New Glasgow, Picton and Westville.

His election address gave the following list of appropriations which it explained Pictou had got by voting Liberal;

Westville new station, $15,000; Stellarton, new roundhouse, station, etc., $140,000; double track, New Glasgow and Stellarton, $67,000; freight facilities, New Glasgow, $30,000; new wharf at Pictou and freight shed, $40,000; station, wharf and roundhouse, Pictou, $97,000. station Brown's Point, $2,500; station, Lorne, $2,000; station, Woodburn, $1,000; station, Granton, $1,000; wharf Pig Island, $2,500; wharf, River John, $2,500; boat shelter, Bailey's Brook, $9,750; boat shelter, Skinner's Cove, $10,500; new dredge, River John, $10,000; breakwater, Cariboo Island, $15,000; two lighthouses, Pictou Island, $3,000; wharves, Pictou Island, $11,000; wharf, Little Harbor, $5,000; protection work, Toney River, $12,000; wharf, Merigomish, $1,000; wharf, Abercrombie, $6,000; wharf, New Glasgow, $6,000; roundhouse, Pictou, and filling in, $100,000; new wharf, Pictou, $40,000; wharf, Pictou Landing, $10,000; Westville Public building, $15,000, subway, Avondale, $10,000; dredging, Pictou, $10000; total, $74,750.

In addition, Mr. Macdonald noted the Government has constructed a suction dredge to deepen the East River.

Western cities like Lethbridge, which are kept waiting for years for ordinary postal facilities will note that $675,000 was spent in four years in Pictou to reward it for voting Liberal.

The Laurier Government follows a steady practise of bribing the electorate with public works.

PUT EM' ON

We notice by the Ottawa papers that the order has gone forth to "put 'em on." Ottawa is a cold spot, yet we feel that we should echo these sublime sentiments. They may save some poor wretch from the clutch of the doctor or the undertaker. Put 'em on sir, put 'em on madame, be wise, put 'em on

COL. DENISON VISITS US

Col. Denison is a man who believes in what he says. Being that, he is at once interesting and unique. We have too many weather vanes in public places, too many whose bearing is only a matter of the way the wind blows. Col. Denison is not one of these. Canada for Canadians first, and Canada for the Empire and a part of the Empire in a paragraph, may sum up his fiery stirring speech. The visit of the noted Japanese who accompanied him significant. It tells us how quickly history is being made. A few years ago Japan was closed to the world. A few years ago Canada was supposed to be all Indian, bear, forest and ice. Now Canada is the nation with the GREATEST possibilities of any nation on earth. It is this Canada that Col. Denison is prepared to fight and die for.

UP IN SMOKE

Students at the University of Michigan last year consumed 12,220 cigars, 33,180 boxes of cigarettes, 52,000 packages of smoking tobacco and 6,850 plugs of chewing tobacco. And yet there are people who continue to question the value of higher education. We learn this from the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. But there's more than this to it. There's likely the old man at home, who never saw inside a college, and who by hard work and careful living has accumulated enough to send his boy to school.

The mother too, who denied herself the new hat, the coat, the new dress, she is anxious to see her boy shine: He is shining.

"I say Bob, pass me a match please."

He is a light at school in that moment.

AN EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID

There are NINETEEN cases of typhoid fever in the hospitals in Peterborough. TEN are at the Nicholls Hospital. NINE are at St. Joseph's. The Ottawa Citizen has a lengthy editorial on the outbreak in this vicinity. The Brockville Times has the following to say;

A striking example of the deadly action of the common housefly is shown in an epidemic of virulent typhoid fever now raging in Durham County. Over a score of lives have been lost and many people have been prostrated by the disease. The epidemic originated from drinking polluted water at a hotel in Orono village on the days of Clark Township fall fair, on September 15 and 16. There was a large crowd at the fair and the village hotel was crowded. Cold meat was served and formed the basis of the dinner. There was a bad case of typhoid fever at the time in the village and the flies, which were as usual infesting the hotel in myriads, carried the infection. Nearby the village is a construction camp of the Canadian Northern Railway, and it is a significant fact that three of the construction gang who went to the fair, which was held on Friday, and who, true to their faith, did not eat meat, escaped the disease which struck down others who dined with them.

THE INCIDENT WEIR ILLUSTRATES THE DEADLY NATURE OF THE HOUSE FLY, and should encourage the public in the crusade against these pestilent insects.

Are the AUTHORITIES responsible for this typhoid and for the deaths? Or was it PROVIDENCE?

ASK THE PETERBORO BOARD OF HEALTH OR THE COUNCIL?

GET RICH QUICK

The Vancouver Province tells of a new quick rich scheme. The man's home was in New York. He rented an office and went through the obituary notices of the out-of-town papers. He would send a letter addressed to a dead man advising him of a final payment of $10 due on a valuable diamond ring. If that amount was promptly sent the ring would be forwarded, otherwise it would be returned to the stock. This looked an easy way to get a fine ring for ten dollars and the relatives lost no time in remitting. When raided by the postoffice inspectors over two hundred letters containing the sum requested were found in his office. It is a shame to confine a man for a thing like this. Why not get this lively brain turned to legitimate channels and let him loose?

There are people in penitentiary for pulling off big jobs to give a fresh impetus to the world if with souls and brain turned TO RIGHT they would only walk and talk and work among us as NEW men. We cannot see where for the brainy thief of high calibre that ten years will improve him any. A course of lectures by eminent men on the FOLLY OF WRONG would appeal to him far better than a cell and a mug for a keeper who perhaps did not know more than to keep his cell locked. Our system of punishment is very far behind the times. MANY PRISONERS DON'T WANT PUNISHMENT. WHAT THEY WANT IS ENLIGHTENMENT AND A NEW CHANCE.

FELL AND IS DEAD WAS WELL KNOWN HERE

Special to the Review.

Belleville, Nov. 10.—Wm. Lasher, who on the evening of October 29, jumped from a passenger train near this city, died on Thursday at the hospital here, as the result of the injuries he sustained. The body was shipped to Campbellford, where friends live. Lasher was about 35 years of age, and had been on the road for some time in the interests of a mercantile firm.

The above refers to a young man who was well known in Peterborough. He was an employee of the Quaker Oats Company and the Canadian Cordage Co. for some time, and married Miss Buller, sister of Mr. Geo. Buller, of White & Gillespie's.

The deceased's parents reside in Campbellford, where the funeral takes place. He was only twenty-five years of age, not thirty-five, and at one time was brakeman on the G T.R.

His wife has been employed in Parker's Dye Works for some time, and Mr. Robert Brach received a telegram for her yesterday morning telling of her husband's death. She immediately left for Campbellford, where the funeral is being held.

TO-MORROW IS TAG DAY AND YOUR LITTLE BIT WILL HELP

To-morrow is the day you will have the opportunity to show your appreciation of the splendid work being done by the Children's Aid Society. Of course if you buy a tag the assessment won't be of a character that would put a kink in the Standard Oil Trust, but the idea is to get as many contributions as possible, on the basis that every little bit helps, and many little bits make a big bit.

There seems to be a wide and commendable sympathy with the movement and from all indications, the finances of the Children's Aid will be handsomely replenished, as the result of the campaign.

If you don't wear a tag, you're a "dead one."

BOWMANVILLE NEWS ON THE EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID; ORONO NOT ALL TO BLAME

Bowmanville News.

Orono is not responsible for all the typhoid in Toronto, Peterborough, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Oshawa and other places as the flare headlines in the Globe would lead one to believe. It is well known that typhoid was quite prevalent in some of these places long before it was heard of in Orono. The death list will run about half the number reported in the Peterborough and Toronto papers. The Globe's "pathetic feature" in its Saturday issue outlined from a C.N.R. man loses some of its pathos, fortunately, when we know that only one of the Fowler brothers—William—succumbed. James is reported convalescing. Typhoid, until now, has been practically unknown in Orono. In fifteen years we have not known of one case originating here. Odd cases have occurred where a person came home from a visit with typhoid, but it went no farther than one house. This looks as though it was pretty well looked after.

In connection with this outbreak, take into account our moving population. Men of all classes, some not the best, have been coming and going all the time. The poorer the class the shorter the stay—our hotel and other places of accommodation have had to do with these people. A fellow not very anxious to work, has been known to size up the job, stop for dinner, and decamp, if not entirely suited. Railroad camps have such characters to deal with the same as other places. We will not attempt to point to the starting place of the infection, but this condition must be considered.

The patients in the Peterborough hospital, and supposed to be getting around are—Wm. Rutherford, Chas. Cooper, Roy Thornton, Kirby; Robt. Morton and John Bigelow, Orono; Hugh McKelvy, Kendal.

In Oshawa Hospital—Harold Cornish, Orono; Albert Cox, who was with D.O. & P. Co. band here; S. Conlin and son.

Western Hospital, Toronto — John Moise, Orono.

Grace Hospital, Toronto—Mrs. De Groot and three children, Orono.

General Hospital, Toronto — Mrs. Moise, Mrs. H. Brown, Orono; Stanley Parker, Orono; Jas. Fowler, Mr. Carroll and Mr. Ferguson, railroaders.

Sir,—I noticed the scholars tramping across the grass in front of the Armories. As a citizen and a soldier I would draw the attention of Principal Kenner to this. It is hard enough to get the parade ground in shape without a path being cut through it by hundreds of feet. Kindly see that they use the walks.

THE BUSINESS MAN IN POLITICS

By DR. ANDREW MACPHAIL

The common demand is for the 'hard-headed business man' in politics. This demand is caused by a thickness of head in those who make it. The prevalent theory of democracy is that a man who may know nothing of anything else necessarily knows all about the science of government; that business is the greatest thing in the world; and that some knowledge of business qualifies a man to deal with all matters of legislature.

I should say, rather, that a training in business was the worst possible qualification for public life; because the ethic of business is love of money, whilst the ethic of politics is love of men. Therefore, the two are in direct antithesis. The business man looks at questions in narrow detail, not abstractly nor in relation to the well-being of the community. Between these two conceptions a great gulf is fixed.

A man with the characteristics of a trader is not remarkable for that enlargement of mind which alone enables him to deal with questions in the abstract. Political problems are so vast and so far-reaching in their results that they cannot be dealt with in such summary fashion as may suffice for quoting a price upon an article of commerce. The one is an affair of figures and on a computation based upon known factors. Political problems deal with the lives of men and demand for their solution an acquaintance with the while history of the race and an imagination to surmise the future.

Self-interest is a sure guide for business, and a man whose whole life is governed by that principle must be utterly lost in the world of politics where abnegation of self-interest is the first requirement. The difficulty cannot be overestimated of putting off the old nature, and putting on a new. It is this difficulty, I think, which lies at the root of much which is evil in public life.

The business man is trained to deal with each situation as it arises, applying to it his own experience. When he becomes a legislator, he is guided by the same rule, no matter how honest he may be, rather than by those great principles of reason and equity, and the general sense of mankind, which, Burke declares, are the only rates by which a legislator may be bound. He is even unaware that such great principles exist, and is apt to deal with the people as if they were employees who are compelled to submit to a multiplicity of perplexing and teasing regulations.

Although these general statements are true, we must take account of the exception, which Burke also noted, that, while there are business-men with the sentiments and abilities of great statesmen, there are also persons in the rank of statesmen with the conceptions and characters of pedlers, knowing even less of politics than they do of business. Political problems are great problems, and are ill-solved by minds accustomed to deal with small things. A business man who would not tinker his kitchen clock is quite willing to try his hand at mending an act of parliament.

I should say that the Government of the United States affords the best illustration the world has yet known of Government by business men. When Mr. Lorimer wanted a seat in the Senate he bought it in the market, and a man who buys the people will sell them again. When the insurance companies of New York required legislation in their interests they bought with money at current rates. When corporations feel the the need of protection, against their competitors, they make contributions to campaign funds. They have even discovered that justice may be made a subject of barter and they have entered the law of courts with money-bags in their hands. The Athenians had a wise law that any one who interfered in the assemblies of the people by the infamous practice of purchase, was punishable by death. This application of business methods to politics, as Lock affirms, cuts up Government by the roots and poisons the very fountain of public security.

Public affairs are not so simple as they seem. Ignorance is only a little less dangerous than dishonesty. Knowledge and wisdom are only a little less necessary than probity and a nice sense of honor. Engagement in business does not necessarily create wisdom. On the contrary, 'He that hath little business shall become wise. How can he beget wisdom that holdeth the plough, and that glorieth in the good, that driveth oxen, and is occupied in their labors and whose talk is of bullocks. He giveth his mind to make furrows, and is diligent to give the kine fodder. So every carpenter and workmaster that laboreth night and day, all these trust to their hands and every one is wise in his work. They shall not be sought for in public council, nor sit high in the congregation; they cannot declare justice and judgment.

I am not saying that an assembly of lawyers would succeed any better than an assembly of business men. Lawyers are bound strictly by their own rules, and are incapable of that exercise of imagination which is necessary in dealing with future events. More ominous still, many lawyers have abandoned their proper function of applying general principles to particular cases, and are become the employees of corporations seeking special privileges under the guise of ministering—to the public good. When they gain entrance to parliament they represent not the people, but a particular class whose interests are often divergent from those of the people at large.

The worst calamity which can befall a people is that a place in their assembly should become distasteful to a civilized member of the community, by being deprived of the dignity and power which properly belongs to it. When the last safeguard of the people is gone, and the assembly is left to the baser members who are willing to scramble for their bellies' sake.

A university finds no difficulty in filling its chairs with men of fine personal honor and high attainment, because the candidate has the insurance that his merits will be carefully considered and the struggle is not an ignoble one. If the people were to make a candidature attracting, they would find no difficulty in securing the best men in the community to serve them.

For, in truth, the business of the legislator at his desk is much like that of the professor in his chair. Both are concerned about getting at the rights of the matter in hand, for the sheer pleasure which there is in the inquiry. What is most needed in all democratic communities is an assembly entirely composed of men who make politics a profession, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden, men of leisure and of contemplative minds who are not especially concerned otherwise about making a living or at all about becoming rich.

For such there are many inducements in Canada to enter public life. The future of the country lies open for the entrance of good or of evil. The possibilities of doing good are boundless and the people are more ready than ever to listen to an appeal to their interest. They are tired of the farce of which their candidates are chosen for them in some secret conclave.

The requirements of the election law, which govern the attempt to enter public life are very simple and specific. They do not demand that a candidate shall belong to this party or to that. They do not insist that he have the consent, approval or support of any body of managers or the aid of any convention or machine. Any man may be a candidate for the Dominion Parliament, who is in possession of the hundred dollars, and is able to secure the names of twenty-five electors to a requisition that he become their representative.

If the most suitable man in each constituency in Canada were to follow this courageous course, even if all were to fail at first, such an impression would be made upon the public mind that we should soon have a legislature composed of men to whom politics is a profession indeed, governed by such ideal etichal standard as prevail in the professions of law, medicine and the church, and not by the rules and customs of a mercenary trade or business.—Witness.

PLANK FELL ON HIM

Hamilton Man Badly Injured.

Reuben Atherton, of 267 Ferguson avenue, Hamilton, an employee of the Otis Elevator Co., sustained serious injury while at work. A plank fell from a height on to his right foot, crushing it badly. He was taken home, where Zam-Buk was applied with good result.

Telling his experience of the balm, he said: "After the doctor had dressed the damaged foot with some preparation of his own I was in great pain, and as day after day I seemed to get no relief I left off medical treatment and tried Zam-Buk. From the very first application I traced an improvement. Zam-Buk really seemed to act like magic, cleaning all the unhealthy matter from the wounds, drawing out all discoloration, inflammation and soreness, and started healing in quick time. In two weeks the toe and foot were well again. Zam-Buk balm is certainly a wonderful healer, and I would not care to be without a box in the house. You can use the above statement in any papers, books or publications, as it may lead some other sufferer to use Zam-Buk and get relief as I did."

All workers should keep Zam-Buk handy. Applied to a cut or wound, it stops the pain, commences healing, and —what is equally fine—it prevents all possibility of blood-poisoning. Zam-Buk is equally good for skin diseases, and cures eczema, itch, ulcers, abscesses, varicose ulcers, scalp sores, blood-poisoning, etc. It heals cold cracks, chapped hands, frost bite; cures piles piles and all inflamed conditions of the skin and tissue. Fifty cents a box from all druggists and stores, but avoid imitations and substitutes, some of which are highly dangerous, and none are beneficial.

TRUSTEE BOARD MEETING

Mr. M. Carton Sent in Resignation Evangelistic Services to be Held

The meeting of the Trustee Board of Mark Street Methodist Church was held last evening and several little matters of business were discussed.

Mr. Mat. Carton sent in his resignation. It was not accepted but left over for consideration.

It was decided also to have Rev. R. H. Whiteside conduct evangelistic services for two weeks, commencing next Sunday night in Mark Street Church.

Plans for bringing the finances of the Church into a more flourishing state were also discussed.

Mr. Sam. Taylor, secretary of the Trustee Board, was in the chair.

HORSE DIED

A valuable bay horse, valued at about one-hundred and fifty dollars, owned by J. Nelson Risley, Elm St. died of lock jaw last night.

The animal contracted the disease by stepping on a nail while being used in doing teaming work at the Canadian General Electric Company about nine days ago. It did not manifest itself on the horse until recently however, the owner having driven it to Lakefield and back since the time of the accident.

Dr. Rogers attended it.

The animal succumbed however last night.

in "This Woman and This Man."

Avery Hopwood, the author of the greatest comedy success of several seasons "Seven Days" which is now playing two weeks of record attendance in New York, has another play "This Woman and This Man." a drama of unparalleled interest in dramatic effects of social conditions of the present day.

The play, which will appear here, Monday, Nov. 14, with Miss Minnie Victorson and a New York company created unusual interest and was pronounced as one of the best dramatic offerings of the season. Frederic McKay, the well known writer on the New York Evening Mail, Feb. 25, 09 says: "A well written play, the author shows his superiority to his predecessors in handling his theme in avoiding all tendency toward mock heroics."

HE PLEADED GUILTY OF STEALING A GOLD WATCH

Ran Up a Heavy Board Bill—Left the House to Go to Market—Took Watch With Him—Remanded for a Week

He wanted to wear a watch. The desire was so strong that he stole one from his boarding house.

The above was the charge on which Alfred Hutt faced the magistrate this morning. He pleaded guilty and was remanded one week for sentence.

After running up a board bill of $60 at the residence of Mr. Richard O'Rorke, the accused when asked for his board, left the house and took with him the gold watch valued at twenty dollars, the property of Mr. O'Rorke. He sold the watch for seven dollars, Chief Thompson located it and produced it in court.

The prisoner's own story was that Mrs. O'Rorke gave him some money to go to market on Saturday and he took the watch with him to wear, intending to return it. He stated that it was the first time a charge of any nature had ever been laid against him. He will come up again next Friday.

CANADA'S FUTURE CALLS FOR TRUE NATIONAL SPIRIT BY HER PEOPLE

COLONEL DENISON'S BRILLIANT SPEECH BEFORE THE CANADIAN CLUB

What the Supremacy of the British Navy Means to Canadians -- No Reciprocity With the United States--Lessons From the Past --- Japanese Visitor Speaks --- Presentation of Long Service Medal to Sergt. Batten — A Patriotic Evening — President Falconer of Toronto University to Speak at Next Meeting.

The opening meeting of the Peterborough Canadian Club held last night at the Hotel National proved to be a success in many ways. The attendance was large, many young men being present. The feature of the evening was the timely address by Col. Denison, Chief Police Magistrate of Toronto, and he received besides a cordial welcome, an attentive hearing throughout his discourse. Frequently as he brought out his many points the gathering showed their hearty sympathy and the subject, "Canada and her Future," provided the speaker with abundant grounds to work on. Accompanying Col. Denison to this city was Mr. Masujima, a Japanese representative in England, and who is on a visit to Canada. He addressed the meeting and told of his observations in England.

Dr. G. Stewart Cameron, president of the Canadian Club, presided at the meeting.

The first part of the programme, that of partaking of Mine Host Denison's choice and appetising repast, was as on past occasions, highly enjoyable. The dining hall was appropriately decorated and the scene was a particularly pleasing one.

Before the guest of the evening commenced his address he presented Sergeant Batten of the 24th Field Battery with a colonial auxiliary forces' long service medal.

Other military officers present were;—Brigade Sergt.-Major Fee, W. O.; Sergt. Durieu and Sergt. Edwards of 24th Field Battery; Sergt. Mitchell, Sergt.-Major Edwards, of 57th Regiment; Capt. Ackerman, Adjutant of the 14th Brigade; Sergt. Aikens and Sergt. Snell, of the 57th Regiment.

The officers representing the Garrison of Peterborough were Major Young, 24th Field Battery; Major Medd, 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, and Capt. Eastwood, medical offficer of the 57th Regiment.

In presenting the medal to Sergt. Batten, Col. Denison said that he ought to be proud to possess such. It indicated that he had been doing his duty in the militia, and his wish was that he would live a long time to wear it.

THE ADDRESS.

Col Denison received a happy reception on arising to respond, after the introduction by the president. He commenced by stating that he had been asked on several occasions to speak, but there had been no urgent need to speak of Canada, on account of any great change in the affairs of the world.

The Canadian Club, he said, was descended from, and was carrying out the spirit of a party of forty years ago. That spirit was the interest of Canada first. He belonged to that party and was for Canada, first, last and all the time.

The reason of his coming was because some striking incidents had occurred which will have a tremendous influence on our country.

"I have only a few months ago been to Victoria, B.C., for the first time in my life," said the speaker. "What appealed to me most was the sparce population in comparison to the immense territory.

"This is a question we Canadians should take to heart. We have as much as any of the great nations that have made the history of the past. We ought to be in such a position that we can preserve peace in order to carry on the great things that will make the life of Canada

WHAT THE NAVY MEANS

"We have had hard struggles to hold our country. Our forefathers handed down the privileges we have to-day. How is it we have been able to go on in this way with so sparce a population? Most of the people do not know why it is."

Col Denison referred to a visit to Spit Head, England. There was to be seen the magnificant battleships of the British navy. There stands the strength and security of the whole nation. Were that navy to disappear the Empire would go with it. It represents the mastery of the seas, and it represents to us as Canadians safety and security.

"Suppose that fleet was to be defeated," said the Colonel. "One year and a half ago the people in England got alarmed on account of the great growth of the German navy. That navy has increased extraordinarily in the last fifteen years. Germany is increasing so that in 1913 that nation will have a very seriously strong navy. An increase of 36,000 men has been made at the Krupp works.

"We have been reducing. Why has Germany been increasing? She wouldn't want a fleet to attack France nor Russia. Emperor William has said 'I want the mastery of the sea.' What are the big docks at Embden for? Why are the German ships made for great speed with less attention for the carrying of coal? Is there any wonder that England should not be alarmed?

"People of Toronto had used the expression 'scare mongers.' But what about England's past? Did the people sit still and sneer at the time of the Spanish Armanda? Not a bit of it. They got ready. London gave a double number of ships, and when the Armada came the English went out, and with bulldog pluck and grit defeated the enemy.

"Did the English sneer at the time of Napoleon? No, they increased their army and navy.

"Canada has as much at stake as England if that fleet of battleships was to go under

WOULD LOOK TO CANADA.

"What would the defeat mean? Germany would cut off the supply of food to Great Britain, and all they would have to do would be to wait till England starved. She would get a big endemnity and take up every naval station. Then flushed with victory she would say 'We want a place for our outstanding people.' Is there any country in the world that would excite her cupidity moreso than Canada?" asked the speaker.

"You say 'but what about the doctrine?' There wouldn't be anything to it. There would be no attempt on the part of any to make war with Germany in order to help Canada. Suppose they did? It would only be to take Canada. The people have not the right idea of the influence of the navy of Canada."

The speaker said he would not mind if we doubled our national debt, so long as the money went to build ships to help the Empire. If we want to be great we must be a progressive country

IMPERIAL CONFEDERATION

"I believe that the Empire should be confederated for the benefit of her market as well as for defence. Other countries became great through their trade and it is the greatest importance that everything be done so that we can carry on our trade. If we had the British Empire with a tariff around the whole Empire, it would be one of the greatest things. Imperial confederation was what Canada wants. If we want to exercise the influence that we should have, we must look for the unification of the Empire.

RECIPROCITY

"A study of the relations between Canada and the United States will show that there has always been an intense desire on the part of the United States to secure Canada, but it wouldn't be a good thing for us if this ever took place. We have a better outlook.

"They destroyed one reciprocity treaty. It was the first, and it had a bad effect. At that time Canada was prosperous. While others were fight-

FAN SAYS PROPOSITION OF WEST ENDS AND T.A.S CLUBS IS A BIG JOKE

The following letter has been received by the sporting editor of the Review, and it speaks for itself:—

Peterborough, Nov. 10, 1910

Allow me as a supporter of hockey in Peterborough to make a few remarks on the situation of the game as I find it explained in your issue of Thursday.

Now, I hold that the Peterborough Club should take a firm hand in the matter and not allow any two clubs to butt in to bring about disaster. The proposition of the West Ends and T.A.S. clubs to enter a team in the junior O.H.A. is, to my mind, a big joke, and the hockey fans of this city should be spared from such an imposition.

If the two organizations want to get together and trot out a team that is worthy of the confidence and patronage of the public, then I say let them go ahead and relieve themselves of the receipts of at homes, etc.

Yours,
HOCKEY FAN

SPORTING COMMENT

On another page will be found a notice of the marriage of Mr. Hal. Burnham, one of the most brillint and gentlemanly athletes that ever represented Peterborough on the field of sport. Mr. Burnham was regarded as one of the best half-backs on the Ontario gridiron and captained the Peterborough rugby team when they won the intermediate championship of Canada. He was also very conspicuous in tennis and was an excellent association football player.

His numerous Peterborough friends will congratulate him on the occasion of his marriage.

Tommy Burns is being idolised in Calgary. He was even given a job for a day of editing one of the papers there, and here is what he says about himself:—"Some time ago the American papers were slinging dope at me to the effect that I was not so popular a champion as others, and the reason this was true was because I was not an American. They stated that because I am a Canadian I did not get the big hand that I would have received if I had been born in the United States. They also said that I hurried across the ocean to Los Angeles to have my child born on American soil. This is some of the wildest con I heard. I am a Canadian, and I am proud of it. Some people state that I took out papers of citizenship over on the other side, but that is not true. I have a lot of good friends over in the United States, but I know if I had been an American when I was champion I would have been more popular with some of the sporting editors over there. My home has been in Los Angeles and it is quite natural that my child should be born there. If I could change my nationality to-day, I would not do it, for a good Canadian is stuff you don't find everywhere you travel."

The following is the Collegiate team for the game in Lindsay to-morrow:

Full—Hayes.
Halves—Gibson, Minorgan, Hogan
Quarter—Matthews.
Scrimmager—Leahy, Hill, Corkery.
Insides—Eastwood, Laing.
Middle—Harstone, Throop.
Outsides—Conroy, Gilbert.
Spare—Ingram.

Argonauts lost their protest protest against the Ottawa Rough Riders at the meeting last night.

The Hamilton Herald says:—Hamilton's famous speed artist, Bobby Kerr, is laid up with an injured leg. He received the injury while playing football. It was at first thought that it was not severe, but the knee that crossed the line first in the 220 yard contest is swollen and refuses to get better. It will be some time before Bobby will be able to don his pin spokes for indoor work, and he regrets it very much, for he intended to compete in Buffalo throughout the winter.

A despatch to the Globe to-day says that a pro' hockey league was organized at Belleville last-night, representatives from Belleville, Trenton, Peterborough and Port Hope being present.

The first Vice-President is J. Meharry of Peterborough, and the executive contains the names of Harry Morgan. Polly Gloner is in the number of suggested referees.

The November number of Rod and Gun contains the following:—

During September Mr. Wm. Hillman, of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company, was astonished to see a partridge feeding in the grass at the corner of two residential streets of the city. The bird was so close that Mr. Hillman could have knocked it over with a stick. Its appearance in Peterborough was taken to denote that two years' protection has led to an increase in the number of partridges in the province.

CANADA'S FUTURE CALLS FOR TRUE NATIONAL SPIRIT

ing we were growing the produce which they needed, and on account of their state did not have time to attend to it. Canadian farmers had an enormous sale. We had no manufactories. We were farmers. When the treaty was broken Canada stood firm and there was no annexation. The United States waited for twenty years. We grew commercially, but had no protection. They came into our country and shut up our factories. One million Canadians went to the United States to try and make a living. In 1878 Canada had her eyes opened. She said 'we want protection,' and now we ought to thank God that we are as well off as any country on God's earth.

Twenty-three years ago a conspiracy—a commercial union—was hatched and subsequently a continental union. The big monied men of United States were in the movement, but to the traps that were laid the people of Canada had sense enough to say 'we'll paddle our own canoe.' Now, a great many people of Canada were in favor of a commercial union twenty years ago, because they did not know what lay behind. Now they know what it would mean. The movement for reciprocity would be a serious difficulty for this country.

ANCIENT HISTORY.

"What was the cause of the French revolution? It was the folly of the French in making a reciprocity with England. The great principle of France was free trade. The treaty was made, and what happened? England had coal at her factories for nine shillings a ton. It cost France fourteen shillings. In 1788 the state of affairs in France was so bad that the grumbling people were almost willing to go to war with England to get out of the treaty. Their factories could not live, and finally were shut up. The whole country became paralyzed. Two bad harvests followed, and the people rose in rebellion, and the result was felt over Europe for twenty years. All this was brought about on account of the people's stupidity of going in for reciprocity.

If we Canadians have any sense we will not do the same thing. If we want to preserve our freedom and prosperity it would be exceedingly foolish to enter an arrangement which we could not get out of without a war.

"Take other nations. You will see protection made national strength. It is up to us to use our influence with our members of Parliament, and see if we can't fight for our own, and without asking favors of anyone.

"I hope we will not walk into the trap," said the speaker, "but if Canada is to be great, it will all depend on the spirit of the people. If there is not a strong national spirit, God help that country. It's all very well to have great resources and riches, but this spirit of attaining great riches is a mistake.

"Sidney Smith said 'If you want to see what God thinks about riches, just look at the kind of people He gives it to.' The greatest country is the one with the people who will fight and stand up for their country. The man who is possessed of the spirit of making money only, is a most contemptable one.

"Look at Japan. The Japanese have shown that they are imbued with the strongest national spirit of any country. Think of that war with Russia. Regiment after regiment kept going ahead to death. They had the spirit of 'my country first.' What is the result? Is there a country in God's earth that wants to fight with Japan? Why can't we, as Canadians, show the same spirit?"

To bring before his auditors glowing instances of the examples of national spirit, which was so desirable, and had been shown by Canadians, Col. Denison told of incidents in connection with the Boer war, and in which not one Canadian surrender was made under the white flag. He referred to the stand of the late Col. Bruce Carruthers at Hart River, who, with thirty men, saved the situation against two thousand Boers. In reply to the question "Why don't you fellows surrender?" Carruthers yelled back "Because we are Canadians; we'll never surrender." There is the spirit.

The speaker, too, mentioned the sacrifice of Chas. N. Evans, son of the harbor master of Port Hope, who Lord Kitchener mentioned in a despatch. Evans, after receiving two mortal wounds, kept on fighting to the end. Another instance was that of two Canadians who, in a letter home, showed that they possessed the spirit of "our country first."

"If we can produce men like these, nothing under the sun can interfere with the future of Canada," said the Colonel in closing, amidst much applause.

MR. MASUJIMA.

Mr. Masujima, barrister, of the Inner Temple, London, and envoy of the emperor, to inspect and report upon the law systems of the United States and Canada, spoke slowly and guardedly upon the condition of Britain and the Empire. Britain's fleet was good, but her army was capable of much improvement. He noticed in England, also, a tendency to increasing show and frivolity. But he had faith in England, and looked for good from Japan's ally. If Japan had been earlier in the field she might have been England's friend in India, or, possibly, her foe. He cordially approved of Col. Denison's remarks. Those who believed in peace might be right enough, but they must not shut their eyes to history or to facts. Human nature was an unstable factor.

He concluded by thanking the audience for its cordial welcome.

"Some people think that militarism or imperialism is so much bosh, and that the emblem of Canada is a soda biscuit," said Mr. J. H. Burnham, in moving a vote of thanks to Col. Denison and his Japanese friend, for the enjoyable evening furnished by them. "Are we to suppose that experts built upon principles referred to to-night are houses of cards, and that all the things which have been handed down to us are evidence of insanity? No. It is for us to learn and imitate."

Mr. L. M. Hayes seconded the motion, and neatly assurred Col. Denison that there were no more loyal people in Canada than the citizens of Peterborough.

The vote of thanks was extended to the two guests of the evening, and due acknowledgement was made by each, after which the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

OFFICERS.

The new officers of the Canadian Club are as follows—

President—Dr. G. Stewart Cameron.
Vice-President—Mr. E. R. Goodwill.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mr. T. F. Matthews.
Secretary—Mr. W. R. Norris.
Executive Committee—His Honor Judge Huycke, J. E. Hodgson, G. N. Gordon, A. Mowat, W. McIlroy, G. C. Wainwright, Alex. Grant, W. O'Brien, R. E. Wood.

President Falconer, of Toronto University, will be the speaker for the next meeting in December.

Dr. Herbert Symonds, vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, comes in January, and Hon. Clifford Sifton in February.

Other speakers will be invited for the following meetings.

GOOD SINGING FOR MEETING

On Sunday at the Crystal—Subject "The Strength of Men"

The singing will be one of the main attractions at the men's meeting in the Crystal Theatre on Sunday afternoon. There will be an orchestra of six pieces and Mr. Schneider will preside at the piano. With two hundred men singing the good old gospel songs it will be an inspiring meeting.

Dr. Brown's subject will be "The Strength of Men," and judging by what other Associations have to say about him, the address will be one that no man should miss.

The song service led by a chorus of twenty picked voices will begin at four o'clock sharp.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The first game in the Intermediate Basketball League was played last night between A. Fitzgerald's "Rowdies" and A. Darling's "Shamrocks." Notwithstanding their name the Rowdies played a clean fast game, the score being no indication of the play. Score, Rowdies 21, Shamrocks 5. Referee L. Loomis.

The game between the Maple Leafs and Pirates was postponed by mutual consent of the two captains.

In the Business Boys' League, the Victors and Indians failed to score, the game ending a tie. The Giants defeated the Dreadnoughts 4 to 2 in a good game. The Giants look real big, and have not yet lost a game.

Did you hear about last week's paper chase? If you failed to take in the fun of last week, get in the game to morrow, never mind the weather, you will enjoy it all the more if the weather is cold. A heart invitation is extended to the runners of any other club in the city to come along and enjoy the run and a good bath and swim after. Leaving the building at 3.00 p.m.

BOY SCOUTS NOTES

In spite of weather conditions, the Scouts lined up at the Armouries last night about one hundred strong, and marched to the Thompson Seton lecture. The boys were well repaid for braving the weather by the many interesting and instructive stories that were told and illustrated, and there is not much doubt but that some of the tracking tactics will be tried out Saturday by them.

The Scouts wish to thank the public who so generously supported them by the purchasing of tickets from them for the lecture last night under their auspices.

No one questions the honest motives of those who advocate local option, or prohibition—not even we who brew Regal Lager. But the temperate folk who use Regal Lager as a daily beverage, for the health's sake know how mistaken is the idea that so pure a tonic-a drink is an intoxicant.

Peter Spratt, of Lindsay, is named as one of the two candidates for the vacant position of rover on the St. Michael's senior O.H.A. champions. The team has an invitation to play at New York, Cleveland and Chicago during the Christmas holidays.

THE DEAREST GIFT.

A Pathetic Incident in the Life of Robert Browning.

A young American woman was traveling one day in an Italian railway coach, the only other occupant of the compartment being an elderly gentleman. Observing the interest of the young woman in the country through which they were passing and seeing also that it was new to her, the more experienced traveler pointed out objects and places of note.

From scenery the conversation drifted to books and authors, until something suggested to the young American one of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's sonnets, which she quoted.

She was astonished and abashed because the gentleman made no reply, but during the rest of the ride sat looking intently out of the window, having apparently forgotten the very existence of his traveling companion.

As they neared the station where the young lady was to leave the car she said timidly:

"I fear, sir, that I have offended you. Perhaps you do not like Mrs. Browning's poetry."

The man slowly turned upon her tear dimmed eyes, and in a voice full of emotion he said:

"Madam, that sonnet is the sweetest, as its singer was the dearest, gift God ever gave to me."

Her traveling companion was Robert Browning.—Youth's Companion.

Threw Gasoline on Flames.

Stonington, Maine, Nov. 11.—Mistaking gasoline in a pan for water Mrs. Edward Wood, wife of a lobster fisherman, dashed the liquid over a small blaze in the kitchen of her home yesterday, and in the explosion which followed her six-year-old son and four-year-old daughter perished. Mrs Wood was so seriously burned that recovery is doubtful.

A Gang of Smugglers.

Soudan May Revolt.

London, Nov. 11.—There is some apprehension in official circles of a revolt in the Soudan. The movement is prompted by the Egyptian Nationalists, who promise a simultaneous rising in Egypt. Field Marshal Lord Kitchener's present trip to Egypt is reported to be in anticipation of trouble, and arrangements have been made to augment the military forces in that country by troops from England and India.

Refused Papal Request.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—The Taegliche Rundschau says the Prussian Government will refuse the Vatican's request that Catholic professors be compelled to take the oath against modernism. Prussia will also refuse to subject her Catholic clergy generally to such an oath.

The Bavarian Government has already declined the same papal request.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—John Bratton of Crookston, Minn., who has been lying in jail here awaiting trial on a charge of forcing a young girl to lead a life of shame, was discharged by Judge Myers yesterday morning, but was immediately rearrested on a charge of procuring. Action in the case has been taken at the instance of the commissioner of immigration. It is intended to deport Bratton as soon as the criminal courts here are through with him.

AUTHOR AND NATURALIST TELLS OF HIS FRIENDS OF THE WOODS

Ernest Thompson Seton is quite as entertaining a lecturer as he is a writer. He tells of his friends of the wood prairie and field in the same entertaining, racy and individual style that he writes of them in his delightful animal stories. Everything is so simple that even the children can understand. everything is so instructive and told in such crisp original fashion that the adult cannot fail to learn and appreciate.

This getting away from the conventional is further spiced and refreshed by anecdotes and reminiscences of real wit and the subject is made more realistic by slides from sketches by Mr. Seton, many of them along the same order as the quaint drawings which attractively illustrate his celebrated stories.

At the Grand Opera House last night Mr .Seton spoke under, the auspices of the Peterborough Boy Scouts before an audience that showed its very cordial approval of his address. The boys attended en masse and marked time to the section of the theatre reserved for them in the front seats of the orchestra row. The frequent applause and laughter of the juveniles indicated that the adults were not alone in their appreciation of the lecture.

Mr. Thompson remarked that one of the most engrossing studies he had embarked on in his life was the study of wild animals and he hoped his address would suggest a means of recreation and fascination to the boys and also show how they might spend a profitable and interesting time in the woods at all seasons.

His object in writing his books was to give ideas of how his animal characters had lived. He admitted that none of his heroes or heroines had actually, to his knowledge, had all the experiences he had attributed to them in his stories, but all the tales nevertheless were founded on fact. The narrative of the rabbit, the fox, or the bear didn't consist of happenings that applied to their individual existences but he had learned from personal observation and deduction that what he wrote of any one of his subjects were true of their particular species in common. Therefore the stroies all had a basis of fact.

Mr. Thompson introduced animals of his own acquaintance and showed an understanding of their ways and characteristics that was surprisingly intimate.

He dealt with cases rather than generalities. He referred to his own pets, to his own experiences. And speaking of pets the brilliant writer has a fondness for one pet that the average man shuns and for very obvious reasons—the skunk. Mr. Seton told of being in the woods with his dog when he (the dog) got hot on the trail of one of these black and white scent dispensers. The dog at length came to a standstill—he knew his quarry.

It was a moonlight night and Mr. Seton, although he looked around very carefully could not see the object of the dog's attention. Finally, however, he saw a small patch of black and white after he had struck a match. It was a baby skunk. He used his handkerchief as a net to capture the infant—it was no larger than one's hand—and carried it home triumphantly. He kept it as a pet and it grew to its mature stature without causing any annoyance. But one day when it was taking exercise in the yard, a cat belonging to a doctor next door, pounced down on it from the top of the garden wall and pounced back again with remarkable speed. The skunk had used its natural means of protection .This was in Toronto and the man who lived next door to the author complained vigorously to Inspector Archibald. The latter insisted that the skunk would have to be removed and so Mr. Seton took it into his house where it died as the result of too intemperate an indulgence in limburger cheese which the young pet managed to locate .Mr. Seton holds that the highly odiferous delicacy of the Faderland was even too much for a skunk.

In telling of the charm of the Red River in Manitoba the lecturer entertained his audience with very realistic imitations of the calls of the different birds of that country. He also told how he lured a magnificent bull moose to his doom by imitating the cry of the female moose. The slide of the dead fallen monarch of the woods was thrown on the screen and Mr. Seton remarked that as he gazed at the body of the fine animal he had brought down for sport and left to crumble in the woods he made a vow that he would never shoot another member of the deer family, that was becoming threatened with total extermination.

And to this day he has kept that promise.

PLANNING A HAPPY LIFE

(Chicago Tribune.)

Schools have been pouring out their graduates by the thousands, and many of these graduates have turned their faces toward the business world. Some must earn their living perhaps the living of another also, and this responsibility fills their whole horizon and steadies and sobers them. Others are seeking positions simply to earn a little pin money.

Both of these classes of girls naturally want a happy life, but few girls of 16 deliberately plan a happy life. They are too light hearted and thoughtless, they take life too much as it comes. The girl who must earn her living, will perhaps, just because she must look at things seriously, be nearer achieving a happy life, and less likely to tumble into the pitfalls that prevent happiness, than the girl without responsibilities, the girl who lives from day to day on the mere ease of things, trusting to the little events or the big events that may turn up to give her happiness, or at least excitement, and to whom this uncertainty is a source of pleasure.

But real, enduring happiness does not come this way. The young business girl who wants a happy life must do certain things to ensure it. Business life is not home life. Her associates are not watched over by loving parents and undesirables carefully weeded out. She is compelled to meet all sorts of people. Therefore, it is up to her to keep watch and ward over what influences shall enter her life, to welcome those that are happiness makers, to bar out those which are not.

A girl does not need to have old fogy notions to do this. She simply needs to be practical and sensible. This is a matter of fact world. Two and two make four in it In many other realms than mathematics. A girl can do these things which will make for a happy life or she can just as surely do the things which will make for an unhappy life, She hears this doctrine in many forms all sides. And sometimes she grows tired of it. But she should call her common sense to her aid, con it over, put it into some formula that particularly appeals to her, and abide by it. It will pay to do so.

A young business girl is so apt to let business life wear off the nice edge of her manners. Faced by such a new, new world, and so many new people, some of whom see to be successful and people of importance, she may in the first daze of all these new and bigger experiences think it smart to interlard her language with common slang expressions, to become bold, forward, "fresh" familiar in her manner.

This is a mistake. A girl can have no greater charm than a cultured speech and refined manner. The girl who hasn't them should try to acquire them; the girl who has them should hold tight to them as to one of her greatest treasures. It may take some time for her to see the effect they make, or their value, but they will open doors of acquaintanceship and friendship to her that are priceless.

The loud flippant manner will close these doors tight in her face. The best things in life will come to her through the possession of good breeding. To acquire this is one of the ways to plan deliberately to achieve happiness.

With this goes setting one's face deliberately against all vulgar and common practices. It is not only a qestion whether women cannot do these things if men do them, or whether a girl will not gain a certain glamor of smartness by imitating so-called fashionable women who smoke and drink.

It is not a question only of moral right and wrong, for this is something each girl must settle for herself.

But over and above these is the fact that by such actions a girl sets herself apart from the best people. They put her in their thoughts, with a class in which a really nice girl would not care to be, and a girl by doing these things if only thoughtlessly or for a lark, puts up a bar between herself and associations that mean real and permanent happiness.

The little business girl just starting out for herself should ponder these facts a bit, then deliberately turn her face toward all that is good and a bright and joyous life is hers.

HOUNDS WERE SHIPPED INTO HUNTING GROUNDS FROM INFECTED DISTRICT

(Special to the Review.)

Toronto, Nov. 11.—The third prosecution on the part of the Government for the shipping of hounds from rabies infected districts in Ontario to uninfected districts in the north for hunters, resulted this morning in the imposition of a fine of $30 on the Canadian Express Company by Police Magistrate Kingsford.

The Express Company's counsel admitted the Company's agent at Blair, Ont., accepted two dogs in a box.

The box was addressed from J. N. Sykes, Blair, to J. N. Sykes, at Shewanagan, near Parry Sound, There was nothing on it to indicate it contained dogs.

DEBATING CLUB BLOSSOMS OUT

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Debating Society was held last night in the Parlour of the Association. It is two years since the Association has had a debating Society, and the prospects are now bright for a good season of Literary work and debates of a high order.

After the temporary organization was completed, the chair called for nominations for the office of President, and when the vote was taken it was found that Mr. F. E. Ellis had been elected to that office. This will be popular among the members. Mr. Ellis has been in the city only a short time, but he has become extremely popular among the men who have formed his acquaintance. He is a graduate of the O. A. C. at Guelph and holds the responsible post of sub-editor of Farm and Dairy. He will make a capable presiding officer.

Mr. W. O. Taylor was elected Vice-President. Mr. Taylor is a McGill man, and has the reputation of being a debater of more than ordinary ability.

Mr. Wilfred Shiner was elected Secretary, and will perform his duties in his customary capable manner. Mr. Shiner was one of the leaders in the old society which, during its life, was one of the best the city ever had.

On motion it was decided that the executive should consist of the President, Vice-President, Secretary and Messrs. J. A. Johnston and W. A. Logan.

This Committee was instructed to draw up a constitution and by-laws, and to submit them to the Society at its next meeting, which will be held on Tuesday evening, November 22.

The same Committee will also arrange a debate for that evening.

"WHEN ALL HAS BEEN WELL SAID"

To Liebler & Company, theatrical managers, belongs the credit of having "discovered" and developed many of the foremost dramatists of to-day. True, many of these had been big men along other fields of endeavor before they wrote plays that were produced by this firm. For instance, Israel Zangwill, Hall Caine, the late F. Marion Crawford, Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, were famous novelists before Liebler & Company produced their first plays. The late O. Henry was the best of our short story writers before the same firm persuaded him to turn his hand to dramatic productions, and Joseph Medill Patterson and Cleveland Mofett, were eminent in the world of journalism when the Lieblers staged their earliest theatrical brain-children. This season, this enterprising has reached out again to corral a well-known newspaper man, and to make a playwright of him. The name of this latest acquisition to the ranks of dramatists is Bayard Veiller.

Mr. Veiller's play is entitled "When All Has Been Said." It is founded upon "That Which Never Dies" by Jackson D. Haag. When Veiller submitted his play to Liebler & Company, he did so through a well-known playbroker, who turned in the manuscript without an author's name upon it. The play was so human, so well-constructed and so full of deftly mingled comedy and pathos, that the managers at once realized they had stumbled upon a dramatic gem. The play was accepted for production even before the author's name had been learned, which should go a long ways towards disproving the claim of thousands of unacted playwrights that the unknown dramatist never gets a hearing from the big metropolitan managers.

Liebler & Company's production of "When All Has Been Said" will have its first local presentation at The Grand, on Wednesday, Nov. 16. The play will be acted by a splendid cast, headed by Emily Stevens, a cousin of Mrs. Fiske's, who won a great success as leading woman for George Arliss in "Septimus" last season, Charles Balsar, who was leading man in the new Theatre production of Maeterlinck's "Sister Beatrice" last spring, will have the part opposite that played by Miss Stevens, and Master Thomas Tobin will have the very important part of a seven-year old boy. Eugene Ormonde, last year leading man for Margaret Anglin, the veterans George Woodward and Jos. Sparkes, besides other well-known actors will also fill good parts. Hugh Ford staged the play.

"Don't call them pigtails, call them queues," said Tom Him, the proprietor of the Dominion Cafe, to the Review this morning.

Mr. Him was asked if he thought that Chinamen all over the world would fall in line with the recent idea to have their queues removed.

Mr. Him was sure they would. He said he received a Chinese paper this morning which stated that even the most confirmed followers of Confucius would in a few years have their queues cut off.

THE CROPS PROSPERED

All But Potatoes Which Were Hit by Rot This Year.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The census office issued yesterday a bulletin on crops of Canada as prepared from reports made up to the end of October. Potatoes alone indicate partial failure and in all the provinces there are complaints of rot. The area is 503,262 acres and the estimated yield it 74,048,000 bushels, an average of about 147 bushels per acre, uniform for all the provinces. The quality is 84.42 per cent. Turnips and other field roots show a quality of 88.57, a yield per acre of 402 bushels, and a total yield of 95,207,000 bushels. Hay and clover are computed for 8,515,400 acres and a yield per acre of 1.82 tons. The quality is 90.45 per cent., and the total yield 15,497,000 tons. Fodder corn has an estimated yield per acre of 9.39 tons, which, upon an area of 271,960 acres, gives a products of 2,551,000 tons. Sugar beets are grown most extensively in Ontario and Alberta. The area in crop this year is 16,000 acres, a substantial increase. The yield per acre is 9.69 tons, the total yield 155,000 tons, and the quality 93.15 per cent. The roots suppled to the Berlin factory are testing 17 per cent. of sugar, and at the Wallaceburg factory 16 per cent., but a product of 5,000 acres in Ontario is being shipped to Michigan. The product of 88,000 acres is marketed at Wallaceburg and Berlin, where the average price is about $5.86 per ton or better than $57.80 per acre.

The report on fall wheat sown this year shows an area of 790,300 acres, whereof 682,500 acres are in Ontario and 107,800 acres in Alberta. The condition of the crop is reported at 98.40 per cent., as compared with 93.60 last year.

MASONRY AND THE CHURCH

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The members of the Emancipation Masonic Lodge are running for cover. Inspector Grand-Champ of the Montreal police force, has quite recently made his peace with the Archbishop of Montreal, while it is announced that Dr. Gaston Maillet, the head of a dentistry establishment on St. Denis street, whose income is $10,000 a year, has also written to the archbishop repudiating Masonry in all its forms, and expressing the desire to live and die in the church of his fathers. Dr. Maillet has been one of the most prominent members of the Emancipation Lodge for years past.

Yesterday Judge Demons decided that the Catholic school commissioners had no right to dismiss the five teachers in connection with Masonry without cause, so they will have to be reinstated.

The judge stated that as the teachers had been dismissed without cause, and the defendants had further voted to pay the teachers their salaries up to the end of their contracts, the taxpayers may intervene under the common law.

DON'T WANT JUDGE AGAIN

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of the United States District Court, author of the famous $29,000,000 fine against the Standard Oil Co., is not desired by indicted members of the so-called beef trust to preside over their trial on a charge of conspiracy.

Judge Landis was hearing some minor cases yesterday afternoon when a quartette of counsel for the packers entered the court room and demanded a change of venue, on the grounds that he is disqualified from sitting in the case by reason of having acted in the role of special prosecutor of a similar charge against the same defendants fifteen years ago.

"File your petition with the clerk and I will hear arguments next Wednesday," remarked the court.

CANADA FAVORS HOME RULE

London, Nov. 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—T. P. O'Connor, interviewed, declared that Canada is entirely in favor of home rule for Ireland. The meetings were the largest ever held in Canada for the cause, and the sum collected the largest ever received except during Parnell's palmiest days.

He referred to the fact that statesmen of the Dominion figured in the meetings, and emphatically endorsed the home rule proposals.

Joseph Chamberlain has suggested a tariff commission to ascertain on what lines interimperial trade can best be developed by a system of mutual preference. He thinks the report produced would be of great value to the next Imperial Conference if the commission immediately proceeds to carry out the suggestion.

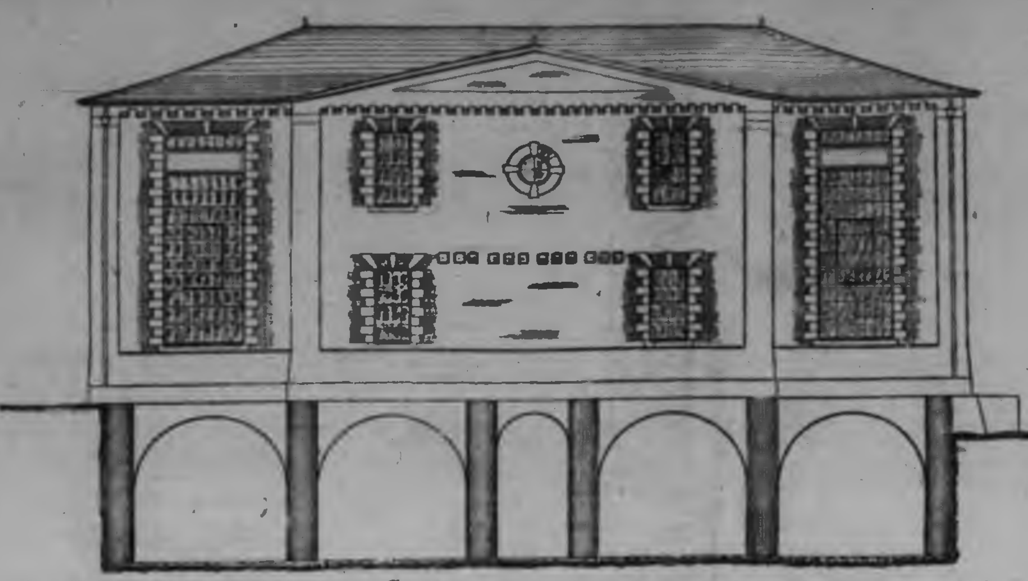
Wrecked U. S. Consulate.

Mexico City, Mo., Nov. 12.—According to private telegrams received last night the American consulate at Ciudad Perforio, Diaz, State of Coahuila, just across the border from Eaglepass, was wrecked by a mob of Mexicans Thursday night. The message stated that no one was injured.

Goes Down for Three Years.

Guelph, Nov 12.—Lou Watson was sentenced by Judge Chadwick to three years in penitentiary on two charges of forgery and one of obtaining money under false pretenses.

NEW POWER HOUSE FOR AUBURN



View of Auburn Power House from the G.T.R. bridge looking north.

An example of the steadily increasing demand for power in and about Peterborough is afforded in the power development operations that are now in progress at Auburn, one of the most convenient and ample sources of power in this vicinity. The Auburn Power Company of this city is developing this power to its fullest extent by the construction of a modern and splendidly equipped plant.

The first operations in connection with the work were commenced on October 18th, and provided the work is carried on without any unforseen difficulties arising in the construction, the plant should be completed by next June or July.

The general plan of the development of the power is to conduct the water at its high level in a canal leading from the west end of the dam to a power house located about one hundred and fifty feet north of the G.T.R. bridge on the west bank of the river, the discharge from which will flow just below the bridge. The head race canal will have its source in a diversion from the river at the Auburn dam, about one thousand feet above the power house. The canal walls will be of solid concrete for part of the distance, and rock embankment faced with cement for the rest of the distance.

The power house superstructure and wheel pits will be of concrete, and the building itself will be a handsome brick structure with trimmings of Roman stone. Access will be had to the power house by a driveway across the company's property, between the power house and Water street. The property will be filled in with material from the excavations, and nicely levelled.

The head under which the new plant will be built is eighteen feet, and provision is made to accommodate four power units, each consisting of a four runner horizontal shaft turbine, directly connected to a 500 kilowat generator. At the present moment three of these units are being installed, and the fourth will be installed when the water conservation scheme, which is now being carried on in the upper waters of the Trent system by the superintendent's department of the Trent Canal has advanced to such a point that the low water discharge of the Otonabee will supply this unit also.

The power house will be equipped with an electric travelling crane and duplicate controlling apparatus, so an interruption in the service will be rendered a practical impossibility.

The old power house will be removed, as the head race will flow across its present site, and the Colonial Weaving Company's premises are being removed also as canal excavations will take place through the site of that building.

The canal will be one thousand feet in length, and will commence at the west end of the present dam, immediately north of which the new concrete dam will be built. The new dam will be a structure similar to the one at the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company's plant.

The work is under the design and supervision of Smith, Kerry and Chase, the well known firm of Toronto engineers. L. B. Kingston, C.E., is the resident engineer. Messrs. Clarke and Monds, of Toronto, are the contractors. There are now large numbers of men engaged on the tail race and power house excavation. A very complete plant is in operation for the construction work, including a powerful steam shovel, which is digging just inside the coffer dam. This part of the work is being pushed with all possible energy, in order that the substructure be well above high water before the spring freshets set in.

Clarke and Monds, engineering contractors, who have charge of the work of constructing the dam, built the big machine shops for E. Long & Company at Orillia, makers of saw-mill machinery. Working for them here as foreman carpenter and laborer foreman, respectively, are John Cottam and Thomas Devine.

TRAGIC TALES TERSELY TOLD

Double Tragedy Occurs at Fort Near Victoria, B.C.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 12.—Corporal John Bowlan was shot dead at MacAulay Point Fort yesterday morning by Gunner Charles Ratcliffe, who then committed suicide.

The affair is supposed to have arisen out of an incident at the cruiser "Rainbow" banquet on Thursday night, when Bowlan reprimanded Ratcliffe for being boisterous.

Ratcliffe, after killing Bowlan, terrorized other men in the fort with his rifle, and fired upon soldiers and police who attempted to advance over the exposed ground around the fort. When he saw that capture was certain, he put a bullet into his right eye and died immediately.

Other soldiers who were in the fort are now under guard, and a military enquiry will be held. It is a second shooting at the barracks in a few months.

Bank President's Suicide.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 12.—D. F. M. Schas, president of the Continental Savings Bank and a widely-known financier, committed suicide yesterday.

The death of Schas was attended with sensational incidents. He went to the main pavilion of Overton Park about noon and swallowed poison. The banker then attempted to kill himself by plunging a knife into his throat. He then fired a pistol ball through his head, dying instantly.

The Continental Savings Bank immediately closed its doors. Officials says that the dead president's accounts are in good condition.

WIDOW DEFEATS THE DEMOCRAT

Lufkin, Tex., Nov. 12.—Full returns from the election of Tuesday, just received, show that Mrs. Britt Trevathan has defeated W. J. Ivy, the Democratic nominee for county clerk of Angelina County. Her majority is about 200. Mrs. Trevathan's husband held the place and was the party nominee for re-election, but died. His widow was appointed to the position, but the county committee declined to nominate her for the vacancy, naming Ivy. Mrs. Trevathan then waged a vigorous fight as an independent. This is the first time a Democrat nominee was ever defeated in this section.

THINK SHE'S BELLE ELMORE

Alix, Alta., Nov. 12.—Great excitement has been caused here by a report that a woman who arrived in town on Wednesday is none other than Belle Elmore.

The report started from the fact that the woman fainted when Crippen's name was mentioned in her presence, and again fainted when she read in a newspaper that Crippen was sentenced to hang.

She answers in some degree to the portraits of the missing woman. It is stated here that the police are watching her movements.

BRITISH LIBERALS WANT EARLY APPEAL TO COUNTRY

It is Declared That an Election Before the End of January is Almost Certain—Campaigners Are Getting Into Their War Harness.

London, Nov. 12.—An early general election being assured, the only question now agitating the country is whether it will take place in December or January.

Premier Asquith, who must decide this question, thus far has kept his own counsel. He left town quietly yesterday afternoon and not even the members of his Cabinet knew his destination until the newspapers announced his arrival at Sandringham, where King George is in residence.

The object of the visit is to acquaint His Majesty, who, like his father, often confers with the Cabinet Minister, of the failure of the constitutional conference and to advise him of the course the Government intends to pursue.

The campaign practically began last night with speeches in all parts of the country. Organization of all kinds are getting on their war paint. Not the least of these are the suffragettes, whose cry will be "Down with the veto and the Prime Minister."

The Unionists will fight their campaign on the home rule issue. This is clearly indicated by the newspapers, one of which devotes practically the whole of its issue to the return of John Redmond, using such headlines as, "The Dictator With Dollars"; "American Gold."

Another newspapers advises candidates to rub into their constituents that Redmond with $200,000, is about to reappear in this country for the work of tearing down the British constitution with American money.

It is believed the Cabinet has decided not to carry on any further work with the present Parliament without such guarantees as would ensure success to the Government's policy. Ordinarily the veto resolutions on the veto power of the House of Lords which passed the House of Commons at the last session, would be discussed in the upper chamber, and the Government would await their rejection before taking action. The refusal of the constitutional conference to accept the Government's compromise, however, makes discussion of the veto resolution useless, in the view of the Radicals, and the opinion prevails that the Government either must resign or advise the dissolution of Parliament.

It is significant that the trend of feeling in Liberal circles distinctly favors an immediate election, and it is generally considered that this would be a wise course for the Liberals to take, as they stand a splendid chance of securing an increased majority in the House of Commons.

Attacks on the social and other legislation favored by the Government have lost much of their force since January, while the improvement in trade has helped to popularise the free trade party.

On the other hand, the Conservatives are suffering from lack of cohesion, and an influential section of the party is openly hostile to Mr. Balfour's leadership, his policy being not aggressive enough for them.

The stock market was weak as a consequence of the conference failure. Consols for money sold off half a point to 78 3-4, the previous low record, on the failure of the conference. Home securities were also week.

WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD AT COLLINS' BAY VILLAGE

Mrs. McAlpine, of Ottawa, a Woman Who Has Been Walking Round the Country With Umbrella Mender, is Discovered by Track.

Kingston, Nov. 12.—Collins' Bay Village, seven miles west of Kingston on the G.T.R., was thrown into a state of excitement yesterday morning on the finding of the dead body of a woman, identified as that of Mrs. Mary Emma McAlpine of Ottawa. The body was found in a kneeling position near the railway tracks with a gash in her head. The Kingston police suspected foul play, and Coroner Ross ordered an inquest.

Deceased has been traveling around the country with Samuel Slattery, also of Ottawa, an umbrella mender. The couple were in Kingston on Thursday and walked out to Collin's Bay. It was pouring rain, and they took shelter in the woods, built a fire, and had something to eat in gypsy fashion. Slattery claims that after they had their meal, a man came on the scene who had a bottle of whisky, and that the three drank. He remembered no more, as he went to sleep, and at daylight, when he awoke, he found his companion dead and the stranger gone.

George Simmons is alleged to have given the whisky, and he was arrested in Kingston.

According to Slattery the woman has been going around the country with him for some time. He thought her husband was dead, and the two were to be married, but while out west they heard McAlpine was alive and the wedding was called off. She has two children in Port Arthur or Fort William, two brothers, one sister in Ottawa and one sister in Pembroke. She was about 45 years of age, and Slattery is 50.

At the inquest last night, Prof. W. T. Connell reported that the death of the woman McAlpine, found dead at Collin's Bay, had been due to suffocation from drowning in water in a ditch. A wound on the head had been received some time before, and had no direct bearing on her death. She had evidently been under the influences of liquor.

Geo. Simons, held by the police, admitted giving the woman whisky on Thursday night, but stoutly denied having laid hand on her. Samuel Slattery, who was traveling with her, could not throw any light on the cause of her death. He denied having abused her.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts, and Simons and Slattery were released.

THIRTY FISHERMEN REPORTED DEAD NEAR CALAIS, FRANCE

Calais, France, Nov. 12.—The storm which raged in the English Channel and the Straits of Dover yesterday caught the Calais fishing fleet unawares. Several vessels were sunk and 30 fishermen were drowned.

Floods In Paris.

Paris, Nov. 12.—All parts of France were suffering from the effects of floods yesterday. The quays in the southeastern part of this city were being inundated, and workmen made a desperate effort to save the merchandise that had accumulated there. The openings of the tunnels of the Orleans Railroad were closed to avoid the flooding of the underground passages.

It is estimated that the gauge at Port Royal will show the water to have reached a height of 5.70 metres by Sunday. This will be 3.22 metres above the normal. As the gauge stood at 9.50 metres during the height of the flood last January, the danger to the city at the present time is not considered serious. Nevertheless, the Government is adopting measures to avoid a repetition of the disaster of last winter.

Stormy In Germany.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—A heavy snowstorm yesterday, ushered in winter through northern Germany. Telephone and telegraph wires are still down in the north and also those communicating with Bremen. Direct telegraphic connection with England is interrupted, and the Bourse yesterday was able to communicate with London only by means of telephone by way of France.

Rhine Is Rising.

Cologne, Germany, Nov. 12.—The River Rhine here is 17 feet above its mean low level, and is still rising. Mannheim reports the river at 18 feet and at Moselle it has reached 22 3-4 feet. At Metz the river is the highest that it has been for years. The lower parts of that city are flooded, as also are those of a number of towns below Metz.

Up-stream the Rhine is reported to be falling.

LAWS OF MARRIAGE EXPLAINED

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The laws of Christian marriage was the subject of an address given by Travers Lewis, K.C., at the annual session of the Anglican deanery of Ottawa. He compared the marriage laws of Ontario and Quebec, and answered a number of questions.

It is understood that the action of Mgr. Bruchesi, Archbishop of Montreal, in annulling marriages contracted between Protestants and Catholics in Ontario, was discussed but no statement was given out as to any action taken.

WHEN MERCY TEMPERS JUSTICE

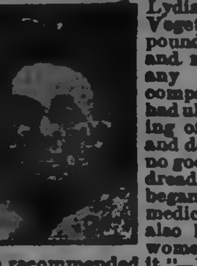
Toronto, Nov. 12.—Joseph McCormick, charged with using abusive language to his sister, was allowed to go on his own recognizance for $500 by Judge Winchester by signing the pledge and promising to support his sister.

Judge Winchester, because of prisoner's family circumstances, cut one year off the three-year sentence of George Flay, found guilty of assault on a woman.

Justice Britton also reduced Charles Hardy's sentence from six months to five months, so that he will be released in time to get employment as a bricklayer in the spring.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.



Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking your medicine. It has also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ontario.

Gardiner, Me.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Maine.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

ENTHUSIASM

There's a lesson on enthusiasm on the streets of Peterborough to-day as the girls are tagging the citizens.

Enthusiasm is irresistible.

It makes no difference whether it is force that is assisting, a revivalist who is sweeping the town, or a regiment of soldiers capturing a position.

It takes the lagging moment and sets it on horseback. The seconds speed on galloping into minutes, hours, days and weeks if we are only enthusiastic.

We are all enthusiastic on something. EVEN A HOG IS ENTHUSIASTIC WHEN THE SWILL IS IN THE TROUGH, and there are thugs and counterfeiters who are filled with enthusiasm and determination to get along without work. If we are to make a marked success in anything whether it is measuring off dry goods making hats, or selling real estate, we must possess enthusiasm. It makes the long road short, the rough road smooth. It gives us power. There never was a man or woman who amounted to anything who was not enthusiastic. ENTHUSIASM, CONFIDENCE AND POWER ARE AS ALIKE AS FAITH, HOPE AND CHARITY.

Being enthusiastic does not always mean that we are bound to be successful.

An enthusiastic burglar climbed into a window very carefully. The man of the house was waiting with a frontier revolver.

"You get."

"You bet."

The man with the misdirected enthusiasm closed this shortest dialogue on record by a record sprint into darkness.

If you are not enthusiastic over your work, study yourself. Is it your liver? Is it your job? If it's your liver, exercise it. If its' your job quit it and get one you enjoy. The cab horses, the cart horses, the delivery waggon horses are not marked by enthusiasm. But at the races the thoroughbreds enjoy the fun as well as the spectators. These horses are looked after and do but one thing, they run or trot. Some of us are not enthusiastic because we try to do a little of everything or because we didn't take care of ourselves THE NIGHT BEFORE.

WHERE WOULD HE GO?

Omer Edmond, who used to sell produce to farmers around Longueuil, collect part of the money and keep the goods was sentenced to one year this morning by Judge Choquet. His wife, a poorly-dressed, middle-aged woman, dragging three poor little children, had a fit of hysterics when her husband was sentenced.

She has no one to turn to and is sick with three children, the eldest being just above ten.—Montreal Herald.

Montreal is a city of churches. One of the most magnificent religious spectacles ever seen was held a few days ago in that metropolis. But here was a woman whose husband had been sent to jail for one year for embezzlement with three children, poorly dressed herself sick and wanting, with no one to turn to. Where is the spirit of Christ? If He were on earth would He visit HER or would He visit some of those STATELY churches?

A PROPHECY AND A QUESTION

We have no claim to prophetic vision, but we foresee the day when the United States, becoming too bulky for one good administration, will become two nations. We do not know the line of break but somewhere it will be. The interests of those in the southland are so little in common with the Northern States that they really have little in common to shout for except the flag. The negro problem is the only great problem that keeps the issue from being a live one to-day.

The great difference of opinions of east and west may, even now, be seen in this early hour of our national life. The west wants free trade—demands it. The farmer wants improved machinery and wants it as cheaply as possible. His acres are many; he needs latest devices. The east wants protection. And what does Sir Wilfrid Laurier want? HE WANTS TO RIDE BOTH HORSES INTO POWER AGAIN.

HEARTS

It's a simple old hymn and musical critics have found fault with its construction while literary lights have sought to cast aspersions upon the wording but there is something about "Rock of Ages" that keeps it alive. The other afternoon the young woman who sings the ballads in one of the Detroit nickel theatres had this for her number. The house was packed, and as the words were sung to the familiar melody there was deep silence. When the second verse was begun three or four young fellows, near the front, began to jest among themselves. An unkempt man, looking strangely out of place in the middle of a row of tailored women, brushing a tear from his eye, leaned forward. "Say you," he said to the disturbers, "Cut that out or I'll punch your d——d heads off you!" Suddenly coming to himself, he turned to an elderly woman at his right. "'Scuse me, missus, but my mother used to sing that song."—Lindsay Warder.

This only goes to prove what we have always said, that there is a tender spot in every heart. If the pulpit can't find it, if the Salvation Army can't discover it, if the missionary visitor is unable to locate it, some music will sing out from somewhere to reach the responsive chord in the heart. It may be covered with rags it may be concealed by a sodden face, but the SPARK is there in every one.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—With the words, "Oh, merciful Saviour, please take me with my angel daughter," on her lips, Mrs. Mary Leibzeit collapsed in the arms of friends after looking at the face of her eighteen-year-old daughter, Alma, who died this morning in the hospital at Port Huron of typhoid fever. In less than an hour the mother, too, was dead.

Fourteen years ago the father left home, and since that time has not been seen. Mother and daughter will be buried in one grave to-morrow.

To the credulous this may appear a direct answer to prayer. To us it would seem a broken heart. Hearts seldom break from overwork, but they often snap from grief and anguish. Throwing himself across the dead body of his wife a few days ago, an old man passed away. They had lived together over fifty years and were as one.

We have often heard of animals pining and dying when their mate was taken from the cage or died. Are we less susceptible to grief than the animals? The answer to every observer is easily discovered.

HE HOPES ON

A clock in a city tower struck its mournful note, o-n-e, t-w-o, and the nurse who heard it, bending over an old man in a neighboring room, said, "How time does fly," and a young man heard the words, and they touched his heart. And, again, the nurse spoke, "You'll soon be well, and eat your Christmas dinner at home," and the old man feebly replied, "I hope so nurse, I hope it's true." Then the young man looked into the face of a clock just beyond his bed, and each ticking note repeated, "How time goes by," each gust of the gale upon the window gave out the message, "How time goes by," and the leafless trees in the field beyond waved their skeleton arms, as if in rhym to the thought, "How time goes by," each light footfall in the corridor, each bell, each call, each voice, spoke but the single phrase, "How time goes by."

"How time goes by."

"Cease yonder clock that ticking, for you move us graveward and to eternity." But though thus adjured, the clock would not cease. On crept the seconds, on into minutes, and on stole the minutes to completed hours, on went the hours, and the shadows lengthened until the night fell, and the rhythmic trees were lost to vision, though the wind kept up the strain, "How time goes by."

Oh, yes, friend, 'How time goes by," and by its immutable decree, perchance yonder old man may eat that Christmas meal at home, and perhaps the tireless second may tick him away to rest, to peace, and to the end.

"How time goes by," ticking some to shame and infamy, and ticking others to greatness and nobility of character. Tick, tick, the worlds' a show, a nation rises, but to be ticked out again. On goes time, ticking in epochs and eras, ticking in treaties, ticking in wars, ticking in wounded hearts, and healing them by that tick, tick, tick.

"How time goes by."

Ticking, ticking, ticking, three hundred years ticked, a cond by second, up to this day. "How time goes by." See, she has ticked a forest into a nation, the great republic to the south, she has ticked a wilderness into a Canada, a grand confederation of great Provinces. Tick on, Oh, Time, for we are creatures of thy ticking; roll ye great watch tower bells, and by thy booming, announce to us in note sonorous how time goes by. Tick on, we are here at the sunrise, and gone at the sunset. Tick on, tick on, and in that clanging from tallest tower, in that mightiest stroke, or tiniest movement at my ladies' breast, let us remember that thou dost tick us on to nobler things, if we are but true to our present opportunity. "How time goes by;" it ticks not backward, but to the future; not to the valley, but to the hill, and on to higher mountains, are we but true.

It ticks, and we each have the full second, the fuller hour, and the complete day. The King knows no more than this. Can he by a decree have more of time than the rest of us. He may pass no law—see, all are equal here.

Tick! Tick! Tick!

List! The clock has struck the hour again and we pass to better things.

TEMPERANCE

In Toronto a good many years ago the Robinson House was started as a temperance hotel on Bay street. Temperance people throughout the province ignored its existence when in the Provincial Capital and continued to stay at the licensed hotels, with comparatively few exceptions. For want of patronage it at length degenerated into a fourth rate lodging house, and, if we are not mistaken, it was finally closed. They do things in a more generous way in the West, and a number of Regina people have just bought the King's hotel, which is the finest in the Saskatchewan Capital—the finest, indeed, between Winnipeg and Banff—for $250,000, and will conduct it as a temperance house. It is understood this hotel has never paid as a licensed house, and the experiment of conducting it without license should be watched with a great deal of interest elsewhere.—Guelph Mercury.

It always struck us as funny why it is that so many people shout 'local option,' 'local option,' dry up when the bar is closed and refuse to go down in their jeans and help open a temperance house, where a stranger, the traveller, the casual visitor can get a decent clean meal?

The Guelph Temperance Society that used to hold meetings in Eden Mills before Joe Zinger lost his license would shelter their horses in his sheds for it was a cold winter They never bought even a glass of pop over his bar or paid him a dime for shelter. Joe lost his license all right and left the diggings.

Now we repeat that while the question "What has the bar done for you?" remains unanswered yet the bar is the poor man's club. The weather is cold, the room at the boarding house is small, and the bar is warm and attractive. Rev. Chas Carpenter has got a room on Antrim street where the chap who wants to can go and play games and write or read. Its free.

Until there are more Carpenters ready to do this the bar-room will attract and flourish.

You must give the poor men a place to go—a nickel and every saloon is open. Has the Church Universal got anything like this to offer for winter evenings?

GOOD HEALTH FOR YOUNG GIRLS

What is Needed is the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Perhaps you have already noticed that your daughter in her "teens" has developed a fitful temper, is restless and excitable. In that case remember that the march of years is leading her on to womanhood, and at this time a great responsibility rests upon you as parents. If your daughter is pale, complains of weakness and depression, feels "all tired out" after a little exertion; if she tells of headaches, or backaches, or pain in the side, do not disregard these warnings. Your daughter needs help for she is most probably anaemic—that is, bloodless.

Should you notice any of these signs, lose no time, but procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for her unhealthy girlhood is bound to lead to unhealthy womanhood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich impoverished blood and by doing so they repair waste and prevent disease. They give to sickly, drooping girls, health, brightness and charm, with color in the checks, bright eyes, a lightness of step and high spirits. A case typical of thousands cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is that of Miss Grace Cunningham, Winnipeg, Man., who says: "I really cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they have made me feel like a new girl. I was pale and almost bloodless and think that on an average I missed at least three school sessions a week, because I felt like a broken down person, and too weak to do anything. The doctor's medicine I took did little more than keep me in hope; it certainly did not cure me. Then I was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they soon made me feel like a new person. Day by day I gained strength and color, and I have your medicine to thank for it."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHIMES

A few more contributions have come in during the last few days, and many old subscriptions paid. Between $400 and $500 is still needed if the large scheme proposed is to be carried out. The Committee are most anxious to place the order at once, not only because the price of material is advancing, but also because unless this be done, the chimes cannot be delivered until about the middle of next summer and a full six months being required. It is desirable to have the bells installed for coronation or Dominion Day, if at all possible.

If reasonable encouragement were given during the next few days, it would warrant immediate action, and it is hoped that citizens who have not yet contributed will do so promptly, and thus enable this public work to be carried forward. Extra contributions are more valuable now, than at any previous time, and donors will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are giving pleasure to the whole community.

THE REVIEW'S NEW STORY

The "River Man" Will be the New Serial to Commence Next Week

When a rough, sturdy, man-mastering lumber driver, boss of the lawless "river jacks," starts out to win the heart and hand of an aristocratic young woman of eastern wealth and fashion, interesting things are apt to happen. They do happen, as readers of this story will agree. Jack Orde is the type of man who has gone into the American wildernesses and reclaimed them from themselves, from lawbreaking and debauchery. The brilliant author's descriptions of the battles between man and nature and between man and man in the lumber fastnesses of the great northwest set one's blood a-tingle. They show that man is superman when courage swells his heart. And the wooing and winning of Carroll Bishop by Jack Orde supply captivating romance that cannot fail to charm.

Wood's Phosphodine, The Great English Remedy. Tones and invigorates the whole nervous system, makes new Blood in old Veins. Cures Nervous Debility, Mental and Brain Worry, Despondency, Sexual Weakness, Emissions, Spermatorrhoea, and Effects of Abuse or Excesses. Price $1 per box, six for $5. One will please, six will cure. Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain pkg. on receipt of price. New pamphlet mailed free. The Wood Medicine Co. (formerly Windsor) Toronto, Ont.

"WHEN ALL HAS BEEN SAID"

Bayard Veiller a young New Yorker, typical of the hustling, sweeping spirit of progress, has written a play which competent judges of these things say is as absorbing as any dramatic work of the century. It is called "When All Has Been Said," and it comes to the Grand next Wednesday, Nov. 16th. The scenes are laid in a thriving Western town, where Wm. Gordon, familiarly called Billy, is a popular banker, and his son Billy, aged seven, who insists on being called William, is a popular little gentleman. The elder Gordon is a candidate for Mayor on the prohibition ticket—but the great big theme of the play is a good deal different from party politics. Touching upon the Mayoralty issue, however, an indication of the business-like motives of Gordon is furnished when he explains to an associate:

EMILY STEVENS
Who appears as Mrs Gordon in Liebler & Co's production of "When All Has Been Said."

"Let me make the situation clear to you. We are business men, moved solely by business reasons; its not a temperance movement at all. We are trying to prohibit liquor selling in this town. We know it will pay to make this a "dry" town, and we're going to put forth every effort to do it. We are going to show the people here that it will pay them, too. It will bring new capital here. Our having a dry town will be an inducement to employers of labor to move here; we will grow industrially and financially. With a larger population and a greater demand for homes, real estate values will increase, and the volume of retail as well as wholesale business will be greater."

Gordon meets with determined opposition, but this doesn't worry him half so much as does a domestic situation which arises to put him to the severest test a man was ever subjected to.

"THIS WOMAN AND THIS MAN"

"This Woman and This Man," the most finished and meritorious work from the pen of Avery Hopwood, the author of the latest and best comedy of recent years, "Seven Days," will be the attraction at the Grand on Monday evening, Nov. 14th. The company, which is of the very best players, is headed by the well-known versatile comedy and emotional actresses, Miss Minnie Victorson, have won unstinted praise from press and public wherever they have appeared, and the play when presented at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York, met with unusual praise from the leading critics. The New York American Feb. 23, 1909, said: "The audience gave the production a flattering reception. This was especially true of the women who wept at the pathetic scenes and laughed uproariously at the humor."

Were Delighted

The crowds that were at the Grand Opera House last night were delighted with the performance. The Millman Sisters, in their character song and dance act, are very fine indeed and London Blunt, Gymnast, late of Ringling Bros., circus, is a wonder, and the moving pictures are the best ever seen in Peterborough. Then the Grand orchestra is a treat to listen to. Be sure and go to the Grand to-night, Saturday, as this is the last night for these acts.

GOSPEL IN SONG AND SERMON; EVANGELIST AT ST. JAMES'

Possesses the Gifts of An Evangelist in a Marked Degree—Accompanies Himself in Solos on the Guitar.

The evangelistic campaign in St. James' Methodist church continues (D. V.) during next week. In spite of the unfavorable weather this week the meetings have been well attended and several conversions have been given. Rev. R. H. Whiteside, who is conducting this mission, is a Methodist minister of the Montreal Conference, and possesses in a marked degree the gift of an evangelist, to the work of which he has been set apart. The power of sacred song in the solos he has rendered with accompaniment on the guitar and in the singing of the large choir has been used to enforce the clear and pointed exposition of the Scriptural way of salvation through repentance for sins and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, the only mediator between God and man.

On Sunday morning the service will be a great family gathering. Evangelist Whiteside will give an illustrated address to the whole family. The front pews are reserved for the children.

At the afternoon meeting at 4.15 the Brotherhood class will form the choir Mr. C. B. Thornton and Miss Josie Callender will also sing.

Sunday evening service at 7 o'clock. During the week service begins at 7.45 p.m.

DID YOU CASH UP OR DODGE?

If you managed to dodge the appeals of to-day you don't need to bother about a new overcoat for this winter, even though last year's garment has shrunken considerably. You will find yourself plenty small enough.

o o o o o o

The fair young taggers were out bright and early this morning, and citizens didn't have half a chance. The Ticket to protect you for the remainder of the day, you simply had to purchase. The really delightful persistence which the taggers displayed brought out the coin or several of them.

o o o o o o

Every corner is guarded, and, of course, the weather man showed his sympathy by sending out Old Sol, with orders to put on his best smile.

o o o o o o

Tag Day for the Children's Aid Society will be a big success. It is interesting to note that the entire public is responding.

o o o o o o

The G.T.R. and C.P.R. stations are in possession of the hosts, and outgoing and incoming passengers are asked to deliver the goods. They did.

o o o o o o

Another stronghold is the Hunter street bridge. It is a case of pay toll or swim across, and as the water was not heated for the occasion no acquatic performances are recorded. Nothing less than an airship can beat to-day's scheme.

o o o o o o

This is a great day to get acquainted and it is really refreshing to see all denominations united in their efforts to boost one of the most excellent propositions that has ever been organised in this city.

o o o o o o

"Be a sport and buy, don't be a stiff," an expression of a similar nature came from the lips of a pretty girl of about seventeen in a local barber shop this morning. There was no getting away from her. But the man remained invulnerable to her and refused to loosen up.

o o o o o o

Another group of girls with ribbons on their arms, while making change, accidentally dropped a small coin. A passer-by, evidently lacking honor, stooped down, picked it up, and walked off with 5c in his pocket.

o o o o o o

Again, a little girl timidly accosted a gruff appearing rural resident, was rudely repulsed with her mild invitation, "Will you please buy a tag, mister?" by the answer "No, don't bother me."

o o o o o o

One farmer on the Market Square, when accosted, was overheard to ask "What good will it do?" "Why, it will do a world of good," came the answer from the tagger.

o o o o o o

At 6.30 this morning one girl was busily engaged tagging the men as they hurried to the different places of employment.

o o o o o o

The street car conductors were the first to be collared. One enterprising conductor, with an eye for effect, had two rosettes suspended from a chandelier in his car.

o o o o o o

One young fellow, either with the intention of misleading people as to his wealth or else to gratify vanity, was adorned with five tags. It is not known whether he bought them at a nickel apiece or not.

o o o o o o

During the dinner hour there was a lull in the tagging campaign. The girls, no doubt, after the excitement of the out-door work, did full justice to their dinners.

o o o o o o

Yesterday the ladies distributed the buttons at the local schools. The pupils responded with their contributions in a flattering manner.

o o o o o o

To-day the distribution headquarters are at the City Council Chamber. Mr. George Cochrane, the agent of the society is in charge, and a staff of ladies is busy preparing the tags for the workers.

o o o o o o

Between eleven and twelve o'clock the demands made upon the stock of tags was such that in many instances none could be given, just at the time. The rosettes, too, were at a premium.

o o o o o o

In the window of the door leading to the tax collector's office is a card "This is tax day and tag day." This is only one of the many evidences that this is THE day.

o o o o o o

Tag Day, Tag Day, little children's Tag Day,
Hustling and bustling to sell a tag,
Pinning Rosettes on each prancing nag,
This is the day you give your cash,
Perhaps you'll succeed and make a mash.
And a tag day you'll get to help you out,
When you have a family of kids.

o o o o o o

One young fellow must have had a heart of adament. Successively appealed to by over half a dozen young ladies, he refused each one Could the girls be blamed for calling out such names as "stingy," much less even thinking it.

o o o o o o

It is reported that only one employee of the C.P.R. station is unadorned with the red-printed card.

o o o o o o

The response to tag day appeals at the Canadian General Electric Company's gate was very generous. "Even more so than anticipated," said one lady to the Review to-day. About twelve ladies were waiting at advantageous points outside the C.G.E. at twelve o'clock. Many more would have given right then had they had the change convenient. Many brought money back with them at one o'clock.

All of the office men of the works bought several tags each.

A fact rather significant was that the Italians, when the meaning of the appeal was explained, all gave generously.

o o o o o

Several young ladies accosted a big, burly customer this morning with the suggestion that he buy a tag. "It will help the children," sang the girls in chorus. "But I haven't got any," was the answer. "You may some day though," put in one of the maidens. It was twenty-five cents.

o o o o o o

A young business man was approached and gave ten cents. An old gentleman, looking much the worse for wear, and a rather doubtful case, gave a dollar. His clothes were torn, but his heart was in the right place. "I can't give you much, girls, but will do the best I can," said he. The bill was given willingly.

o o o o o

An elderly lady was surrounded at the Hunter street corner. "Buy a tag," was the request. "What is it for?" she asked. "Why, to help the Children's Aid," returned the fair Miss. As she transferred three large parcels to the girls for safe keeping to enable her to get at her purse, the tag was tied on in a conspicuous place. The purse was opened and two coppers dropped in the box.

o o o o o o

The girls around the G.T.R. station were arranged systematically, and no passer-by escaped them. They deserve credit for being so faithful and insensible to the cold while on duty at their various posts all day long.

o o o o o o

Thirteen thousand tags were issued at the Review to-day for the busy taggers.

LICENSE RECEIPTS TO CITY SHOW DECREASE

The Board of License Commissioners have handed over to City Treasurer Adams their second annual distribution of liquor license receipts. Naturally the amounts in the two distributions this year show a decrease, on account of the lesser number of licenses. At the present time there are 12 tavern licenses, 3 shops and 16 bartenders, each of whom pay a license fee of $2.00. There were eight fines during the year for a total of $80.00. The amount of the two distributations was $3,347.15, and this is against $5,180.32 for last year. The decrease is $1,833.17.

The statement:

May 16, 1909	$2,410.20
Nov. 11, 1909	2,770.13
Total	$5,180.32
May 16, 1910	$1,419.08
Nov. 11, 1910	1,928.07

HAVELOCK'S IMPORTANCE NOT CONFINED TO C.P.R. OPERATIONS

Swift & Co.'s Ice House and the Work Done There.

Special to the Review.

Havelock, Nov. 10.—The icing season at Swift & Co's icing station here is gradually drawing to a close, although there is still a quantity of cars being iced daily. The local stations, of which Mr. Joseph Frost is manager, has had a very busy season during the past six months. Icing commences at the latter part of March and continues well up into November. The season does not close abruptly, but from the 1st of October the number of cars iced daily decreases.

During the summer months this year the number of cars iced amounted up to as high as 250 cars per week, or an average of 36 cars per day, although the work is uneven, as sometimes as many as 75 cars are iced a day. When you consider that a car takes from six to fifteen cakes of ice, according to the lowness of the ice in the lakes, you may form a slight idea of the large amount of the congealed moisture that is consumed in a season. The amount of cars iced this season was greatly increased by the extra number of cars sent over this route during the Grand Trunk strike.

The refrigerator cars are similar in build to the ordinary box car. They have ice tanks on each end with places where the cold air may circulate into the interior of the car. The tops are well covered over, first by a plug in the top of the tank and an additional lid over that, so that none of the frigid atmosphere may escape. Although the sides of the interior part of the cars and up and down the centre, there are numerous meat hooks on which the meat is placed. The meat is all hung up in the cars. In a car composed of beef alone there is upwards of 20,000 lbs. of meat, shipments of cheese, butter, berries and other fruits have to be iced.

SEVERAL ICING COMPANIES.

Although Swift & Co. own the ice house here, they are not the only companies that ice at this station. The following companies also ice their cars here:—The Armour Packing Co., Chicago and Kansas; Cudahy Packing Co., Omaha; National Packing Co., Chicago; Chicago & St. Louis; Cold Blast Transportation Co., Chicago and Kansas City; American Refrigerator Co., and several other smaller companies, with headquarters in the United States.

ICEMAN'S JOB NO EASY ONE.

When the cars leave Chicago they are iced before being shipped, then at Windsor, Ont., then at Havelock, sometimes at Montreal, and then at Providence or Newport. The icemen have considerable difficulty in judging the time they must commence to prepare the ice for the cars. The cakes, which are packed in close together, are frozen to one another and these have to be loosened up and separated. The ice is then hoisted to the platform which is the same height as the cars and here it is broken by hand into pieces about the size of a man's fist. Considerable judgment must be used for the ice must not be gotten out too soon or it will melt or too late or the train will be delayed. A report is first received by mail that certain cars have left the shipping point, and the next report is received from Windsor when the cars leave there, so that the icemen may be prepared. A report is wired when the cars leave Toronto, and the ice is then loosened up, and when another report is received from Myrtle they commence to pull up. Generally, if they start to pull up when the cars leave Myrtle they have the ice fully prepared for the cars when they arrive at Havelock. But sometimes things do not work out according to calculations, and a large amount of ice melts on account of a train being delayed.

HOW IT IS DONE.

When the cars arrive, the tops, which are located on both ends of the car, are opened up, and the ice already in them pounded down and the ice already in them pounded down and the water allowed to run out. Rock salt is then placed on the top of the old ice in the tanks, and the ice is placed on top of that until the tank is completely filled, and then another coat of salt is applied, the lids replaced, and the work is over.

Sometimes a shipment of cars will become divided on the way, and comes in on two different trains, and this makes it necessary to pull up twice.

The regular shipment of provision cars generally comes in on train No. 52, due at Havelock at 1.230 p.m., but cars come in on all trains and sometimes during the night. A large amount of rock salt is used in icing the cars, and it is stored in a large room and drawn to the platform and placed in large salt bottles as it is needed.

THE BUILDING.

The walls of the ice house are about two feet thick and are filled with ice it is covered over with hay. The roof of the building is flat and is covered with a swat of tar, on top of which is a sprinkling of gravel. The platform is placed on the north side of the building and has a covering over it to keep the sun from melting the ice when it is on the platform. The ice is broken into pieces by wooden mallets and shovelled into the cars and packed down by hand.

AGONY ON OPERATING TABLE

Did Not Remove Stone In Bladder GIN PILLS Passed It.

JOLIETTE, P. Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone In The Bladder. He decided on an operation and was assisted by another doctor. They said the calculus was larger than a bean and too hard to crush and they could not take it out.

I returned home suffering greatly and did not know what to do but was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS. I bought a box and found relief from the pain at once. I took a second and a third box of GIN PILLS, after which I went back to the specialist. He told me the calculus was reduced in size, still he could not relieve me of it although he tried for two and a half hours.

I returned home again and continued to take GIN PILLS as they reduced the pain very much, but I did not expect that they would relieve me of the stone but to my great joy, I passed the stone on October 3rd., and am now a well man and very happy.

I am sending the stone in to you so that you can see for yourself what a great work GIN PILLS did for me. GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did so much for me, I will recommend them all the rest of my life."

J. ALBERT LESSARD.

What glorious news to those who are almost going insane from the pain of Stone In The Bladder! Here is ease and comfort! Here is relief! Here is a certain means of getting rid of the stone without being cut to pieces by the knives of a surgeon. GIN PILLS dissolve Stone or Gravel in Kidneys or Bladder because GIN PILLS are the greatest solvent for uric acid the world has ever known.

If your trouble is like Mr. Lessard's, follow his example and take GIN PILLS. Money refunded if they fail to give relief. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. Sample box free if you write us, mentioning this paper.

Peerless Peninsular

Little Conveniences That Mean Much To The Housewife

A Lady said, not long ago to one of our dealers, that "Peerless Peninsular" Ranges could not have been more conveniently planned if they had been designed by the women who use them.

This was a high compliment, but only indicative of the years of effort to meet all points of convenience that have culminated in the production of our "Peerless" Ranges.

The front Key Plate of the range is fitted with a handle by which it can be raised for broiling and toasting.

The Back of the Oven is Aluminized to reflect light into the usual dark corners.

The Clean-out Door under the oven is where it can be reached without the usual struggle.

The Oven Door drops down level with the oven floor and forms a shelf for basting or inspection of cakes, pies, etc.

The Oven Damper is adjustable—not simply open or shut, but slides so that the heat can be regulated to a degree.

The Oven Thermometer, Peninsular Grate Bars and Low Closet for holding flat irons, pots, pans, etc., are only a few of the other "little things" that you should see before buying your new range. When you do see them, you will buy a "Peerless".

"Peerless Peninsular" is the range shown above.

"Harmony Peninsular" is similar in essentials but more elaborately decorated.

"Constant Peninsular" is different from the others mainly in plainer design and finish.

"Advance Peninsular" is plain in design with swing door for those who prefer it. 110

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I would like to pass a little comment on Col. Denison's address to the Canadian Club. Does Canada want a navy? The Colonel says yes, so I suppose it will be so, according to the applause he got. But methinks different. Did it ever strike you that England is one of the finest shipbuilding countries in the world, and that it costs her hundreds of thousands of pounds for plants, docks, etc., and the few men over there that control them need the money? They say "times are bad in our lines at present; we have got a navy that excels any other country. Can't we build one for somebody else?" Sure, why not Canada? And do you know they talk like this at the clubs over there just the same as the Canadian Club. And here we have the different men of the country talking up and down "we want a navy." Well, look here, do you know what it means in the future? It means that the machinery of production, becoming concentrated into the hands of a few, and at the same time causing an unemployed by it being so prolific, not only in this country, but every capitalist country. Now, Germany wants to fight so they say. Do you know what for? The same thing that will be in the future of Canada—fight for a market. Now, the capitalists of Germany need the money, just the same, and are trying to raise a row with some country, and they make a pick at England. And the Colonel says if it was to happen that England went under, how would we come out without a navy? I feel like writing about ten columns, but I am afraid, Mr. Editor, that I might get the waste paper basket. In conclusion, I must say when the workers of Canada wake up they will say what they want; not to build things to be blown to pieces in five minutes but to produce for use and not for profit.

MOTHER'S LITTLE TREASURE

What mother does not look upon her baby as a little treasure. What mother would not rather suffer herself than see her precious little one suffer. The well child brings joy to the home—the sick child brings misery, despair and care. But, mothers, there is no need for your baby to be cross and ailing; even during the much dreaded teething time. What baby needs to keep him well is an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets cure all stomach and bowel troubles; destroy worms and make teething easy. Mrs. Pierre M. Cormier, New Richmond Centre, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets have been of great benefit to my little one and now he sleeps and eats well and is happy all the time." The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers at 25 cents a box or direct from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STARTLING FACTS CONCERNING PRESENT CONDITIONS OF THE JEWS FORETOLD

Comments on the S. S. Lesson by Evangeline.

Nov. 13th Matt. 24: 32-44.

Rev. Dr. Frank Weston, of Toronto, has recently given in a small pamphlet facts concerning the parable of the fig tree which forms our lesson to-day which, to say the least, come to us with startling significance.

"The cursing of the fig tree," he says, "was an enacted parable. If the Master had pointed to the green and spreading branches and said, 'This is Israel,' His meaning would not have been plainer.

Dr. Philip Schaff says: "The application to the Jewish people is unmistakable. Both the actual desolation of the land and the judgment of the people are prefigured."

The Jewish nation has for centuries been barren. But there is a limitation to the curse. Jesus says: "Let no fruit grow on thee henceforth unto the age." (The words expressing forever are "eis tous aionos" but here the words are "eis ton aiona" unto the age.)

At the close of the age this fig tree is to sprout and blossom.

"Now learn a parable of the fig-tree: 'When his branch is yet tender and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh: So likewise ye, when ye shall see these things know it is near, even at the doors."

Dean Alford says: "As in unfruitfulness the fig tree emblematised the the Jewish people, so here the putting forth of the fig tree from its winter dryness symbolizes the future revivescence of that race."

Ezekiel also fortels this revival in his vision of the dry bones. Israel is now reviving. After 2,000 years or more of deadness the Jews in 1897 began to show signs of national life when for the first time since the dispersion they held a national assembly.

The dry bones which Ezekiel saw scattered are coming together. Some power is causing the widely scattered parts of Israel to unite in one common bond, and look toward their old home. Like the sap in an old tree that seemed dead, the national spirit is rising.

The Scriptures predict many features of Israel which are coming to pass in this generation:

ONE IN POSSESSION OF WEALTH.

Silver and gold was to be theirs (Isa. 60. 5). This wealth was to be taken from the nations that oppress them (Isa. 33, 1.) We are beholding this transfer. The money of the world is rapidly accumulating in Jewish hands. One Jewish banking house controls 30,000 million dollars. The Rothschilds in ten years loaned 482 million dollars. Nearly one half of the gold coined in the entire world is in Jewish hands. For fifty years these people have been coming to the front they bear rule in finances.

In Germany nearly one half of the rich people are Jews. Six-sevenths of all bankers in Prussia are Jews, while only one in 586 is a day laborer.

The London "Spectator" asserts that "the Jews are displaying a talent for accumulation with which Christians cannot compete, and which tends to make them an ascendant caste."

In Russia a few years ago 73 per cent. of the movable property in western provinces had passed from Russians to Jews. About one-fourth of the railway systems of Russia is owned by a Jew (Polickoff.) Even the Russian Jewish refugees have deposited in German banks $100,000,000.

In Austria the same conditions of Jewish control are reported. In lower Austria, out of 50,123 merchants, 30,912 are returned as Jews. The stock exchange of Vienna lies wholly in their hands.

In France the Jews are but a fraction of the population (72,000 out of 38,000,000), yet they hold possession of a quarter of the personal property, twenty millions of francs out of eighty. They control the markets and own the executive.

In England since the battle of Waterloo, Jewish bankers have controlled the financial policy. In 1810, after buying British bonds at a depreciated value they forced England to lessen her currency by adopting a gold basis. Since then other nations have been brought to the same standard. The results have been in every case favorable to the Jew.

The Jew grows richer and richer rolling up millions and as the prophet said they would be.

No nation can take any serious step without first securing the concurrence of the financial control. That control now is Jewish. The Rothschilds rule in international finance their firm controlling $2,000,000,000. They have doubled their wealth in the last twenty years, it is said.

In America the wealth is accumulating in Jewish hands.

TWO-THIRDS OF THE WEALTH OF NEW YORK IS IN JEWISH HANDS.

Five-eighths of all the real estate transfers in a recent year were into their hands. And it is said that there is no less than 115 millionaire Jews.

The grand Old Book foretells that in the last days the Jews will rise to great power and influence in the lands where they have been scattered. In Zeph. 3-19 we read: "Behold, at that time I will undo all that afflict thee; and I will save her that halteth and gather her that was driven out; and in every land where they have been put to shame."

In Germany, although they are 2 per cent. of the population, they hold 104 professors' chairs in the universities, there being 400 professors including those in universities. Of the 8,000 students recently at Berlin University, 1,302 were Jews. Nearly 61 per cent. of the judges are Jews. At Breslau 31 lawyers out of 57 are Jews. Only 4 per cent. of the Christian population of Germany receive a higher education, but over 40 per cent. of Jewish children are given this higher training.

In Austria, out 370 authors 225 are Jews. In every land they are holding positions of the highest influence as scholars and educators.

A remarkable instance is seen in Cairo, Egypt, where is the largest theological seminary in the world; it has 300 professors and 10,000 students. At the head of this school stands a Jew, Abbasi by name.

A remarkable proportion of the notables of the passing generation are Hebrews. The most distinguished archaeologist in America, Prof. Solomon Schecter, is a Jew. The most noted mathematician of the nineteenth century, Prof. J. G. Sylvester, was a Jew. Lombroso, the greatest living expert on insanity, is a Jew. One of the greatest oculists in the world is Dr. Max Mandelstamm, a Jew.

Says Walter Besant: "Poet, lawyer, painter, actor, statesman, physician, musician— there is not a branch of learning art or science in which the Jew is not in the front rank."

Jewish leadership is further seen in

EXTENSIVE CONTROL OF THE PRESS

Throughout Europe it is almost entirely in Jewish hands, and is largely produced by Jewish brains. Wm. Singer, a Jew, is President of the Continental Journalistic Congress. The papers in the United States having the largest circulations are owned by Jews: Philadelphia "Ledger," New York "Times," "American," "World," "Globe-Democrat," San Francisco "Chronicle."

The New York "Sun" says: "Two-thirds of the men and at least half of the women who passed the recent teacher's examination in New York are Jews. The Chairman of the Board of Education is a Jew. Of the students in the colleges of New York City 1908 out of 2,100 are Jews.

What the future intellectual leadership will be is clear.

This rise of the Hebrew race to power is

THE MARVEL OF THE AGE.

They exercise greater power now than in the days of Solomon. They are fast becoming masters of the world, just as predicted in the grand old Book.

Then again, Scripture predicts changes in Palestine which also are going on in our day. For a thousand years the land has lain fallow. Up to 1867 the Turkish Empire would not allow a Jew to hold land in Palestine. In that year subjects of foreign powers were given right to hold land in their own name though a restriction was put on Jewish settlement. In 1906 this was removed and now all Jews may settle anywhere in Palestine.

Two marvellous facts are worthy of note—in Palestine. God took away the latter rain because of Israel's sin. But He promised to restore it. (Joel 2; 21-23).

THE INCREASE OF RAINFALL

Sir Charles Wilson says, "All that hindered fruitfulness is passing away and all required to restore it to its former condition is population and cultivation."

Thus God is literally fulfilling His Work in preparing the land for the people.

The second notable fact is the depopulation of the land as regards the native population. The native Syrian population is leaving. Whilst there is a current setting in towards the Holy Land, there is another current no less remarkable flowing in an opposite direction.

Mr. Lawrence Oliphant writes, "It is a remarkable fact that while every province in Turkey has been steadily retrograding during the last few Years Palestine alone has been rapidly developing in agricultural and material prosperity.

One of the most interesting features of the case is the fact that the present generation, as no other since the beginning of the Christian age, is willing at least to reconsider the claims of Jesus to be the Messiah of Israel, as well as the Saviour of the Gentile.

"Well," said Dr. Weston, in concluding this remarkable and startling exposition of the parable of the fig-tree

"WHAT DOES ALL THIS MEAN?"

"Now learn a parable of the fig-tree; when his branch is yet tender and putteth forth leaves ye know that summer is nigh. Even so ye also, when ye see all these things, know that He is nigh, even at the doors."

"And now I have told you before it come to pass, that when it is come to pass ye might believe."

Note.—Since writing the above the following message has flashed over the world. Sir Claude Montefore, scion of one of the oldest Jewish families of England has recently electrified the Jewish world by exposing publicly the religion of Christ and making a whirlwind tour of the United States to urge the 2,000,000 Jews of America to join him in his religion in England. His Jewish following is of such large proportions that the Jewish press of the world is becoming alarmed.

The application states that the societies, have heretofor been of the opinion, that exemption should be curtailed or abolished, and they have therefor not applied for it.

If however the Council intends to exempt societies of a similar nature these four societies wish to come under any law to that effect.

It is also understood that speakers will also appear before the Council at its next meeting.

THE WATER COMMISSION TOOK UP SEVERAL MATTERS AT SESSION LAST NIGHT

The Water Commissioners met last night and transacted considerable business.

The superintendent reported verbally that the service to the Bethany Tabernacle was relaid at the time the Tabernacle was built, and that removing the service would not prevent the trouble complained of.

The superintendent was instructed to lay a one inch main to the Canadian Chicle Company's new factory on George street. He reported that it would cost $130 to lay the service.

A letter was read from the Bishop Construction Company, in which they stated they would sue the commission if not paid for that service in connection with the new dam by the 21st inst.

Water Commissioner Moore was authorized to conclude an agreement with John Stothard for the purchase of land on the river bank, extending along the river 510 feet, at the price of $200, and also to include in the agreement that the commission will furnish him water at the usual rate when he makes an application in the usual form.

The chairman and secretary were authorised to sign and attach the commissioner's seal to a cancellation of the agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway regarding the siding at the dam.

Several accounts were presented and ordered to be paid.

Another meeting was held this morning, when a draft letter to W. Kennedy, jr., of Montreal, in regard to the settlement with the Bishop Construction Co. was prepared.

It was decided that upon an adding machine being purchased for the office of the city treasurer the commissioners would pay half the cost of it.

The barns of Duncan A. McLellan, at Lawrence Station were struck by lightning and destroyed.

Nicolo Berril, charged with attempted murder of Jos. Cervirno, was acquitted at Campbellford.

Injured in a football match on Thanksgiving Day, Robert William McLelland died at Halifax.

GOOD ADVICE TO TEACHERS; MEETING OF NORMAL "LIT."

A very successful meeting of the Literary Society was held in the Assembly Hall of the Normal School on Friday, November 4th.

After the minutes of the preceding meeting had been read and adopted and some business about a school picture had been transacted, the following enjoyable programme was given by the members of the staff and society:

1. Piano Solo — Miss Ida Graham.
2. Speech — "Experiences While Deer Hunting Near Denby," Mr. Wagar.
3. Violin Solo — "Biumenlied", Miss Flavelle.
4. Address — "Impressions of an Inspector," Mr. Chisholm.
5. Vocal Solo — Mr. Rickaby.
6. Essay — "Woodland Tragedy," Miss Hinman.
7. Recitation — "Whispering Bill," Miss Leary.
8. Closing Remarks — Mr. Walker.

Mr. Chisholm's address was much appreciated and it was of great practical value. After showing that the Inspector is a friend and sympathizer of the teacher whose school he visits and not a visitor to be dreaded he gave some hints towards raising the moral tone of the school and overcoming faults that leave a bad impression on the visitor. Children should be taught to show more reverence in the devotional excercises; more respect for their teachers and for the property of the school; more courtesy to strangers passing the school. The teacher should guard against neglecting the dull pupils as these very often become the bright men and women of the future.

FACULTY AT HOME TO STUDENTS

Last night was Hallowe'en night at the normal school. The staff were at home with the students, and the Hallowe'en spirit reigned supreme. There were Hallowe'en decorations, a Hallowe'en supper and a Hallowe'en programme.

The students were received in the teachers' room and then adjournment was made to the Assembly Hall, where a very bright and entertaining programme was given.

Halpany's orchestra played several numbers and the other contributions were:

Piano Solo—Miss McCaw.
Song — Mr. R. F. Downey.
Recitation — Miss Walker.
Violin Solo — Dr. Parks.
Song — Mr. Harry Quinlan.
Recitation — Mrs Petit.
Song — Miss Davies.

Mr. Keyes showed a number of interesting lantern slides.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Doing Great Work in Saskatchewan

Mrs. Emel Carlson tells how quickly and completely they cured her Kidney Troubles.

Colonsay, Sask., Nov. 11 (Special.) —No remedy has done as much for the wheat growers of Saskatchewan as Dodd's Kidney Pills. They occupy a place in the family medicine chest on nearly every farm, and every day brings fresh evidence of the great work they are doing. One of the latest to sing their praises in this neighborhood is Mrs. Emel Carlson. Here is what she is telling her many friends:

"For about two years I was sorely troubled with Kidney Disease brought on by a strain. My heart bothered me. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing and I was always tired and nervous. The least exertion would cause me to perspire freely, and my perspiration had an unpleasant odor.

"Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me. They are certainly the best medicine I ever used."

If you have any of Mrs. Carlson's symptoms your kidneys are wrong. Make them right with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE NEW 1911 RUSSEL AUTOMOBILE

Ald. Duffus has received from the Canada Cycle & Motor Co., Toronto, a new 1911 Russell touring car, he having secured exclusively the agency for the Russell and Ford automobiles for this district. That the Russell car is recognized as the best and most popular car on the market is evidenced by the fact that during the past season they could only supply two-thirds of their customers, and for this reason they have delivered already this fall as many 1911 cars, as they delivered up to March, 1910. The Knight motor has proved so very satisfactory during 1910 that most of the Russell cars this year will be equipped with this powerful, silent running engine, and no doubt will find its way into the hands of nearly all those who want a high-grade, up-to-date, large touring car.

The Ford Car this year will sell for $975.00 for the touring car and $875 for the roadster, and both of these will be built more roomey and attractive than ever and with the reputation that this car has gained for itself no doubt there will be a great demand for these two models, as they are recognized as the most economical and satisfactory medium priced car offered for sale.

Ald. Duffus will shortly open up a new sales room and garrage, where a competent man will be in charge at all times, so customers will be able to have their cars looked over, cleaned, repaired and replenished with the highest grade oils or gasoline at any and all times. This, with a good supply of accessories in stock at all times, will prove a great satisfaction to car owners.

These live firms are to be complimented upon securing Ald. Duffus as the local representative, as he is of undoubted reputation and well known in this locality, having been in business ten years in the firm of Drummond & Duffus, having spent the greater part of the last two years in the automobile part of the business.

PREVAILING POTATO PRICES

Lot of Stuff Offered for Sale at Market, But Attendance Was Not Large

A general review of the market this morning revealed a noticeable decline in attendance and also in the abundance of produce which has of late been very marked.

Regarding the potato question the Review in conversation with Mr. Manley, a prominent gardener, was informed that the price of potatoes will not go any lower that it is at present. He was selling his at seventy cents a bag. Eighty cents was the highest price asked this morning. The same farmer said that while a large percentage of the potatoes were affected by the rain this season, still good potatoes could be purchased at seventy-five and eighty cents a bag. Another farmer stated that the price will not lower any as now that the frosty weather has set in, shipping potatoes in is out of the question. It was his opinion that the price would go up. Montreal marketers are paying one dollar a bag. The number of bags of the murphys for sale this morning was not large while not extremely plentiful. Mr. Manley said that there was an abundance of other vegetables and that the potatoe crop was the only one that was slightly a failure.

All kinds of pork was for sale today both live and dead. The live piglets brought six and eight dollars a pair, and though the difference was quite an item, still the owners reported sales at the price asked. No hay in bulk was in sight this morning, only a little of the baled article. Apples were from four to two dollars a barrel. It looked as if the farmers farmers had not found the range of price for the two above-mentioned products, pigs and apples.

The following were the prices asked this morning:

Eggs—30 and 33 cents a doz.
Butter—28 cents.
Turkeys—$2.
Geese—$1.25 a piece.
Ducks—$1.25 a pair.
Chickens—75c. to $1 a pair.
Potatoes—70c. to 80 cents a bag.
Apples—$2 and $4 a barrel.
Turnips—10 cents a bag.

Small vegetable produce were the usual prices.

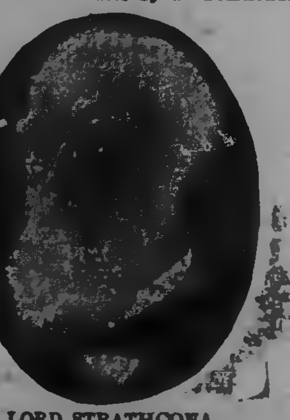
LORD STRATHCONA MAKES ANOTHER GIFT OF $200,000

Lord High Commissioner Writes to Sir Frederick Borden Announcing Further Donation Bringing Military Education Fund up to $500,000.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Lord Strathcona has given another striking evidence of his sterling patriotism and his great generosity. He has written to the Minister of Militia and Defence, Sr Frederick Borden, announcing a further gift of $200,000 to the Strathcona trust for the encouragement of physical and military training in the public schools of Canada. With the $300,000 which he gave for this purpose last year, this further generous gift brings the total of the fund up to the splendid sum of $500,000, and assures the committee in charge of the administration of the fund an annual amount of $20,000 to assist in the joint work of the Federal and Provincial Governments towards the establishment of a uniform system of physical and elementary military training for the youth of the Dominion.

In March of last year Lord Strathcona donated a first sum of $250,000 for this purpose. This was supplemented a little later by an additional $50,0000. Now that the Minister of Militia has completed arrangements with nearly all the provinces for the adoption of a scheme of co-operative action in the matter of making physical training and elementary military drill a part of the education of the boys and girls of Canada, Lord Strathcona has nearly doubled the central fund available for establishing the movement on a permanent and assured basis of success.



LORD STRATHCONA.

The Federal Government has taken over the whole amount from the trustees of the fund, and has guaranteed interest at four per cent. per annum, thus giving an annual amount of $20,000 to be administered by the Strathcona Trust Fund Board under the conditions of the original donation.

The object of the fund may be briefly set forth by a quotation from Lord Strathcona's letter of March 13, 1909, announcing his first gift of $250,000. His Lordship then wrote:

"My object is not only to help to improve the physical and intellectual capabilities of the children by inculcating habits of alertness, orderliness and prompt obedience, but also to bring up the boys in patriotism and to a realization that the first duty of a free citizen is to be prepared to defend his country. The Dominion at the present time, and for many years to come, can hardly hope to be able to give so long a period of training to her military forces as by itself would suffice to make them efficient soldiers, but if all the boys had acquired a fair acquaintance while at school with simple military drill and rifle-shooting, the degree of efficiency which could be reached in the otherwise short period which can be devoted to the military training of the Dominion forces would, in my opinion, be enormously enhanced. I will only add that I should prefer that for the present at least the whole of the money grant should be devoted to those educational establishments which maintained entirely out of public funds. I think further that the administration of the fund should be such as to enable both sexes, whether teachers or pupils, to share in the rewards, and that the allotment of the money should be so made as to afford an inducement both to the teachers to instruct and to the pupils to perfect themselves in the training desired."

ASQUITH WILL TRY TO GET AN ELECTION BEFORE HOLIDAYS

London Political Gossips Think it Very Unlikely That He Will Try to Send His Veto Proposals to Lords, Who'll Daily With Them and Delay Action.

London, Nov. 14.—A Cabinet meeting to-day or to-morrow will decide what step the Government will take to bring the politicial crisis to a focus. The plan most likely to be agreed upon is the immediate dissolution of Parliament. While the Government might send a bill embodying its veto proposals to the House of Lords for consideration, the Lords would certainly reject it, but probably would consume much time in its consideration, and discuss the general question of the reform of the Upper House along the lines suggested by Lord Rosebery last session. Immediate dissolution will save time, and perhaps make possible the holding of the elections before the holidays.

Premier Asquith returned Saturday from Sandringham, where he was in consultation with the King. He left quickly for a brief stay in the country. The other members of the Cabinet are scattered in the provinces. No further steps in arranging the Government's program are likely before the Cabinet meets.

"Home Rule and Home Ruin With American Money," "England for Sale," "Bid Two Hundred Thousand Dollars." These headings appeared yesterday in The Sunday Observer, which first started the campaign of the Conservative press in favor of federal home rule. The paper publishes three columns, denouncing "the unparalleled ignominy of the attempt to wreck the British constitution with American money."

Frederick E. Smith, M.P. for Liverpool, a prominent Conservative, speaking at Brockley Saturday night, ridiculed Premier Asquith, as the successor of Chatham, declaring that he was powerless until the appearance of the uncrowned king of political medicants, with his pockets bulging with American gold.

Redmond Given Ovation.

Queenstown, Nov. 14.—John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, which has been on an extended tour of America, arrived here Saturday night on the steamship Celtic, from New York. There was a big gathering of representatives of public bodies and political parties, as special interest attaches to Mr. Redmond's home-coming with reference to the Nationalists in the present political crisis. Replying to an address of welcome, Mr. Redmond dwelt with enthusiasm on his reception in America.

Like Parnell's Home-Coming.

Cork, Nov. 14.—No such demonstration has been witnessed at Cookhaven since Parnell returned from his American tour in 1880, as the welcome given to John E. Redmond and other members of the Irish deputation, when the steamship Celtic appeared Saturday. Great bonfires burned on all the hilltops, salutes were fired and rockets sent up.

Blames Crisis on Redmond.

Dungarvon, Nov. 14.—Mr. Redmond's American speeches were responsible for the present political crisis, according to William O'Brien, the leader of the faction of the Nationalists opposed to Redmond, in an address here Saturday night. Mr. O'Brien declared that Mr. Redmond had repudiated his own words, and this had stirred up the Tory party to revolt and wreck the veto conference.

COUNT TOLSTOL WENT AWAY TO END LIFE IN SECLUSION

Russian Philosopher's Disappearance Caused His Wife to Attempt Suicide—Count Left Note Saying He Was Going to End His Life in Solitude.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—The Moscow correspondent of The Novoe Vremya says that Count Tolstoi has been found in the Mount Sensky district of Toli Province, on the estate of the Abrikosoffs, well-known manufacturers.

Because of the failure of the family to obtain any trace of Count Tolstoi, who vanished from his home at Yasnaya Poliana some days ago, the aged countess, who has borne him nine children, attempted suicide Saturday by jumping through a hole in the ice. It was her second attempt since her husband disappeared. Her daughter, Alexandra, saw her approach the frozen pond and realized her intentions. Aided by several peasants, she rescued her mother and carried her to the villa.

The disappearance of Count Tolstoi remained a family secret until Saturday. The news became known soon before the sending out of the report that the countess had against attempted suicide. A statement from the family discloses that the count left home in the company of Dr. Makavetsky, an old friend.

COUNT TOLSTOI.

He left a note for the countess in which he wrote:

"I cannot continue longer to live surrounded by luxury, and like many other old men I retire from the world to complete my life in solitude. I ask that you do not seek my place of sojourn and that you do not come to it if it is discovered. I asked forgiveness for the grief that I may cause you."

The count is 82 years old, and it is feared that his great mental powers have suddenly suffered collapse. His reference to living amid luxurious surroundings is significant of his state of mind, as he has long lived the life of a peasant. While his family occupied a substantal mansion on the Yasnaya Poliana estate, Tolstoi abode in a peasant's hut, partaking only of the simple peasant's food, and wearing peasant's costume, a rough blouse, wide trousers tucked into high cowhide boots, a leather belt and fur cap. He made his own boots and cooked his own meals.

Accident to Cafe Car Chef.

Brockville, Nov. 14.—A peculiar accident, and one that was attended with equally heroic methods, occurred on the fast G.T.R. train nearing here. The victim was the chef in charge of the cafe car, whose hands were most painfully burned by contact with boiling grease or fat. Calls for a physician were made, but none happened to be on the train. A young lady responded, and applied the remedy to ease the injuries of the man. The application consisted of antiseptic gause, which was used with soothing effect.

The interesting part of the episode is that the young lady in question was suffering from pulmonary affection, and as a restorative had applied the antiseptic to her ailment. This she quickly released, placing it on the injuries of the suffering man.

MARRIAGE IS UPHELD

Mr. Justice Britton Decides That Michael Fraser is Sane.

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Michael Fraser is sane, according to the judgment handed out by Justice Britton on Saturday. This for a while disposes of the noted suit to annul the marriage of the wealthy 80-year-old farmer of Midland, brought on by his aged maiden cousin, Catharine McCormick.

Old man Fraser, it will be recalled, was the sole survivor of a large family of bachelor brothers, all of whom died rich, and the accumulation of their estates made Michael worth about $80,000. His nearest of kin are Catharine and John McCormick—second cousins.

On Jan. 13 last, old Michael was married to Hannah M. O. Robertson by her father, Rev. Mr. Robertson of Dundas, after a brief acquaintance. It had been arranged by the bride that the marriage was to take place on the September previous, but this was foiled by the McCormicks, who put a guard on the house.

On the morning that the marriage finally took place, Miss Robertson and her father stormed the Fraser house by "rushing" the guards, and the old man was brought out of bed and married to the girl by her father, before he had entirely dressed or washed.

A. McLean Macdonell, K.C., who was associated on behalf of the McCormicks with A. E. Creswicke, K.C., of Barrie, is considering an appeal from the judgment. He has secured a stay during which to take the matter up with his associate and clients. He says the judgment merely means that Fraser is now sane, and doesn't decide that he was of unsound mind when he was married. Nor does it settle the question that he was of sufficient soundness of mind to make a will, which he did shortly after the marriage, leaving, it is understood, practically everything to his young wife.

His lordship reserved the question of costs, "and the parties may speak to it if they desire to do so, in my chambers, and on application I will appoint a day," he added.

EXPRESS COS'. STRIKE SETTLED

New York, Nov. 14.—The strike of drivers and helpers employed by the transcontinental express companies was formally declared off Saturday evening, and it was announced at strike headquarters that the men will return to work Monday. The close of the strike was brought about by the New Jersey strikers, who voted late Saturday evening to accept the terms upon which the companies offered to take back the men. The New York strikers voted Thursday night to accept the company's offer, conditional upon similar action taken across the river.

Mayor Gaynor and Mr. Towne were largely instrumental in inducing the companies to name terms acceptable to the strikers. The agreement provides that the men shall be taken back without discrimination, except for acts of violence during the strike.

CAR STRIKE NEXT ON LIST

New York, Nov. 14.—A bold theft of an express van, containing merchandise worth $50,000, and several attacks by mobs on drivers of express and delivery wagons, occurred Saturday afternoon, giving the police the hardest work they have had for several days in connection with the strike.

Four strikebreakers were arrested, charged with the theft of the van, which belonged to the Adams Express Co.

It is charged that they transferred the goods on the street to two smaller vans, and then drove to a storage warehouse, where they were apprehended at the point of revolvers, as they were starting to put the goods in a vault.

Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and personal representative of Samuel Gompers, said yesterday that the street railway men of this city were ready to go on strike at any moment.

He said that these men have been dissatisfied for a long time, and that committee have been to the American Federation, with requests that they be organized. This work has been going on for six months, Frayne says, and is now complete.

AMERICANS ARE NOT HOPEFUL

Washington, Nov. 14.—The State Department officials, while they have not yet been acquainted with the details of the three-day conferences at Ottawa last week between Canadian and American conferees, looking to a reciprocity agreement, do not expect a general agreement as an immediate result of the conference. The interests of the two countries are too extensive to admit of the violent derangement that might be expected to following a sweeping readjustment.

It is under stood that each side at Ottawa contented itself with submitting a very limited list of articles, upon which the principle of reciprocity might be tried. Included in the Canadian proposal were timber, grain, a whole line of agricultural products, and perhaps live stock and meats. Wood pulp may not be put on the free list, but in any event it is marked for a substantial reduction.

There is reason to believe that the list of articles that Canada offers to admit from American at reduced rates is disappointingly small.

Chopping Machine Burst.

Brussels, Ont., Nov. 14.—James Elliott, an employe in the flour mill of W. & R. A. Pryne, met with a very serious accident here Saturday afternoon. He was running the chopping machine, which burst, and part of it struck him, completely severing his right arm. He is in a critical condition.

No Boat Arrivals.

Port Arthur, Nov. 14.—There were no boat arrivals yesterday, due to heavy gales on the lakes, but no reports have yet been received of any steamers in trouble. The Doric and Gednellah are overdue from the Soo. The Midland Queen is due at midnight, and the Hamonic to-day.

TRAGIC TALES TERSELY TOLD

Train Struck Street Car.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 14.—Eight persons were killed Saturday night, when the Michigan Central express, running five hours late, struck a Main street car. About a dozen were injured, some fatally.

The known dead are: Motorman Ward Abbott, Miss Bertha Hensler, Hazel Hert, James Breeze, William Shaffer, Henry Holtz.

Conductor Vern Vanhorn had gone on the track to flag his car ahead. Standing near the crossing was a string of box cars. Down the yards a short distance was an engine standing near a watertank. Seeing no train in sight, he motioned his car ahead. He had stepped aside to let his car pass, when the train came around a bend at terrific speed. The crash came just as Vanhorn stepped from between the train and his car. He escaped injury, but has been removed to his home, suffering from a nervous collapse.

Telegraphic Pole Broken.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—On Saturday night a few minutes after midnight, Bruce Currie, a buyer in the firm of Lea & Co., who came here a year ago from Toronto, was passing the St. Dominique street entrance to the General Hospital, when a telegraph pole fell down, breaking his back. A policeman who was near at hand carried the injured man into the hospital, where he was able to give his name and address, and shortly after asking that his wife be sent for, he expired. An inquest will be held to-day. Two companions were with Currie at the time of the accident.

Died of Exposure.

Vancouver, Nov. 14.—The strange and sudden death of one of its members, Dr. H. S. Ford of this city, followed a Vancouver hunting party, which had been spending the past ten days in Jervis Inlet, a famous hunting ground 100 miles north of Vancouver. In an attempt to recover a mountain goat which he had shot, he became detached from his companions and their Indian guide last Tuesday morning. It was not until late Thursday afternoon that the party found his lifeless body. He had evidently lost his way in an effort to take a shorter route back to their camp, and died from exposure.

Brutal Child Murder.

Asbury Park, N.J., Nov. 14.—The body of Marie Smith, 10 years old, who has been missing since Wednesday, was found yesterday in a clump of woods not far from her home. The child had been choked and criminally assaulted. An alarm has been sent out for a negro wood-chopper.

In her struggle she had been grasped by the hand with such force, that a gold ring she had worn had been flattened into the flesh. Her arms were badly scratched, and there was a wound in the cartilege of her nose, which must have been caused by human teeth shut down on it to cut off her breath.

Thomas Williams, known in the neighborhood as Black Diamond, a negro woodchopper, employed by the girl's aunt, had been missing since the day Marie disappeared. He was arrested last night.

Held For Stabbing Woman.

Quebec, Nov. 14.—A man giving his name as Edouard Lafrance, aged 36 years, who states that he is a native of Quebec, but has lived for some years in Toronto, is held upon a charge of stabbing a woman, Cordelia Coburn, at the door of a house on Ste. Cecile street, Saturday evening. The man gives every indication of being mentally deranged. After the assault the unfortunate woman fell backward into the passage, while the assailant made off.

Dr. Faucher was hastily summoned, and, after dressing the wound, had the woman conveyed to the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where she is now a patient. The wound, although a painful one, is not considered dangerous, and no fatal effect is anticipated.

Wheel Flew Off..

San Antonio, Texas, Nov. 14.—Tobin De Hymel, a widely-known driver of racing automobiles, was killed in the races here Saturday, when his car lost a wheel. He drove in the last Vanderbilt cup race in New York, and was known as the big Aztec Indian driven.

De Hymel was rounding a curve at a furious clip, when a front wheel flew off, and the car crashed into an embankment. De Hymel was thrown clear of the car some distance down the track. When track attendants reached him he was dead, with the broken steering wheel clutched tightly in his hands.

ANOTHER HUGE PLANT FOR SOO

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 14.—Manager W. C. Franz of the Lake Superior Corporation, stated yesterday morning that arrangements had been made for the installation of a paper mill here, valued at $1,000,000, although nothing definite is given as to the site. The fact that the Lake Superior Corporation has arranged for the improvement of the water front from the ship canal to Bruce street would lead to the belief that the new paper mill is to be constructed in that vicinity. This contradicts the rumor that an American syndicate had arranged for the construction of a paper mill in the Soo.

Saturday the blast furnaces of the Lake Superior Corporation made another record, turning out 680 tons of bessemer iron. The former record for one day was 676 tons, and the average for the past month was 652 tons per day.

FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Frank Leland, formerly watchman in a signal tower at Wood's Siding near this city on the C.P.R., was convicted of manslaughter in the Assizes Saturday. Sentence was deferred.

Leland was very drunk on duty on Sept. 10, when the local train from Winnipeg approached the crossing of the C.N.R. at a siding. He threw the switch as the train approached and derailment ensued. Fireman Samson Pattison jumped, but was crushed to death under the locomotive.

Leland was arrested at once, and the crown had no difficulty in proving that the fatality was due to his negligence. His only excuse was that he was drunk. The evidence went to show that he was not only intoxicated, but was quarrelsome and disobedient.

FIRST COLORED KING'S COUNSEL

Toronto, Nov. 14.—Among the batch of new K.C.'s is Delos R. Davis of Amherstburg, a colored man, and understood to be the first of the African race to hold the title in Canada. He is six feet tall and built in proportion.

Mr. Davis is not the only colored lawyer in Ontaro, as his son, F. H. A. Davis, practices law in Amherstburg.

The new K.C. became a solicitor in 1886 and was called to the Bar in 1888. He graduated with the assistance of a petition to the benchers, who divided on the question.

Not Belle Elmore.

Alix, Alta., Nov. 14.—The bottom has fallen out of the Crippen yarn. The woman who was a victim of epileptic fits and extremely nervous, has proven her identity to the entire satisfaction of the authorities.

LODGE GIVES UP CHARTER

Emancipation of Montreal Has Ceased to Exist—Under French Orient.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—The Temple of Masonry brought here from old France in 1896 has fallen, and nothing remains to tell the tale. In other words, the famous branch of the Grand Orient, known as the Emancipation, which met with more or less success in French Canada during the past fourteen years, has ceased to exist, and the charter has been returned to Cadet street, Paris, the headquarters of the Grand Orient in France.

From the start in 1896, the Emancipation had a stormy career in this city, for it was recognized at the outset that the prejudices of the people against Masonry in any form were so strong, that the greatest caution would have to be taken. The membership, however, rose to three hundred, and there were never less than seventy-five active members of the lodge, which was recruited from the professional and literary classes. In fact, the office of venerable, the highest official position in the organization, was always held by prominent and influential citizens.

The members of the Emancipation felt that they were handicapped by the fact that there were no officials or other relations between the Grand Orient and the English and Scotch Rites, as a visit from one organization to the other was absolutely forbidden.

So, after a good deal of consideration, French Masonry was banished from Canada and most of the members have since been allied to the various English lodges, all persecution being voided by this latest alliance with the powerful English-speaking organization.

Queen's Students Parade.

Kingston, Nov. 14.—Saturday night was a big night for the Queen's students, when the annual parade was held from the college grounds around the main streets of the city. The Varsity boys, who were here for the games, joined in with Queen's and enjoyed the fun. Several large floats were in line, and students appeared in all sorts of garbs. After the parade they rushed the theatre.

FISHER SAILS FOR AMERICA

Liverpool, Nov. 14.—Admiral Lord Fisher was a passenger on the steamship Baltic, which sailed from Liverpool Saturday. He goes to the United States to attend the wedding of his son, the Hon. Cecil Vacassour Fisher, and Miss Jane Morgan of Philadelphia.

Pelletier In Virginia.

Fort Monroe, Va., Nov. 14.—Sir Alphonse S. Pelletier, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, and his military aide, Capt. Victor Pelletier, arrived here Saturday from New York. The Lieutenant-Governor is making the trip for his health.

LATE TICKS FROM WIRES

Oscar Johnson, a sailor on a schooner, fell over the vessel's side at Kingston Saturday night, and had his spine broken. He will die.

Clarke Woods, who killed Hector Murray by striking him with a bottle, was sentenced at Red Deer, Alta., to ten years' imprisonment.

The dead body at St. Thomas, identified as that of William Brandow of Kingsmill, turns out to be that of Benj. Taylor of Melbourne. Brandow is alive and well.

Rev. Father Guertin, parish priest, yesterday flatly accused the authorities of Hull of boosting the city's population, in order to attach extra license to the list.

The British Admiralty has invited tenders from Clyde shipbuilders for the construction of a large armored cruiser with speed and gun power surpassing any vessel in the navy.

Mayor Guerin presided at a meeting of Herbrews in Montreal, which adopted a resolution, asking the Minister of Justice not to allow the extradition to Russia of Federenko, who shot a policeman in Russia some time ago.

Walter Croskill, aged 65, Government weather observer at Medicine Hat, was found dead in his office chair yesterday. When the usual weather report was not received at the telegraph office, enquiries were instituted.

SHERIFF ROBERT BRODDY DEAD

Brampton, Nov. 14.—Robert Broddy, for forty-five years sheriff of the County of Peel, died at his home here last evening. He was 88 years of age. Born in the County of Peel, he spent his whole life within its borders. As a young man he was division court clerk, before the separation of York and Peel. He was appointed sheriff by the old Conservative administration, and is said to be the last of the officials appointed prior to Confederation.

Possessed of excellent judgment, cautionness and strict integrity, for many years he was a central figure in the public and judicial life of the county, and had the confidence of a very large percentage of the people.

COPPERS COME BACK

While we may be sending out many thousands of dollars each year in money orders to countries across the seas, the result will come back in the shape of folks who realize that Canada is a good country to live in, and not one of the dollars will be lost to Canada.

They will all come back. — Ottawa Free Press.

That's one thing that money does. It always comes back. That's what makes the principal difference between a Canuck and a Yankee. The Canadian nurses his change altogether too carefully! "Will I!" while he ponders and wonders and sleeps over the thing, some one else has jumped in and the sleeper awakes too late. Loosen up people, pass the change along. What makes Xmas better and brighter? Because money is moving. Can't we have more Christmas times through the year. Pass on the change. You'll get it back.

TAG DAY

The labor is over now. The money has been harvested. The workers are again at their common round of daily duty. Tag Day in Peterborough will soon be forgotten. But many a tear will be wiped away, many a hope will be kindled, many a fresh chance in life will be created. Some GREAT MAN may rise from wretched youth. Some NOBLE WOMAN may come out from the rut and the rubbish just because some one planned and many hands labored on Saturday, November 12—Tag Day.

THE GIFT OF SONG

Miss Davies never sang with more thrilling effect than she did last night at St. Paul's church. It is a GIFT from the gods this power to sing. Many a person with the charm and voice of Miss Davies would have taken to the footlights, where success would have crowned her efforts and monetary gain far beyond the dreams of a vocalist of Peterborough would have filled her purse. Too bad that the lure of the stage or concert tour robs us of so many of our splendid voices. They no longer are open to sing for the common people. They sing to the elect who pay.

The human voice in song is a power. It soothes the pain and binds up the wounds. It is a GIFT, and one without the GIFT had better let it alone for the sake of peace and happiness in the home and district. For every one who can sing there are a hundred who only make a noise. We prefer the trained and soulful voice to the orchestra or Grand Opera chorus. We are bere. The Voice is there and the ether alone between us.

A LIBERAL ADMISSION

A curious admission of weakness has appeared in part of the Liberal press. One of the planks in the famous platform of 1896 was Senate Reform. The Liberals got in. They reformed the Senate by straightway appointing Liberals as Senators and when reproached for neglecting to keep their promise thought it a good joke to reply that the appointment of Liberals was a sufficient measure of Senate Reform. Fourteen years have gone by and not one move has been made towards reform. Now the Montreal Herald, the Kingston Whig and the Toronto Globe have suddenly begun to talk senate reform. The Globe, for example, is quite sad because there are only twenty-two senators out of more than eighty, who are Conservative and these are advanced in years; it begins to apprehend the Senate may be solidly Liberal—a development which it pretends to regard as undesirable. It is time, it says, to start in on that Senate reform.

These papers have steadily supported the Liberal party in its cynical repudiation of its pledges of reform. Few will be simple enough to think that they care one whit for a just representation of the parties in the Senate. The meaning of the move simply is that they apprehend a Conservative victory in 1912; that they know that the moment it is out of power the Federal Liberal party will go to pieces as decisively and as thoroughly as the Ontario Liberal party did after its defeat in 1905; and that they look forward to a long period of Conservative rule during which, if the Conservatives prove as cynical and as determined to use all patronage for party purposes as they have been, the Senate will in turn be filled with Conservatives. To head this off they now begin to think of Senate Reform, so that the last act of the Laurier Government would be to rearrange the Senate so that during the coming years of opposition the Liberals will have a fairer representation than has been alloted to the Conservatives. Thus they would use all the patronage during their day of power and deprive the incoming Conservative Government of patronage.

The chief interest of this proposal naturally lies in the implied confession of the Liberal expectation that after the next election the party will be out of power. Senate Reform on proper lines assuredly would be welcomed by the Conservative party, which has a straight record for keeping its pre-election promises.

THE NEWSPAPER

Why do you print such horrible stories? Why do you print the police court proceedings? We don't want to read sermons. What good are personals? The Crippen case is degrading, no paper would print that that had any respect for itself. Why do report the prize fights? Who wants to read sport? So one day we fell asleep and dreamed, and we dreamed we published a paper that displeased no one, and it looked like this—

THE DAILY REVIEW.

Then we woke up. We do not see how that a paper can be published to please everyone, and not being able to please everyone, we must publish legal, lawful, human interest news, offending some, pleasing some, and trying to interest all. Here is how the English journals treated the Crippen case. We clip from 'Public Opinion.'—

"The eagerness of the public to read murder trials may be a lamentable but it is not to be denied," says the Observer. "In the papers the Crippen case has pushed everything else to one side. Up to Saturday morning the principal journals had devoted space to it in the following proportions—

	Columns
Times	25
Morning Post	26 1-2
Standard	34 1-2
Daily Telegraph	43 1-2
Daily Mail	28
Daily Chronicle	29 1-2
Daily News	28 1-2
Daily Express	36
Morning Leader	25

—a total which is at least adequate. It is improbable that any murder trial ever attracted so much newspaper attention before.

The London Star says that it sold 1,000,000 copies of its issue on Saturday containing the verdict.

The newspaper is but the mirror of the hour. If it's prayers they want they'll pray. If it's murder they'll murder. That's all there is to it. People don't read editorials to find out how to vote nowadays. They read the paper generally for the news and ads.

THE LASH

We have virtually abolished the whipping-post as brutal, degrading, demoralizing, and in every way antagonistic to the modern spirit of penology. Very well; what do we substitute for it? The human animal who is caught amusing himself by torturing his wife and his children is either fined, sent to jail for a period of months or both fined and sent to jail. All this as a punishment; who pays it? In nine cases out of ten the brunt of it falls on the wife and the children; if there is a family of small children, it falls with ten times the weight on the wife who participates in the situation as mother as well. A fine means that the family income is that much diminished; the corollary being, in theory, that the wife-beating husband will work overtime to make up for it.—Montreal Star.

We believe in the lash and short sentence. We further believe in laying it on hard. What mercy should the court show a brute that knocks his wife down and kicks his children? Lambaste the brute and turn him loose as soon as he heals and if he abuses his wife again, why lambaste him again. If there was more beating for abusing the family there would be a marked reformation in this line. Every town has a wife-beater? We have them here. Every large city has scores. Beat the wife beater and you cure the evil.

TROUSERS WITHOUT HOLES

We gather from the Lethbridge Herald that Balzac had his loafing trousers made without holes at the bottom so that he wouldn't need to be bothered with the cry "where are my slippers?" That's all right for Balzac, he was a genius. If we acted that way we would be sent up under Joe Dowsey's care at Orillia or off to the top of the mountain at Hamilton, or to Rockwood, near Kingston.

We common people are not much concerned about the bottom of our trousers except when they ravel. Then we turn them up.

It's great to be a genius. You can wear what you like, green tie, brown shirt, red vest, anything you like—say what you like, act silly or wise and the excuse is: "Oh, that's Mr. Blank, the great man." Just now the average man is not worrying about his trousers. He's wondering how he is to get that coal bin full and keep it full during the winter.

HUNTING TALES

Cornwall, Nov. 10.—The best deer story of the season in this district comes from the South side of the St. Lawrence river. The other day James Dudley and Henry Packard shot a fine big buck in the South Meadows district, and when the former attempted to cut the animal's throat it kicked out with all four legs and Dudley got a blow in the eye which may blind him for life. Packard butted in with his knife as the deer struggled to its feet, but received a kick which broke his knee cap and tore his trousers. This vicious deer escaped unhurt.

This is the season for liars, the fishing season has closed and members of the Ananias Club are now in the woods.

We believe that in the heavenly archive the lies told when the hunter returns from a hunting or fishing trip are only written in invisible ink.

But the liar with a motive, the liar who goes out of his way to undermine a man or woman; the liar who lies because he likes lies, we believe that there's a hot spot with no ice for him, somewhere, sometime, for him and for her.

ROCKEFELLER

Rockefeller's income for 1910 will be only $70,000,000. Looks as if they would have to cut out the Christmas tree this year.

"It is harder for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven."—Jesus Christ.

However, hasn't Rockefeller given away hundreds of millions. Hasn't he made it possible to fight the hook worm, that great pest of the south? Hasn't he reduced the price of coal oil? It was fifty cents a gallon once, Now it's only about half that.

Damn it, a Rockefeller or no one else, has a right to have that sized income. But sitting in our room quietly wondering where the rent is coming from, wondering where the coal money is, wondering where our winter overcoat is to be bought, we would be Rockefellers to-morrow if we only had the chance. But hard to say, both Carnegie and Rockefeller are both getting old. Some day they'll die like the rest of us. The only difference will be the size of the notices in the papers and the grave and stone. But the corpse don't care a rap.

JIM AND HIS LITTLE ROAST

My opinion is that at certain times in the history of the Young Men's Christian Association the officers feel the need of money. They ask the citizens for it, the business men organize a campaign, and the money is raised, and after the excitement cools down the Young Men's Christian Association rests quietly on its oars until it is time to commence another campaign for money.

Building fine buildings for the association, equipping modern gymnasiums for athletic purposes, providing swimming baths and Turkish fine reading rooms and training a champion team of basketball players or hockey players are good things in themselves, but how many souls do they save for the kingdom? How many young men do they lift out of the gutter? How many young men do they arrest in their downward career of intemperance, immorality or crime? How many young men do they bring in off the streets and turn their attention to things that are useful and good instead of following things that are silly, nonsensical and vile.

Are all the young men who spend their nights in the bar-rooms, billiard-rooms, concert halls, and on the street corners being urged to desert these places and join the Young Men's Christian Association?

Are all the strangers in the city being invited to their rooms? Are all the down-hearted and discouraged young men out of work being helped, assisted and encouraged?

If they are, then the Young Men's Christian Association is returning full value for the money granted it. If they are not, then it is up to the association to get busy.—Jim Livingston in Grimsby Independent.

Jim, we are afraid you are a sorehead. We never belonged to the Y.M.C.A., but we believe if you were to spend a short while in a Y.M.C.A. bath and take a brisk rub down you might get some of the poison from your system. The Y.M.C.A. in Peterborough is doing great work. No one ever got a big head at the Y.M.C.A. and no one ever "fed the birds" there. The Y.M.C.A. is as great as et for any and if it succeeds in keeping one young fellow in a town right, and sets him fairly on life's way, it has done enough to justify its existence. But its influence extends not to the ones, but to the millions. Jim, you're in wrong, roll over and wake up.

The Riverman

By Stewart Edward White

Chapter 1

THE time was the year 1872 and the place a bend in the river above a long pond terminating in a dam. Beyond this dam and on a flat lower than it stood a two story mill structure. A crew of lumbermen lounged about two fires at the upper end of the pond—idle because of the strong adverse wind and the unexpected weakness of the current, which had arrested the progress of their thousands of logs. Suddenly a solitary figure appeared around a river bend. His progress was jerky and on an uneven zigzag, according as the logs lay, by leaps, short runs, brief pauses, as a riverman goes. Finally he stepped ashore just below the camp, stamped his feet vigorously free of water and approached the group around the cooking fire.

The newcomer was a man somewhere about thirty years of age, squarely built, big of bone, compact in bulk. His face was burly, jolly and reddened rather than tanned by long exposure. A pair of twinkling blue eyes and a humorously quirked mouth redeemed his countenance from commonplaceness. "Well, boys," he remarked at last in a rollicking big voice, "I'm glad to see the situation hasn't spoiled your appetites."

Tom North, in charge of the lumbermen, rose. He and the newcomer, who was Jack Orde, his principal, sauntered to the water's edge, where they stood for a minute looking at the logs and the ruffled expanse of water below. "It's a pity that old mossback had to put in a mill," said Orde. "The water was slack enough before, but now there seems to be no current at all."

"Case of wait for the wind," agreed Tom North. "Old Daly will be redheaded. He must be about out of logs at the mill, and I expect Johnson's drive will be down on our rear most any time."

"It's there already. Let's go take a look," suggested Orde.

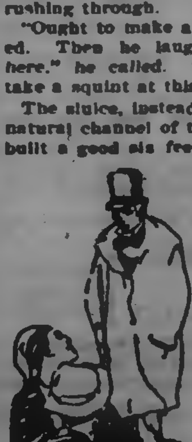
They picked their way around the edge of the pond to the site of the new mill.

"Sluice open all right," commented Orde.

Orde walked out on the structure and looked down on the smooth water rushing through.

"Ought to make a draw," he reflected. Then he laughed. "Tom, look here," he called. "Climb down and take a squint at this."

The sluice, instead of bedding at the natural channel of the river, had been built a good six feet above that level; so that, even with the gates wide open, a "head" of six feet was retained in the slack water of the pond.



"You haven't been square," said Orde.

"No wonder we couldn't get a draw," said Orde. "Let's hunt up old What's-his-name and have a powwow."

"His name is plain Reed," explained North. "There he comes now."

The owner of the dam flapped into view as a lank and lengthy white haired individual dressed in loose, long clothes and wearing atop a battered old plug hat.

"You haven't been square," said Orde. "You aren't letting us get our logs out."

"How so?" snapped the owner, his thin lips tightening.

"That sluice is a good six foot too high."

"Is that so!" cried the old man excitedly. "Well, I'm giving you all the law gives you, and that's the natural flow of the river, and not a thing more will you get."

Somewhat astonished at this outbreak, the two rivermen stood for a moment staring at the old man. Then a steely glint crept into Orde's frank blue eye and the corners of his mouth tightened.

"We want no trouble with you, Mr. Reed," said Orde. "But this is the only dam on the river with sluices built up that way, and I do know that we'll never get those logs out if we don't get more draw on the water. Good day."

Followed by the reluctant North, he walked away.

Chapter 2

THE next morning dawned clear and breathless. As soon as the wind died the logs had begun to drift slowly out into the open water. The surface of the pond was covered with the scattered timbers floating idly. After a few moments the clank of the bars and ratchet was heard as two of the men raised the heavy sluice gate on the dam.

Four more had by this time joined the two men who had raised the gate, and all together, armed with long pike poles, walked out on the funnel shaped booms that should concentrate the logs into the chute. Here they prodded forward the few timbers within reach and waited patiently for more.

Jack Orde wandered back and forth over the work, his hands clasped behind his back, a short pipe clinched between his teeth. To the edge of the drive he rode the logs, then took to the bank and strolled down to the dam. Meeting Tom North's troubled glance, he grinned broadly.

"Told you we'd have Johnson on our necks," he remarked, jerking his thumb up river toward a rapidly approaching figure.

This soon defined itself as a tall individual with a choleric blue eye.

"What in hades is the matter here?" he yelled. "We're right at your rear, and you ain't even made a start gettin' through this dam! We'll lose the water next!"

"By your own folly shall ye perish."

"Keep your shirt on," advised Orde. "If you want these logs pushed any faster, do it yourself."

"If you can't get out logs, why do you take the job?" roared Johnson. "If you hang my drive, blank you, you'll catch it for damages! I tell you our mills need logs, and, what's more, they're a-goin' to git them!"

He departed in a rumble of vituperation.

Orde found the old mill owner occupying a chair tilted back against the wall of the building. His ruffled plug hat was thrust, as usual, well away from his high and narrow forehead. He was whittling a pine stick, which he held pointing down between his spread knees, and conversing animatedly with a young fellow occupying another chair at his side.

"I want to talk this matter over," Orde began. "We can't afford to hang up the drive, and the water is going down every day. We've got to have more water. I'll tell you what we'll do: If you'll let us cut down the new sill we'll replace it in good shape when we get all our logs through."

"No, sir!"

"Well, we'll give you something for the privilege. What do you think is fair?"

"I tell you I'll give you your legal rights and not a cent more," replied the old man.

"Well, Mr. Reed, stop and think what this means," returned Orde. "No logs means no lumber. That is bankruptcy for a good many who have contracts to fulfill. And no logs means the mills must close. Thousands of men will be thrown out of their jobs, and a good many of them will go hungry. And with the stream full of the old cutting, that means less to do next winter in the woods—more men thrown out. Getting out a season's cut with the flood water is a pretty serious matter to a great many people, and if you insist on holding us up here in this slack water the situation will soon become alarming."

The old man brought to earth the front legs of his chair with a thump.

"And if the whole kit and caboodle of ye starved outright," said he, "it would but be the fulfillin' of the word of the prophet who says: 'So will I send upon you famine and evil beasts, and they shall bereave thee, and pestilence and blood shall pass through thee, and I will bring the sword upon thee. I the Lord have spoken it!' And don't forget that. Ye that make of God's smilin' land waste places and a wilderness by your own folly shall ye perish."

Orde whirled on his heel.

The young man, who sat an interested spectator, arose and joined him. He was a very slender young man, with a shrewd, thin face, steel gray eyes.

"Wait a minute," said the young fellow. "Have you any objections to my hanging around a little to watch the work? My name is Newmark—Joseph Newmark. I'm out in this country a good deal for my health. This thing interests me."

"Sure," replied Orde, puzzled. "Look all you want to. The scenery's free."

"Yes. But can you put me up?"

"Oh, as far as I'm concerned," agreed Orde heartily. "But," with one of his contagious chuckles, "I'm only river boss. You'll have to fix it up with the doctor—the cook, I mean," he explained, as Newmark looked puzzled. "You'll find him at camp."

In the center of the stream the work had been gradually slowing down to a standstill with the subsidence of the first rush of water after the sluice gate was opened. Tom North, leaning gracefully against the shaft of a peavy, looked up eagerly as Orde approached.

"Is it peace or war?"

"War," replied Orde briefly.

Chapter 3

AT this moment the cook stepped into view and sent across the water a long, weird and not unmusical cry. The men at once began slowly to drift in the direction of the camp. There, when the tin plates had all been filled, Orde addressed them.

"Boys," said he, "the old mossback has built up the sill of that gate until we can't get a draw on the water, and he refuses to give, lend or sell us the right to cut her out. Now, we've got to get those logs out. Johnny Sims, what's the answer?"

"Cut her out," grinned Sims.

"Correct, replied Orde, with a chuckle. "But it's against the law to interfere with another man's property."

This was so obviously humorous in intent that its only reception consisted of more grins from everybody.

"The nearest sheriff's at Spruce Rapid," commented some one philosophically.

"We have sixty men, all told," said Orde. "We ought to be able to carry it through."

He filled his plate and walked across to a vacant place. Here he found himself next to Newmark.

"Hello!" he greeted that young man, "Fixed it with the doctor all right?"

"Yes," replied Newmark, "thanks. I think I ought to tell you that the sheriff is not at Spruce Rapids, but at the village—expecting trouble."

Orde roared in delight.

"Boys," he called, "old Plug Hat's got the sheriff right handy. Has he a posse?" inquired Orde of Newmark.

"I didn't see any, but I heard that the governor had been advised to hold troops in readiness."

At last Orde's face cleared, and he slapped down his tin plate violently.

"I have it!" he cried aloud.

He instructed a half dozen men to provide themselves with saws, axes, picks and shovels and march toward the mill.

When near the structure the riverman saw the lank, black figure of the mill owner mount a bony old horse and clatter away into the forest.

Orde rapidly designated ten men of his crew. "You make things hum. Get as much done as you can before the sheriff comes, and when that sheriff comes I want you to go peaceably. Understand?"

"Cave in? Not much!" cried Purdy.

"See here," and Orde drew them aside in earnest conversation. When he had finished he clapped each of them on the back, and all moved off, laughing, to the dam.

"Now, boys," he commanded the others, "no row without orders. If there's going to be a fight I'll give the word."

The chopping crew descended to the bottom of the sluice, the gate of which had been shut, and began immediately to chop away at the apron.

The work had continued nearly an hour when Orde commanded the fifty or more idlers back to camp.

To be continued.

Plural Homesteading.

Tisdale, Sask., Nov. 12.—Quite a stir was caused here by the enquiry conducted by E. C. Leech, of the Dominion Land Department, into cases where plural homesteading was suspected.

William Johnson Boyd admitted that he had four homesteads at Wapella, Neepawa, Dauphin and Tisdale, his explanation regarding the last one at Tisdale being that the three other ones were poor land. Evidence heard showed that Boyd had proved on previous homesteads, and had been duly sworn when making application for the entry at Tisdale.

Similar cases are afoot against J. F. Boyd, Samuel Johnson Boyd, jr., and Jacob J. Cathers. All these parties came west from Ontario in 1877, and the modus operandi lay in getting additional homesteads by dropping one of the Christian names.

SERGT. S. SHARPE GONE TO HIS LAST BIOUVAC: HE HAS FINISHED HIS COURSE FROM "TAPS TO REVILLE"

Early Sunday morning death claimed Samuel C. Sharpe, at the age of fifty. His death was not entirely unexpected, he having suffered with a lingering illness for several months, but nevertheless his demise has occasioned a general and sympathetic feeling of regret in the community.

The late Mr. Sharpe was almost a life long resident of the city, where he carried on the business of a painter. He was a member of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, I. O. O. F., and formerly belonged to the old Volunteer Fire Brigade. He was also a prominent and active non-commissioned officer of the 57th Regiment, and was the possessor of a long-service medal for twenty years of military service.

There are left to mourn his loss his widow and two daughters, Irene and Ruby living at home with his mother, two brothers, William and Joseph of Peterborough, three sisters, Mrs. Arthur Tebb of Vancouver, B. C., Mrs. Samuel Crawford of Toronto, and Mrs. Thos. Emmerson of Peterborough.

The funeral of the late Mr. Sharpe will be a military one. It will be under the direction of the 24th Field Battery and the local Oddfellows. The firing party will be chosen from members of the 57th Regiment. The regiment will assemble at the Armouries at two o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, and headed by the brass and bugle bands march to the residence of the deceased, and from thence to Little Lake cemetery.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH METHODISTS ARE MAKING SPECIAL EFFORT; FINE MEETINGS YESTERDAY

Rarely has an evangelistic service in Peterborough been attended with better results or been more rich in Christian experience than that which was held in St. James' Methodist church on Sunday morning. It was almost impossible to resist the pleading appeals of the evangelist, Rev. Mr. Whiteside, as he told the beautiful story of the power of Jesus Christ to forgive sin. The very spirit of repentance seemed to descend like a mantle upon the assembly. Many were those who took the stand for Christ, thus evidencing their desire to lead a better life.

He illustrated his address by comparing sin when it enters into the human heart to the appearance which pure water assumes when it is mixed with other chemicals used to darken it. The comparison was very striking and suitable, and made an apparently deep impression on the children present. The reverend gentleman had the chemicals right there with him to produce the "wonder."

God made man in His own image, and if we allow sin to wreck and darken our lives then indeed we are violating all the commandments of God. By the sin of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, sin has come down upon us. Yet, there are some men who indulge in sin full-conscious of it. There are men who drink whiskey who know it is not going to do them any good; yet they go and pay five and ten cents for it as long as they have the money. The only way to be safe is to turn your eyes from sin and never look at it again.

The Bible says we must be converted and become as little children. A man will say "I do not need to be converted; I do not swear or drink. I pay all my debts and go to church." But this alone will not save a man.

Many people, when convinced of their sin, seek to cover it up, to forget it; and still remain unconverted.

The speaker showed the great benefit of being early converted to God. The best men and women that he ever met were those who gave themselves to God when little children.

Mr. Whiteside, at the opening of the service, sang a solo entitled "The Sparrow," and accompanied himself on the guitar.

At the conclusion of the service cards were distributed, on which all those who had evidenced their desire to live a Christian life were asked to sign their names, to enable the pastor to administer spiritual help to them in the days to come.

WITNESSES IDENTIFY STOLEN ARTICLES

Frank Beal Remanded to Jail for Another Week—Evidence of a Spree

Frank Beal, charged with theft, back to jail for another week.

He was arrested by P.C. Newhall at the C.P.R. station Sunday week, on a charge of stealing a coat and vest, two razors and 60 cents, from the White House, and received a hearing at the police court this morning.

Mr. Basil Hall acted in the interests of the prisoner. County Crown Attorney Wood prosecuted.

Mr. Gus White, proprietor of the White House, told of the prisoner coming to the hotel on Friday. Witness showed him to his room.

Saturday afternoon Beal stated that he would take up a boarding house and would settle his account with his first pay.

ARTICLES IDENTIFIED.

Leslie McKeen, a guest at the hotel, identified the coat and vest as his property. The suit, purchased in June cost him $30.

Robt. Anson, another guest, identified the two razors as his property.

Samuel Jay, proprietor of a second-hand store, Aylmer street, told of the prisoner coming to his premises Saturday afternoon, Nov. 5, about three o'clock.

He wore the coat under an overcoat, and offered it and the vest for sale. The price was $1.25. He gave his address as 195 George street. Later, and during the absence of the witness, prisoner called again, offering the razors, but no transaction was made.

The police got wind of the whereabouts of the razors at another place where they were left on his receiving fifty cents, after he had given his name as F. J. Barker, of 195 Charlotte street.

SIGNS OF A SPREE.

Mr. White was recalled by prisoner's counsel, to whom he stated that the prisoner, on his arrival at the hotel, looked like a man who had been on a spree. He seemed unstrung.

Mr. Hall submitted that the prisoner had come from Toronto, where he had been on a week's spree. He continued it on his arrival here. Certificates as to his reputation had been written for last Friday, to a Toronto firm, but had not yet arrived. He was willing to make restitution if given his liberty. He could have taken a position at AcAkerman's on Monday, had he not been arrested on Sunday.

County Crown Attorney Wood submitted that the prisoner was mixed up in a case of theft at the National hotel on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The chief answered to his Worship that he had no record against the prisoner. He had another matter to look up, and asked for a further remand of a week.

TOURING IN OLD BIBLE LANDS

VISIT TO ANCIENT JERICHO AND THE JORDAN

Continuation of Descriptive Articles on the Holy Land by Charlotte K. Taylor.

The "Descender" just describes the Jordan. It is a river that descends without any qualification. It rises in Mount Hermon at 1706 feet above sea level and when it enters the Dead Sea it is 1292 feet below sea level which with its height, 1706 feet above sea level makes a descent in all of 2,998 feet, or nearly 3,000 feet. Another great characteristic besides its steep descent is its innumerable turnings and turnings. This was pithily described by a school boy in a Winchester College exam. "Describe the course of the Jordan," was the question set him, and this was his answer: "The Jordan is a river which runs straight down the middle of the map of Palestine, but if you look at it very closely it wriggles around." It is illustrated by the fact that while from the Sea of Galilee to the Dead Sea (between which seas the Jordan runs) the distance as the bee flies is only 60 miles yet the actual length of the river owing to its numerous windings is really 185 miles.

THE JORDAN VALLEY

I filled with Jordan water the pilgrim's ten bottles I had brought with me for that purpose. Last time I had only a glass bottle and on the homeward journey it got broken with the result that the loose linen in which I had wrapped it for protection, looked as if stained with strong coffee, so muddy is the water. No wonder that Naaman, the Syrian, preferred to wash in the sparkling waters of his own beautiful Abana, which I have also visited, at Damascus, and about which I hope to tell you in some of my future articles to the Review.

We drove back to lunch at our hotel, passing by the Gilgal Hill, Tell Gilgil, the ancient Gilgal of Joshua iv. and v., where the Israelites were circumcised by Joshua, and the seventh passover, after leaving the wilderness, was kept, and where, also, Joshua set up the twelve stones which were taken out of Jordan. The spot is well marked by a fine terebinth tree.

After lunch and an hour's rest for the horses we drove away to see Elisha's spring and Ancient Jericho, distant from the modern Jericho about one and a half or two miles. I saw more verdure in this drive than we have done since leaving England. Golden oranges were hanging on the trees, reminding one of the orange groves at Jaffa or Joppa on a small scale. Roses, high and luxuriant, tossed their delicious fragrance on the air. Bananas grew in abundance, and we drove through green lanes, which reminded me of England. Among the trees which bordered them, Mr. Hughes pointed out one which interested. A large spreading sycamore the kind of tree into which Zaccheus climbed that he might see Jesus Jesus Christ when He passed through Jericho. (Luke xix. 4.) The broad low trunk and branches are well fitted for this, and it's a common tree all over Palestine. It bears an abundant crop of figs two and three times in the year, which are eaten by the poorest of the people. The fruit has one peculiarity, it will not ripen till the juice is let loose by an incision being made in the fruit. The lowest of the laborers earn a mere livelihood by doing this, and the prophet, Amos, in assuring the haughty high priest, Jeroboam, of the humble position from which God had called him to prophesy to Israel when he says "I was a puncturer of sycamore trees." (Amos vii. 14).

Growing conspicuously too, amid all this tangle of green, was the Nubk, or long thorn of Palestine, called the Spina Christi, because from it the Saviour's crown of thorns is said to have been made. I gathered a long trail of it, which would just twist into such a crown, and I have it above me as I write, under an old Italian fourteenth century painting of the crucifixion. We had a great deal to occupy us that afternoon. First we descended at Elisha's Spring, where a beautiful, copious, sparkling supply of water lay gleaming in the reservoir, which has been built for it of late years, and for which one is almost sorry, it made such a picturesque rivulet before bursting from under the big mound of Old Jericho. This is the spring so famous, first in Bible history as the Salt and Hackish Spring, whose waters were healed by Elisha, the prophet. (2 Kings II. 18-22). And of which old Josephus writes, "there is a fountain by Jericho that runs plentifully; it blasted earth and trees, but was made very wholesome and fruitful by Elisha, the prophet." We dipped in our cups and found it exactly as it was in Elisha's day 2,800 years ago, and in the time of Josephus, eighteen and a half centuries ago, "very wholesome and sweet." I brought away a little Pilgrim's bottle full, that friends in England may taste it, too. Josephus is full of admiration for this sparkling stream, and tells us in his "Wars of the Jews" "the power of it is great in watering the ground and it waters a large space of ground, a plain of seventy furlongs long and twenty broad, so that he who would pronounce this place to be divine would not be mistaken, the cause of which seems to me to be the fertility of these waters."

This spring is also famous through Sir Walter Scott's well known novel, "The Talisman," the scene of whose opening chapters one, two and three is beside this diamond or eye of the desert, the "Ain es Sultan," or Spring of the Sultan, beside which the great Saladin sits with the knight. This is the only spring in the plain, and so, naturally beside it would be reared the great gigantic fortress Old Jericho, which is commanding the mountain passes of Ai, and possessing the key to the whole north country of Palestine was commanded by the captain of the Lord's arms, to be taken first of all the cities by Joshua, the general. (Joshua V. 5 and VI. 1-2).

The recent excavations of the mound just behind Elisha's Spring, always said to mark the site of Old Jericho, were next examined by us with interest and you will be interested in the photographs which have only just been taken of them, accompanying this article. They are not extensive, indeed we scrambled all over them in the space of half an hour. I heard a gentleman at Jerusalem describe them as rotten, but then what did he expect to see? The remains of Joshua's City, how could he, when the Bible most particularly tells us that the wall of the city fell down flat, Josh VI 20. They burnt the city with fire and all that was therein, 24; and that God's curse was upon any man who should raise up again that fortressed city, besides which Josephus is most careful to add that if any part of the city escaped the fire Joshua overthrew it from the foundation. After all this how much of the ancient Jericho of Joshua's time would any sane excavator expect to find?

Again Jericho was one of the cities high and walled up to heaven, which the Israelites feared to attack. But there is nothing formidable or unpreferable about this small city of the of the excavations. Numbers XIII. 28, Deut. IX. 1. The size also of the city which Joshua took is quite irreconcilable with these ruins, for it would not possibly allow of 601,730 soldiers of the standing army of Israel. Numbers XXVII. 2, 51, the whole of which Joshua took up against Jericho Joshua VI., 3, to compass its walls and march around it in battle array. The 600,000 could have gone to sleep in the plain and left 1,730 to do the thing easily. The fear of God's anathema, etc.

The fear of God's Anathema upon that wealthy and wicked ancient city withheld any one from rebuilding the fortress of Jericho for more than 500 years. They in the reign of Israel's worst king, Ahab, who sold himself to work wickedness in the sight of the Lord whom Jezebel his wife incited. A man found with so little of a father's heart within him that he reared again the fortress, laying the foundation in the death of his eldest son Aberam, and the day that the gates were set up his youngest boy Segub breathed his last. Then, so tradition tells us, seized by bitter remorse, he set his workmen to pull down the stronghold he had reared and abandoned it to ruin and decay.

But the present ruins disclosed by these excavations are not difficult to account for.

When the crusaders 1096, 192 A.D., came over to Jericho they found there an unknown delicacy in Europe, sugar. Manufactured from the sugar cane which the Saracens, centuries before the crusaders came, had introduced to the fertile plains of Jericho, restoring some of the ruined old acqueducts, and building huge sugar manufactories. Thereupon the slope of the mountain overhanging the excavations and the spring are the ruins of these manufactories which for centuries have been pointed out as such. Now my own impression of these excavations is that they are simply the "Saracen town of and sugar makers." Just that and nothing more. The shape, size and character of the walls of both the factories above and the city or rather the small town below are very similar.

Then we started off for a wonderful climb up to the Quarantaina, or Mount of Temptation and the convent. After passing the ruins of the sugar manufactory and crossing a brook which gurgles over the rocky bed we came to a scene of great grandeur, wild and weird, which down below in the verdant tropical plain you can scarcely think is so near. Looking down below us as we steadily climbed up we could see table lands half way up the mountain, green vases watered by beautiful springs, down below one could never guess of their existence. The last part of the climb up to the convent was so steep that we left my father in the care of two Bedouin shepherds, who were watching a flock of goats, and we more than once wished we had not attempted the climb. But when we gained the monastery there was rest and refreshment. These monks are so kind and hospitable. We were at once shown to the guest room surrounded with divans on which we sat while a tray was handed round with little glasses of a hot liquor, which most of us refused, somewhat to the surprise of the monk, glasses of cold, delicious water and saucers of Turkish delight. We have tasted some good specimens of this native sweet, but this I think was the very best. Then followed another tray of little cups of very good Turkish coffee.

After this entertainment the monks took us to see their chapel and from it a staircase led up to a smaller chapel, where is a little altar and under it a rough unhewn stone or piece of the rock on which the Lord sat during His temptation. Of course this may or may not be true, but the whole position of the monastery perched like a lonely eagle's eyrie up among those awful rocks, gives you, as nothing else could, an idea of the intense loneliness and desolateness with which He was surrounded during those dreadful days of temptation, which He endured for us men and for our salvation. The chapel itself is the grotto in which He sheltered, according to tradition, during the 40 days.

It was growing towards twilight as we came down the mountain, for Jericho certainly possesses what neither Egypt nor Palestine in general do, a delightful hour. We found poor father very tired of waiting for us and glad to scramble down, now with us over the ruins of old Jericho, where we had to walk wearily to Elisha's spring, where the carriages and drivers were waiting for us, as all easterns can wait, patiently with their long pipes.

You will be puzzled with the drive back to Jericho when we are already at Jericho. Well just here let me explain fully what I have been constantly mentioning, i.e., that there are really three Jerichoes. And when I paused on the return journey to Jerusalem after visiting Jericho at the foot of the mountain pass and looked back and down over the plain I saw it all clearly, for down in the circa below me lay three Jerichoes plainly distinguishable. Immediately below and in front of me

LINDSAY FAILED TO SCORE A POINT

While Peterborough Collegiate Rolled Up 28 in Game With Scugog Y.M.C.A. on Saturday—The Students Played Snappy, Accurate Football and Had Lindsay Outplayed All the Time.

On a field covered with snow and lined with about two hundred lusty-lunged Lindsay rooters, the Y.M.C.A. team of that town went down to defeat at the hands of the local High School team. When Capt. Simpson's stop-watch got through working, the score, 28—0, was announced, with the foreigners at the humble end. Although the local youngsters had the better of the play at every stage of the game, it was an interesting struggle, featured by hard tackling, splendid kicking and good punting. The Lindsayites were in no shape, and on only one occasion got three yards on running and kicking, while on the other hand the locals had seldom to resort to the kick stunt on the third down.

The Collegiate team worked better on Saturday than they have done at any other game this fall. The four-man plunge, fake buck and criss-cross plays were pulled off with good variety, snap and precision, and the assortment of tricks perpetrated on the losers was a source of bewilderment to the latter. While the team work was excellent, the local backs took the heavy end of the play on their shoulders and not a weak spot was descernable. Gibson starred in the catching and running game.

Hogan charged the Lindsay line time and time again for substantial games, and Minorgan looked after the punting in good style. Hayes and Matthews had each a good day in all departments of the game, and the local wing line was invulnerable to the attacks of the opposing backs, although well matched in weight. For the Lindsay team Bryron Green, the old standby, who played centre half for the Lindsay champions a few years ago, and Biglow, who played left half, were the pick of the opposition. They were too closely watched, however, to give much trouble. The teams lined up as follows:—

P.C.I.		Lindsay.
	Full Back
Hayes		Dougan
	Halves.
Minorgan		Green
Hogan		Biglow

Matthews		Williamson

SPORTING COMMENT

Mr. D. A. McLachlan, of the Stratford Hockey Club, says regarding the age limit of the junior series:

"I am in favor of raising the junior O.H.A. age limit to twenty years instead of leaving it at nineteen. It would be better for Stratford, for one thing, for in that case all of last year's juniors would be eligible. The twenty year limit has, in the past, produced good hockey. The objection to the 19 year limit is that it takes the boys too young. All the players are not 19; some are 18, 17, 16, etc. Most parents do not want their sons travelling around the country playing hockey, at the fatter ages. Raising the age limit to 20 years procures a better brand of hockey. It ill be a lively issue at this year's O.H.A. meeting, because the hockey towns are about evenly divided upon the question."

Things promise to be very stirring at the armouries this winter in the way of sports. The non-coms and officers will co-oprate in the garrison games, and efforts will be made to have the winter sports programme a particularly attractive one.

Says the Cobourg Star—Port Hope has the professional hockey bug, and talk of going into a league with Belleville and other lake front towns. Professional hockey may be all right in cities, but when it strikes a town the size of Port Hope they might as well pull the rink down as it puts a black eye on hockey for all time to come. Port Hope has had its share of professional lacrosse and baseball, and both these games are but memories there now. Cobourg is counted on for the league, but we cannot see it from here.

"THE ETHICS OF THE DANCE" LIVE SUBJECT BY LIVE MAN

A large and interesting audience was present last night at the Park street Baptist church to hear the first of a series of sermons on "Some Ethical Questions," by Rev. W. C. Riddiford, the pastor.

The subject under discussion last night as "The Ethics of the Dance." The text was chosen from 1 Corinthains, 31, 32:

"Whether, therefore, ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God. Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles, nor to the church."

I wish to look at the modern dance in its relationship and attitude towards the church.

Does the modern dance as an institution, help to hinder the church? Since our special services I have been asked more than once, such questions as these:

What are the rules of the Baptists about dancing?

What do you think of dancing?

Can I be a Christian and dance?

To-night I shall seek in a simple yet Biblical way, to answer these honest inquiries, and I wish to give them an honest answer, an answer that will be consistent with the principles and life teachings of Jesus Christ, "whose I am and Whom I serve." I admire persons of this type who are honestly seeking to know their duty in these matters of such ethical value to society in general. The modern dance is doing one or two things, good or evil. Its influence is either up or down. What is its ethical standard? I am not discussing dancing, but the modern dance as a recognized part of our society.

Can a Christian dance? My answer is "Whether you eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all for the glory of God."

Do men and women dance for the mere glory of God? Do men and women dance because they are happy? No. They dance to produce happiness. But, in my humble judgment, there is more misery in the passion-inflamed waltz than real happiness. Let us now take a look at the Book and see what it says about the dance. Solomon certainly says, Ecclesiastics, 3, 4: "A time to dance. When in that time? Briefly, the Bible view is this:

First. Dancing, according to the Bible, was a religious act.

Second. It was practiced exclusively on joyous occasions, such as festivals or great victories.

Third. It was performed by maidens only.

Fourth. It was performed only in daytime, in open air and fields and groves.

No instances of dancing are found upon record in which both sexes engage in it together, only on two occasions, in Job, and in the case of Herodius.

I charge against the modern dance the following evils:

The modern dance violates the universally recognized laws of health.

The modern dance has contributed greatly to the emptiness, aimlessness and selfishness of the social life of the times. The modern dance assails the highest intellectual improvement of its votaries and of society when when given the reins and right-of-way. The modern dance exerts a positive influence in withstanding the spirit of God calling the human soul to a clean, pure Christian life. a Christian point of view this fact is a terrible indictment of the dance. The modern dance operates both in the individual and in the church, in retarding the growth and stabilization of Christian character. The modern dance is inimical to the highest enlightened consciences. All churches have declared against it. have, and the aggressive spirit that churches have declared against it, and, in my humble opinion, is a detriment to the highest type of Christian

Next Sunday evening Mr. Riddiford being will speak upon the "Ethics of the Theatre."

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-FOUR LICENSES INVOLVED IN GREAT FIGHT FOR THE CLOSED BAR

(BY THE DOMINION ALLIANCE)

Another great local option campaign is in progress in the Province of Ontario.

On Monday, January 2nd, 1911, between eighty and ninety municipalities will vote upon the question of local prohibition, and the inevitable result would seem to be the still further weakening of the liquor traffic and strengthening of the temperance forces

This year contests are on in both the extreme eastern and western parts of the province. The town of Amherstburg, in Essex County, and the town of Lancaster, in Glengarry County, will both vote, together with many other places scattered in between.

Eastern Ontario has more than its share of contests. Every municipality in the county of Glengarry is into the fight, including the town of Alexandria, the village of Lancaster and Maxville, and the townships of Kenyon, Lochiel and Lancaster.

Just over the border the village of Vankleek Hill, in Prescott county, and the township of Roxborough, in Stormont county, are also voting.

Other important eastern points in which the battle will be fought are the towns of Arnprior, Perth, Smith's Falls, Napanee, Gananoque and the villages of Merrickville, Newburg and Newcastle.

In the northern part of the province considerable progress has already been made, and if the campaigns now on are successful it will mean the entire cleaning up of large areas. Among other places voting are the towns of Barrie, Bracebridge, Huntsville, Burks Falls, Beaverton and Sutton

There will not be much doing in the north-western part of the province, the only fights being in the villages of Port Elgin and Paisley, and the township of Albermarle.

The city of Guelph is, however, the centre of a hot fight. One of the strangest and best organizations in the province is that of the Citizens' Committee in Guelph, and the campaign is being systematically carried on along practical lines. Present indications are that Guelph will swing into the dry column in January.

Just near Guelph voting will take place in Guelph and Puslinch townships, Erin and Drayton villages.

Dufferin county has only three licenses. These are in the village of Grand Valley, which place is looked upon by both parties as a strategic point, and will be the scene of a hard fought battle.

In Western Ontario the most interesting group of contests is that of the township of Aldborough, with the villages of Rodney, West Lorne, Wardsville and the town of Bothwell. If these places are successful it will mean a big white spot in the map of Elgin county.

The hottest place in the province, however, is the county of Welland. Here a county convention was held last spring, at which it was decided to bring on a fight in every municipality in the county as far as possible, with the result that ten municipalities will vote in January, including the towns of Welland, Thorold, Port Colborne and Bracebridge, with the townships of Thorold, Crowland, Humberstone, Stamford, Willoughby and Bertie.

A striking feature of the campaign is the fewness of the attempts to repeal local option. Last year there were one hundred and eleven municipalities in which repeal contests were possible, but in only twelve was the matter brought to a vote, and only would get tired of it. But this year there are one hundred and twenty-eight municipalities in which local option by-laws have been in force for three years or more, and where repeal contests might be brought on. It the law were really a dismal failure, as its opponents prophesied it would be, it might naturally be supposed that at the first opportunity the people would get rid of it. But this year out of the one hundred and twenty-eight possible places, repealing by-laws will be submitted in only about six. These are as follows—Ancaster township, Colborne village, Howick township, Beverley township, Goulburn township, McKellar township.

With the thorough organization that the temperance forces seem to have, and the aggressive spirit that is characterizing the movement, the probability is a considerable addition to the dry area of the province of Ontario after May next.

WHAT THE STRENGTH OF MEN IS

Yesterday was a big day at the local Y. M. C. A. Dr. John Brown of the International Committee of New York was a visitor at the Association over the week end, and the officers made good use of him.

The Men's Meeting was the biggest item on the programme. It was held in the Crystal Theatre where about one hundred and twenty men had gathered to hear an address on "The Strength of Men." There was more than usually good singing which was led by an orchestra. The Torrey Alexander Hymn Book was used and some of the favorite hymns from that book were sung.

Dr. Brown gave the men some pretty straight advice, not merely on morals but on the care of their bodies This they ought to do not only for their own sakes, but for the sakes of those who would follow them in the next generation. He spoke of the need that those in authority in municipal government should recognize, while the city is yet young, the great need to set apart places where the children of the present and the future can play. He dwelt, too, on the need for public baths properly supervised. In conclusion he assured the men that it was only as they were united with God, through Jesus Christ that they could have true strength.

A good male quartette led by Mr. J. Miller rendered a selection in a manner that pleased the men immensely. Mr. Frank G. Hassard read the lesson and Rev. W. C. Riddiford also assisted in the meeting.

On Saturday evening Dr. Brown met the Leaders Corps at dinner, and gave them an interesting address on the work of the Physical Department. He was pleased to find that this body of men were well organized under the Physical Director and that they were doing a very important and unselfish work in leading men in the gymnasium.

The first "Strangers Tea" of the season was held last night in the Boys' Reading Room. The ladies of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church provided a bountiful repast and it was thoroughly enjoyed by the men, all of whom were new comers to Peterborough.

Dr. Brown also addressed the Boys' Department on a theme of interest to the boys.

Two Bible Classes held their regular sessions in the building yesterday morning, one for adult members at 9.30 and another for boys at 10 o'clock.

FARMERS' BATTLED WITH PITCHFORKS

Joseph Young Was Struck on the Head With Broken Handle—He Took Short Cut Across Neighbors Farm—Evidence Heard To-day—Judgment Reserved

Farmers battled

County Magistrate Edmison reserved judgment in a charge of assault which he heard this morning.

Joseph Young, who resides on a farm in Smith township, and about one mile from Young's Point, charged Richard Anglesey, the owner of an adjoining farm, with assault, occasioning bodily harm.

The trouble took place on Anglesey's farm on the morning of Friday, November 4, and while the complainant Young was crossing the farm, instead of going by the road, in order that he might arrive at a threshing in quicker time.

THE EVIDENCE.

Dr. Graham, of Lakefield, the first witness called, said that Jos. Young called at his office on Saturday, Nov. 4. He treated a lacerated wound of one inch and five-eighths in length, one-quarter inch deep and one-quarter inch wide, on the left side of the head above the brow of Young. The wound was one that would be inflicted with a blunt instrument.

THE COMPLAINANT.

Joseph Young said the road was between his farm and that of the defendant, near Young's Point. On the morning of Friday he was going to a threshing at McNaughton's, and as the mill was waiting for him he took a short cut through Anglesey's field. The defendant asked what he was doing in the field, and knocked him on the knees with a pitch fork, breaking the handle, and then delivered another blow on his head.

He had not been on speaking terms with Anglesey for six or seven years. There was no spite on his part, but he wished to avoid defendant.

Anglessey's son came up and said to witness, "Give it to him; he deserves it," so witness swore.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Have some difficulty with the defendant six or seven years ago? No.

You had been warned to keep off the field? No.

But you kept off? Yes, although occasionally I used the field.

You never heard him call to you? No.

The first you knew of it he was right behind you with his fork upraised? Yes.

You had your cap on? Yes, it saved my life.

Did you make any effort to strike him? No.

You didn't use your fork? No.

You didn't take hold of his whiskers? No.

You didn't call him any names? No. All I said was you old —— you'll pay for this.

Was the fight all over when the son came up? Yes. I was on my knees and Anglessey was on his side. He had fallen.

PATRICK ANGLESSEY.

Witness said he was the son of the defendant. He had the farm rented and his father lived with him at different times.

The first he saw was his father gaining on Young, and then both men stopped face to face. Each carried a fork. He saw the two forks clash. His father struck towards the other, and Young defended with his fork. The handle was broken during one of the several blows, and before the two men clashed with each other.

What did you say when you came up?

I told Young to let my father up and I would see that it would end.

TO MR. GORDON.

How many times did you tell Young to let him up? Twice.

Yes.

Witness said that Young was jabbing at his father with his pitchfork, and that a splinter broke from the handle of his father's fork during the clash between the two.

Did you tell Young to give it to him, meaning your father? No. I told him to "pull." my father. Young answered, "You're right, I will."

Do you know that Young had been warned to keep off the place?

I never told him nor did I hear my father warn him.

Did you hear Young call any names?

I heard him say, "You old rubber neck; see what you have done."

SHOOTING OFF.

W. J. Ayott said that he saw Anglesey at McNaughton's threshing in the afternoon. Anglesey complained about his arm. He said the trouble was over "shooting off," but that it was over and he had got back at him, referring to Young.

Complainant's son was called and told of the state of his father's head on arriving at the house.

THE DEFENDANT.

You were going to the threshing, too, asked Mr. Gordon? Yes.

Where did you see Young first? On the road.

And later on? In my field.

What did you do? I went on my way and we met in an angle.

What was said? I said "You keep off my place? No answer.

I said, "You mean to come to my place when you like" No answer.

The clash between the forks then took place.

When was your fork broken? Between the fourth and fifth blow. The fork and ferrel came off and the handle broke. Then he made a jab at me and I hit him with the piece I had in my hand.

How many times did you strike him? Once. Then he caught me by the whiskers, shoved me down and attempted to kick me.

Did he touch you with his fork? Yes.

Any words? Yes.

Defendant displayed several wounds on his left arm below the elbow.

Did you ever warn him about coming on your property? Yes, several times. He has been bringing me into trouble with neighbors.

Has he been in the habit of crossing your farm? Yes, several times.

Witness, in answer to Mr. Wood, stated that the farm was not rented to his son. He was not following Young, but did catch up to him at an angle. He did not attack him.

PROPOSAL TO INCORPORATE ALL ONTARIO BOARDS OF TRADE INTO ASSOCIATION

In the Council Chamber of the Board of Trade of Toronto on November the third, some 25 representatives from different cities and towns in Ontario, met and discussed a project of the utmost importance to the Province, from an agricultural, commercial and industrial point of view.

The object of the meeting was to sound the feeling of the different communities as to the advisability and feasibility of forming an Association which would incorporate all the Boards of Trade in the Province

Mr W. J. Gage, of Toronto, the very energetic President of the Board, was appointed chairman, and that the Ontario associated Boards of Trade is now in the way of being an accomplished fact, is due in a large measure to the energy and enthusiasm of this gentleman

A tentative constitution was submitted, and the following are among the objects to be considered by the Board when fully organised

The Stimulation of Ontario's Agricultural Industry, good roads in Ontario. University extension in the Province of Ontario and aggressive colonization policy for Ontario, the deepening of the Welland Canal and the great lakes, waterways and harbors, old Ontario and a publicity campaign through the London office. Also consideration was given to those subjects which are of vital importance to the manufacturing and commercial communities.

Mr Gillespie, President of the Local Board of Trade, has called a meeting Tuesday, the fifteenth, to fully explain to the Peterborough members the aims and objects of the new formed organization

The number of delegates or representatives from each of the Boards of Trade is determined by the number of members on its roll, and if Peterborough is to maintain her prestige as a manufacturing community and a city of industrial prominence in Ontario, there will have to be a determined effort on the part of the Board of Trade to increase its membership to over 200. If this membership can be obtained, the city will then be permitted to send eight representatives to the conferences of the Associated Boards. The importance of sending as large a representation as possible cannot be too strongly emphasized, and in a city of the size of Peterborough, there should be no difficulty in the world in enrolling members to the number indicated

A well organized, working Board of Trade can be of inestimable value to any town. It provides a recognized and organized forum for the free discussion of public and municipal questions, and thereby develops an intelligent public opinion in regard thereto

Through the medium of the Press, it is able to present to the general public the arguments and conclusions on important questions resulting from discussions which otherwise would be merely individual expressions of opinion

The more successful Boards of Trade of the United States have considered a comprehensive and definite plan for the future development of the city, and through co-operation with the Municipal Government and a campaign of education of the citizens, accomplish results which possibly otherwise would not be attained

A Board of Trade need by no means confine its energies and thought wholly to questions of Trade and Commerce, but should enlarge its vision to embrace all those conditions which contribute to an ideal community. It would be of great assistance to the Municipal Government of a city, inasmuch as it provides an organized medium for the expression of public opinion on questions that may be engaging the attention of the Councils To accomplish results require aggressive enthusiasm and the expenditure of thought, and study and time by the members, but if a community is to rise above the mediocre these must be made, and to what worthier cause can a man devote his time and energy, than for the advancement of the community in which he lives, moves and has his being, and thereby contributing to the health, happiness and prosperity of his fellowmen

The working of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade bear the same relation to the province that the individual organisation does to its town or city; therefore, in supporting this new movement, it is assisting in the development, not only of our own town, but of our province and country as a whole; therefore, should there not be an energetic effort on the part of the Board of Trade here, by increasing its membership and its activity, to greatly benefit Peterborough, and by the enlarged scope of its operations be a strong influence in the new organization way;—No. 1. Herod the Great Jericho, easily located by the square cutting of the great reservoir to the right and the remains of his acqueduct, besides the qualities of stones used in building. Slightly to the west of this and quite two miles beyond is the mound which marks No. 2, Ancient Jericho at the foot of the Ai Mountain pass with the spring of Elisha below it, while between these two Jerichoes, but more towards the Jordan easterly lies the little hamlet of No. 3, Modern Jericho, although I believe that this also existed in the time of our Lord. And here I believe we have a simple solution of the so called discrepancy of the narrative of the healing of the blind Bartimews in Matt XX. 29, Mark X., 46, Luke XVIII, 35. Read them carefully and interpret this.

Christ in crossing the Jericho plain after coming down by the Jordan side reaches first, "Ancient Jericho" close by whose spring houses have always clustered. Arculf, the monk, mentions there 7th cent. A.D. After resting there He proceeds to the Herodion Jericho. I must pass on the way, Modern Jericho, in one of whose huts lived Imieus, whom a kind neighbor has helped out to the roadside to beg from the passers by. The whole thing is clear. But to return to our carriages and that moonlight drive back to Modern Jericho hotel I shall never forget as long as I live. The brilliant stars came shining out in that deep, dark blue sky. Here on our right hanging over the mountains of Judea, and Benjamin we presently saw the bright, beautiful, "new" comet which has so startled people who are looking out for the long expected Halley's Comet, which is timed to arrive in the spring of 1910. Once before in my childhood's days in Canada I remember a beautiful comet in the sky over Lakefield, Ont. But it was scarcely so gloriously bright and beautiful as the new comet seen from Jericho. It was following star downwards in the wake of the sun, which had set, and its tail went back over the evening sky, like one of those jewelled aigrettes with which the old Jewish Rabbis of Josephus' time were wont to adorn their turbans. Venus, the evening star, hung directly above it like a small moon. On our left were the purple mountains of Noah, always purple whether in sunlight, moonlight or twilight, and presently behind them came the glow of the coming moon, pale at first, then brighter, then a silver rim just above the dark mountain, then a beautiful crescent, and, finally, the glorious orb that is now nearly at the full.

Moonlight at Jericho! It is something never to be forgotten. We sat out on the little balcony of the hotel after having dinner and just let it flood our senses. All around us were fresh, sweet, evening scents and sounds, the perfume of the oleander blossom, the merry chirup of the tiny frogs, the sighing of the breeze in the tangled verdure, that breeze that kissed one's face as sweetly as in June in England or May in Canada, and this is mid-winter—January. No wonder that Herod, the great, that luxurious monarch, made Jericho his winter resort, and built down in the plain his magnificent palace, his great acqueduct, his hippodrome, the palace in which he died, the acqueduct in which he had his own son drowned, his hippodrome in which he had imprisoned while on his death bed 70 of the best men of Jerusalem, with the order that as the breath left his body they should all be massacred, for some one should weep on the day of his death, even if the land rejoiced to be rid of her cruel tyrant. What a health resort Jericho would make for the delicate and suffering when winter cold and snow are about. even at Jerusalem, for strange to say, although 800 feet below sea level, at Jericho the air is invigorating in January.

Well, perhaps in the good time that is coming for God's Holy Land, according to all the great and glorious prophecies of the Old Testament, Jericho, where the Holy feet of the Son of Man trod as He walked and lived among men, may yet become again the earthly Paradise "As the Garden of the Lord."—Gen. xiii. 10.

NEWS FROM OUR FARMER FRIENDS

The Census Office issues to-day a bulletin on the crops of Canada as prepared from reports made up to the end of October.

The closing months of the year give good reports for nearly all of the field crops of the Dominion Potatoes alone indicate partial failure, and in all the provinces there are complaints of rot in the fields and in the heaps for winter storage. The area is 503,262 acres and the estimated yield 74,048,000 bushels, being an average of about 147 bushels per acre, which is nearly uniform for all the provinces. The quality is 84.42 per cent. Turnips and other field roots show a quality of 88.57, a yield per acre of 402 bushels and a total yield of 95,207,000 bushels for a crop of 236,622 acres. Hay and clover are computed for 8,515,400 acres and a yield per acre of 1.82 tons. The quality is 90.45 per cent. and the total yield 15,497,000 tons. Fodder corn has an estimated yield per acre of 9.38 tons, which upon an area of 271,960 acres gives a product of 2,551,000 tons. Sugar beets are grown most extensively in Ontario and Alberta, where they supply roots for three sugar factories. The area in crop this year is 16,000 acres, which is a substantial increase upon last year The yield per acre is 9.60 tons, the total yield 155,000 tons and the quality 93.15 per cent. The roots supplied to the Berlin factory are testing 17 per cent of sugar and at the Wallaceburg factory 16 per cent.; but a product of 5,000 acres in Ontario is being shipped to factories in Michigan. The product of 8,200 acres in that province is marketed at Wallaceburg and Berlin, where the average price is about $5.86 per ton or better than $57.80 per acre. Computed at the average local prices the market value of potatoes this year is $33,446,000, of turnips and other roots $21,444,000, of hay and clover $149,716,000, of fodder corn $11,957,000, and of sugar beets $887,000. The report on fall wheat sown this year shows an area of 790,300 acres, whereof 682,500 acres are in Ontario, and 107,800 acres in Alberta. Last year the area was 609,200 acres for Ontario and 98,000 in Alberta. The condition of the crop is reported at 98.40 per cent. as compared with 93.60 last year.

The per cent. of fall ploughing completed this year compared with the area planned for is less than last year, but the report is made for a period one month earlier. The per cent of summer fallowing compared in the same way is somewhat lower, but increases are shown for Saskatchewan and Alberta.

WHAT BEING A GOOD FELLOW MEANS

There was a capital attendance of men at the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon when "The Brotherhood of Man," was the subject of an interesting address and discussion.

The Rev. C. Carpenter in introducing the subject, showed how his discourse on "a growing ideal" naturally led up to that of "the brotherhood of man." He argued that universal brotherhood was not synonymous with democracy. That universal brotherhood did not mean levelling up of all grades. It was not the doctrine that led to anarchy, and anarchy does not in any sense represent the brotherhood of man.

From all time there had been different graduations. Holy Scripture proves it, for right through from Genesis to Revelations there had been the Ruler and the ruled. And even in heaven we are taught that there will be degrees of reward. But the essentials of brotherhood may be kept, and the various grades be still maintained Uniformity is an impossibility. Individuality cannot be merged in a commonality. It does not mean that individual ideas should be quashed for the sake of brotherhood. It is possible to hold them and to still have true brotherhood. As in nature there is great diversity and yet splendid unity; so there must be a mingling of individualities to produce perfect brotherhood.

Brotherhood does not mean the admission of every individual being, unless such a one is willing to take his share of responsibility. For instance, a vast percentage of mankind is thoroughly criminal, whilst another portion is unable through mental weakness. Neither of these classes can be real members of a universal brotherhood, for they are unable to discharge its responsibilities.

But what real strong brotherhood will do is that it will realise that it must be its brother's keeper; it must educate the weaker to the acceptance of the idea that brotherhood has its responsibilities as well as its privileges. Jesus Christ taught the fundamental basis of true brotherhood, namely to look upon our neighbour as ourself. If one is in poverty relieve him. If he is down, lift him up. If he is naked, clothe him. If he is in prison, visit him, comfort him, and try to lift him, once more on to the plane of common humanity, and thus bring him back to be a law-abiding citizen. Humanity at the root is always the same.

Brotherhood maintains unanimity of aim and purpose, like yeast permeating the whole showing despairing that they have still a chance and that you will be their backers. Tell them that though they are down to-day, they may rise and stand in their proper place to-morrow.

Thus shall selfishness be crushed, arrogance shall be brought down, autocracy shall be abolished and every man shall have the opportunity to make himself that highest and noblest creature which God intended him to be. A number of men took part in the discussion.

During the interval Mr. T. Woodworth recited "The Newsboy's Debt."

FROM COPPERS TO TEN SPOTS

Denominations of Tag Day Coins Ran a Wide Range on Saturday --- Box Receipts $1,248.28–Total $1,792.17 -- Will be Yearly Event.

Tags sold on Saturday at all the way from one cent to ten dollars.

One cent seems a small amount to give, but there were $23.40 in coppers, so that helps some.

There were over three hundred five cent pieces and in most cases each nickel represented an individual subscription.

From the table below it will be seen how widely and energetically the city was canvassed.

The general plan of campaign laid out was to make appeals on the street but practically all the stores in the business section were canvassed and many residences as well.

The city was laid out in fourteen sections and each section boss had a bevy of girls under supervision.

"By holding a tag day each year the best way of providing funds for the society is afforded," said Mr. Peter Campbell, the secretary of the society to the Review to-day. "For the past two or three months it has been found impossible to accommodate some children owing to the fact that there were not sufficient funds. With the large amount collected added to our finances it will help things immensely. The officers of the society are deeply grateful to the public for their generous response. Personally I didn't think the amount collected would be over $700 or so and we were all surprised and delighted at the handsome sum realized."

One young lady had an effective scheme. She worked all the street cars at the corner of Park and Charlotte and netted a substantial sum.

A committee of eight counted the money in the Bank of Toronto on Saturday night. They had finished their task shortly after ten o'clock. It took them over three hours to do it.

The following table explains how the money came in;

"WHEN ALL HAS BEEN SAID"

The dominant note of Bayard Veiller's new play "When All Has Been Said," which is to have its first local hearing at the Grand, next Wednesday, Nov. 16, is the appeal of the child. The central figure of the plot is a little seven-year-old boy, not one one of those insufferable bores altogether too frequent on the stage, but a lovable, natural youngster who seems to have stepped out of real life. It seems remarkable that one may expect some degree of novelty, in seeing a bright normal son of sane, well-to-do parents on the stage, but it remains a fact that most of the children who have convulsed audiences from the stage have been street arabs, newsboys, or gross caricatures. It proved a real problem to find a boy that wasn't fat or ugly, and was still capable of handling well a part of such importance, which calls for the ability of a real come-would ruin the play. The choice finally made was Master Antrim Short, the brevity of whose career is equalled only by its brilliance.

The seats are now on sale.

WITH and WITHOUT

In the matter of Education — Those who have had the privileges of a liberal education would not be without its advantages. Many who have not a liberal education, like many who need glasses do not realize their lack in ability to earn a livelihood, their lack of enjoyments, etc. We frequently have persons remark "Oh! if I had known that such comfort and clear vision were possible I would have had these glasses long ago. I would not be without them for many times their price.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDS TWO WAITRESSES

Toronto Laborer Enters Restaurant and In Revenge For a Fancied Insult Wounds Mrs. Bessie Brookes and Mrs. Georgina Carr—Mother of Mrs. Carr Says Crime Was Inspired by Jealousy.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—Crazed by continued drinking and a fancied insult, James Shaw, a laborer, 25 years of age, yesterday afternoon shot and dangerously wounded two young women, waitresses in the restaurant at 233 King street east, where he boarded. Both are in the hospital and one may not recover. Shaw was followed by a kitchen helper, who, with two other citizens, overpowered him, took away his revolver and held him for the police. He is charged with attempted murder.

The women shot are Mrs. Bessie Brookes Jones, 23 years of age, 235 King street east, and Mrs. Georgina Carr, 17 years of age, same address.

Mrs. Jones is shot through the right shoulder, the bullet entering above her breast and coming out behind the shoulder blade, and is in St. Michael's Hospital, while Mrs. Carr is in the General Hospital with a wound in her back, just above the hip, where the bullet entered, breaking the lower right rib and was extracted immediately in front of it. Without blood poisoning, she will recover.

Bessie Jones gave the following version of the shooting: "Shaw had boarded in the restaurant for about a week and had a room upstairs. He had been drinking heavily of late. Today he came in the worse of liquor. I asked Georgina Carr to go upstairs for a cloth. He stood at the foot of the staircase and tried to keep her from going up. She got past him, went up and came down again. He went upstairs then, got a revolver, came down and started to shoot."

Meanwhile a police ambulance was summoned and the women hurried to the hospitals, Mrs. Carr being taken in an auto. At the General it was thought that Mrs. Carr was dying, and Crown Attorney Corley and Detective Taylor went down, taking Shaw, so that he might be identified by the girl, and also to take her antemortem statements. Finding there was no immediate danger, they refrained from exciting her, and Shaw was taken back to the cells.

Mrs Greenslade says that Shaw has boarded there about a week, but has always been tractable until last Saturday night, when he quarrelled with a man in the restaurant and after throwing potatoes at the other patron's wife. Mrs. Carr had sent Mary for a policeman, who wouldn't make an arrest because Shaw lived there and didn't leave the premises. When the trouble was over Shaw had remarked, "I'll make it even with you. I'll make it even with all of you for that."

According to Mrs. Oakley, the mother of Georgina Carr, it was a case of jealousy.

"Some months ago," she says, "Shaw caught hold of my arm outside of here, and I told him to stop that as I had a baby in my arms. He said 'How would you like to have me for a son-in-law?' I told him I would not have any man like that marry my daughter."

Besides this, trouble with Bessie seems to have been brewing for some time. Last week Shaw asked Bessie to go to a theatre with him, but she refused. Some years ago she was married, but got a divorce in Illinois, and now, it is said, is keeping company with a young man who boards at the restaurant.

Mrs. Carr is a granddaughter of Mrs. Greenslade, and was married on the quiet about a month ago.

Shaw, it is said, had been drinking steadily during last week, but did not seem to be drunk yesterday. He is an undersized and even insignificant looking man. He says he is a Canadian and a laborer, but the police do not think that he ever exerts himself. He has never been through their hands before.

"It'll take you some time to prove this on me," he said to Inspector Davis, as he was being searched. "There will be money in this for me. Some of you people will pay for it."

ORDER FOR NEW CRUISER

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—It has transpired that the Dominion Government has ordered a cruiser of the improved Bristol class, to be built in a British dock yard. The vessel will be of rather over 5,000 tons, will have an armament of eight 6-inch guns, five of which can be fire on each broadside, and a probable speed of from 26 to 28 knots, or about 32 statute miles per hour. The Bristol, the latest vessel of this type to be constructed has made 27 knots, or 30 1-2 miles an hour. The ship should be ready in about 20 months, or about June or July, 1912.

The Commonwealth of Australia has ordered two such vessels, which are actually building now on the Clyde yards. In addition, the Australian Government has two large torpedo boat destroyers, which have been built in Great Britain, and now are in Australia, while a third has been sent out to Australia, and will be assembled there.

In addition two huge armored cruisers, the Australia and New Zealand, are being built in Great Britain for the two British countries which their names commemorate. Each is of some 8,000 displacement, each has eight 12-inch guns, and each will steam about 30 knots, or 36 miles an hour. They will be completed in 1912.

TOLSTOI VERY ILL

Tula, Russia, Nov. 15—Broken down by the hardships of a winter journey, mental strain and a rupture with his family, Count Leo Tolstoi to-day lies with a high fever in the little railroad station at Tstapova, barely eighty miles from his home at Yasnaya Poliana. Tolstoi is attended by Dr. Makovetsky, who was his sole companion when he left his hut a few days ago, and who carried along with him medicaments for just such an emergency. Tolstoi's daughter, Alexandra, is acting as his nurse.

Telegraphic reports of his condition are extremely pessimistic. The temperature of the aged writer is 104, indicating probably a serious congestion, and of itself an alrming symptom in one of Tolstoi's years. The mental anguish of the patient handicaps the efforts of the physician to reduce the fever. Even if Tolstoi recovers, there can be no question of his continuing the journey to the Caucasus, where he hoped to end his life among the Tolstoian colony on the shores of the Black Sea.

Tolstoi had hoped to escape notice after his hasty departure from Yasnaya Poliana, and spend a week of farewell with his sister, a nun in the ancient cloister of Shemardino in the Province of Kaluga, but he insisted retreat had been discovered. He drove in a carriage last evening to Kezelsh from Shemardino, accompanied by his daughter and Dr. Makovetsky.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED

Quebec, Nov. 15.—Grave rumors are current in the city relative to the death of Arthur Cardinal, whose body was found drowned last week in the Louise Basin. Cardinal was last seen on Oct. 16, when he was in company with another man on St. Andrew street. On leaving home he had nearly $100 on his person, and a watch and chain. Neither the money not the watch and chain were found on the body, which leads to the belief that the unfortunate man met with foul play.

To Recognize All Degrees.

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—The dream of complete reciprocity in the recognition of medical degrees which has been entertained by the progressive physicians and surgeons of Canada for a generation past seems to be on the eve of realization. Soon after the opening of Parliament, Dr. J. B. Black, M.P. for Hants, N.S., will introduce a bill to amend the act of 1902 and ensure the recognition of degrees by all the provinces.

Another Automobile Fatality.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 15.—W. H. Sharpe of Trenton, N.J., automobile driver and owner, who was to drive car No. 1 in the grand prize race, died yesterday of injuries received during practice on Thursday. Sharpe was injured internally, and although it was at first thought he would recover, complications arose which resulted in his death.

Laid Wreath on Heroes' Graves.

Livingstone, S.A., Nov. 15.—Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General of Canada, laid a wreath on the graves of the Canadians who fell at Paardeburg.

TURKS BEAT MISSIONARY

Boston, Nov. 15.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions received a despatch yesterday afternoon announcing that one of its missionaries, Rev. Charles Telford Erickson, had been beaten and arrested and taken to police headquarters under guard of five officers, at Monastir, Macedonia, Turkey. The report states that after an hour or so of detention he was released upon the demand of the Austrian consul, who is acting for the United States in Macedonia.

ALBERTA'S LEGISLATURE

Edmonton, Alberta, Nov. 15.—The greater part of yesterday afternoon's session of the Legislature was spent in a debate on the speech from the throne. Before the debate commenced, R. B. Bennett gave notice of motion asking that all correspondence regarding the calling of Sifton to the Premiership be placed upon the table of the House. No word was mentioned by any member of the Government regarding the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway, or any other hint given as to the policy of the Government.

Attorney-General Mitchell predicted that the session would last six weeks, or even longer, and stated that there was lots of time to announce the Government's policy later.

HASTINGS MAN HURT; MAY NOT RECOVER; SKULL IS FRACTURED

Special to the Review.

Hastings, Ont., Nov. 15.—A serious accident occurred at the Grand Trunk Railway crossing this morning when Mr. John King was struck by a G. T. R. train, No. 6, which runs between Belleville and Peterborough, and seriously injured.

Mr. King was employed as a teamster for Mr. B. Sherwin, and had been unloading a car of cement, and was returning for another load when the accident occurred.

He is seriously injured about the head, and has a gash of about ten inches in his scalp. His skull is also badly fractured in three places.

Little hope is held out for his recovery by Drs. Wade and Edmondson.

King has a wife and two children.

The train was in charge of Conductor Adams.

SAYS THAW IS WELL OFF

Albany, Nov. 15.—Attorney-General O'Malley filed in the Court of Appeals yesterday affidavits in opposition to the appeal of Mrs. Mary C. Thaw in her application for the transfer of her son, Harry K. Thaw, who killed Stanley White, from Matteawan State Hospital to some other asylum within the state. Among the affidavits prepared by Deputy Attorney-General Franklin Kennedy, who is in charge of the case, is one by Dr. Amos T. Baker, the first assistant physician at Matteawan.

In support of his contention that Thaw's surroundings are conducive to health, Dr. Baker alleges that since Thaw was committed to Matteawan he has gained 37 pounds in weight, is permitted to play cards with congenial companions, to receive visitors, take outdoor exercise, read the best of literature, and is not compelled to associate with anyone who is not his equal intellectually and morally.

One of Mrs. Thaw's contentions is that her son is compelled to associate with patients who use vile language in his presence, and who often assault him. Dr. Baker says that these assertions are wholly unfounded, and that, on the contrary, the record of Thaw's past life, as brought out in the courts, would indicate that some of the patients might have good reason to object to associating with him.

CONSPIRED TO ABDUCT GIRL

Whitby, Nov. 15.—Edward Finlayson and Emma Ocamb, both of Toronto, were found guilty of conspiring to abduct Edna Frink, a fifteen-year-old Oshawa girl, from her home. The offence occurred in August last, and the trial took place at the Court House here before his honor Judge McCrimmon.

Finlayson met the girl in Oshawa, being introduced to her by one George Paradis. A few weeks later Finlayson called at the Frink home and arranged with Edna to go to Toronto to meet him there. In Toronto Finlayson rented a room in a house on George street. Edna stopped at this house for several days, going out for meals with Finlayson, who spent much time with her.

The next heard of Edna was one night of the same week, when she came to Whitby from Toronto in an auto with George Paradis. The pair went to the Chinese laundry here, where they were found a few hours later when the police broke in. Paradis was acquitted on the charge of conspiring to abduct, but the other two were convicted. They will appear next Saturday for sentence.

EXPROPRIATION CASE NOW ON

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 15.—Yesterday the Ontario Railroad and Municipal Board opened a week's hearing of the expropriation proceedings, instituted by Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park Commission against forty farmers between Chippawa and Bridgeburg. Robert McCready, whose farm is one mile south of Chippawa, was offered $3,700 for the portion of his farm required for the frontier boulevard. The farmer claims it is worth $9,177.

William Manley German, K.C., representing the farmers, declared that very material damage would be done the McCready property by the trolley line, which, he contended, was to be built along the boulevard. George L. Staunton, K.C., of Hamilton, represents the park commission. Before the McCready case was completed, adjournment was taken till 10 o'clock to-day.

COAL IS FOUND NEAR EDMONTON

Ottawa, Nov. 15.—That there is coal of good quality along the line of the G.T.P. west of Edmonton, is one of the most important results of the work of the field staff of the geological survey, who have now nearly all returned to Ottawa. The scene of the finds is over 200 miles west of Edmonton. One deposit is at a place known as Jasper Park, and the other is situated near Brule Lake.

There is very little coal between the latest finds and the western coast, and to the east there are no deposits, except for what is known as "domestic coal," which is unfit for use in engines. At present the railway pays about $10 per ton for its fuel, whereas it should not cost them more than about $2, should local deposits be utilized. Of these by far the largest is what is known as the Brazeau field, which the G.T.P. will probably tap with a spur line.

OBJECTED TO PROVINCIAL AUDIT

St. Catharines, Nov. 15.—Months ago the City Council decided to have a chartered accountant look over its books, with the view of establishing a modern system. Last night a petition was signed by forty-two ratepayers, not all property owners, asking for a provincial audit. Ald. Merritt suggested that the petitioners be heard, but when Mayor McBride extended an invitation no one replied.

A motion was carried that H. Vigun, chartered accountant of Toronto, be employed to examine the books of the city treasurer and various associated boards and to make suggestions of desired changes and that memorial be transmitted to Ontario Government, protesting against the petition for a provincial audit.

Shot His Father.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 15.—Joseph Weigle, aged 40, a farmer on the Garden River road, two miles from the Soo, is dead as the result of an accidental shooting by his thirteen-year-old son Alfred, who was practicing with a new rifle. Weigle lived but five minutes, the ball entering the left breast just above the heart. The deceased leaves a family of six children, besides a widow. A shell, which had been put into the rifle stuck and it is said the boy was proceeding towards his father to have it removed, when the weapon was discharged.

EXODUS FROM ONTARIO IS GRAVE

Province Has Lost 86,000 People in Twenty Years.

Gordon Waldron Speaking In Toronto Draws Attention to the Fact That Ontario Is Being Drained of Her Population — Seventy Thousand Persons Went From Canada to the United States Last Year.

Toronto, Nov. 15.—"A rural decrease of 86,000 in twenty years, after an exhausting drain during the previous thirty years; a rural birthrate scarcely exceeding the death rate, an urban increase of 450,000—that is a condition for which every consideration of patriotism and sound national life demands an immediate remedy," said Gordon Waldron, barrister and political economist, in addressing the Canadian Club yesterday on the depopulation and improvement of rural Ontario.

"It is, we say, Canada's growing time, Canada's century. We are, we boast, annexing the United States. Yet, painful as it is to disturb a pleasant delusion it must be said that there is still an exodus so large that without a compensating immigration into the northwest, we could not possibly long survive," said Mr. Waldron. "On turning to the public reports, I find that notwithstanding all our confidence and buoyancy seventy thousand persons left Canada last year to make their homes in the United States. Wherever that exodus went from, I may venture to say in the presence of manufacturers unable to fill their orders from the west for lack of labor that it did not go from the cities and towns of Ontario. It was an exodus from the land—an exodus of farmers.

"But let me confine myself to rural Ontario. There, the evidence of depopulation and impoverishment is so plain that I am sure that you have all noted it. Unrepaired buildings and forces, neglected orchids, ill-cultivated land, land turned to pasture and in effect abandoned, the disappearance of the farm laborers and their dwellings, the fall in land values, and the very significant fact that farm production has not appreciably responded to an extended period of high prices."

He quoted birthrate statistics to show that in rural districts the birthrate had fallen to 14 in the thousand and lower, while rural schools, which thirty years ago had 50 to 75 pupils, now had but a mere handful. To prove the movement of the population he gave figures to show that in 1872 the rural population of Perth was 31,000; it is now 20,000. In the same year the rural population of Norfolk was 25,000; it is now 19,000. In 1872 the rural population of Huron was 50,387; it is now 36,567, a loss of nearly 14,000. In '81 rural Middlesex numbered 53,000; it is now less than 40,000. And they had not gone to the cities.

What are the economic causes? The principal ones are protection and the exclusion of the farmers from the markets of the United States, said Mr. Waldron.

"Relief is to be found in tariff reform, in admission to the markets of the United States and in a reduction of the federal expenditure.

"There is another remedy offered by our friends who call themselves imperialists. It is preference in the British markets. Of that I do not venture to speak, lest I lose my reputation for temperate and cautious speech. Suffice it to say that I regard the tariff reform movement in England as at heart a movement for agricultural protection, and I am convinced that agricultural protection once enthroned in England will prove itself quite as destructive to Ontario or Canadian agriculture as the industrial protection of the United States or Toronto."

WANTED TO DIE

Detroit, Nov. 15.—Pathos and mystery mingle in the weird attempt of Esther Carleton, employed as a maid in the home of Charles Ritter, 134 West Bethune ave., to kill herself Sunday afternoon. While alone in the house, the girl ransacked it, to give it the appearance of having been entered by a burglar, then she turned on all the burners of the kitchen range, and waited for death.

Esther, who is only 17 years old, wanted to make it appear she had been foully dealt with. The gas didn't overcome her quickly enough, and she changed her mind about dying, because she thought of her dead mother. Though extremely weak, Esther managed to call the police. Esther was lying on the floor, with all the windows and doors open. Bureau and dresser drawers had been pulled out, but nothing was missing.

Esther claims to be the daughter of a former Toronto business man. Her mother died last June. The girl had been used to luxury, but, with the death of her mother, Carleton, she says, sold his business, and went away with another woman. Esther was left with an aunt, but, with her father gone, she was denied fine clothes, and she ran away, reaching Detroit five weeks ago. Her sight was failing, and she confided to Mrs. Ritter that a Toronto physician had told her there was no hope for her, and that she would eventually become totally blind.

"She really wanted to die," Mrs. Ritter said. "While she was growing weaker from the gas, she thought of her mother, who she always spoke of as a good Christian woman. She wondered if her mother would look down from heaven and see her trying to die, and she asked herself if she would join her mother. Then she realized that it was wicked to take her own life, and that she could never, never go to her mother that way, so she decided to live."

The girl was in a Toronto high school for two and one-half years only leaving when she was told that she would have to give up study to save her eyes.

BEATING WAS WELL DESERVED

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Because his father made reflections upon his mother on the witness stand in the Police Court here yesterday, George Cameron attacked him, and gave him a terrible beating, before the court attaches succeeded in separating them.

Judge Shortall said the beating was so well merited that he would not hold the young man for contempt, but he was ordered from the court room. The older Cameron was convicted on a charge of battery, preferred by his wife.

Hotels Got Reduction.

Galt, Nov. 15.—Reductions in assessment have been made to the owners of four hotels, who appealed against their ratings on the score of depreciation of the value under local option. They were: George Bernhart of the Iroquois, Card of the Imperial, Oliver Baker of the Grand and George Stephens of the New Royal, the last named house being closed up entirely. Reduction of assessment was ordered totaling $20,000 on buildings and $5,000 on business tax.

Nobel Prize for Literature.

Stockholm, Nov. 15.—The Nobel Prize Committee yesterday awarded the prize for literature for 1910 to Paul Johann Ludwig Heyse, the German poet and novelist. Heyse was born in Berlin in 1830, and has produced some tragedies, many narrative and epic poems and several works of philology, as well as collections of metrical tales and novels.

SAT DEAD AT TOP OF STAIRS

St. Catharines, Nov. 15—Death came suddenly to Mrs. Peter Guyette at Merritton yesterday afternoon. She had come from Chippawa to visit Mrs. John O'Reilly and was to visit all acquaintances here, but, failing to appear, Miss O'Reilly ascended the stairs, when she found the woman sitting dead on the top step.

Negotiations Abortive.

London, Nov. 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Standard says that private advices received at London in regard to the reciprocity negotiations show that the only agreement reached has been for a certain amount of reciprocity in coal. Otherwise the negotiations have been more or less abortive.

Alleged Defects In Fraternity.

Providence, R.I., Nov. 15.—A hearing was begun in the Superior Court yesterday afternoon in the receivership proceedings against L'Union St. Jean Baptiste D'Amerique, the largest French-Canadian organisation in the country.

FEET FROZEN, MIND DERANGED

Port Arthur, Nov. 15.—Mary Ragnon, a young woman, was found sheltered under some underbrush on the shore of Thunder Bay, wet to the skin, with her feet so badly frozen that they may have to be amputated, and her mind deranged. She is thirty years of age and come here from Montreal some time ago, and, after treatment for general debility at the hospital, was engaged there as a domestic, disappearing a couple of days before being found.

DATE FIXED FOR THE ELECTIONS

London, Nov. 15.—The first week in December has been set as the time for holding the general elections. This has been decided upon and will probably be announced by Premier Asquith to-day.

There was great political activity in all parties yesterday. The Irish leaders claimed the balance of power in the House of Commons and the control of the constitutional situation. A careful canvass apparently substantiated their claims.

Tore Earrings From Her Ears.

New York, Nov. 15.—Two men held up Mrs. Schwarts yesterday in her little shoe store in First avenue, and at the point of revolvers tore her diamond earrings from her ears, and took a pocketbook, containing $60, from a dresser. They escaped after a chase of several blocks.

THE BOARD OF TRADE

Technical Education is a fine thing. Its live: it's up-to-date. But there's a vital question that much more concerns the Board of Trade in Peterborough, and, in fact, concerns the whole of Peterborough city and this section of Peterborough county. That's the question of water supply. The Royal Commission is dealing with technical education. Suppose the Board of Trade butt in on this live question as above indicated.

We are not not framed up right as far as our power is concerned, nor are we drinking God's good ale; its inclined to be stale and murky. Gentlemen, a resolution, please, at least.

ST. PETER'S RESERVE

It transpires that the Registrar General of Manitoba has refused to accept the survey of the St. Peter's Indian Reserve effected by the Dominion Government since the surrender of the reserve. Thus everywhere in connection with the enterprise of throwing these Indians lands on the real estate market is held up. One reason for the taking of this action is that the survey made since the Indians were cajoled into surrendering their rights does not correspond with earlier surveys. Another reason is that the Indians have a protest against the surrender, claiming that they were unjustly dealt with and the surrender was obtained by misrepresentation and fraud. The remarkable proceedings which led up to the alleged surrender thus will have a chance of being revived by the courts.

THIS WOMAN AND THIS MAN

"This Woman and This Man," produced at the Grand Opera House, was attended by a corporal's guard. Never before had so small a number of paid admissions been received at the Grand Opera House in the history of J. J. Turner & Sons. What was the matter? Is the public taste satisfied only with tights and suggestion of things that are not common talk at the family table? It is to be hoped not. A newspaper strives to please its readers. So does a theatre owner. so does a store keeper. "This Woman and This Man" was worthy of a larger house. Human nature shone forth everywhere, not human nature altogether degraded, but human nature, good, bad and indifferent, with love, the master passion, winning in the end. Last night was the time for the People of Peterborough to put its stamp of approval on a splendid, clean, evening's entertainment, and people fell down and missed a treat.

WHEN LAURIER STEPS DOWN

The sun still will shine, Canada will retain her climate, and the harvests still will be gathered. Inspired by the Prime Minister's Monument National and other recent speeches, says the Montreal Gazette, some papers are indulging in doleful anticipations of what will happen "when Laurier steps down." None of the commentators have anticipated that the world will cease revolving on its axis or that night will fail to succeed day and day night—as it did before Laurier was head of the Government of Canada. There will, therefore, it is presumed, still be climate left in the country, and rain and fruitful seasons, and crops to feed man and beast. The minerals will not disappear from the rocks nor the fish from the sea, though some not very wholesome public men may drop into an obscurity that no one will grieve over. When voluntarily or by force, Laurier steps down the loss will be to a politician's party, not to Canada or to the universe.

GOOD FOR YOU, OLD MAN

Our sympathies have always been with Michael Frazer, the rich old farmer, who married the young woman. The courts have declared that he was sane. Now its as plain as the nose on Frazer's face that his relatives weren't bothering about the old fellow as a man. It was a kindly interest in his money that's the main thing. We hope the old chap will live quite a few years yet and that he will leave the whole pile, minus just enough to prevent the relatives who butted in, from breaking the will. It's wonderful what a friendly interest everyone takes in a person when he's got a wad, isn't it? Let him go broke and no one cares a rap for him. They run across the road to shake hands with you when your rich. Go broke and they run across the road or hide around the corner to miss you when you go by.

"OH! I DUNNO."

Wolfville, N.S., Nov. 9.—President G. B. Cutten lectured to the students of Acadia university this morning on "Self-Reliance."

The president next talked on the importance of self-reliance in college life, and said: "I have known a great many college students who have ruined their lives because their aim was to be popular." The man who is looked up to, is the man who says; "I'd like to do this, and I don't want to go contrary to your wish, but I cannot do it?" A man's doings are purely a personal matter; man must decide for himself.

"It would be a bad thing to be turned out of college society; but it would be a great deal worse thing to be turned out of yourself. It would also be a bad thing to be turned out of college respect; but it would be a worse thing to lose your own self respect. The crowd is fickle; to-day you're popular; to-morrow you're not. Rely on yourself and not on the crowd.

President Cutten hit the public fairly on the head—this desire to be popular.

"Are you in favor or against?"

"O, I dunno."

The highway of life is crowded with apologies for men and women to-day whose wishbone is where their backbone should be.

"Are you in favor of or against?"

"Oh, I dunno."

They cannot call themselves their own. Is it a question of liquor. They don't want to offend the hotel man. They want to be friends with the temperance element.

"What do you think of that plan?"

"O I dunno."

They have a thought, but they are afraid to speak their thoughts.

Some one might feel hurt.

They might lose a customer, they might lose a parishioner, a patient, a client, a friend.

They will never make any great mistake in life. They will never do anything but exist, die and be buried.

"Whose grave is this?"

Upon it should be the words;

"SACRED TO THE MAN WHO EVER SAID, "OH I DUNNO."

A dozen live men, true to a conviction can shake this city from stem to gudgeon.

A thousand men who have no convictions beyond the next meal, the next pay day can create a valley of dry bones, where there's lots of rattle and noise, but not much real business or progress towards lasting achievements.

Who wants to be popular?

Lift your sky piece, give the glad hand, be sweet and polite, agree with everyone and you'll be popular. Be hated or be loved. Don't try to be popular. Few really respect a popular man. But we all admire a fighter. A bull dog is not popular. We own one and he is very affectionate with us. However, the collie dog across the road doesn't think much of him. If there were more men bull dogs and less two-legged poodles and fox terriers we would be a blame sight better off.

RIPE EGGS

Someone has discovered that thousands of cakes eaten daily by New Yorkers are made with rotten eggs. But it may not be so bad as it seems. Wise men tell us that sour milk—which is simply rotten milk—is very healthful, so why not also the rotten egg?—Hamilton Spectator.

It's all a matter of whether you see the egg inserted or not. Insert? Yes that's the word we use. It all depends whether you see the eggs mixed before you eat them. Dates, prunes, oranges might not seem quite as tasty if we saw the hands that held them, and canned salmon might not be as nice if we saw the salmon from river to tin. Then there is rice and coffee, and many luxuries—we eat and ask no questions. We like our beef. Did you ever see a beef struck on the head? We like our lamb. Did you ever see a sheep get the knife in the neck? And you who like ripe ripe cheese, say, did you ever look at it under a magnifying glass. "Pass the butter, please." From the field to the udder is quite a study, isn't it? And so is from the udder to the cheese box.

PROOF V. TRUTH

There is a possibility that the city will enter action for libel against Rev. C. J. McCombe, of McCombe Brothers, "The Irish Evangelists," who are holding forth in Zion Tabernacle, for public statements made by them yesterday and on other occasions during last week. The city council will meet this evening, and Ald. Forth announced today that he would bring the matter up with a view of ascertaining if the city has any legal redress against extremists, who make slanderous statements calculated to do the city incalculable harm throughout the entire country. Yesterday, and on a previous occasion, the Irish evangelist, who has been in the city for less than a week, said that Hamilton was the most drunken city between Halifax and Vancouver—that on the streets of —Hamilton he had seen more drunken people in one day than in a month in Toronto.—News Column Hamilton Spectator.

• • •

A travelling evangelist who tells his audience that this city is the most drunken in the whole of Canada offers to prove the truth of his statement by a reference to police records.

Oh, foolish evangelist; who has been leading you up with misleading information?

In the matter of drunkenness the police records of the towns and cities of Canada prove nothing at all that is of value for purposes of comparison. —Editorial Hamilton Spectator.

Evangelists usually have to say something extravagant to "make good" with the crowd. We have heard scores of evangelists from Moody to Chapman and from Chapman to Sam Luttrell.

They are right on the job when it comes to nailing a spectacular story on the audience just at the proper time. They can hand the crowd an awful roast and get away with it. If the minister did it there would be the devil to pay. But the audience jams the church and listens and gives the "thank offering" freely and the evangelist goes on to stir up another town and the poor parson is left to fight on and keep up the fever heat.

The old, old story, told in the old, old way of Christ the Master Man is good enough for us. The story of the man who feasted among publicans and sinners, who knew abuse better than thank offerings and who did not indulge in anything but simple speech.

THE JEW

A deputation of three soldiers once came to the late Dr. Lueger to make some kind of a request in their behalf. The burgomaster of Vienna turned to one of the soldiers with the following inquiry; "What would you do if the Kaiser commanded you to shoot the burgomaster?"

"I would shoot him," said the soldier.

"So!" exclaimed Dr. Lueger, "and what is your religion?"

"I am a Protestant."

Dr. Lueger spoke to the second soldier.

"What would you do if the Kaiser commanded you to shoot the burgomaster?"

"Then I would shoot him," said the soldier.

"And what is your religion?"

"I am a Catholic."

The burgomaster turned to the third soldier.

"Would you have shot me if the Kaiser commanded you to do so?"

"No," said the soldier.

"And what is your religion?"

"I am a Jew," he answered.

"What," exclaimed the burgomaster "Do you know that I am the greatest anti-Semite in Austria? Tell me, why would you not have shot me?"

"Because I have no rifle; I am the drummer of the regiment."—Jewish Chronicle.

There is more truth than fun about this story. The Jew is the money bags of the world and no nation can make any great move without consulting the Jews. The Rothschilds in Europe are the dominating figure in the world of finance. A tremendous proportion of the wealth of New York city is in their hands. In literature they excel, as actor, statesman, physician—in every walk they shine.

Did you ever see a Jew carrying a hod or digging a sewer? We never have, and we would like to see one. They are reviled, caricatured on the stage and in the press, but they have the coin, so what do they care?

The Riverman

By Stewart Edward White

"The sheriff will be here pretty quick now."

"And leave them to fight alone? Guess not," grumbled a tall, burly individual.

"Am I bossing this drive?" demanded Orde.

The riverman growled.

Smack, smack, sounded Orde's fists. The man went down in a heap, but immediately rebounded to his feet. Orde seized a peavy and stood with the murderous weapon upraised.

"Lie down, you hound, or I'll brain you!" he roared at the top of his great voice.

The man crouched, breathless.

"March!" commanded Orde. "You're through."

The man sullenly arose and slouched away.

The other men turned to the trail, leaving the ten at the sluice. When within the fringe of the brush Orde called a halt.

"Now, boys," he commanded, "squat down and lay low. If fight would do any good you know mighty well I'd fight. And the boys won't be in jail any longer than it takes to get a wire to Daly to bail them out. Smoke up and don't bother."

They filled their pipes and settled down to an enjoyment of the situation.

A half hour elapsed before the situation developed further. Then Tom North's friend Jim, who had gathered his long figure on the top of a stump, unclasped his knees and remarked that old Plug Hat was back.

Orde watched them disappear.

The men peered cautiously through the brush. They saw Reed, accompanied by the sheriff, approach the dam. The working crew stacked their tools, resumed their jackets and departed with the sheriff.

"Well, I'll be derned!" ejaculated one of the concealed rivermen. "That's the first time I ever see one lonesome sheriff gather in ten river hogs without the aid of a Gatlin'."

Orde watched them disappear.

"Jim," said he, "and you, Ellis, and you, and you, and you, and you, get to work on that dam. And remember this—if you are arrested, go peaceably. Any resistance will spoil the whole game." The men broke into mingled cheers and laughter as the full significance of Orde's plan reached them. They streamed back to the dam.

Reed came out, eyes blazing.

Reed stormed back and forth for a moment, then departed at full speed up the road.

"Now, boys, get as much done as possible," urged Orde. "We better get back in the brush or he may try to arrest the whole b'iling of us on some sort of a blanket warrant."

"How about the other boys?" inquired North.

"I gave one of them a telegram to send to Daly," replied Orde. "Daly will be up to bail them out."

Once more they hid in the woods, and again, after a longer interval, the mill owner and the sheriff reappeared. Reed appeared to be expostulating violently and a number of times pointed up river, but the sheriff went ahead stolidly to the dam, summoned those working below and departed up the road as before. Reed stood uncertain until he saw the rivermen beginning to re-emerge from the brush, then followed the officer at top speed.

Without the necessity of command a half dozen men leaped down on the apron. The previous crews had made considerable progress in weakening the heavy supports. As soon as these should be cut out and the backing removed the mere sawing through of the massive sill should carry away the whole obstruction.

At 4 o'clock the sheriff made his third appearance, this time in a side bar buggy.

"I wish I dared join that confab," said Orde, "but he'd jug me sure."

"He wouldn't jug me," spoke up Newmark. "I'll go down." The young man departed in his precise, methodical manner. About sunset he returned.

"Well?" the crew demanded.

"Reed wanted the sheriff to stay and protect the dam," reported Newmark. "Sheriff refused. Said his duty was simply to arrest on warrant and as often as Reed got out warrants he'd serve them. Reed said then he should get a posse and hunt up Orde and the rest of them. Sheriff replied that as far as he could see the terms of his warrant were covered by the men he found working on the dam. Reed demanded protection. Sheriff said for him to get an injunction and it would be enforced."

"Well, that's all right," interjected Orde, with satisfaction. "We'll have her cut through before he gets that injunction."

"Yes," said Newmark, "but now he's gone to telegraph the governor to send the troops."

"Kind of expected that, boys," said Orde. "Let's see. The next train out from Redding— They'll be here by 5 in the morning at soonest. Hope it'll be later."

"What will you do?" asked Newmark.

"Take chances," replied Orde.
